Mr. and Mrs. Sibbald have been respected citizens of this village for a great number of years, their youthful spirit expresses itself in the gatherings of young people who look forward to an evening spent in their home. We wish them many more years to enjoy at the eventide of life the companionship of so many friends.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The following were elected to the several offices of the United Church Mission Band for 1931: Superintendent, Mrs. G. H. Purchase; Assoc. Superintendent, Mrs. John Temple; Hon. Pres., Margaret Falconer; President, Marion Lindsay; Vice-President, Helen Dingwall; Secretary, Bernice Temple; Treasurer, Edna Stephens; supply secretary, Freda Dowling; Pianist, Edith Rogerson; Supt. of Watch Tower, Mrs. Jno. Temple.

The objective for the W.M.S. and Mission Band amounting to $355 was oversubscribed.

The United Church Sunday School has closed a very successful year and they are off to a good start for 1931. The Christmas entertainment just held was a decided success especially in the Primary Department under the able guidance for both leadership and training of Mrs. Eugene Redick. The programme was so successful and the efforts of the children's part so appreciated that it is practically decided to hold a Primary Department for the next Christmas Entertainment and plans to that end at this early moment are under way at the Christmas services held in the United Church. Mr. Burgeon ably assisted the choir at the morning service and sang very acceptably "The Holy City." The congregation valued his services so much that they express a desire to hear him soon again.

Toronto Township Farm Loan Association will meet in the town hall, Cooksville, on Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Messrs. F. A. Maas and O. R. Church attended the funeral of the late Bro. W. H. Arms, a member of Mississauga Lodge A.F. & A.M., Port Credit, at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, last Saturday afternoon.

SILENT STREET

I like to stroll in Silent Street,
Where quiet friends are wont to meet,
And everything is most discreet,
In simple, smiling, Silent Street.

Come walk with me in Silent Street,
From sound and stress a safe retreat;
Where we can think with measured feet,
In serious, sapient, Silent Street.

—Grenville Kleiser.

COOKSVILLE

A hot contest is insured for the Township of Toronto by the candidates who spoke at the nomination meeting on Monday. Gordon B. Jackson, as chairman, had on several occasions to call the meeting to order.

The chief disturbance arose when William Shaver preferred several charges against the administration of 1930. One of his first statements was to the effect that he would seek to depose Wylie McCracken, if elected, and introduce a man who would be more popular. Mr. Shaver refused to substantiate any direct charges against McCracken.

Shaver was called to task by J. J. Jamieson, county treasurer, when he stated that Mr. Jamieson had issued a cheque to Armstrong Bros. Construction Co. in payment for the work done on the Malton road without due authority. Mr. Jamison warned Mr. Shaver that unless he retracted his words, he, Mr. Jamieson, would force a public apology, as the payment of the cheque was authorized by the engineer. Further hot words were poured out over the abstract, of which Mr. Shaver asked the name of the auditor.

R. S. Whaley also criticised the council severely, but in a more amicable way. Mr. Whaley wants more polling subdivisions for the village of Cooksville, accused J. H. Pinchin of absence from the equalization committee, and thought that the $800 rebate secured by Pinchin from the County on taxes paid on the Hubbs development should have been secured whilst Hubbs was a member of the Township Council.

Members of the passing administration who spoke reviewed the situation of the Township for the past year, and pointed out how much had been accomplished despite the unfortunate illness of J. R. Kennedy, despite business depression, and in the face of a number of obstacles which arose unexpectedly as the year went by. Special commendation of Mr. Kennedy's work in tax collection was made by every councillor who spoke.

Sisters Cameron and Keegan, Toronto, conducted the election and installation of officers for Cooksville L.O.B.A., No. 566, and were assisted by Sisters Lake and Trussler, Lakeview. Mrs. A. J. Ward was elected Worthy Mistress, other officers being: Mrs. Downs, D.M., Mrs. Cave, chaplain, Mrs. C. Harkiss, R.S.; Mrs. Reddick, F.S.; Mrs. A. Lowndes, treasurer; Miss Edna Kirby, Miss V. Jordan, lecturers; Mrs. C. Errey, D. of C.; Mrs. Needham, I.G.; Mrs. J. Hopkins, guardian; auditors, Mrs. R. Prussick, Miss V. Jordan.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

There was a very large congregation at the Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening for the anniversary service. The Anglican and United churches withdrew their service in honor of the Presbyterians and all worshipped together. A splendid sermon was delivered by Rev. J. B. Skene, B.A., of Emmanuel church, Toronto, while Rev. R. J. W. Perry and G. H. Purchase assisted in the service. Rev. W. T. McCree, M.A., pastor, welcomed the visitors to the service and said he was pleased at the evidence of the friendly spirit which existed among them. Mr. McCree and Mrs. R. H. Greig assisted the choir with duets. The anniversary entertainment and supper is being held this evening for which a good programme has been provided.

Information for the Busy Farmer

Coming Events

Annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union at O.A.C. on January 6th and 7th.

Annual convention Eastern Ontario Dairymen at Cornwall, January 7th and 8th.

Annual convention, Western Ontario Dairymen at London, Jan. 14th and 15th.

Junior Leaders' Conference

To gain new ideas, to swap experiences, and to receive new inspiration as leaders in their own districts, seven Junior Farmer leaders from Peel are planning to attend the Conference at the O.A.C. Guelph on December 29th and 30th. Clarence Dennis, and Jas. Pinkney, Cooksville; Geo. Downey, Bolton, Alex. McKinney and Bill Anderson, Brampton, Omar Turney, Streetsville and Irvine Clarkson, Islington, are the Peel contingent. Leaders from all counties in Central and Western Ontario will be present.

Denton Massey, Principal of the York Bible Class, Toronto, will be the guest speaker at the banquet on the night of Dec. 29th. Dr. G. I. Christie, of the O.A.C. will extend the welcome of the college to the gathering while R. S. Duncan, Director of Agricultural Representatives, will be in charge of the conference.

The Short Courses

Arrangements are about completed for the Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics from Jan. 5 to Jan. 30 at Ebenezer. A completed canvass of Toronto Gore and the adjoining Townships in York County by the Castlemore Women's Institute indicates a large turn-out for both classes. The Courses are open to anyone interested.

Programmes will be forwarded this week giving a complete outline of the subjects.

Miss Alma E. Wise, Home Demonstrator, will be in charge of the Girls' Course and will teach Domestic Science. Miss M. B. McLaughlin, Toronto, will demonstrate and instruct in sewing during the first two weeks while Miss Ina Onslow, Niagara-on-the-lake, will teach Home Nursing and First Aid during the last two weeks of the Course.

The Course in Agriculture will be under the direction of J. C. Shearer, who will be assisted by Kenneth Crews, Fruit Branch, Toronto. The lectures and demonstrations given by these men will be supplemented with the following special speakers:

Jan. 8—Soils and Fertilizers, R. J. Bryden, Guelph.

Jan. 13—Veterinary Science, Dr. F. R. Page, St. Mary's.

Jan. 15-16—Sheep and Sheep Marketing, S. D. Irvine and Foster Robinson, Ottawa.

Jan. 19—Home Beautification, John F. Clark, Toronto.

Jan. 20.—Poultry, E. H. Marston, St. Williams.

Jan. 21—Bee Keeping, Allan T. Brown, Peterboro.

Jan. 26—Swine, W. S. McMullen, Kitchener; J. G. Lifebore, Kingston.

A conducted tour to Toronto to visit industrial concerns, Parliament Buildings, and Departmental Stores, will be arranged during January. The closing exercises will take the form of a luncheon at which the prizes to the high students will be presented.

Potato Grading Regulations

While there is a marked improvement on the part of potato growers in the grading and marketing of their product for sale, the general practice still falls short of requirements under the Federal Root and Vegetables Act. The Dominion Fruit Commissioner states that in Ontario alone over fifty infractions have been dealt with by his inspection staff so far this year. The general requirements for marketing potatoes are: They must be graded "Canada No. 1," "Canada No. 2," "Canada No. 3" or "Canada Fancy"; the grade must be marked by a tag on bags and by stencilling on barrels or other containers, the marking to show the name and address of the grower and the grade of potatoes in the package. The regulations for grading and marking potatoes apply throughout Canada and infractions involve serious penalties.

Essay Contests

Two of the interesting sidelights arising out of the recent Royal 500 Party are the Essay Contest and the T. Eaton O. A. C. scholarship examination. In the former, each boy may write a composition of 1,000 words regarding the trip. The best essay in each of fifty-one counties is eligible for the provincial championship prizes. The writers of the first ten essays receive a free two-weeks' Short Course at O. A. C. The T. Eaton scholarship of $100 towards a two-year course at the O. A. C. is awarded to the four boys in the Central Ontario counties writing the best examination paper. These contests have stimulated keen competition throughout the province and form an interesting aftermath of the Royal Fair.

Winter Care of Live Stock

With the approach of winter, farmers should make sure that the barns in which their stock are to pass the cold months are clean and free from possible infectious diseases or parasites. Most progressive stockmen whitewash their stables at least once a year, but frequent dustings with an old broom are needed to keep the cobwebs and dust down. Before the cattle leave the pastures for the season, it is good practice to inspect the whole herd for possible skin disease or parasites. Such diseases as ring-worm, scab or mange, lice or warbles, are dangerous and each needs special treatment. Ring-worm is doubly dangerous becaus humans may contract it through handling or from curry-combs and brushes. Tincture of iodine applied daily following washing with soap and water will cure ring-worm, but scabies or mange need to be dipped in or sprayed with special solutions such as crude petroleum or equal parts of kerosene and cottonseed oil, which mixture is also recommended for lice. No animal can give its best milk production or put on flesh when feeding such parasites.

HURON APPLE KING CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

David Cantelon, Clinton, Has Happy Evening to Mark His Eighty-Third Birthday

David Cantelon, veteran produce merchant and often called "The Apple King of Ontario," on Thursday, Nov. 27th, rounded out his eighty-third year. To fittingly honor the occasion his daughter, Miss Dolly, gave a birthday six o'clock roast fowl dinner at their home on Raglan street. The guests invited were all men of advanced years with whom Mr. Cantelon has been associated through many years of active life. They included John Cuninghame, veteran florist and probably the oldest guest; W. H. Lobb, John McKinley, James Jackson, Walt Mair, Robert Fitzsimmons, Herbert Crich, W. J. Miller, Arthur Cantelon, George Cantelon and Albert Cantelon. The guests found their place at the table by studying the "peace cards." There were unique in design and inscription. "The oldest guest," "the youngest guest," "the handsomest man," "the worst? grit," and others of like nature. John McKinley and W. H. Lobb, it is intimated, tossed a penny to decide which should occupy the seat of "the youngest." No young chaps under seventy, however, were invited.

The table was beautifully laid and besides the immense birthday cake with which it was centred, was decorated with pink roses. The cake was mounted with seven candles, one at each corner, representing each twenty years, and three in the centre to make up the complete number. The figures 83 were also carried out in the cake decorations. The bountiful dinner was tastefully prepared and daintily served and the guests did full justice to it. Miss Cunninghame and Mrs. Sara Cantelon assisted Miss Dolly in serving, the former lady having had charge of the table decorations. Dinner being served the ladies retired and the host and guests lingered over their coffee and cigars. W. H. Lobb became master of ceremonies and after congratulating their host on attaining his eighty-third year without losing any of his vigor and still being able to carry on in his extensive business ramifications, called upon each guest present to speak. Each in turn had good wishes for still many years of business activity for their honored host. One guest contributed a song. Mr. Cantelon, replying, expressed his pleasure at having his friends present to help him celebrate the anniversary of his natal day. He thanked each one for the handsome gifts presented, and in a very interesting way related many experiences of his earlier business career and also of those of more recent years. In closing his remarks he said: "This is one of the happiest evenings I have ever spent." The best wishes of the entire community are extended to Mr. Cantelon on this occasion.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy wish to thank all those friends who so kindly helped to make their silver wedding anniversary and Christmas Festival an enjoyable affair, which was greatly appreciated. They also wish one and all a happy and prosperous New Year.

LET US SMILE

Young Angus had been out for the evening with his best girl. When he arrived home he found his father still sitting up. The old man looked up and shook his head.

"Hae ye been oot wi' yon lassie again?" he asked.

"Aye, dad," replied young Angus. "Why do ye look sae worrited?"

"I was just wonderin' how much the evening cost."

"No more than half a croon, dad."

"Aye? That was no see much."

"It was a' she had," said Angus.

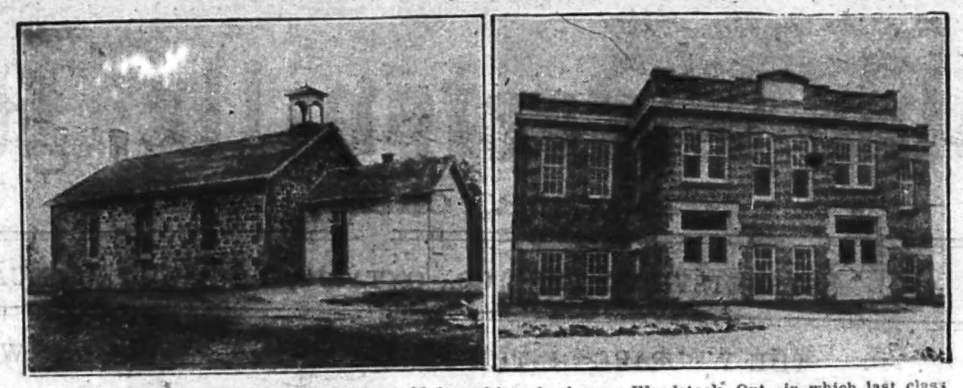
Rhodes Scholarship Again Awarded To Trinity College Student

Fourth Consecutive Year—1930 Produces Highest Academic Record Since Federation of College With University

Toronto.—The award of a Rhodes Scholarship to a Trinity College Student for the fourth consecutive year has drawn attention to the high academic record of the members of the College. At the Annual Examinations of the University of Toronto in May 1930 the standing of Trinity Students was higher than in any year since the Federation of the College with the Provincial University.

The following students obtained the highest standing in the whole University in their courses: In the fourth year, Mr. J. T. Wilson in Physics and Geology; in the third year, Miss A. D. D. Brereton in Classics; in the second year, Miss C. E. C. Gwyn in Classics; Mr. C. L. M. Douglas in Political Science and Economics; Mr. J. L. Stewart in Law and Mr. A. H. Woodcock in Physics and Chemistry; in the first year, Mr. J. E. A. Crake in Classics. It is interesting to note that Trinity College Students secured the highest place in Classics in the first, second and Third years. In the fourth year Mr. H. R. S. Ryan was second in the first class in the same department.

In other student activities in the University of Toronto, Trinity Students took their full part. On the University of Toronto Intercollegiate Football Team in all the matches against Queen's, McGill and the University of Western Ontario, four Trinity College Students took part.



The Trinity College Literary Institute continues to be one of the most important training centres for Public Speaking and many of its members have taken part in the Hart House Debates.

The women students were particularly successful in athletics during the past year. St. Hilda's won the Interfaculty Basketball Championship and were runners up in the Interfaculty Hockey Series. St. Hilda's also won the Interfaculty Tennis Championship.

The members of the Teaching Staff of the College have in addition to their work in the College made important contributions to learning. Special mention should be made of Dr. Mercer's expedition to Abyssinia where he discovered the oldest known Ethiopic Manuscript of the Bible. He will publish immediatel, through Luzac and Company of London a new Edition of the Text of the Book of Ecclesiastes. Professor Hicks has with Professor Ford published a new French Reader. The Time Educational Supplement devoted a lengthy leading article to a most favourable Review of this work.

The Corporation or Governing Body of the College now increased the value of Trinity College Open Matriculation Scholarships by adding Free Tuition for four years. They will now rank among the most valuable Scholarships offered in the whole University. Additional Scholarships have been established in the Undergraduate Course. Trinity Students are also eligible for all Scholarships offered by the University of Toronto at Matriculation and during the Undergraduate Course.

Farmer's Wife Made $10,000 in Turkeys

Canadian Woman Started Business With Pair of Fowl Won in Raffle

Nine years ago, Mrs. W. A. Freeman, of Ardenode, Alberta, won a pair of bronze turkeys in a raffle. She now has the largest turkey ranch in Canada. Her turkeys will return a revenue of $10,000 this year, says a bulletin of the Dominion Government.

The winning of the pair of turkeys in the raffle suggested to Mrs. Freeman the idea of raising turkeys as a side line. She applied to the Canadian Federal and Alberta Department of Agriculture for literature on raising poultry, turkeys in particular. Her husband, a farmer, encouraged her to experiment in the business. She studied the literature carefully and followed the advice given.

'Her ranch,' says the bulletin, is now famous. She receives letters from all parts of the world and her market extends to all parts of the North American continent and to other countries.

"This year she raised 2,500 birds. Three hundred hens, all government inspected, have supplied the demand for eggs in 1930 and forty-five of the most perfect hens have been selected for first-class breeding stock. The receipts from the sale of table birds for the holidays are expected to bring the year's total up to $10,000.

"The Freeman farm on which the turkeys are raised has a creek running through it, which supplies a constant and plentiful supply of good water, an essential for successful turkey raising. The soil is sandy, which assures good drainage. Most of the chicks are hatched in incubators. After hatching the chicks are sheltered for about ten days in large coops and then allowed to roam. The main flock is kept on about 300 acres of land, fenced in. Scrupulous attention is paid to the cleanliness of the sheds, roosts, etc., which are sprayed with shingle oil from time to time, to destroy fleas, lice, etc.

Mrs. Freeman believes that any woman on the farm prepared to give the necessary care and attention can meet with an equal measure of success in the business. Next year she plans to raise 5,000 birds for eating and her total revenue will likely be about $15,000.

Underworld Films Banned by Ottawa

Sixty-five Out of 2,022 Hollywood Films Rejected by Censors

Ottawa.—There are too many revolvers in American motion picture films to suit the Ontario Boar dof Censors, which has rejected sixty-five films out of 2,022 submitted because of their excessive gunfire and permitted 486 others to be shown only after deletion or revision.

They lament the prevalence of pictures exploiting crime, gangsters and the underworld because they "offer constructive suggestions to break the law" and "tend to create the impression that such conditions are normal." They are particularly concerned with the promiscuous use of firearms in scenes supposed to portray contemporary domestic life which they find suitable for this country "where the carrying of a weapon is an offence and where confidence in the law is such that the citizen is unarmed."

As a matter of fact, American underworld pictures are not especially popular in Canada, dealing as they do with subjects quite foreign to the experience and interest of most Canadians.

Canadian Radio League Established

For Promotion of Canada's Interests in the Radio World

Ottawa, Ont.—Avowing its purpose to be the promotion of Canada's interests in the radio world and the establishment of an organization which might evenually become a medium of expression for those interests, the Canadian Radio League has come into being and assumed definite shape at a meeting here. Temporary chairman of the executive committee is Graham Spry, with Allan Plaunt secretary.

In a memorandum announcing the raison d'etre of the league, its attitude towards national broadcasting is set out in the following terms:

"The solution the radio league sees of the present radio problem, the one means towards making the radio a great instrument of entertainment, education and national unity, is the establishment of a national broadcasting company with the powers of a private enterprise and the functions of a public utility."

A national broadcasting system would ensure, according to the Canadian Radio League, that every Canadian could hear Canadian programs, but not to the exclusion of other broadcasts.

Pasteurized Milk Most Necessary To Public Health

Canned Substitute Advised Where Safety Process Impossible

Every village, town and city in Canada should take immediate steps to prohibit the use of unpasteurized milk, in the opinion of Dr. Fred W. Routley, director of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross.

"For 25 years we have known that raw, unpasteurized milk is unsafe and yet there are few localities which have by-laws to prohibit its use."

There were only two kinds of milk which could be used with safety, Dr. Routley declared, pasteurized milk or canned milk.

Canned milks, he pointed out, are prepared under the Dominion pure foods act supervision, and are quite dependable in contrast to the dangerous unpasteurized mik for adults and children, healthful or undernourished persons.

Germs in milk that has not been pasteurized, he declared, can lead to such diseases as streptococcic infection of the throat, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, diphtheria, most of the contagious diseases, and even bovine tuberculosis. Dirty, unpasteurized milk, he asserted, was "the most terrific cause" of intestinal and other diseases of infants.

Very few centres forbade the distribution and sale of unpasteurized milk, Dr. Routley lamented, and this was even more serious when it was realized that the diseases carried in unpasteurized milk might attack anybody drinking it.

German Railways Face Big Decline

$180,000,000 Decrease in Receipts is Expected at Close of Business Year

Berlin. — The German State Railways, the biggest single commercial undertaking in the world, faces the probability of winding up its business year with more than a $180,000,000 decrease in receipts, according to forecasts from railway officials. This falling off, despite an increase in passenger and freight rates last Summer, is primarily attributed to the general economic depression.

With its 700,000 employees, more than $6,000,000 worth of property and its annual gross receipts of $1,260,,000,000 in 1929 the Reichsbahn not only towers above all privately-owned corporations but leaves its nearest State-owned rival far behind.

Big Drain for Reparations

This giant among monopolies is faced with the primary obligation not of running adequate trains but of producing nearly $250,000,0000 annually to be paid into the Bank for International Settlements against reparations charges. This burden accounts for the somewhat novel organization of the Reichsbahn and explains its tariff policy, its strife with the government regarding these tariffs and the comparatively slow pace in expansion of its plant and in modernization of its equipment.

Fourteen per cent. of all passenger tickets goes for reparations, 21 per cent. of the freight rates and 26 per cent. of baggage and express charges likewise merely pass through the hands of the Reichsbahn. Each month the Reichsbahn must pay to the World Bank 55,000,000 marks and must pay a government transport tax, which is also used for reparations, amounting to 50 per cent. before it can begin taking care of its own debt service charges, 9,000,000 marks annually, or think about dividends.

Replacement Needed in 1924

When the Reichsbahn became a corporation in 1924 it found a great need for replacements in roadbeds, rolling stocks and station equipment which had been neglected during the war and the inflation period. The directors began exercising the German genius for organizing and soon had the waste reduced and efficiency increased to a point where vital improvements could be carried out. Six thousand miles of the total of 33,625 have had new tracks, and normal replacements have been kept up.

Fortunately, owing to the completeness of the system, it has been necessary to add only 500 miles of new line since the war and this was almost entirely small branches. Because of overlapping among several State railways before the war the Reichsbahn found it had more than enough locomotives and was able to reduce by 3,600 to 23,725 and still considers it has 1,400 too many.

New high-powered high-speed passenger locomotives and extra heavy freight engines have been added, but full replacement being unnecessary, it was possible to make considerable savings here. This helped to finance an increase in passenger cars by 1,000 to a total of 65,000 and to drop old types.

Improvements in switching and repair shops enabled the Reichsbahn to get along with 30,000 less freight cars and carry the same amount. The German passenger trains cover 30,-000,000 miles yearly against about 40,-000,000 covered by United States trains, which, considering the relative size of the countries and the fact that the population is a little less than half as big, indicates a considerably larger service. American freight miles, amounting to 700,000,000 tons, are said to be twelve times as high as the German total. Inland waterways and an elaborate canal system partly account for the difference.

Notwithstanding the scarcity of funds to carry out expansions, railway officials are proud of the safety, regularity and cleanliness of passenger trains, the comfort of sleepers, the menus of dining cars and the increased speed of freight. The Reichsbahn never seems to lose interest in inventions and experiments which promise to improve efficiency, safety and comfort.

Weather Stations To Aid Aviation

Floating Bureaus Essential, Says Air Security Congress at Paris

Paris—Floating meteorological stations are essential to transatlantic air travel, the International Air Security Congress asserted in a resolution here on Dec. 23rd, and, if Government financial support is not made available, such stations should be established by private capital.

The Congress endorsed the Dual-control method of training pilots and advocated a minimum age of 17 years for professional fliers. It also adopted a resolution insisting upon a wider knowledge of everything pertaining to flying as a requisite for professional licenses.

Dirigibles, another resolution said, ought to experiment in landing on water, and the use of helium, "the only gas with absolute aeronautic security," should be advanced everywhere."

Airplanes Feed Men on March

Pilots of Royal Air Force Drop Rations by Parachute

London.—Great Britain's increased ability to control India from the air became known here following additional information about recent activities of two squadrons of the Royal Air Force on the northwestern frontier.

The two squadrons fed a column of 1,000 men for two days as the column marched from Dargai, a town north of Peshawar, to Chitral. The planes acted as transport machines in the line of communications, bringing up food from the base. Behind the experiment of rationing this force for two days by use of planes, military men indicated they saw new strength in Britain's machinery for controlling India.

Driving In Winter

The added strain placed on the automobile storage battery in winter, by the increased use of lights, frequent and often prolonged use of the starter, and similar hardships of cold weather car operation, is apt to result in a prematurely run-down battery. It is often possible to avoid this inconvenience by keeping an eye on the ammeter. If the indicator tells you that the generator is not charging at the maximum rate specified in your instruction manual, you may save the life of your battery by having the generator set ahead. When this has been done, the battery will regain its normal voltage after a few hours of driving.

War Chests Thrown Open to the Needy

Ottawa—The Department of National Defense has been authorized by order in council to throw open its war chests to the Canadian Red Cross Society that the peace forces may benefit.

Here is a gift indeed, for it includes 48,000 pairs of trousers, 42,000 pairs of socks, 22,000 suits of heavy underwear, 24,000 winter undershirts, 18,-000 khaki flannel shirts, many thousands of stockings, sweater jackets, overshoes and other useful articles of clothing to the value of $250,000.

These supplies, in stock since the close of the World War in 1918, are in excellent condition. After allowing for the needs of the permanent militia force for the next decade there remains such a "stocking" as enumerated. The department states that "It is considered that in the present circumstances the public welfare will best be served by distributing this clothing to those in need."

Huge Wolf Shot In Milton District

Milton.—Harry Hilson, Sr., a well-known trapper and hunter of Milton Heights, is the possessor of a pelt taken from a female wolf which he shot and killed in the mountain three miles west of Milton. He will apply to the Government for the bounty. This is the first wolf shot in this part of Canada in recent years, and has caused considerable excitement among farmers residing in the district. Several weeks ago Hilson killed a golden-headed eagle near the mountain at Speyside, six miles north of Milton.

11,950 Miles of Roads Maintained in Quebec

Quebec.—The total length of roads maintained this year by the Department of Roads and at the expense of the government was 11,950 miles.

Beginning in 1917, the Department of Roads was authorized by law to maintain the provincial highways and to be regarded by the municipalities as responsible for 50 per cent. of the cost thereof. The law further accorded to the municipalities a subsidy of 50 per cent. up to $400,000 for the maintenance of improved municipal roads. In 1922, the extent of roads in charge of the municipalities having increased considerably, the subsidy maintenance was placed at 50 per cent without limit as to amount.

At the beginning of 1932 the government took over, for maintenance at its own expense, provincial and regional highways. In 1927 it took over for the same purpose all improved roads.

France-Italy May Sign Pact

Authority at Rome Says Naval Parity Negotiations Progressing

Rome—Prospects for a naval agreement between France and Italy are "a bit more optimistic than at any time since the London Conference," a foreign office spokesman told a correspondent of the Associated Press here on Dec. 26th.

The present "naval holiday" accepted by the two countries last Summer expires in five days. The Government representative declined to make any statement as to Italy's plans for construction if an agreement is not reached by December 31, but there was a general impression here that the laying down of any ships is unlikely for the time being.

Negotiations between Italy and France, halted several times are again going on and it is considered just possible that they may reach a definite stage by the time of the meeting of the council of the League of Nations January 19.

The recent visit here of Robert L. Craigie, British naval expert and foreign office representative, created a hope of drawing the two countries together along compromise proposals. The present negotiations have not yet reached the stage of actual discussion of the number and tonnage of ships to be allotted each country but in diplomatic circles it is felt that the prospects for an agreement are much brighter than at any time in recent months.

Don't Waste Anti-Freeze

From three to four inches below the top of the overflow pipe is the correct level for keeping the radiator filled with water and radiator glycerine. To be exact, three inches for pump systems and four inches for thermo-siphon systems. The reason for this precaution is that when the solution is warm expansion will cause the level to rise and overflow if the radiator is filled above these points.

"What's Up With the Weather?" asks a headline. Umbrellas, generally.

Pigeons 300 Miles at Sea Land On Fishing Schooner

Storm-Tossed Birds Show Reluctance to Leave When Ship Arrives in Port—Sailors Care For Chance Voyagers

Boston.—Three hundred miles at sea, fifteen pigeons, exhausted and battered in a fight with strong winds, found haven aboard the Boston fishing schooner, L. A. Dunton, which arrived here recently. Chance brought the vessel in the path of the birds, who were borne seaward by offshore winds. The schooner was on the extreme north-east corner of George's Banks. The day was one of the meanest experienced on the fishing grounds this season, Captain Felix Hogan said. Out of a heavy vapor which hung over the water the pigeons were literally hurled on the ship. Some of them struck the rigging and fell exhausted to the deck. Others were blown past turned to make a landing. Members the schooner into the wind and then of the crew tenderly carried them to the engine room, where they were cared for. When the vessel made port Captain Hogan endeavored to set them free. They seemed reluctant to go and were permitted to remain as long as they desired.

Red Men Criticize Fashions Favor Plump Figures in Far North

Vancouver.—The Indian trappers of the Yukon would award no beauty prizes to the slim or even moderately plump women of fashion from other parts of Canada, but rather invite them to the North, where they might acquire figures more rotund.

"What for, ali women him so thin outside—no grub? Why he no come in here? Lots of caribou and moose. Him get fat," a red-faced native questioned as he poured over the fashions depicted in a magazine supplied to him by Joe Walsh, veteran Yukoner, who won fame with Pilot H. L. Wasson in the rescue recently of two survivors of the Burke party. (Outside to the native means all country beyond the Yukon).

This is told by Walsh in a letter to his old friend here, Captain George Black. Both are former New Brunswickers who have roamed the Yukon together, and Walsh's letters give little word-pictures and sketches of humor from life there; pictures from the saga of the Burke search; of coal and oil galore on the Arctic slope; of roaming the hills with pick and gun, and rod.

Owl Laffs

Imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery, but in business its chief appeal is price. That of the genuine is service.

"Mother, home and heaven" seems to be giving away in the cities to "man, hotels and highballs."

A Chicago woman came into a lawyer's office and said to him:

Woman—"I want a divorce."

Lawyer—"Certainly. For a nominal fee I will institute proceedings, and should experience little difficulty in procuring it for you."

Woman—"What do you call a 'nominal fee'?"

Lawyer—"Five hundred dollars."

Woman—"Nothing doing. I can have him shot for $10.00."

Common sense is so uncommon.

The difference in a financier and a fee-naan-cier is about a million dollars.

Patient—"I say, doctor, don't you think it would be a good idea if I were to pack up and go to some place where the climate is warmer?"

Doctor—"Good heavens! Isn't that just what I've been trying to prerent?"

Neck and Shoulder Neuritis Attacks Closed Car Drivers

Automobile drivers in France have fallen prey to the disease of neuritis of the neck and shoulders, according to a report of the American Medical Association. It is said to attack persons driving closed cars who have gained the habit of leaving the window on their side open so that they may signal with their hands for turns and sudden stops.

Operators of left-drive automobiles are said to have been affected on the left side of the neck while drivers of right-drive vehicles are troubled on the right side. It is believed that when the body, warmed by riding in the closed car, is suddenly attacked in a small location by drafts of cold air the disease gains foothold in the place affected by the draft.

Persons who drive open cars are not subject to contract the disease, it is reported.

Transcontinental Broadcast Marked Seven Years For World Pioneer in Radio on Railway

On New Year's night, the Canadian National Railway system, first railway in the world to equip its trains with radio and to buid up a chain of broadcasting stations, celebrated the seventh anniversary of its service to thousands of unseen listeners. The event was marked by a concert, broadcast from Montreal through sixteen Canadian National and associated stations from one end of Canada to the other.

Sir Henry W. Thornton, Chairman and President of the Railway, delivered a short address, and W. D. Robb, Vice-President, who has jurisdiction over the radio activities of the system as well as over other departments, spoke briefly in French.

The orchestra was conducted by J. J. Gagnier, well-known Montreal musician, and the soloists were Joan Elwes, the celebrated English soprano, and Henri Pontbriand, tenor, who has a high reputation in both Europe and the United States.

"Food Plentiful But Coarse" Says English Tourist in Russia

Soviet Now Welcomes Tourists From Other Countries But Visitors Are Closely Watched and Guarded

Now that the Soviet authorities are allowing, and indeed encouraging, the visits of tourists from other countries, it is interesting to compare the different accounts of their experiences published by these hardy pioneers. It must be clearly understood that it is practically impossible for any tourist to see behind the scenes of Russian life. Watched and guarded by official "guides' and surrounded by spies from the moment they leave the boat at Leningrad until the end of the officially conducted tour, it is not surprising that the general impression is that the U.S.S.R. have no intention of showing their sores in public and that they carefully conceal the grimmest aspect of communist life behind a veil of seeming normality.

Capt. Owen Tweedy, writing in the Fortnightly Review an account of his travels under the auspices of the Soviet Republic, rightly sums up the official aspect when he says:

Russia is quite as suspicious of outsiders, as outsiders are of Russia; indeed to fill up an application for a normal visa to enter the country is tantamount to telling the story of one's life. But Russian policy to-day is to encourage tourists: and a tourist visa is comparatively easy. "Only," says the Soviet, "no visa unless you take our tourist excursions.' I was one among four hundred other inquisitives on a Baltic cruise, who accepted the Soviet terms. All of us got in, save three unfortunate parsons, who were described on their passports as "Ministers of Religion.' "Ministers" are highly political in Russia, and religion is taboo. Three other clerics were wiser in their generation. "Clerks" work in offices: what "Holy Orders" convey to a Russian, goodness only knows. Anyhow, the three "Clerks in Holy Orders" sailed in.

After endless delay over passport regulations and the changing of money in Russian roubles, all tourists are divided into small parties conducted by English-speaking and efficient guides (nearly all women) who can be expected to introduce with the tact of a good hostess, a sufficient amount of propaganda to make the trip worth while—from the Soviet point of view. All inconvenient incidents are explained away or carefully ignored. An amusing example of this is given by the writer in the Spectator:

As our car stopped, the driver of a passing lorry shook his fist at us and shouted uncomplimentary words at our chauffeur. The latter sprang out out of the car, ran to the lorry and took its number. We learnt subsequently that the authorities specially desire to make a good impression upon foreign visitors, and that the offender would be dealt with appropriately.

As one of the guides hurriedly remarked, "such incidents gave tourists a bad and wrong impression of Russia."

The food provided for tourists is plentiful but coarse, and if the soup is greasy and uninviting to the epicurian, he may on the other hand console hmself with a generous helping of caviare. The hotel accommodation is also adequate, and cleanliness is insisted upon. Indeed the freshly washed white blouses of the men going about their ordinary business is in pleasing contrast to the filthy rags of the Tsarist peasant. As a further encouragement to civilized behavior, the following notice is posted in one of the big Co-operative restaurants:

Behave Yourself At Table

1.—Wash your hands before eating.
2.—Do not put your hat on the table.
3.—Do not help yourself to salt with your fingers.
4.—Do not share the same plate with another person.
5.—Do not scatter crumbs and cigarette ends on the table.
6.—Do not spit or quarrel at meals.

Despite the efforts of the authorities to bring a semblance of prosperity to their cities and the genuine care given to the upkeep of their museums and state institutions, the whole aspect of Lenningrad and Moscow is one of neglect and decay. As Capt. Tweedy says:

Leningrad itself was like Soissons or Armentieres in 1918. The streets were weed-grown and pitted: the cobbles had lost all symmetry: they had not been touched for years. And the houses were utterly in keeping. There was no plaster on the walls, no paint on the woodwork, and the windows were cracked and dirty. The only shops were Government shops: outside them were long dreary queues. "Ichabod' was written black over this tenement town.

Of these queues much has been written in the past, and indeed Russians must spend more than a quarter of their working day lining up at the various Co-operative stores, first for their food tickets and then for the usually inadequate supply of provisions. As an example of this, a writer in the Star says:

I walked down a typical cobbled street this morning. Nearly all the shops, except a few dirty tailors' places, were "Co-operatives," and had the usual long queue outside of women with baskets. "You're not in the right order. You've pushed your way in," shouted a red-faced woman to a thin woman.

"You liar, I've been here since six o'clock this morning," was the reply.

Posted up in the window was a notice, "No Milk To-day." A little further on, in a Co-operative Butcher's shop I saw the words scribbled in an untidy handwriting, "Meat to-day only in small portions for people with manual workers' tickets and for children."

No wonder that the forgers of manual workers' tickets are doing a roaring trade!

I pushed my way through shopping crowds to the small square in the open air market where the private traders, who are frowned upon by the Bolsheviks, sell their wares. There was an old pair of trousers going for 50s. "Buy some meat. Two roubles (4s.) a pound!" shouted a butcher to me, brushing away he flies from the dirty scraps of bone and flesh littered upon his wooden trestle.

A peasant woman sat on the ground with a little attache case of the kind one buys in Woolworth's. A small crowd had gathered round her. Peeping over the people, I saw that the contents were two or three dirty portions of butter. "How much?' shouted somebody. "Fine butter, eight roubles (16s.) a pound," she said. Most of the people shrugged their shoulders and walked away.

It must be confessed, however, that although the Russian worker of to-day is poor and still inadequately housed, although he stands for hours in the queues for his food, and luxuries are unknown, his mental recreation is well cared for. Opera and plays are accessible to him, very often free. He can visit the various museums and be told the history of the exhibits. When in need of a holiday he can go to one of the excellent rest houses on the islands surrounding Leningrad. Only the tourist, as he struggles through the customs at the end of his too well conducted tour, wonders if Russia has merely exchanged one tyranny for another.—"Review of Reviews."

Grew Up With Railway

To follow the growth of a great corporation from its early days of struggle to the attainment of fame as the world's greatest privately-owned transportation system has been the lot of George T. Coleman, recently appointed to the post of superintendent of transportation of eastern lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with headquarters in Montreal. Born in 1875 at Carleton Place, Ont., then, as now, the junction of the Ottawa and Brockville lines, he grew up watching switching operations in the local yards, and in 1893 joined the company's service as agent and operator on the Lake Superior Division and travelled from coast to coast in the performance of his duties in the ensuing years. Thus, he was stationed at North Bay, Carleton Place, Sudbury, Revelstoke, Schreiber, White River, and Chapleau. From 1911 to 1916 he was at Moose Jaw, and in January, 1916, was moved to Toronto as car service agent, coming to Montreal in 1918 as inspector of transportation, from which appointment he is promoted to his present position.

"Pitchers' Elbow" New Disease of Broken Bones

Muscular Contraction Results in Fractures Physician Finds; 4 Cases Reported

"Pitchers' Elbow" is a new disease caused when baseball players actually break off small bits of bone inside the elbow joint by the mere force of muscular contraction, according to Dr. F. J. Kirby, of Baltimore, who recently reported four cases he had examined to the American Medical Association.

When a pitcher winds up, Dr. Kirby points out, the arm is frequently bent at the elbow joint. When the ball leaves the hand the arm is straightened and rotated very rapidly to give the necessary twist to the ball in throwing curves and "drop" balls. This acts mechanically, Dr. Kirby explains, to bring the corner of the head of the lower-arm bone, called the radius, violently against the end of the bone of the upper arm, called the humerus.

In all of the four cases examined, the result was found to be a small piece of bone at the end of the radius chipped off, much as a small piece of the bone handle of a cane or umbrella may be broken off by a sharp blow such as dropping on a stone sidewalk.

The loose chip of bone inside the joint then proceeds to give great pain and to cause inflammation so that it requires removal by a surgical operation.

The muscles and bones of the human body have been developed side by side in the process of evolution, so that even extreme contractions of the muscles seldom are able to break the bones upon which the muscles depend for support. But activities like that of throwing baseballs, with sharp breaking curves to fool the eyes of the batter, are new things in evolution, and may subject the muscles or bones to new trials for which Nature has not provided. Often, complaints of pains about the knee joints and sometimes about the backbone itself, made by tennis players, have been traced to chipped edges of the bones, which cause the same kind of inflammation and pain.

Nativity

Now that the winter sky was cold
And breath of oxen hung more white
Than starshine or that candlelight,

Her hour was come, who sensed no gold
Nor frankincense nor any myrrh
In darkness closing over her.

The streets of Bethlehem were wide
And hollow beneath Joseph's feet
Who found no star his eyes could meet.

Gorged with Rome's taxing, on his side
The tavern-keeper snored his fill.
Pale ghosts of sheep strayed on the hill.

And numb men, roused from frightened sleep,
Lit hasty fires in frozen grass
To tell strange dreams till the night pass.

The oxen watched above that deep
Where love goes crowned through love undone.
At dawn she lived, and knew her son.

Illinois Grower Seeking Lettuce of Pumpkin Size

Nrbana, Ill.—To raise heads of lettuce the size of pumpkins is the aim of Charles E. Durst, University of Illinois horticulturist.

Durst believes it possible to produce strains of lettuce that will have greater adaptability to seasons, opening the way for growing of lettuce in warmer climates.

There are more than 100 cultivated varieties of lettuce, but Durst says that the French variety of Cos lettuce is the only cultivated one which gives evidence of having quantitative factors dominant to those of the wild.

It isn't every married couple that is a pair.

Only Two Fill Role Of True Londoners

People Who Can Qualify For Title Are Scarce

True Londoners seem to be scarcer than true New Yorkers, the reason being that qualification for the title is more restricted. According to Sir Arthur Keith, noted British anthropologist, a true Londoner is one who was not only born in the metropolis, but whose two parents and four grandparents were also born here.

That limits the field severely, particularly as in Georgian days London was much smaller than it is now, not only in population, but in extent. So far, Dr. T. B. Layton, a surgeon friend of Sir Arthur's, has been able to find only two persons who fill the requirements. Dr. Layton has been making a four-year search.

The true Londoners he discovered are Frances and Joan Curtis, daughters of Charles Curtis of Streatham. The Curtis family has lived in Streatham and Balham for about 200 years. Mr. Curtis's grandfathers and grandmothers lived there, and his wife's parents lived in Balham. There was a Curtis dairy in Balham 20 years ago, and the same firm is now connected with a big London milk supply firm.

The search took Dr. Layton all over London, even as far east as the Isle of Dogs, where he learned of an old lady who, it was thought, fulfilled the contract. Her parents and grandparents had lived in the same cottage she still inhabits, but on cross-examination it was found out that one of her grandparents came from the country, so she was ruled out.

Let these 6 vital Salts rid you of PIMPLES

Would you like quickly to free yourself of those hideous pimples—those unsightly blackheads—and have that smooth and soft skin perfection you've always envied?

Do you want to have eyes as dazzling and bright as water dancing in a summer's sun?

Would you like to enjoy glorious health with plenty of energy and possess a keen mind?

Then take a quarter teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast!

Kruschen is a combination of the six vital salts which your nerves, glands and body organs ought daily to receive from food if they're to function correctly and which are impossible to obtain in these days of modern cooking.

Kruschen swiftly clears your blood of those harmful acids which cause your skin to erupt—you'll possess a skin like velvet, and a health perfection you didn't think possible!

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headaches, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

NOMINATIONS

The nomination meeting on Monday night for the village of Streetsville was very quiet. As usual there was a large attendance, every seat being filled.

Dr. Smith, village clerk, received nominations from 7.30 to 8.30, with the following result.

For Reeve

O. R. Church, Publisher.
James Dandie, Gentleman.
H. W. Hope, Manufacturer.
T. I. Bowie, M. D.

For Councillors

William Hardy, Gentleman.
S. J. Carter, Poultryman.
V. C. Johnston, Miller.
J. E. Bailey, Butcher.
John W. Drennan Agent.
C. R. Evans, Drover.
H. W. Hope, Manufacturer.
D. H. McCaugherty, Farmer.
T. F. Gould, Gentleman.

Mr. T. H. Goodison, ex-Reeve, was voted chairman, and called upon those nominated to address the meeting.

The four gentlemen nominated for the Reeveship, and five nominated for Councillors made short speeches in their own particular way. There were not many interruptions, and, the few jokes interjected into the proceedings, helped to make the evening a pleasant one.

The present Reeve told how the village had improved since he first became Reeve. Industries were running nicely; streets had been gravelled; new sidewalks built; business section better lighted with lights that burn all night; water works had been extended; number of consumers of electricity had been increased and the power plant put on a paying basis; new buildings had been erected and the sash factory was employing many hands. In fact business in all lines was good, despite the general depression, with very little unemployment.

He spoke of the proposed new High School, and thought we really needed one. It was at first proposed to build a school at a cost of $60,000; but he thought that sum was prohibitive. The people might vote for a building to cost not over $40,000. This would cost the village about $8,000, or 20% of the total, as the County would pay 80% of the debentures. $8,000 spread over 20 years at 5% would amount with interest added, to $16,000; which would mean a payment of $800 each year for 20 years, and it would require about three mills on the dollar of assessment to raise this amount.

He also explained the deal with Mr. Rappaport for the power dam property for a summer resort, and stated that the council had given Mr. Rappaport until next September to make the improvements which he had not made according to the lease. It should not be forgotten that this property was leased to Mr. Rappaport after the question had been carried by a vote of the people and its up to the council to see that he lives up to the agreement. We believe that he will make a success of the Park if given time; if not, the lease should be cancelled.

The question of Daylight Saving time for Streetsville next summer will be voted on at the same time as you vote for Reeve and Councillors. There will be a separate ballot, and you will make your mark under the word "Yes" if you are in favor of it, and under the word "No," if not in favor.

The printed financial statement as distributed at the meeting shows the condition of the municipality. The total receipts were $56,880, while the disbursements were $56,712, leaving a small balance of $168.00. The amount of outstanding taxes is rather large, but will all be collected eventually.

There was some cross-firing about the electric light plant between speakers but the best part of it was no personalities were engaged in, such as have transpired at such gatherings.

The presence of ladies at any meeting always has a steadying effect on the speaker and it was a move in the right direction when it was decided to have the nominations for school trustees at the same time as the municipal nominations.

The nominations for School Trustees resulted as follows: Mrs. C. H. Falconer, Mrs. G Bunt, Messrs. F. G. Reid and Hal Couse.

Mrs. Falconer spoke briefly and announced that she was retiring after eight years. Her place will be taken by Mrs. Bunt, who will fill the position well. Mr. Couse has been re-elected, but as Mr. Reid did not qualify, it leaves a vacancy on the Board, and there will need to be another nomination to fill it.

Space will not permit us to mention what all the speakers said but they all made some good points.

The contest for the Council is on. The voting takes place next Monday, Jan. 5th, from 9 to 5. They are all good men—so take your choice. Of course, they all want to be elected—but that's impossible. We feel quite sure, that whoever are lucky enough to be elected, will work in the best interests of the village. Mr. S. J. Carter, who gave good service as Councillor for one year, is retiring.

Following are the candidates, and their names will appear on the ballot paper in this order:

For Reeve—O. R. Church, James Dandie and H. W. Hope.

For Councillors—J. E. Bailey, John W. Drennan, Charles R. Evans, William Hardy and V. C. Johnston.

Speaking about the tax rate, there is no hope that it will be any lower for many years to come, at least not until after the power dam debentures are all paid off, and then we may be building a new High School. The country rate this year was higher than in 1929, and it will be higher in 1931, because of the heavy expenditure for County and Provincial Roads, and bridges. In 1930 the County built bridges costing $85,000 and are issuing debentures for the same. The first of these debentures will fall due in 1931, and Streetsville will have to pay its share, as well as its share of $94,000 debentures issued in Feb. 1930 for Provincial Roads built in 1928-29. So if any candidate says he can reduce our taxes he will need to show us how.

Election Day, Monday, Jan. 5th—from 9 to 5

World's Wheat Champion Given World Tour

WINNER of the world's wheat championship at Chicago's International Livestock Fair for the second time, Herman Trelle, Wembley, Peace River District, has been singularly honored by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at whose invitation he will make a trip around the world. Trelle, though elated at his outstanding success, attained with hard red spring, was even more pleased with the third he was awarded for hard red winter, which, he maintains, demonstrates the feasibility of raising it in Western Canada and also that he has moved the winter wheat line just 700 miles further north. Insert shows Mr. Trelle and Mr. Beatty.

Fretful DAYS
Restless NIGHTS
...give child Castoria

FUSSY, fretful, can't sleep, won't eat.... It isn't always easy to find just where the trouble is with a young child. It may be a stomach upset; it may be sluggish bowels.

But when little tongues are coated and there is even a slight suspicion of bad breath—it's time for Castoria!

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation especially made for babies and children. When Baby cries with colic or is fretful because of constipation, Castoria brings quick comfort, and, with relief from pain, soothes him to restful sleep. For older children—up through all the school years, Castoria is equally effective in helping to right irregularities. Just give it in larger doses. What a comfort Castoria is to mothers!

Get the genuine, with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper and the name Castoria that always appears like this:

CASTORIA

Boy Killed

On Wednesday while taking a load of hay from Mrs. A. C. Crozier's farm near Streetsville Mr. Davis of Oakville was knocked down by one of the horses and instantly killed when the horse stepped on his head.

CLARKSON

William Foreman, Detroit, and James Buckle, of Brantford, came to their deaths on the Toronto-Hamilton highway, near Clarkson, on Saturday, Dec. 13, through the careless driving of the former, according to the verdict delivered at an inquest held in Cooksville.

Witnesses said that Foreman's car travelling east on the Toronto Hamilton highway, near the town line, was going at a rate estimated between 65 and 70 miles an hour. His car ran off the side of the road, and in returning to the pavement, swerved to the north side of the road and struck Buckle's car.

CLARKSON

William Foreman, Detroit, and James Buckle, of Brantford, came to their deaths on the Toronto-Hamilton highway, near Clarkson, on Saturday, Dec. 13, through the careless driving of the former, according to the verdict delivered at an inquest held in Cooksville.

Witnesses said that Foreman's car travelling east on the Toronto Hamilton highway, near the town line, was going at a rate estimated between 65 and 70 miles an hour. His car ran off the side of the road, and in returning to the pavement, swerved to the north side of the road and struck Buckle's car.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara, in order that her brother Martin might be able to go to Germany to study medicine, agrees to a proposition of Christopher Steynes, her employer's friend, that she play the part of his wife for one day and night in order to discourage a Russian countess and her daughter who have been chasing him. Christopher meets her at the station at Burlingame. They attend a function at which they meet the countess, and the plan is a success. Christopher takes Mary Kate to his home and she retires for the night. Then a burglar comes through the window in her room and she rushes and wakes Christopher. Christopher has just shot the burglar.

"Ah-h-h! That's the time we got him. Stand aside. What is it? Hold his head up. He got him all right, officer, look here at my hand, sir. He's bleeding under the arm, there, sir. He's badly hit, all right! He's the man we've been after for some time. Stand back, will you!"

Christopher ran down the stairs, Mary Kate crouched against the wall, in the upper hallways, her hand over her eyes. She felt the cool plaster against her temples. Her senses swooned, revived, swooned again.

"Oh, my God!" she whispered, now and then, in a vague, dull tone. "Oh, my God! Oh, God have mercy on him—"

Had she expected them to club him to death? She did not know. She only knew that it was a relief when the crisp clear voice of Christopher said, "Hold his head up there, officer. He's coming 'round."

"He's off again. He's gone, poor feller," the richly sympathetic slow-Norse tones of Mrs. Peters interposed.

"He's got what was coming to him."

"How'd he get in, sir?"

"Through the spare room window there."

"There was half-a-dozen of them on this job."

"There was more than one all right."

"It looks like an inside job."

"No, it's not an inside job!" This was Christopher laughing. Laughing reluctantly and mirthlessly, it was true. But he would laugh at anything.

"You've got the revolver, sir?"

"I left it in my room."

"He's done for, all right."

"Did anyone telephone for an ambulance?"

"Yes, sir. Coming right away, sir."

Voices. Voices. Voices. Then suddenly a head and shoulders appeared in the stairway opening, and a fresh-faced young policeman was here in the upper hall, looking at her. She was on her knees, crouching. Mary Kate took her hands down from her face, and looked at him a long time.

"I beg your pardon, Madam."

She tried to speak. Her throat, her mouth were dry. No sound came forth.

"Do you know which door is the door of Mr. Steynes's apartment?

A gesture of her head toward the door.

He still hesitated. Then he asked respectfully.

"Were you here at the time of the shooting, Madam?"

A desperate deep quiver of mirth shook her. Where else, indeed? But she could not speak. Her sunken, haggard eyes did not move from the fresh, young concerned face. She nodded, swallowing.

The officer was plainly puzzled. He looked toward Chris's bedroom door, looked at Mary Kate, and finally, turning back toward the stairway, blew a brief, light note on his whistle.

Instantly an older officer appeared as he had done, in the stairway vault.

"This lady was here, sir."

"You're Mrs. Steynes, madam?" the constable asked.

"No, sir."

"A relative of Mr. Steynes?"

"No."

A pause.

"If you'll give me your name, Madam? There need be no publicity about it," the older man said, as she remained silent, staring blankly at them, her blue eyes glinting in an ashen face.

Christopher was suddenly beside her. He raised her to her feet and straightened the heavy dressing-gown in which she was half-wrapped.

"Here!" he said, flattening the collar. He smiled easily at the officer. "My name is Christopher Steynes, address Players' Club, or Steynes and Schumaker Bank, New York City," he said. The officer wrote it down. "Tell them your name it's a mere formality!" he said to Mary Kate.

"O'Hara" she said slowly, the deep color suddenly flooding her white face. "Mary Catherine O'Hara."

"And your address, Madam?"

"They won't use it," Chris assured her. "They're doing the same with Peters and Tony."

She gave the O'Farrell street number.

"You were in that bedroom downstairs, Miss O'Hara?"

"Tell me your own name," Christopher said. "I hate to call anyone 'you'."

"Constable Browning, sir."

"Well, now, look here Mr. Browning, the less——"

"But just one moment, sir. This is a mere matter of form. The young lady was in the downstairs bedroom?"

"She was."

"She was in the room the thief entered, sir?"

"She was."

"You had latched that window, Miss O'Hara? You had locked it?"

"No. Well, yes, in a way I had. But the glass part was open."

CHAPTER XXIII.

The constable looked at the notes in his book, and appeared to consider.

"We have been looking for this gang for some time, Mr. Steynes," he said then, with apparent irrelevance.

"Well?" Christopher asked, almost with a sneer.

His glance seemed to nettle the other man.

"It is all as a matter of protection to your property, sir," he said sharply. "We can't have this sort of thing going on—this is the seventh this year. We know they have plants——"

"I don't know what you're talking about!" Christopher said, in a pause.

"We don't know there's a woman in the gang," the officer went on. "We don't know there isn't. I want to ask the young lady a few questions. I want to know if she ever——" He referred to his book. "If she ever heard the name of Tony Moody?" he asked.

"Who's he?" Christopher demanded. Constable Browning jerked his head toward the hall, and the group downstairs.

"The fellow I got, huh?"

"That's the one, sir. Did the young lady ever hear that name before?"

"Look here, Mr. Browning, Miss O'Hara's been Mr. Gordon Rountree's secretary for several years—"

"That wasn't what I asked, Mr. Steynes."

"Did you ever hear that name before, Mary?"

Her wearied, despairing eyes moved slowly to his.

"What name?"

"Tony—what was it? Tony Moody?"

"Why no!" Mary Kate said, wetting her lips, swallowing.

"That's all," said the constable. "We'll want you in the morning, both of you. If he dies, there'll have to be a coroner's investigation."

"We'll be here in the morning, of course," Christopher said curtly after a moment's hesitation.

"O. K., then," said the officer of the law. "Good night, Miss."

He ran downstairs. Mary Kate said no answering good night.

When the injured man had been taken away in an ambulance and the police officers, after some tramping about the grounds with the discovery of confederates in view, had all gone away, there still seemed to linger a strange agitation and emptiness in the house. The flashlights stopped waving, like enormous antennae, over the garden, the pound of heavy boots died away, and the police station cars chugged away down the road.

Peters made a fire, and Mrs. Peters came in from the kitchen with coffee, but everything was wearisome and queer; Mary Kate felt as if she were in a nightmare, of which this unfamiliar Spanish furniture, these faintly distempered plaster walls, this hideous twisted stairway with the thick loops of red cord for balustrade, were forming a background never to be eradicated from her eyes.

She had been looking at it forever; a wood fire started on a base of hardly cool ashes, a room still in its evening disorder of cigarette stubs and scattered books and papers. Chris Steynes in his pajamas and dressing gown was the bizarre—the least believable detail of it all. His yellow hair was rumpled; he still—after this insufferable hour—looked flushed and drowsy with sleep.

The clock's hands stood at ten minutes past four. But to Mary Kate it seemed days—weeks since she had said good night to Chris and Don Archibald in this room, not much more than two hours ago. She had felt humiliated and affronted then, but that was nothing to what had developed now. Now she was no longer occupied with young pride and superficial social niceties; she was a witness in a murder case, she was being held by the police!

And if it had been a girl who had talked with the two men in this very room, so short a while ago, it was a woman who sat here now, drinking her coffee, listening to Chris with her wearied, patient blue eyes fixed on his face, her answers or suggestions made quietly, apathetically, without any of the flash and vitality that had always been a part of Mary Kate.

She still wore the heavy big dressing gown he had given her in the first alarm; a soft, furry, checked brown-and-cream dressing gown, tied firmly about her with a tasselled silk cord. Its bigness made Mary Kate seem little, somehow, seem very slim and helpless and young, as she sat in the big chair and the whiteness of her face, the strained look in her blue eyes that were set in deep rings of violet pallor, somehow accentuated the impression of youth and desolation afresh. In this unnatural, unearthly night hour, she looked crushed and broken; the moth that had ventured once too often toward the flame.

Her bright hair was disordered and flattened, her own feverish hands had pushed it carelessly from her forehead more than once; she neither knew nor cared how she looked. The world, the future, were utterly black before her.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Interesting detail gives chic to this charming day dress of black canton crepe.

There is shirring to narrow the effect across the hips. The white crepe vest and self-covered button trim also give a very slimming effect to bodice. The shirring below the elbows of the sleeves is quaint new fashion.

It's tremendously smart. It's easily copied.

Style No. 2852 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The inky browns, dark greens and rust reds are having quite a vogue in Paris. They are youthfully chic in the crepy woolens, marocain crepe and velvet, fabrics that adapt themselves perfectly to this model.

Size 36 require 4 yards 39-inch with ¼ yard 9-inch lace.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

French Liner to Use Seaplane For Ship-to-Shore Air Mail

Paris.—A convention has been signed between the French Ministry of Air and the Transatlantic Air Company establishing conditions for air mail service between the French liner Ile de France and the American and French coasts.

Under this convention the Air Ministry has agreed to pay slightly more than $6,000 for the establishment of a seaplane and a catapult on the Ile de France and another sum of $5,250 for each flight, provided that the airplane takes off from the ship not less than ninety miles from the port of destination. The agreement will run until March 31.

The same air transport company has also agreed to establish a service in connection with steamers between Martinique and Trinidad.

Farmer Asleep

(By Anderson M. Scruggs in "The Frontier")

He lies asleep—
Old friend of the soil—
Under his tree.
He has left his toil,
Forgotten the rake
That stands by the door,
And the tools that sprawl
On the workhouse floor.
The whetstone yearns
For a creaky start,
But he lies so still
One can se his heart
Thumping the front
Of his denim shirt.
Listless, the chickens
Scratch at the dirt,
And peck at the pears
That thud from the tree,
But he does not hear,
And he does not see.

Forgotten the harrow
That needs his red hands
To guide through the marrow
Of black bottom lands,
For now he is one
With the long afternoon
Of the Indian Summer—
Ghost of June,
And breezes and sweet
With the meadow full ripe
That play at his hair
And scatter his pipe.

But soon he will stretch
From the bench where he lies,
Rubbing reality
Back in his eyes.

When the real sleep comes,
And all is forgotten,
When fields lie fallow,
And fences are rotten,
And the years creak on
Like an old cart wheel,
Will he stir from his sleep,
Will he rouse to feel
Once more for old familiar things?
When the years drop down
Like fruit long ripe,
Over six feet of ground,
Will he reach for his pipe?

Some say surely he will arise,
Rubbing eternity back in his eyes,
And some, "Nevermore,"
But the wind that blows
From the meadowland mourns:
"Who knows? Who knows?"

How to Keep Fit in Tropics Subject of College Course

The latest practical invader of the erstwhile cultural curriculum of the American college is a course on how to keep well while travelling in the tropics, to be offered during the coming semester by the University of California extension division. Avoiding various diseases, recognizing their symptoms, safe diet, care of children in hot climates, care of the skin and eyes and sun and mosquito protection will be some of the topics discussed by members of the staff of the Hooper Foundation for Medical Research.

Meanwhile, another pre-travel course at the University will attempt to provide the expectant pilgrim with a general background of political conditions, manners and customs of the various countries of Europe.

Weeds of the Sea

Along the New England sea coast in early Winter fishermen-farmers gather their annual crop of rockweed for fertilizer. The storms throw up on shore immense quantities of this seaweed, which is rich in the chemicals the soil requires.

"My boy," he said, seriously, "I'm getting old and will soon have to retire. I want you to take over the business for me. What do you think?" "Father," was the reply, "how would it be if you worked a few years longer and we both retired together?"

Immunization Test Approved Safeguard Against Scarlet Fever

By JOHN BURKE INGRAM

It is possible to prevent that dangerous disease of childhood, Scarlet Fever and the purpose of our health article for this week is to acquaint our readers with the methods which are used to acquire immunity.

First, it is known that one attack of Scarlet Fever usually but not always protects an individual against further attacks. This is because the bloodstream during an attack of this disease develops a substance which resists any future attack by germs, and the poison or "toxin" which they produce is rendered harmless.

"When scientists found the Scarlet Fever toxin they began to experiment with it, hoping to be able to produce artificially that substance which the blood produces naturally in defending the body against future attacks. They succeeded so nowadays it is possible to secure artificial immunity to this disease, whereas in former years it was necessary to actually experience one attack of it in order to be reasonably immune to all future ones.

"This immunization is accomplished by injecting carefully graduated doses of the sterile toxin produced by these germs. The toxin is first injected in small doses, then in gradually increasing doses until enough has been injected to stimulate the body to produce anti-toxin. The toxin used does not contain any germs and of itself is incapable of causing any disease or injury. A person treated thus produces his own anti-toxin, goes about his business and becomes immune to Scarlet Fever without developing the disease.

Doctors, however, do not advise having children immunized against Diphtheria. It is interesting to know why. First of all, let us note the fact that it is generally supposed that adults are immune to Scarlet Fever. This is usually true because so many adults have actually had the disease, even without knowing it. This may seem rather amazing but the fact is, that it is possible to have Scarlet Fever in the form of a sore throat alone. This is often enough to immunize the individual experiencing it against further attacks from the germ. But unless adults have had the disease in this way they remain susceptible to it all their lives. Now since so many people are immune to Scarlet Fever from having had the disease or having had Scarlet Fever sore throat it would be foolish to immunize everybody in a group in attempting to control an epidemic. We would be immunizing many people unnecessarily.

Therefore you can readily see that it was important to devise some method of selecting those susceptible to Scarlet Fever in order to know who should be immunized. Fortunately it was possible to devise such a test. The material used in this test is a dilute solution of Scarlet Fever toxin which has been very carefully standardized. If the person tested is susceptible to this disease a pink spot appears where the needle was pushed through the skin, within 24 hours. This spot begins to fade in a short time.

Writer Finds Four Types of 1930 Girl

One a Good Wife for Somebody Else, Two Have Sex Appeal, One is "Hard-Boiled"

Vienna.—The 1930 girl turned up in her thousands at the Grosser Konzerthaussaal to hear the novelist, Emil Klaeger, analyze her highly modern soul in his long-anticipated lecture. Seventeen hundred girls, between 17 and 25 years old, had obligingly furnished Herr Klaeger with his material by answering a questionnaire which he had sent out.

Herr Klaeger distinguished four principle types. The first, which he christened "Madelon," was that of a comrade, intelligent, eager for all knowledge, anxious to understand everything about young men. She made a great appeal as the ideal wife for some one else. Then came two "sex-appeal" types—those few with inborn, quite involuntary appeal and the many who quite successfully supplied by art the deficiencies of nature. The clearest-cut modern type was the practical young enemy of romanticism, who weighed life and cut out of it all that she felt was of no advantage to her, while devoting herself whole heartedly to what she felt she could enjoy.

Even the young girl of 1930, however, wants to be married, whatever her often highly original conception of the married state may be. And of the 1,700 who responded to the questionnaire, only one was not "misunderstood" by her parents—who, in her case were deaf and dumb.

Nightgowns Are Modish

It practically takes a knowing eye to distinguish the new nightgowns from the hostess costumes, they are so charmingly designed. They specialize in putting into practice all the highlights of fashion. The princess line, sashed in soft ribbons or little belts, the bolero, the lace yoke, often with drop shoulders or puff sleeves, and the full sweeping lengths of hostess costumes all are incorporated in this winter's nighties.

HEAD HURT?

WORK won't wait for a headache to wear off. Don't look for sympathy at such times, but get some Aspirin. It never fails.

Don't be a chronic sufferer from headaches, or any other pain. See a doctor and get at the cause. Meantime, don't play martyr. There's always quick comfort in Aspirin. It never does any harm. Isn't it foolish to suffer any needless pain? It may be only a simple headache, or it may be neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatism. Lumbago. Aspirin is still the sensible thing to take. There is hardly any ache or pain these tablets can't relieve; they are a great comfort to women who suffer periodically; they are always to be relied on for breaking up colds.

Buy the box that says Aspirin and has Genuine printed in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart. All druggists.

Then give to the world the best you have, and the best yill come back to you.—M. S. Bridges.

Monotony

Isnt' it amazing with every kind of work we have to do no matter how pleasant it may be, we find if it is taken really seriously there come times when it palls onone and the work seems like drudgery.

To the wife and mother especially it is difficult to get away from monotony. The days to many mothers are filled with the performance of getting meals, eating them, setting clean dishes on the table, washing them afterwards, then putting on baby's clothes and sending him out to play, sweet and clean, only to bring him in again to wash the grimy little face and hands. Then for a change there are more dishes, cleaning, baking, ironing and the little face is dirty again and there are more dishes.

So monotony stalks along while doing the home duties; it also accompanies all business efforts and is close by while one is acquiring an education The routine must be done and the wise man or woman is the one who keeps steadfastly in view the finished achievement. If we can only visualize the flower while the ground is being prepared the digging does not seem so irksome or the aching back so painful. It is true that after climbing one hill another looms up unexpectedly casting its shadows of doubt, while after those are dispelled another hill is there to climb with its new species of drudgery, but nevertheless as you look back down the flight of past years you see many important bridges have been crossed in the humdrum of life.

Have you ever noticed in studying art that so many people think of art accomplishments as only a pastime. We call it "playing," or the "art of singing," and give them a very superficial study, often thinking they are only the "frills." The study is haphazard and anything is considered good enough. This is why most of us never get past the primary stage. We are afraid of the monotony and drudgery of real work. Naturally the children acquire the same idea and do not see the importance of downright hard work. Art is not play and yet it is wonderful, soul-inspiring play after sufficient time has been spent in study with sometimes its hours of monotony and so-called drudgery. We can't get away from it altogether.

After all is it worth while? True, it is from the daily household task has come the more beautiful well-ordered home and those grimy little hands have grown big with promise. The business grows bigger and better, taking an ever more important place in the community. The accomplished artist, mastering his art, can thrill others as well as his own being with the out-pouring of his soul and thus the world is a little better place to live in. Yes, it is worth while.

"Why, hello Tommy!" said one old cat to another in one of the alleys where he lived. "How is it you are so fat and happy? I have been away with my mistress and when I left you were starved and miserable, and now you are fat and happy. What has happened?"

"Oh," said Tommy, "it is the Star boys and girls. They come around and feed us with milk and fish, then they put out water to drink and bits of meat, and in cold weather they fix us beds in boxes and don't we love to see them coming around? They take good care of us. Well, here comes one now. Good-bye."

The common cat as well as the persian is the best rodent destroyer we have, but they need systematic feeding to do their best work.

Twilight Hour Story—The Chickies
Chapter 5

After a while Mamma Hen thought she better get up too and show her new babies what the world really looked like. She felt pretty stiff after staying on that nest for such a long time but she stretched her wings, then her body this way and that way, and soon felt alright again. When she got up and looked at the nest where she had been sitting she noticed the other four eggs lying there. Perhaps you will remember she laid eight eggs, didn't she? She stood and looked at them and didn't know what to do about them for they took up a lot of room, but just then Miranda Sparrow flew in. Say, didn't she think those little chickens were cute? Well, I should say she did, but when she saw the other four eggs there she knew right away what Mamma Hen should do, so she whispered in her ear again and then out she flew and away off into the blue sky outside. As soon as she was gone Mamma Hen did what Miranda Sparrow told her. She took one of the egg and rolled and pushed it out of the nest and she did it very carefully, too. I wonder why? Do you know why? I'll whisper it to you just as Miranda Sparrow did to Mamma Hen. "Those eggs didn't have any little chickens in them so they were bad—Oh! Oh! And if one would break—Oh, dear me, the smell would be awful, and then—well, Mamma Hen would have to put a clothes pin on all the little chickies' noses so they couldn't smell it, but then she couldn't put on a clothes pin, could she? Because her nose is very different from our noses, isn't it? I wonder if you have ever noticed what the chicken's nose looks like. Look next time you get a chance, won't you? So that was why Mamma Hen rolled it out of the nest just as carefully as she could. Then she came back for another one until they were all out and put them off in the corner where no one would touch them. She was glad when she got rid of them. After a while they dried up inside the shell and wouldn't smell any more even if you did break them.

Then Mamma Hen started out to take a walk with her babies. They thought it was fine and scratched around in the straw in the big barn and looked so little and cute while they were having a good time. Just then the door opened and the farmer man's little boy, Billy, came in, and when he opened the door a big cold wind came in too, and that old wind felt awfully cold to these little chicks. Besides that they never saw a little boy before and he looked terribly big to them, so they ran back to Mamma Hen before Billy saw them. And do you know what she did? Well, she just sat down on top of them like she did in the nest and there they were all safe and as warm again as could be, and they didn't care how cold it was outside for they just all cuddled close together and went to sleep like you do when you have your afternoon nap.

Next Week—"What Did Mamma Hen Do About the Cold Wind?"

"I'd like to know if George has any bad habits."

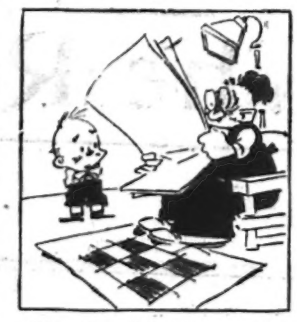
"In that case, you'd better ask him to tell you the things he is going to swear off in the New Year."

World's Fastest Warship Tested By Gt. Britain

Makes 40-Knots Easily With No Pressure on Engines . .

London—What is believed to be the fastest warship in the world, has just completed her trials for the British Navy, reaching a speed of forty knots at times without pressing her machinery in any way.

This is the new destroyer flotilla leader, Codrington, 1,520 tons, completed last June at the Swan & Hunter Shipyard in Glasgow.



To the Admirality officials her speed came as a revelation, for she obtained an average of 38 knots during a four-hour test, and reached a speed two knots higher at times. In conformity to the Admiralty's regulations, her engines never were let out to full power, though if they had been there is no doubt in the minds of British naval men that the Codrington would have smashed existing records easily.

The most remarkable feature of the Codrington's achievement, in the opinion of the Admiralty, is that she reached the forty knots without exceeding the designed horsepower of 39,000, although she had been designed to reach a speed of only thirty-five knots. Nothing in the other navies has been produced to outdistance this British whippet, which with a full load could streak across the Atlantic in three and a half days if top speed could be maintained.

Centenarian Dies At Home In Ontario

Smith Falls, Ont.—Robert Smith, 100 years old, died here on Dec. 15th. Two weeks ago the most serious illness of the few which came to him in his long life, forced him to cease doing light chores about his home. The centenarian had always been proud of his record of seldom missing a day's work. To hard work he attributed his longevity.

He died shortly after expressing regret that he was unable to be "up and about".

"Hey, Pop. Kin I stay up and see the old year out?"

"I should say not."

"Hey, Pop."

"Well."

"Kin I stay up and see the new year in?"

Famous Gate Hangs In Buffalo Alley

Buffalo, N.Y.—One of the massive gates from historic Newgate Prison in England hangs almost unnoticed in a Buffalo alley awaiting transfer by its owner to the building of the Buffalo Historical Society in Delaware Park.

The gate was purchased in 1903 by George E. More, of Buffalo, who happened in at an auction in England when the relics of Old Bailey prison were put up for sale. Bidding a small price for the gate, which weighs 1,800 pounds and requires a two-pound key to unlock it, Mr. More's offer was accepted. It cost him $150 to ship it to the United States.

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

It has the Russian spirit that is everywhere fashionables gather.

It's slim, gay and so easy to wear. It takes just a minute to slip into it. The belt is adjustable. The neckline shows a smart becomingness in its softly rolled scarf collar. The side buttoned closing is decidedly slimming feature. The under skirt is attached to a slip that is cut with armholes to prevent its slipping off the shoulders.

It's a dress that will give excellent service. It's dark green wool crepe. The contrast is strikingly smart in green crepe with gold pin dots. The green buttons have gold rims.

Style No. 2847 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Canton crepe, supple tweed, marocain crepe and velvet also suitable for this model.

Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 39-inch with ¾ yard 39-inch contrasting and 1⅞ yards of 35-inch lining.

Provincial Air Force Ends 1930 Season

Toronto, Ont.—Flying operations of the Provincial Air Forces have now been suspended for the season. The last plane of the fleet has reported at the base at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., for the reconditioning program that is undertaken every winter.

This year the service broke all previous records: 14,160 flying hours were devoted by fire-suppression patrols, which is an increase of 2,500 hours over what was thought to be the unbeatable mark of 1929.

New Air Service May Be Operated

Toronto—An air service between Canada and the West Indies linking the Federated Islands to the Dominion is the hope of Col. T. R. St. Johnston, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Leeward Islands, who is here to promote commercial relations between the two countries.

An air-liner landed at Croydon recently, with a cargo of watches. Yet another proof that time flies.

One of the best plants for the amateur is the Amaryllis, or Hippeastrum, for use in the window garden. It is easy to grow and needs little care. The pleasure is watching the progress of the giant flowers on long stems. They may be had in various shades and markings.

Run Modern Factory Near North Pole

A canning factory, equipped with modern machinery and operated by electric power, has been established within a few hundred miles of the North Pole. It is operated entirely by Eskimos, mostly women.

The factory, financed by the Danish government, draws its power from the nearby rivers and is equipped with up-to-date dynamos and oil engines to cope with emergencies. It is located in Holsenberg, Greenland, which has a population of about 250. A fleet of modern motorboats keeps the factory supplied with halibut, the principal catch of the vicinity.

Empire Service League Invited to Toronto

Toronto—The British Empire Service League, embracing ex-service men's organizations throughout the Empire, has been invited to hold its biennial conference in Canada next year during the Canadian National Exhibition.

The Ontario Government, the municipality of Toronto, and the Canadian National Exhibition authorities joined in the invitaton of the Canadian Legion to hold the conference here. The Empire delegates would take part in a Warrior's Day parade at the National Exhibition.

Russian Inventor Designs New Electric Train

Moscow.—Russia may give the world a new electric railroad train which operates on ball bearings instead of wheels.

After the first test of the invention of N. G. Yarmolchuk, an expert commission studying its possibilities has recommended that the government undertake practical experiments.

Yarmolchuk has worked almost a lifetime in an attempt to perfect such a train. He believes his work will prove revolutionary and his contentions appear somewhat sound in view of the expert committee's report.

3000-Year-Old Barley Presented to Ontario

Toronto.—An interesting exhibit has been placed in the museum of the Ontario Agricultural College. It is a sample of barley taken from the grain pits of the time of Solomon, the tenth century B.C., at Tall-Fara, Egypt.

The grain is blackened with age, but has retained its natural form through 30 centuries. It was presented by the director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology.

Trade Treaty Signed By Japan and Panama

Panama City, R.P.—Japan and Panama have ratified a trade treaty giving full rights of travel and commerce to nationals of both countries. Article 10 of the treaty provides that the provisions of the agreement do not apply to the Canal Zone where a most favored nation clause is dependent upon "stipulations agreed to or in the future agreed to between Panama and the United States.' The treaty covers three years and becomes effective immediately.

Egmont Portraits Bring Some $40,000

London—The sale of the art collection inherited by the former Canadian rancher who is now known as the Earl of Egmont has come to an end and the coffers of Charles John Perceval, ninth weare of the coronet, are richer by 8,640 guinaes, or about $40,000. A little known canvas by Reynolds briught 2,800 guineas. A family group by Hugh Barron realized 460 guineas.

Berlin Palace Purchased By the United States

Washington.—The Bleucher Palace in Berlin, bought for an American Embassy, cost the Government $1,800,000.

The State Department recently announced the building would be used as a residence for the Ambassador as well as an office.

Historic Flight Gifts Total 1943

Relics of Lindbergh's Flight to be Handed Down to Posterity

St. Louis, Mo.—An inventory of the decorations and gifts presented to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh following his flight from New York to Paris in May, 1927, has recently been completed by Mrs. Nettie H. Beauregard, archivist and curator of the Missouri Historial Society. The number of trophies in the Lindbergh collection, which are housed in the Jefferson Memorial here, totals 1943.

Pictures, poems and music lead the list in number, there being 523 articles under that classification. Miscellaneous items are second and books and games a close third with 298 and 287, respectively.

The list of articles compiled by Mrs. Beauregard contains all of the gifts which have been placed in the Lindbergh collection, none of which have ever been removed.

The complete list follows: Medals, 118; silver cups, trays and so forth, 37; statuary, plaques, 55; watches, clocks, 13; keys to cities, 18; stick pins, 6; rings, 9; pens and pencils, 15; miscellaneous jewelry, 39; coins, 9; badges and lodge emblems, 38; purses and pocketbooks, 21; religious articles 26; lamps, 3; membership passes, 44; testimonials, 195; maps, 40; model planes, 48; hardware, wrenches, 17; laces and linen, 57; toilet articles, 54; clothing, 82; hats, 11; sporting goods, 24; ornaments, 8; dolls, 26, and tables, 2.

Among other articles in the collection is the map of Colonel Lindbergh used during his flight, the aviation suit he wore and the water canteen carried in the plane.

$71,003,828 Decrease In Trade Is Recorded

Ottawa—Canadian trade declined during the month of November by $71,003,828 in comparison with the corresponding month last year, according to figures published in the current issue of the National Revenue Review. In November, 1929, trade for the month was valued at $221,979,663; last month this had dropped to $150,975,835.

Export from Canada declined in value from $111,068,871 (exclusive of $2,177,634 foreign re-exports) to $73,060,871 (exclusive of $1,551,162 foreign re-exports). At the same time imports into this country dropped from $108,733,697 to $76,363,802.

Illustrating the effect of the lowered price of wheat, the figures show that while $28,550,931 was received for the export of 22,444,000 bushels of wheat in November last year, only $21,676,080 was received for the export of 31,217,294 in November just passed.

Up to December 15 more grain had been delivered to ships at West Saint John than during the entire month of December, 1929, and this traffic bids fair to exceed that of last season for Mediterranean and other European ports, according to information gathered at Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters. In addition to grain at seaboard, 1,500,000 bushels were in transit at mid-December, with further orders coming in daily.

Holders already of two Dominion championships, the first aid team of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Toronto freight offices added further laurels to their crown by taking, in face of stiff opposition, the silver challenge shield of the company's eastern lines championship, and a week later journey to Winnipeg where they captured a third Dominion trophy by defeating Weston Shops, winners of the western lines championship, by 35 points. Winning team was: W. T. Warren (captain), A. T. Curle, H. H. Brald, C. W. Sellen, W. J. Turk and C. W. Macey (spare).

By the throwing of a switch in the Saskatoon power house of the Saskatchewan Government Power Commission a new era for many towns in central Saskatchewan was recently introduced. This act marked the energizing of the new high tension power line to Shellbrook and the lighting up of that town and of a number of intervening towns by electricity supplied from the central electric station in Saskatoon. About 400 miles of power lines will be functioning shortly and a hundred towns will be effectively lighted and supplied with power.

More than half a million Christmas trees have been shipped from the Province of New Brunswick to points in the United States. The supply of Christmas trees from New Brunswick for United States comes entirely from privately-owned lands as the exportation of such trees cut on government-owned lands is forbidden.

During the past two years forty Danish families, comprising 165 persons, have bought farms in Nova Scotia. Twenty-five of these families made their purchase this year. These farms are situated along the Gulf Shore from Pugwash to Antigonish, in Hants County from Walton to Cheverie, and throughout the Annapolis Valley as far west as Bridgetown.

In the first nine months of 1930, more than 380,000 pounds of mail were carried by air mail services in Canada. One-half of the services operate out of Montreal. Two new services are projected. One will cover the route from Amos to Siscoe, newly settled districts in Northern Quebec, and the second from the Peace River to North Vermillion, in the North-West Territories. There are 500 aircraft flying in Canada, with 717 pilots, of whom 403 are commercial. There are 72 air harbors.

Six ships recently took large consignments of British Columbia apples to the British Isles. The apples were brought from the Okanagan Valley, the principal apple-growing district of British Columbia.

ERINDALE

The Women's Institute of Erindale will meet on Wednesday, Jan. 7th at the home of Mrs. Geo. Burke. Mrs. Allen will speak on "Handicrafts." An invitation is extended to all ladies to attend.

MILTON

The Christmas tree at the Gordon Home, Milton, was a very jolly affair and much gratitude is felt and expressed to those who helped to make this possible.

The Christmas tree, donated by Mr. F. R. McCarwell, was loaded with good things for the kiddies, each child receiving individual gifts, toys, candies, mittens, etc. The children sang carols sweetly before Santa arrived and the Rev. Mr. McFaul gave a short talk on the meaning of Christmas day and a short prayer.

Mr. P. W. Cooke was a merry Santa Claus and there was much merriment when he arrived and handed the gifts from the tree and the memory and tendencies of the Christmas spirit was brought to all in the home. The turkey was a yearly gift of Dr. Gowland and much appreciated and was enjoyed along with other good things to eat.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Wm. Taylor

The death of Mrs. William Taylor occurred at her home at Erindale on Monday.

She was the widow of William E. Taylor. They farmed for many years on Dundas Street, west of Erindale and since her husband's death she has resided in Erindale.

Mrs. Taylor was a member of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Erindale, a member of the Chancel Guild, the Women's Auxiliary and the Women's Institute.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. W. Morris, of Erindale and Mrs. Merchant of Galt; also by two brothers, Mr. Geo. Hamilton, Streetsville, and John of Brampton and one sister, Mrs. Ritchie of Streetsville. The funeral took place to Erindale cemetery and was condcted by Rev. H. V. Thompson.

STATEMENT OF QUESTION

Statement of Question to be submitted to the Electors of the Village of Streetsville on Monday, the 5th day of January, next A.D. 1931.

Are you in favour of Daylight Saving Time in the Village of Streetsville to be effective between the hours of twelve o'clock midnight on the first Sunday in the month of May and twelve o'clock midnight on the last Sunday in the month of August in each and every year during the pleasure of the Council commencing on the first Sunday in the month of May, A.D., 1931, the said Daylight Saving to come into force and be operative each year by proclamation of the head of the Municipality authorizing the same?

Notice

TAKE NOTICE that the foregoing is a correct Statement of the Question to be submitted to a vote of the Electors of the Village of Streetsville, on Monday, the 5th day of January, A.D. 1931, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the same places for taking the votes as specifically set forth in the By-law for the next Municipal Election to be held in January, A.D. 1931, and that Saturday, the 3rd day of January A.D., 1931, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon at the Clerk's Office, Streetsville, in the said Municipality, has been fixed for the appointment of persons to attend at the polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk.

And if the assent of the Electors is obtained to the proposed By-law it will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the said Corporation at a meeting thereof to be held after the expiration of one month from the date of the said first publication of this notice, and that such first publication was made on the 18th day of December A.D. 1930.

DATED at Streetsville, this 1st day of December, A.D., 1930.

S. SMITH,
Clerk of the Corporation of the Village of Streetsville.

Health Service

OF THE

Canadian Medical Association

Edited by

GRANT FLEMING, M.D. — ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

HYGIENE OF THE NOSE

Ignorance as to the proper care of the organs containing the special senses leads to a great deal of discomfort for many individuals.

Mistreatment by the sufferers themselves of conditions that arise in these organs, according to their own ideas or those of their well-meaning but not so well-informed neighbors, results in as much, if not more, harm than comes from lack of knowledge as to how to keep the parts in a healthy condition.

The nose, throat and ears are closely related in their location and functions. Here we confine our remarks to the nose, but it should be borne in mind that the well-being of any part or organ of the body depends, to a great extent, upon the health of the whole body.

There are some important methods of care of the nose, which, if practised, will do much to prevent the occurrence of abnormal nasal conditions. They are important because their use will make for a happier life for the individual through the avoidance of discomfort and illness.

Just inside of the nostrils are found several rows of hairs, which, propecting into the nasal passage, act as a sieve for the indrawn air. Infections such as boils at the root of these hairs are not uncommon, and they are usually due to injury from picking the nose or pulling at the hairs which have become long. Such infections cause a great deal of pain and discomfort and may give rise to serious conditions. The obvious way to prevent such trouble is to keep the fingers out of the nose, and not to pull at the hairs. If it is necesary to trim the hairs, scissors should be used, as this does away with the possibility of allowing bacteria to gain entrance and set up infection.

The nose, like any other organ, must be used if it is to develop properly. If the nose is obstructed during the early years of life, the surrounding parts do not develop properly. As a result, there is a high arched palate, irregular teeth, a long-drawn, narrow face, a nasal tone to the voice and the partial or complete loss of the sense of smell, the last-named very often affecting the sense of taste which is so closely related to that of smell.

The most common cause of obstruction to normal breathing is an overgrowth of adenoid tissue. But whatever the cause, no child or adult should be allowed to continue to be a mouth-breather for any length of time.

Obstructions in the nose not only lead to the deformities already mentioned and to the loss of the senses of taste and smell, but they predispose to the development of infections in the head sinuses. In addition, because the air is not properly prepared by passage through the nose, where normally it is filtered, warmed and moistened, it reaches the delicate tissues of the lungs in such a state as to increase the burden thrown on the tissues, and so lowers their risistence and increases the chance of the development of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Personal comfort, the sense of well-being, the general health of all parts of the body and particularly of the nose, throat and ears, will all be definitely improved by taking care of the nose, by seeing that there is no obstruction of the nasal passage and that natural breathing is practised.

MOTORISTS be CAREFUL!

The season for wet, slippery pavements is here and demands that special care be exercised by all drivers of motor vehicles.

DRIVE CAREFULLY . . . and read carefully every word of this advertisement

THE Highway Safety Committee has been urging motorists during the year to exercise CARE, COURTESY and COMMON SENSE in the operation of their vehicles. The Committee appreciates the whole-hearted support its efforts have received from every source. We have had the best of co-operation from the Advisory Committee, which is composed of some of the leading citizens of the Province, from the press, from motorists and from pedestrians and, as a result, driving conditions have improved. Let us continue to be traffic conscious and at all times CAREFUL and COURTEOUS when driving.

Severe penalties are provided in our motor vehicle laws for those who are careless or inconsiderate of the rights of other users of the highway.

The Financial Responsibility Law which became effective on September 1st provides that the driver's license and all motor vehicle permits of a person convicted of any one of the following offences shall be suspended until proof of financial responsibility in the form of a certificate of an insurance company, a bond or securities is filed with the Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

READ CAREFULLY

Driving without holding a chauffeur's or operator's license.

Reckless or negligent driving or exceeding the allowable speed limits if any injury to persons or property occurs.

Driving, or being in charge of a motor vehicle, while intoxicated, or any other criminal offence involving the use of a motor vehicle.

Evading responsibility following an accident.

Operating a motor vehicle in a race or on a bet or wager.

Chauffeurs, operators and owners of motor vehicles are warned that the provisions of this law must be applied in every case.

ACCIDENT REPORTING

The law now requires every person directly or indirectly involved in a motor vehicle accident, if the accident results in any personal injuries or property damage apparently exceeding fifty dollars, to report such accident to the nearest police officer. A penalty is provided for failure to so report.

Remember your Personal Responsibility whenever driving a motor vehicle or you may be required to prove your Financial Responsibility.

The Streetsville Undertakers are driving a nice new hearse.

Clarence Stewart and family have returned from their visit to the Catarract.

Geo. Klick and family, who spent their holiday at Kitchener, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Petty of MacTier spent the holiday with Mrs. H. W. Cook.

Mrs. Falconer, Sr., who has been confined to her bed, is able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert of London spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bunt.

Do not forget to get in touch with Mr. McArthur or Mr. Langmaid to arrange a hockey match.

Rev. Robert Spencer of Clarkson paid a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Len Pope, a few days ago.

Harvey Andrew and several other students of Toronto University have returned to resume their studies.

Mr. John Ford of Trafalgar attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Albert Steen who was buried last Friday.

Will Lines gave a well thought out address before the members of the Y.P.A. of the United Church on Monday evening. The speaker stressed the need not only of making resolutions but to endeavour to carry them out.

The officers of the United Church Woman's Missionary Society were installed by the minister. There was a large attendance and the ceremony was very impressive.

The Builder's Supply Co., are making extensive improvements to the front of their store. With plate glass windows, and other additions the appearance adds greatly to the building. We are glad to see the willingness of our citizens to improve their property as much as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pallett, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pallett, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bonham are away on a month's trip to Boston, Bermuda and Cuba.

Congratulations to Mr. George McClintock, one of our respected citizens, who celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday on Jan. 3rd.

Mrs. Charles Hollingshead was taken to St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto this week. She has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Williamson, in Toronto, recently.

On Friday night Preparatory Service will be held in the United Church and on Sunday morning the Quarterly Communion will take place.

On Wednesday night the annual meeting of the United Church Sunday School was held, encouraging reports were presented, election of officers took place.

A Toronto specialist paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis, Queen Street South, this week, and examined their little boy, who is very ill. He recovered from an attack of pneumonia, but is now suffering with rheumatic fever.

PORT CREDIT

While returning from a wedding with his wife and year-old daughter, Alex. Lillico of Port Credit was struck by a car driven by P. Cane of Lakeview and sustained a broken leg, a broken arm and a possible fracture of the skull. He was attended by Dr. E. T. Vernon of Clarkson, and later removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, in a serious condition.

At the time of the accident he was carrying the child in his arms, but the latter escaped with minor cuts although hurled for a distance of 25 yards. Cane was taken into custody by Chief Telfer Wilson, and later released on bail of $500.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

STREETSVILLE

The results of the voting on Monday was as follows:

For Reeve

H. W. Hope, 152; J. Dandie, 93; O. R. Church 70.

For Councillors

J. E. Bailey, 225; J. W. Drennan, 214; C. R. Evans, 163; W. A. Hardy, 236; V. C. Johnston, 187.

The cause of the defeat of the old Reeve was the split vote in a three-cornered contest.

It was the heaviest vote ever polled in Streetsville, a total of 324.

Councillor Bailey was the only member of last year's council which survived the storm.

W. A. Hardy headed the poll for Councillor with 236 votes to his credit, and he says he never canvassed a single elector.

The Daylight Saving By-Law carried by 165-141, but the ratepayers will have to save more than daylight if they are to be in a position to meet their taxes next fall.

The electors were good to Jimmie Bailey and returned him with an increased vote while he was confined to the house with a severe cold.

Ex-Councillor Dandie says, "I don't care about getting defeated, but I got more votes than Church did anyway."

Jack Drennan, the junior candidate ran well for so young a man and piled up 214 votes.

Vic Johnston made the grade very nicely. He says he is going to have some of the by-laws amended and others repealed.

The old Reeve may be defeated, but not down-hearted, and expects to be in the race again next year, after taking a good rest.

It was cruel how fierce that snowstorm became while the ballots were being counted at the polling booth and some candidates were beginning to take chills. It is quite true some did get "snowed under." Charlie Evans says, "Just wait till next January and I'll show them."

Already there is talk of disqualifying some of the council-elect. We would advise against such action, as it only causes trouble and expense and interferes with the smooth-running affair of the village. Now that the council is elected for the year, why not get behind them and lend assistance. There never was anything gained by knocking.

The Reeve-elect invited some friends to his home in the evening, where a very pleasant time was spent in games and social intercourse. Some of the successful candidates, and some not so successful, were among the party. Harry is a good sport

Watch the old town grow in 1931, with so much new blood in the council.

WHAT THE POETS THINK OF DEATH

Death has been the subject of some of the noblest poems ever penned. How different, too, are the attitudes our great poets take in regard to it. Each has his own peculiar conception yet all have the same hope and trust in God and the hereafetr.

Death as Longfellow puts it:
"To the cessation of our breath
Silent and motionless we lie,
And no one knoweth more than this"
and he further defines it as:
The chillness that proceeds the dawn,
We shudder for a moment, then awake
In the broad sunshine of another life.

The same idea permeates a stranza by Joaquin Miller:
Death is delightful, death is dawn;
The waking from a weary night
Of fevers into truth and light.

As Pope put it:
Sleep and death, two twins of winged race,
Of matchless swiftness but of silent pace.

All poets, in common with most thinking people, regard death less as an end to all human existance than as a mere doorway between the two parts of eternity.

As Longfellow says:
The grave itself is but a covered bridge,
Leading from light to light through a brief darkness.

Everyone is familiar with that beautiful stanza of his "Resignation" which boldy states:
There is no death, what seems so is transition,
This life of mortal breath,
Is but a suburb of the life elysion,
Whose portal we call death.

The same feeling is carried out by Bulwer in an equally lovely way:
There is no death, an angel form,
Walks over the earth with silent form,
He bears our best loved things away
And then—we call them dead;
But ever near us though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread,
For all the boundless universe is life,
There are no dead.

Each person's thought of death is in natural accord with his personal temperment. Tennyson and Browning are often constructed. The former, a lover of peace, the latter, ever a fighter. In nothing does the contrast show more strongly than in their poems, "Crossing the Bar," and "Prospice."

May there be no sadness of farewell when I embark. As opposed to this take an extract from "Prospice." When the snow begins, and the blast denotes
I am nearing the place,
The power of the might, the press of the storm,
The frost of the foe,
I was ever a fighter, so one fight more,
The beat and the last;
I would hate that death had bandaged my eyes,
And for bore, and bade me creep past.

THE PENALTY

To-day I saw a man
With sunken eyes;
His shriveled body
Disarmed disguise.

The bloodless face
And hopeless look,
Men swiftly saw,
But none mistook.

Mind, body, spirit,
Bartered, sold;
His pockets bulged
With burnished gold!

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Stewart

Sarah Ann Stewart, widow of John Stewart, passed away on Dec. 18th, 1930 at her home, 47 Harbord St., Toronto. She was born near Streetsville and had resided in Toronto almost forty years. She is survived by two sons, James H. and Frederick L. Stewart; three daughters, Mrs. Geo. Lambert, Mrs. Conway James, Miss Hilda at home and six grandchildren, also her mother, Mrs. Jas. Bonham, three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Pallett and Mrs. Leonard Pallett of Dixie, Miss Alice Bonham, Montreal; three brothers, Wm. G. and Albert R., Toronto and Chas. R. Bonham of Islington. Interment took place in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor

The death of Mrs. Taylor was totally unexpected and came as a great shock to the whole community as well as to her family and friends. She was born near the neighbourhood of the Erindale school, the family afterwards moved to the 9th line Trafalgar where she spent her girlhood days. She was a true wife and daughter, an affectionate mother and beloved by all who knew her. Her kindness to this day is spoken of as showing great kindness to timid chidlren, who started first to school. She was an earnest worker and member of St. Peter's Anglican church and member of the Chancel Guild, the Women's Auxiliary and the Women's Institute. It truthfully can be said of her that she grew old gracefully. For what is so beautiful as a woman white haired, but bright eyed, tender and true, who has fought the battle of life without bitterness and has never forgotten to be tender? Large numbers of friends and acquaintances attended the services which were held at the home and at the church on the hill St. Peter's Anglican Church, where public services were held with the Rev. H. V. Thomson officiating. The church was filled to capacity with sorrowing friends, a full choir being in attendance. The choir gave two hymns, "There were Ninety and Nine" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Mr. Merchant of Galt sang a solo. Great masses of flowers about the casket and rooms gave evidence of the love and esteem in which Mrs. Taylor was held in the community. The pall bearers were Dugald McGregor, Wesley Miller, Mac Wilson, Fred Turner John Thompson and Reg. Little. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Morris, Erindale and Mrs. Merchant, Galt; also by two brothers, John, Brampton; George, Streetsville, and one sister, Mrs. Ritchie Trafalgar.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Post, of Snider's Corners, Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Post, eighth line, entertained at a family dinner on Christmas day in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Post's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Post, of Snider's Corners. The table decorations were in gold and white, emblematic of the occasion, the wreaths and beautifully decorated Christmas tree giving the necessary festive appearance of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Post were married in the farm residence which was the home of the late Austin Conover, on the Dundas highway and now owned by Burtland Conover. Rev. Michael Fawcett performed the ceremony, and Russell Conover, still a resident of the district was groomsman. The bridesmaid, Miss Sara Robinson, has passed away.

Mrs. Post's maiden name was Miss Milisa Conover, daughter of Arthur Conover, an early settler on Dundas highway.

After marriage they settled at Snider's Corners, but Postville was their nearest post office and store. They got mail two or three times a week going for it on horseback.

THE WISE MAN

He did not ask for riches,
To play a pompus part;
But humbly prayed to have
An understanding heart.

God heard his meek petition
And gave him wisdom rare;
All other things He added
In which to richly share.

—Grenville Kleiser.

DIED

McKILLOP—In Burnhamthorpe, on Thursday, Jan. 1st, 1931, William McKillop, in his 86th year. Interment in Churchville Cemetery.

CORNWALL—At his home, Oakville, on New Year's Day, George A. Cornwall, aged 67 years, dearly beloved husband of Ada Megaffin, and father of Leonard H. Cornwall and Mrs. C. V. Hillmer, of Oakville, and Mrs. George H. Howse, of Port Nelson.

Information for the Busy Farmer

Experiments at O.A.C.

Some extensive experiments are under way with dairy cows at O.A.C. A new system of feeding is being tried out which has as its main idea the feeding of dairy cows on a ration which does not include succulence. This system was originated in England and is reported to have given excellent results. The outcome of the present experiments will not be known until the groups of cows shall have calved, but interesting progress has been made so far.

Fertilizing Tomatoes

Tomatoes have become a very important and stable article of dite. It is with reference to vitamin content that tomatoes are especially valuable since they constitute a source of Vitamin C which has great influence on growth and health. Five field tests were conducted last summer by the Department of Chemistry, O.A.C., in the vicinity of St. Catharines, Bloomfield, Port Hope and Collingwood. These showed an average yield of 174.2 bushels per acre where 750 pounds of fertilizer was applied. The unfertilized section averaged 54.9 bushels per acre, giving a gross gain from fertillzing of 119.3 bushels. The net return was $45 per acre, which was found to be a return better than three for one on the investment. Fertilizers used were 2—12—6, 0—14—6, 3—10—5, and 4—8—10.

A Forty-Acre Farmer

To the question whether he was able to make a living in this time of depression a Western Ontario man operating a 40-acre farm, said: "I am making a little more than a living; I am at a job that I like; I am my own boss, and I have no fear of unemployment. Neither I nor my family try to keep up with the Joneses though we live well, the farm supplying a large part of what we need on the table. We have a small car that we use sensibly. Where could I get a business for the same investment that would return me as much?"

From this declaration it is evident that there are 50-acre farms which are doing their share in contributing to the wealth of the country and giving the owner a fair living. The man referred to above was willing to let his neighbours expend their energies on the big farms and the big herds. His plan was to concentrate on a few good animals which gave good returns and this year he experienced no trouble in meeting his tax bills. He has ample reason for feeling satisfied.

The granulation of honey has been engaging the attention of the Department, and Prof. E. M. Dyce has been carrying on experimental work both at the O. A. C. and at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. It is hoped in this way to be able to advise honey producers on the best methods of handling their crop so that their product reaches the consumer in the most attractive form possible.

Keep Mangers Clean

An inspection of the mangers of stables when cows are not doing well might go a long way toward finding out the cause of trouble. Sanitation in managers and the drinking supply is in many cases very poor. When cows don't drink as much water as they should, or leave a certain amount of meal in the bottom of the mangers, the trouble may generally be laid to the door of poor sanitation. An inspection of mangers and drinking cups would probably show that the cups had become fouled with chaff and spoiled silage and when left for even a day the water is filthy. It is reasonable that cows will not drink freely of this water. Anywhere from a quarter of an inch of hard accumulated filth can sometimes be scraped out of the manger. It has a stench which makes the animal quit eating long before it has had enough. Drinking bowls and mangers should be kept clean if the cattle are to flourish.

Weekly Crop Report

Agricultural representatives thruout Ontario reporting for Christmas week state that beef cattle are in good condition with few being marketed. Very little hay or grain is being marketed either, farmers apparently holding for higher prices. All dressed poultry, including geese, turkeys and chickens were well cleaned up in the Christmas rush. There is yet a scarcity of water in many sections.

In Essex County tiling machines are very active, especially on Pelee Island, here 375,000 tile were shipped last summer. Creamery men in Frontenac are well satisfied with the quantities of cream coming in and are paying 31c per pound for butterfat for special and 30c for first. The egg output in Lincoln now exceeds the demand with prices somewhat lower. Dairy cattle in Prince Edward are lower than for many years with good grade cows bringing from $60 to $75. Several cars of hay were sold in Rainy River for $12 to $13. Turkeys and spring chickens have been bringing about equal prices of 35c a pound in Temiskaming.

S.H.S. LITERARY NOTES

Well, folks, here we are again. Christmas is gone for another year. Everyone is back to school again and starting the New Year right. This is the most important term of the year and the students are starting in with great energy.

The boys of the High School are getting up a hockey team under the management of Melville Steggal. They expect to win many games this winter.

Those who come in from the country are going to begin hot lunch on Monday. We don't know what we'll have to drink yet. We hope it will be something that will warm us up.

Well, good-bye for this week. We wish everyone good luck and prosperity in this budding year.

HELEN TURNER, Reporter.

COOKSVILLE

Two accidents within a few minutes of each other Saturday night saw the occupants of two cars and the driver of a motorcycle being rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto. The accidents occurred on the Dundas highway at the sharp bend near Summerville.

George Groves of Crofton Villa, riding a motorcycle, travelling east on the highway, collided with a car driven by A. G. Clark, Normanna avenue, Toronto, and sustained severe fractures of the leg in three places, along with injuries to the arm and nose. Groves was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital along with occupants of Clark's car.

The second accident occurred when a car driven by Charles A. Shropshire of Newmarket skidded into the ditch at the same point, rolling over and then regaining the pavement. Shropshire received a severe shaking up. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Traffic Officer J. I. Mitchell, who investigated both accidents.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Lush, Clarkson, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Margaret, to Gerald William Henderson, Toronto, son of Mr. Edward Henderson and the late Mrs. Henderson of Caven, Ireland. The marriage will take place Jan. 24.

Gets New Post

Forty years of railroad experience have singularly fitted George Hodge, assistant general manager Eastern Lines, for the post of manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new Department of Personnel. He is one of the best known and most popular railway executives on the American continent, has been the company's spokesman in labor matters on a number of important occasions, and won unstinted praise for his able presentation of the situation at the time of the Mc-Adoo award. He is a Montrealer, and has, with the exception of a year in London, Ont. as divisional superintendent, always had his headquarters in that city.

I am nearing the place,
The power of the might, the press of the storm,
The frost of the foe,
I was ever a fighter, so one fight more,
The best and the last;
I would hate that death had bandaged my eyes,
And for bore, and bade me creep past.

THE PENALTY

To-day I saw a man
With sunken eyes;
His shriveled body
Disarmed disguise.

The bloodless face
And hopeless look,
Men swiftly saw,
But none mistook.

Mind, body, spirit,
Bartered, sold;
His pockets bulged
With burnished gold!

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Stewart

Sarah Ann Stewart, widow of John Stewart, passed away on Dec. 18th, 1930 at her home, 47 Harbord St., Toronto. She was born near Streetsville and had resided in Toronto almost forty years. She is survived by two sons, James H. and Frederick L. Stewart; three daughters, Mrs. Geo. Lambert, Mrs. Conway James, Miss Hilda at home and six grandchildren, also her mother, Mrs. Jas. Bonham, three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Pallett and Mrs. Leonard Pallett of Dixie, Miss Alice Bonham, Montreal; three brothers, Wm. G. and Albert R., Toronto and Chas. R. Bonham of Islington. Interment took place in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor

The death of Mrs. Taylor was totally unexpected and came as a great shock to the whole community as well as to her family and friends. She was born near the neighbourhood of the Erindale school, the family afterwards moved to the 9th line Trafalgar where she spent her girlhood days. She was a true wife and daughter, an affectionate mother and beloved by all who knew her. Her kindness to this day is spoken of as showing great kindness to timid chidlren, who started first to school. She was an earnest worker and member of St. Peter's Anglican church and member of the Chancel Guild, the Women's Auxiliary and the Women's Institute. It truthfully can be said of her that she grew old gracefully. For what is so beautiful as a woman white haired, but bright eyed, tender and true, who has fought the battle of life without bitterness and has never forgotten to be tender? Large numbers of friends and acquaintances attended the services which were held at the home and at the church on the hill St. Peter's Anglican Church, where public services were held with the Rev. H. V. Thomson officiating. The church was filled to capacity with sorrowing friends, a full choir being in attendance. The choir gave two hymns, "There were Ninety and Nine" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Mr. Merchant of Galt sang a solo. Great masses of flowers about the casket and rooms gave evidence of the love and esteem in which Mrs. Taylor was held in the community. The pall bearers were Dugald McGregor, Wesley Miller, Mac Wilson, Fred Turner John Thompson and Reg. Little. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Morris, Erindale and Mrs. Merchant, Galt; also by two brothers, John, Brampton; George, Streetsville, and one sister, Mrs. Ritchie Trafalgar.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Post, of Snider's Corners, Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Post, eighth line, entertained at a family dinner on Christmas day in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Post's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Post, of Snider's Corners. The table decorations were in gold and white, emblematic of the occasion, the wreaths and beautifully decorated Christmas tree giving the necessary festive appearance of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Post were married in the farm residence which was the home of the late Austin Conover, on the Dundas highway and now owned by Burtland Conover. Rev. Michael Fawcett performed the ceremony, and Russell Conover, still a resident of the district was groomsman. The bridesmaid, Miss Sara Robinson, has passed away.

Mrs. Post's maiden name was Miss Milisa Conover, daughter of Arthur Conover, an early settler on Dundas highway.

After marriage they settled at Snider's Corners, but Postville was their nearest post office and store. They got mail two or three times a week going for it on horseback.

THE WISE MAN

He did not ask for riches,
To play a pompus part;
But humbly prayed to have
An understanding heart.

God heard his meek petition
And gave him wisdom rare;
All other things He added
In which to richly share.
—Grenville Kleiser.

CORNWALL—At his home, Oakville, on New Year's Day, George A. Cornwall, aged 67 years, dearly beloved husband of Ada Megaffin, and father of Leonard H. Cornwall and Mrs. C. V. Hillmer, of Oakville, and Mrs. George H. Howse, of Port Nelson.

Information for the Busy Farmer

Experiments at O.A.C.

Some extensive experiments are under way with dairy cows at O.A.C. A new system of feeding is being tried out which has as its main idea the feeding of dairy cows on a ration which does not include succulence. This system was originated in England and is reported to have given excellent results. The outcome of the present experiments will not be known until the groups of cows shall have calved, but interesting progress has been made so far.

Fertilizing Tomatoes

Tomatoes have become a very important and stable article of dite. It is with reference to vitamin content that tomatoes are especially valuable since they constitute a source of Vitamin C which has great influence on growth and health. Five field tests were conducted last summer by the Department of Chemistry, O.A.C., in the vicinity of St. Catharines, Bloomfield, Port Hope and Collingwood. These showed an average yield of 174.2 bushels per acre where 750 pounds of fertilizer was applied. The unfertilized section averaged 54.9 bushels per acre, giving a gross gain from fertilizing of 119.3 bushels. The net return was $45 per acre, which was found to be a return better than three for one on the investment .Fertilizers used were 2—12—6, 0—14—6, 3—10—5, and 4—8—10.

A Forty-Acre Farmer

To the question whether he was able to make a living in this time of depression a Western Ontario man operating a 40-acre farm, said: "I am making a little more than a living; I am at a job that I like; I am my own boss, and I have no fear of unemployment. Neither I nor my family try to keep up with the Joneses though we live well, the farm supplying a large part of what we need on the table. We have a small car that we use sensibly. Where could I get a business for the same investment that would return me as much?"

From this declaration it is evident that there are 50-acre farms which are doing their share in contributing to the wealth of the country and giving the owner a fair living. The man referred to above was willing to let his neighbours expend their energies on the big farms and the big herds. His plan was to concentrate on a few good animals which gave good returns and this year he experienced no trouble in meeting his tax bills. He has ample reason for feeling satisfied.

The granulation of honey has been engaging the attention of the Department, and Prof. E. M. Dyce has been carrying on experimental work both at the O. A. C. and at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. It is hoped in this way to be able to advise honey producers on the best methods of handling their crop so that their product reaches the consumer in the most attractive form possible.

Keep Mangers Clean

An inspection of the mangers of stables when cows are not doing well might go a long way toward finding out the cause of trouble. Sanitation in managers and the drinking supply is in many cases very poor. When cows don't drink as much water as they should, or leave a certain amount of meal in the bottom of the mangers, the trouble may generally be laid to the door of poor sanitation. An inspection of mangers and drinking cups would probably show that the cups had become fouled with chaff and spoiled silage and when left for even a day the water is filthy . It is reasonable that cows will not drink freely of this water. Anywhere from a quarter of an inch of hard accumulated filth can sometimes be scraped out of the manger. It has a stench which makes the animal quit eating long before it has had enough. Drinking bowls and mangers should be kept clean if the cattle are to flourish.

Weekly Crop Report

Agricultural representatives thruout Ontario reporting for Christmas week state that beef cattle are in good condition with few being marketed. Very little hay or grain is being marketed either, farmers apparently holding for higher prices. All dressed poultry, including geese, turkeys and chickens were well cleaned up in the Christmas rush. There is yet a scarcity of water in many sections .

In Essex County tiling machines are very active, especially on Pelee Island, here 375,000 tile were shipped last summer. Creamery men in Frontenac are well satisfied with the quantities of cream coming in and are paying 31c per pound for butterfat for special and 30c for first. The egg output in Lincoln now exceeds the demand with prices somewhat lower. Dairy cattle in Prince Edward are lower than for many years with good grade cows bringing from $60 to $75. Several cars of hay were sold in Rainy River for $12 to $13. Turkeys and spring chickens have been bringing about equal prices of 35c a pound in Temiskaming.

S.H.S. LITERARY NOTES

Well, folks, here we are again. Christmas is gone for another year. Everyone is back to school again and starting the New Year right. This is the most important term of the year and the students are starting in with great energy.

The boys of the High School are getting up a hockey team under the management of Melville Steggal. They expect to win many games this winter.

Those who come in from the country are going to begin hot lunch on Monday. We don't know what we'll have to drink yet. We hope it will be something that will warm us up.

Well, good-bye for this week. We wish everyone good luck and prosperity in this budding year.

HELEN TURNER, Reporter.

COOKSVILLE

Two accidents within a few minutes of each other Saturday night saw the occupants of two cars and the driver of a motorcycle being rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto. The accidents occurred on the Dundas highway at the sharp bend near Summerville.

George Groves of Crofton Villa, riding a motorcycle, travelling east on the highway, collided with a car driven by A. G. Clark, Normanna avenue, Toronto, and sustained severe fractures of the leg in three places, along with injuries to the arm and nose. Groves was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital along with occupants of Clark's car.

The second accident occurred when a car driven by Charles A. Shropshire of Newmarket skidded into the ditch at the same point, rolling over and then regaining the pavement. Shropshire received a severe shaking up. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Traffic Officer J. I. Mitchell, who investigated both accidents.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Lush, Clarkson, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Margaret, to Gerald William Henderson, Toronto, son of Mr. Edward Henderson and the late Mrs. Henderson of Caven, Ireland. The marriage will take place Jan. 24.

Gets New Post

Forty years of railroad experience have singularly fitted George Hodge, assistant general manager Eastern Lines, for the post of manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new Department of Personnel. He is one of the best known and most popular railway executives on the American continent, has been the company's spokesman in labor matters on a number of important occasions, and won unstinted praise for his able presentation of the situation at the time of the Mo-Adoo award. He is a Montrealer, and has, with the exception of a year in London, Ont. as divisional superintendent, always had his headquarters in that city.

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate and Martin are the only working members of Widow O'Hara's family. Martin is studying medicine at night. Christopher Steynes, a friend of Mary's boss, Gordon Rountree, makes Mary a proposition that she act as his wife for twenty-four hours in order to discourage a Russian countess and her daughter. Mary agrees, hoping with the cheque she will receive from Steynes to be able to let Martin go to Germany to study. She tells her folks she is going on a business trip. Steynes meets her at the Burlingame station and takes her to his home. The countess is discouraged. That night she sleeps at Steynes's house; a burglar breaks in and Steynes shoots him. The police take Mary's name and address.

"Now, listen, it's only four o'clock," Chris was presently saying briskly. "You've got to get some sleep—they won't be 'round here until ten or so in the morning—"

"Mr. Steynes what can they do?"

"What can who do?"

"The police?"

"Why my child, you're not worrying about the police?"

Her eyes, tear-marked already, filled with fresh tears. She could not speak. She nodded her head.

"Why, listen," he said. "All they want is to clear up the case for their records."

Mary Kate put her hand over her eyes.

"They're not going to mug you for the criminals' gallery!" Chris assured her, amused and kindly. "It's a clear case of house-breaking, and the fellow was armed— Browning, the constable, 'member?—Browning said he could get twenty years. Well, he won't, he'll get about five, if he lives."

"Did he fire?"

"No, he didn't have his gun out, even."

"And he was hit——?"

"I shot him through the lung. He'll never get out of the hospital, probably. And all they want to do is clear it up, be sure he wasn't in conspiracy with Peters, or what not——"

He saw she was not listening. Her anxious eyes were fixed on space. The hopeless, tragic apathy of her manner did not change.

"Will the papers have it, Chris?"

"Sure they will. But that doesn't have to worry you."

Her umber eyes moved to him trustingly; she did not speak again for a long time.

But she knew now what might have changed the whole course of her life had she known it a dozen hours before. She knew that she must depend only on herself, in this crisis, that she could find no help from Chris, or from anyone else. He might be sympathetic, he might want to be helpful. But his standards were not her standards, nor his code her code.

There was one code, indeed, for a rich young man and another for a penniless girl. Perhaps he had not betrayed his code, in this adventure, but how she had demolished her own!

"I suppose I'm thinking of Mother," she said simply, after a while.

Chris regarded her for a few seconds, uneasily.

"You can explain it. She'll believe you," he said then, without much assurance.

"Oh maybe!" Mary Kate said wearily, with a shrug. Her lip trembled, and her eyes filled again.

"Drink your coffee!"

"I am."

"It's just one of those damn' things——" Chris mused, unhappily. "It's too bad. I'm awfully sorry!"

Yes, she reflected bitterly, he might be awfully sorry, and it was becoming and generous in him to be so. But that didn't involve him in anything shameful, that didn't mean that he could take any share of her punishment.

"I don't think there's any question that we can keep your name out of the papers," Chris said, pondering. "Gordy surely can do that."

Gordon Rountree. She had forgotten her nervously laughing, old employer, the man of whom she had sometimes thought as a spoiled baby, unwilling to take responsibility, anxious only to escape from every situation with his own skin safe. Well, it was he who had gotten her into this, and he was once more to be let off scot free.

But no, she had to interrupt herself honestly. Nobody ever got a girl of twenty into trouble except the girl herself. And here she was, "in trouble," just as surely in trouble as any poor little loving fool who ever found herself robbed of a reputation overnight.

Hundreds of girls got away with breaches of the moral law that bind a woman so tightly and exist not at all for men. But she, Mary Kate O'Hara, who had always held her head so high, who had always been above suspicion, much less reproach—she before whom the other girls in the office wouldn't even tell a shady story, or use a coarse word—she was going to be known, from now on, as the girl who was down in a country house with a young wealthy bachelor from New York on the night a burglar was shot.

"You look all in," Chris said, watching her.

"I'm merely——" She gave a forlorn little laugh. "I'm merely wishing I was the one who was shot!" she said.

"Ah, no, no; you'll see it all differently in the morning!" he promised her.

But she did not brighten, she did not smile. Putting aside the half-emptied cup, she slipped down into her chair again. Her slim wrists, emerging from the generous sleeves of the dressing-gown, looked thin and childish; her slim, childish fingers were tightly locked. She stared dully into the dead fire.

"What'll they do in the morning?"

"Oh, they'll poke around for fingerprints and ask questions. They ought all to be out of here in an hour, and after that we have nothing to do but wait until it's time, in the afternoon, to run you home. We don't want to rouse your mother's suspicions by having you get home too early. We'll call off the luncheon—maybe we could go over to the club, for lunch, but there's apt to be a mob of people there, Saturdays, and it'd be one long razz about the burglar!"

"I simply—can't—face my mother!" Mary Kate whispered.

"I'd tell her the whole thing straight out. She'll know you're not lying."

"I lied to her—when was it? Was it only yesterday," the girl mused, her eyes brimming again.

"What I thought," Chris began, putting down his own cup, "was that since there are several hours of night left I'd ask Mrs. Peters to sleep in the other bed, in your room. And my advice to you is to turn in and read a book or something until you get sleepy and forget it!"

Her eyes went about the sitting room. Would she never, in all her life, escape from these distempered walls, this Spanish furniture with the rich brocade upholstery, this rising twisted stairway with its rail of heavy red cord? She was so sick of it—so deathly sick of it.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The thought of her mother and the home kitchen, with little Pat at the table looking up from a bitten slice of bread on which brown sugar glistened, were like the dream of a mirage. Oh, the coolness, the utter refreshment of home, and her limp blue kitchen apron, and the dish towels that hung, all winter long, above the stove, and that one fingered tentatively when a dish towel was needed, to determine their exact degree of dryness!

Her eyes were sick for the familiar sights; the crowded shelf above the sink, the windows with the dingy backyard beyond them, where the handsome fire escapes and kitchen windows of the big new apartment houses on Geary street formed a backdrop filled with unending fascinations and surprises.

And here she sat, in her night robe and a man's wrapper, at four o'clock in the morning, looking at loathsome Spanish walls, and Spanish furniture, and Spanish saints, and a ridiculous medieval staircase winding up from the room itself with a red coral balustrade.

When Mrs. Peters appeared with a great armful of blankets and sheets, Mary Kate arose, to help her make a comfortable bed on the couch; it appeared that Peters was to finish the night in the house. After the lights began to go out, and Chris went upstairs, and the two women went into that pretty spare room that Mary Kate had discovered with such thrilled enthusiasm, less than twelve hours ago.

It had been put into order now, and both beds were turned down, but there was a strangeness and chilliness about it, in the dead hour before dawn, that struck to Mary Kate's heart like an icicle. She lay down in the dressing-gown, and pulled the covers over her, opening a book. But for a long time the words danced meaningless on the page; she could not read.

Mrs. Peters, observing sapiently that it wasn't likely that anything more would happen tonight but that it surely did get on your nerves to have such goings-on in a place, climbed comfortably into her own bed and was instantly snoring heavily.

Mary Kate resented her, her snoring, her nervelessness, and above all, her quiet refusal to be drawn into her—Mary Kate's affairs.

The girl had thought she would explain to Mrs. Peters as lightly and briefly as possible, her reason for being in Mr. Steynes's house under these curious circumstances.

But Helga Peters was not interested. They could do anything they wanted to do as long as she was paid her good eighty dollars a month. Mary Kate could be a lily of purity, or she could be Tony Moody's confederate in the housebreaking job; it was nothing to Helga. She would turn the girl's bed down, just the same, and throw damp towels in the basket, wipe out the tub, put books back on the shelves.

It did not signify what this great dull animal of a woman thought, Mary Kate reflected, closing her book, snapping off her light, resolutely shutting her eyes.

But she had said that of a good many persons today, and it was not true—she had known it was not true, even while she had said it. Of course it signified what persons thought about a girl. She might not admire Gordon Rountree or Don Archibald, or Chris Steynes, or Helga Peters, or Constable Browning, but their respect—their good opinion—was important.

If you were a girl in your teens, you'd adore this snappy model with such a grown-up air.

It's so straight and slim with gracefully swinging hem.

Bone buttons from neck to hem add further distinction to this scarlet red wool jersey coat frock. The white pique collar and cuffs show stiching in red.

It's decidedly practical and up-to-the-minute.

Style No. 2849 is designed for the miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Covert cloth is smart in dark brown with tan pique. Or maybe you'd prefer a monotone tweed in green diagonal mixture. The side bodice sections, both front and back, could be cut crosswise, creating a very smart effect.

Size 8 requires 2¼ yards 39-inch with ½ yard 35-inch contrasting.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

High up on that thin rope called Time,
Hung taut across eternity,
No walker of us can tell
When his own turn to slip will be.

One foot before the other—so,
With arms wide out for balancing—
Who does not love the muscle-pull,
Or would quite miss the final fling?

Fashion Tit-Bits

So unique are the weaves in the cotton fabrics that they could easily pass for wool. These "tweedy" cottons have many advantages—besides being extremely light in weight, they are non-crushable and will launder.

"Sandy Beach," a soft neutral shade bordering on the light tans, promises to be a most popular color for all type of clothes, including accessories. The becomingness of this shade will add much to its popularity.

Moods

Many of our physical ailments are the direct result of bad mental moods. What is needed to cure these ailments is not a dose of medicine, but a dose of mirth.—John R. Gunn.

"How are your New Year's resolutions?"

"In fine shape."

"None broken?"

"Guess not. How could they be? I haven't used them yet."

Mother: "How did you hurt your hand? Been fighting?" Ronny: "Yes. Those were awfully sharp teeth Tommy Brown used to have."

Economy Corner

Ginger Marshmallow Sauce.

One tablespoon gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water, ½ cup sifted powdered sugar, whites of 2 eggs, 1½ cups light cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, salt, 1 teaspoon ginger. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Then dissolve by placing dish over boiling water for a few minutes. Mix with cream and beat hard. Then add by beating, the sugar stiffly beaten egg whites, salt and vanilla. This sauce will be about like whipped cream. Cut cake in squares and serve with the sauce, either hot or cold.

Spanish Panocha.

Four cups of brown sugar, 1 cup sweet cream, lump butter size of an egg Boil, stirring constantly until it forms soft balls in cold water. Remove from the fire and add one chopped walnut and teaspoon of flavoring. Stir until it becomes creamy and pour into pans. Cut in squares. Chopped candied fruits, orange peel, dates, figs and prunes, also pecans, may be added.

Black Chocolate Cake.

Cut 4 squares chocolate fine in mixing bowl. Set in oven or in hot water till melted. Add 1 cup sugar creamed with butter size of egg. Stir in ½ cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon soda; beat smooth Then stir in 1½ cups cake flour sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder and pinch salt. Mix well and last add ½ cup boiling water. Bake in square pan in moderate oven.

Steamed Date Pudding.

Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt. Then add ½ cup sugar, 1 cup dates, stoned and cut up fine; grated rind of one lemon, 4 tablespoons cooking oil and 2-3 cup milk.

Mix well, pour into a greased mold, cover and steam two hours. Serve with hard sauce.

Keene Valley Cake.

Onehalf cup butter, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup hot water, 2 eggs, 1 cup maple or brown sugar, 3 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons soda Mix egg yolks and sugar and beat well. Sift remaining dry ingredients and gradually add to first mixture, then add beaten yolks and sugar. Lastly, fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs. If you use brown sugar add ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Pour into buttered shallow pan and bake 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit). This makes a large cake.

Taffy Tartlets.

One egg, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon water, 1 tablespoon shortening, pinch salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat egg with sugar until thoroughly mixed but not too fluffy. Add water, melted shortening, salt and vanilla, mix well. Pour into small tart pans lined with pastry dough. Bake in a moderate oven until the edges of the crust are delicately browned. (350 degrees).

Orange and Pineapple Shortcake.

Two cups flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 can shredded pineapple, 4 oranges. Cut the oranges in small pieces, mix with the pineapple and let stand an hour. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in the butter with a knife, then add milk. Bake in layer cake tins Put half the fruit between the layers and the rest on top.

Spice Cake.

Two eggs, 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sour milk, all kinds of spice, 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix in order given. A cup of raisins may be added the last thing if one wishes. For spice I used a little each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg.

Rice Pudding.

Two cups cold boiled rice, 3 cups hot milk, ¾ cup molasses, ¼ cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Mix together rice and hot milk. Add molasses, raisins, nutmeg and salt. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake in medium oven about one hour.

Ash-Trays from the Victory

London—Some novel Christmas presents, of considerable association value, were made possible by the decision to make ash-trays from a quantity of copper from H.M.S. Victory, and sell them at half-a-crown each in aid of the Victory Restoration Fund.

Several thousands of these ash-trays were bought and the Fund has benefited to an appreciable extent, while the Victory ash-trays will, of course, be very highly prized by those fortunate enough to have secured them.

Naval relics may be of various kinds, but it is not always that the general public is given a chance of acquiring them. Sometimes they are offered for sale, but only to officers' messes and to officers and ex-officers.—Answers.

Scientist Explodes Rule About Oysters in Months With R

Another bit of folk-lore, the idea that oysters can be eaten safely only during the months with the letter R in their names, has been exploded by a sceptical scientist who took the trouble to test it. At the recent Congress of Public Health in Paris, a French physician, Dr. J. Herbier, reported experiments which he since has repeated and extended, indicating that oysters apparently can be eaten in the R-less months quite as safely as in others. In many seacoast towns, Dr. Herbier had observed, local residents defy the tradition and eat oysters whenever they can get them. Experimenting on himself and on friends and patients, he found no harmful effects from oysters in the forbidden months. It occurred to him, however, that there might be statistical evidence against oysters in these months; for example, evidence that typhoid fever or other diseases which conceivably may carry are commoner in the forbidden months than in others. Statistical studies have shown however, that there is no ground for this idea. Therefore there is no reason at all, Dr. Herbier concludes, why people should not eat oysters whenever they desire. Perhaps the common prejudice against the R-less months arose when there were no refrigerators and when food could not be preserved in hot weather. The R-less months happen to be also warm ones and the familiar rule may have been intended in the beginning merely as a caution against eating oysters in hot weather, when they are likely to have spoiled.

Safe Transportation One Step Nearer

Continuous Light Signal Tells The Engineer About Track Conditions Ahead of Him

Another step in the direction of safe transportation is seen in the development of what is termed a "continuous light signal" now installed in the engine cabs of about 2,000 locomotives and along more than 2,300 miles of track of the Pennsylvania Railroad system.

The new device adds to and greatly extends the effectiveness of the wayside automatic block signal system, which has been in general use for many years. Its outstanding feature is that it reproduces inside the engine cab the shining lights of the signals ahead, placing before both the engineman and the fireman a clear picture of conditions along the track. Two miniature sets of signal dials shine directly in front of each man, on their respective sides of the cab. These lights shine day and night throughout the run, and are instantly and continuously responsive to every change in the signals ahead.

The cab signal is also auditory. If the block signal indicates anything else than an entirely clear track, this fact is called to the attention of the engineman both by the lights and by a loud warning whistle which is part of the mechanism.

The strident sound continues until the engineman "acknowledges" by manually operating a switch which silences the whistle. The act of acknowledging bears witness that the engineman has observed the signal indication, is informed of track conditions ahead and is in control of his train.

Should the whistle continue to sound, it would warn the fireman and enable him to take charge of the train in the event of any disability on the part of the man at the throttle. Each man can check the other by the use of his own dial.

The cab signals installed in panels in each side of the engine cab, are electrically operated. The lights are set by the preceding train, the signals being transmitted from the rails. Any obstruction on the tracks or interference with the block signal system automatically sets the stop signal in the cab—three lights across the centre. When the lights are at an angle they convey a message to the driver to proceed with caution, while three perpendicular lights indicate a clear track.

The company's experience is said to have shown that the probability of obtaining a false "clear" signal through this system is "so remote as to be virtually an impossibility."

The Little Town

It is said God must have loved the common people for He made so many of them. Likewise He must love that little town for He made so many of them and its popularity grows since the automobile makes it more and more possible to enjoy rural life no matter what the occupation.

Is is any wonder that many people prefer the little town to the congested city with its crowded streets filled with strangers, its hurry and the deafening noise of traffic. It feels good to return to the quiet and clean fresh air of the little town where everyone knows everyone else. It is true Mrs. Grundy sometimes allows her tongue to be a little sharp at times, but people are mostly kind and considerate. Even Mrs. Grundy, during a crisis, turns in with a willing desire to help if occasion demands it.

The nearby meadow and woodland are quickly reached if desired where the plump little gray squirrel with his saucy erect plume, balances himself high on a topmost branch, gently swaying with the breeze and busily eating a nut precariously nipped off from the very end of a twig. Oh, little gray squirrel, you too have your troubles, but who would guess it, seeing you gaily swinging there. The gentle roll of the far off hill slowly comes to view, as the warm sun's rays quietly dispel the mist, saturated with the atmosphere o fthe fresh country air. How good it makes one feel to breath it in and rest the eye on the hill's curtain of green.

But if we have a preference for the little town and enjoy the privileges which it offers, it is also up to us to support it in every possible way. Altogether we are the merchant, farmer, doctor, lawyer, editor, clerk, housewife, etc. We are one of these, each earning his or her livelihood.

Then to create community happiness our support is needed at every turn to keep the wheels going smoothly. Sometimes, thoughtlessly perhaps, it is felt a few cents can be saved by going to the city, which, by the way, is more than eaten up in gasoline to carry us there. It is even found to frequently happen that things can be bought cheaper at home than in the city. At any rate, what does the small saving amount to anyway when we consider that to exist the small town needs our support wherever it is possible to give it. The old proverb "Do as you would be done by," still holds good and is as true as in olden days. On starting out in the New Year of 1931 remember your town. Be loyal.

Twilight Hour Story

Chapter 6

What Mamma Hen Did About the Cold Wind

The next morning Mamma Hen thought perhaps it would be warmer outside after the nice warm bright sun would come up, for she wanted to give her babies some fresh air and take them out of the barn. So as soon as they were wakened up and each little baby stretched itself and fluttered its tiny wings they all started ou to be near the big barn door. They were scratching around in the straw finding little tiny stones to eat. For mind you chickens like stones to eat with the rest of their breakfast. Their little stomachs are different from ours because they eat them to keep their little stomachs from aching. But if we ate these little stones we would have a stomach ache, wouldn't we? Just then the door opened and the farmer man's boy, Billy, came and opened the door to get George, the horse. This time he saw the chickies. Last time he came in, don't you remember? they hurried and hid under Mamma Hen before he saw them. But this time they were not so much afraid. When Billy saw them he laughed like everything because they were so cute; not loud though, for he didn't want to frighten them. It's always best not to make much noise when little shy birds or animals are around, isn't it? For they are just as afraid of you if you make a big noise as you would be afraid of a big horse if all at once it would jump around and stand on its hind legs. But Billy knew how to act with these little babies, for early in the summer they had a lot of them running around with their Mamma Hens.

He said: "Well, Mamma Hen, you were a foolish chicken to hatch out four poor little chicks so near winter time. How are you going to raise them, I'd like to know, for it is cold outside even now? I guess you are not a very good Mamma to have little chicks this time of year. Why, all the other chickens were little long ago."

Mamma Hen began to think she was foolish too, and wished she had spoken to the older Mamma Hens instead of running off by herself. Now, because she acted like that, she didn't know what to do with her babies. Yes, I'm just sure these little chickens really didn't have a very good Mamma.

Sunday School Lesson

January 11. Lesson II.—The Childhood of Jesus—Luke 2: 40-52. Golden Text—Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.—Luke 2: 52.

The early Church loved to invent and tell stories of the childhood of Jesus. Many of these have come down to us in the so-called "Apocryphal Gospels"; dreary and unedifying reading they make for the most part, and they bear their incredibility on the face of them. This story of the boy Jesus, arguing with the doctors in the Temple is the only narrative of his boyhood preserved for us in the Gospels, and there is nothing improbable about it. In the boyhood stories given in the "Apocryphal Gospels," the writers are anxious to show that his divinity manifested itself, even in his earliest years, by the amazing, and often grotesque, miracles which he is said to have accomplished. Here, however, the writer seems to wish us to understand that his divinity showed itself in his being a good son of his parents, and in his wonderful character and spiritual insight.

The occasion of this story seems to be a special visit to Jerusalem in Jesus' thirteenth year, when he would undergo a ceremony which was something like a combination of coming of age and of confirmation, or reception, into full Church membership; he became, in the phrase which the Jews still use, "a son of the Law." It was, therefore, for him a great and memorable occasion in his life.

He would partake of the Passover meal with his family. The ceremonies attendant on the Passover lasted a full week, but only on the first two days were worshippers obliged to visit the Temple. On the third day, therefore, most of those who had come from a distance would return home, for there was little to detain them. We may assume, therefore, that on the third day Joseph and Mary took their departure, and supposed, it seems, that Jesus was somewhere in the caravan.

There was no synagogue or school building in the Temple, but from time to time lectures were given there by the rabbis; some of these would deal with technicalities of the Law, and be intended for those who were making a professional study of it. Others would be of a simpler and practical kind, where, doubtless, questions from the audience and free discussion of difficulties would be allowed. Jesus, who was now a "son of the Law," would certainly be admitted.

Imagination likes to consider what questions Jesus may have asked, and what may have been his responses to draw forth the astonishment of the hearers. We can easily suppose that into some discussion upon a matter of ritual or legal detail he might interject a question, or saying, penetrating to the very heart of religion, but this is only guess work.

Jesus' answer to his anxious parents may be translated, "Knew you not that I must be about my Father's business," or "Knew you not that I must be in my Father's house." On the whole, perhaps the former is more probable, but the meaning might be, simply, that, of course, he would be found in the Temple. The passage does not necessarily or even naturally, imply that Jesus supposed God, and not Joseph, to be his Father, nor can we say, with any confidence that even in his boyhood he knew himself to be the Son of God in some unique sense. We speak sometimes as if we knew just what passed in the mind and soul of Jesus but the Gospels are reticent about his self-consciousness; his inner life was "hidden" in God, and must always be mysterious to us. None the less, the passage suggests a consideration of great importance. It suggests that to Jesus, even as a child, God was first and foremost the Father. To John the Baptist, perhaps, and to the Pharisees, he was first or chiefly, Judge, but not to Jesus. The idea that Jesus comes to save us from the wrath of God has little support in the Gospels.

But the title' "Father,' is open to misunderstanding today. According to some modern ideas, a father should be the jolly and familiar playmate of his children, but little removed from a big brother. The Jewish conception of fatherhood was very different; in the New Testament the name, "Father," has in it awe and reverence and "godly fear." The Jewish father ruled his household, and his word was law in a way strange to modern democratic ideas. Still, no doubt, not sternness and authority, but mercy, patience, gentleness and love are dominant in Jesus' thought of the Father.

"Jesus 'waxed strong.' This odd phrase refers to his whole nature, both as to physical growth, and as to wisdom in the use of strength. Athletes often break down in early life, because, being strong, they are tempted to over exertion. Jesus was a strong, sturdy, active boy, full of life, yet using his strength in helpful and wise ways with the result that his body was wholly free from disease, and in the full powers of his manhood he was capable of great exertion. He took long walking tours throughout Gililee, his perfectly healthy body becoming a valuable instrument for the carrying out of the great tasks of his public ministry."

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

2703

A swagger frock of wool jersey in fashionable rust-red shade shows interesting buttoned front closing that adds a tailored air.

Just to be different, it gores its circular flaring skirt and attaches it to the hip yoke in deep scalloped outline.

The collar and cuffs are of linen. It's so distinctive and so practical.

It's simple to make.

Style No. 2703 may be had in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. The 8-year sizes requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting and 2¼ yards of binding.

It is also very smart in lightweight tweed in brown and white diagonal weave, just like the elders are wearing. It may be worn with a brown suede belt. Make the collar and cuffs of white pique with pert bow of brown grosgrain ribbon at neckline. Trim the bodice with brown bone buttons.

Covert cloth, wool crepe, challis prints and tweed-like cottons smart.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Plans to Record Speeches

Berlin——An attempt will be made to get phonographic records of all speeches and interruptions to speeches during the Reichstag sessions of the coming year. If the effort is successful the records will be substituted for the stenographic record of the debates.

Many members of the Reichstag look upon the proposed innovation dubiously, realizing that they will lose the privilege of striking from the official record those of their words which on second thought they deem unsuitable. But others who are not members of the Reichstag favor the plan strongly in the belief that it may bring more dignity and forethought into the debates.

Edison Presented With Questionnaire

Declares That Inventions of the Future Will Be In Health Field

New York.—Thomas A. Edison said recently the outstanding inventions of the future will be in the field of health and that inventors will be biologists and chemists.

Mr. Edison replied to a questionnaire from the Review of Reviews. Edison himself is famous for his questionnaires.

"Sickness is pretty hard on the workman now," said the 84-year-old wizard. "It's hard for them to get a good doctor, and proper care is expensive. There is too much sickness. Something will have to be done about it, and that is where biology and chemistry come in."

Here are some of the questions and answers:

Q.—Do you think your work would be easier if you were beginning now—with business ready to give money and facilities for research? A.—Yes, I was for 45 years hustling for payrolls.

Q.—Do inventors come from necessity—"The mother of invention"—or from scientific curiosity? A.—Most inventors work to earn money to get a modest living for their families. All they want is enough money to experiment with.

Deaths Due to Overeating

Q.—Will science tell us to eat less, as it has told us to drink less? A.—Eighty per cent. of our deaths are due to overeating. After the age of 21 a large variety and quantity of food is unnecessary. All those things crowd the stomach and cause poisons. It takes courage to learn restraint, but all that eating is unnecessary. I find that my weight keeps up on a glass of milk alone, every two hours.

Q.—Is there danger that life will grow too complicated, too speedy, with so many new inventions? A.—No. People will live up to it. The brain, if used, has enormous capacity. People don't begin to suspect what the mind is capable of.

Q.——Is there any inherent difficulty in making television as common as the telephone. A.—Yes, cost and complexity. Locomotives are pretty well developed, but you wouldn't want to buy one and have it in your house, would you? Television is like that.

Poison Gas Not So Deadly

Q.—Do you think the auto-gyro is the coming thing in aviation—the best principle so far developed? A.—Yes, and it came from Spain. They say that Spain is dead. But that man (the inventor) has the egg of Columbus.

Q.—Is it your opinion that poison gas in warfare is efficient and merciful, or a horror to be barred? A.—I think it less deadly than bullets and bombs.

On the wall of Mr. Edison's office in West Orange, N.J., where the questionnaire was presented, hangs a quotation from Sir Joshua Reynolds: "There is no expedient to which man will not resort to avoid the real labor of thinking." Pointing to it, Mr. Edison said to his interviewers, "That is what's the matter with us."

"Did you sit up until the New Year came in?"

"Yep. Our baby is teething."

Thoughts

Thoughts worth repeating will come to any man if he will, with patient attention, step from thought to thought. He may thus, happily, climb to a view or expression of truth which shall lighten and strengthen his own soul, and radiate through an infinite circle of lives and years.

20 Million Year Wood Preserved

Northern Alberta Tar Sands Contain Most Ancient Deposit

Ottawa.—The oldest deposit of preserved wood in the world, its age estimated between 15 and 20 millions years, has been discovered by Canadian Government engineers at Fort McMurray in Northern Alberta. S. C. Ells, an engineer in the federal department of mines and internationally known as an expert on bitumin deposits, made the find which geologists claim to be one of the most important scientific discoveries in recent years.

Deep in the far-famed Fort McMurray tar sands, the wood has lain for millions of years. Sealed tight from the devastating effects of air. When untombed last Summer, it was found to be in perfect preservation. The growth-rings could be counted inside the trunks; the wood might be whittled with an ordinary jack-knife; even tiny insects which fed on the leaves and tender shoots of the growing trees, were preserved in the airtight chamber. The leaves, themselves were unearthed in fair condition.

Dr. I. W. Bailey of Harvard University, who has been conducting a series of microscopic studies of the wood, practically has established the fact that at least one of the preserved trees is of a type that grows today in Japan. Geologists look upon this as still another link in the chain of evidence pointing to the establishment of the theory that North America and Asia at one time were parts of one huge continent.

Of Jurassic Period.

Geologists, who have been working on the discovery say the wood belongs to the Jurassic period, which dates back between 15 and 20 million years. In constructing the process of preservation, the geologists say the wood drifted down large rivers and lodged on sand bars. The logs and trees were buried by the action of the waves but before oxidation set in, the sand absorbed an inflow of heavy petroleum which was the origin of the famed Northern Alberta tar deposits. At the same time, the bitumin insulated the buried wood from the air, leaving it in its original state of preservation until the hand of man forced the secret many millions of years later.

Curiously enough, the basic principle of the wood's preservation, tar or bifumin, was the same as that employed by the Egyptians in mummifying their dead.

Make Further Studies.

The Dominion Mines Department intends making further field studies at Fort McMurray next Summer and it is probable that geologists from several Canadian and United States universities will be invited to participate. In preliminary excavation work last Summer, the largest tree section unearthed was 40 feet in length with a diameter of 14 inches. Dr. Bailey of Harvard University, who is an authority on such matters, has attached so much importance to the find that he has signified his intention of visiting Fort McMurray next Summer. In a letter to Mr. Ells, he described the discovery as "a most valuable find, deserving intensive study."

Geologists say the find may alter, if not revolutionize, some modern theories on what phehistoric vegetation covered this continent. It is the only known deposit of Jurassic period vegetation preserved in its original state and is looked upon as a more important discovery than the petrified trees of Southwestern United States or the semi-carbonized wood sometimes found in coal-beds.

Dog Whip Saves Life

Prince Albert, Sask.—Unerring aim of the whiphand of Clarke Cheney, veteran dog-driver of the north, recently saved the life of a tractor driver at Lac la Ronge. The tractor driver was hauling a "swing" of fish across Lac la Ronge, 200 miles north of here, when the machine plunged through the ice. Cheney uncoiled the long, snaky dog whip, and whirled it toward the tractor driver, who grasped the lash and was hauled to safety.

New Air Stamp Very Distinctive

Color of Smaller Denominations Changed to Agree With World Postal Requirements

Ottawa.—A new pictorial issue of Canadian stamps, conceded by philatelists to be of the highest artistic quality, is being sent to post offices throughout the counry by the department.

The most distinctive production of the group, according to departmental officials, is the new five-cent air mail stamp. It bears the figure of the winged mercury against a background of the globe with the North and South American continents delineated. The color is brown. Many expressions of admiration have already been received by the department from stamp collectors, who describe it as the most attractive air mail stamp issued by any country.

Another striking example of the engraver's art is the blue 50-cent stamp which carries a picture of the historic chapel at Grand Pre, N.S., and the well of Evangeline. The one-dollar stamp is dark green and bears a picture of Mount Edith Cavell in British Columbia. A prairie scene is used in the red 20-cent stamp. It shows grain being reaped by modern machinery. In the background are grain elevators. The Quebec Citadel is portrayed on the dark grey 12-cent stamp. The ten-cent stamp, green in color, bears a picture of the parliamentary library.

In the smaller denominations the colors have been changed to agree with international postal conventions, as follows: One-cent, green; two-cent, red; five-cent, blue, and eight-cent, orange. These all bear a portrait of the King.

Fretful DAYS
Restless NIGHTS
...give child Castoria

FUSSY, fretful, can't sleep, won't eat.... It isn't always easy to find just where the trouble is with a young child. It may be a stomach upset; it may be sluggish bowels.

But when little tongues are coated and there is even a slight suspicion of bad breath—it's time for Castoria!

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation especially made for babies and children. When Baby cries with colic or is fretful because of constipation, Castoria brings quick comfort, and, with relief from pain, soothes him to restful sleep. For older children—up through all the school years, Castoria is equally effective in helping to right irregularities. Just give it in larger doses. What a comfort Castoria is to mother!

Marne Hero Dies After Long Illness

Marshal Joffre is Mourned by France and the World

BURIED ON WEDNESDAY

Paris.—Marshal Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre died in the Hospital of St. Jean de Dieu in the early morning of January 3rd.

Outside the chamber on Sunday stood a guard of honor. In full dress uniform, General Issaly, Colonel Desmazes and Captain de Saint Servin, members of his staff, were posted before the door that hid their chief and friend.

The body was removed to the chapel of the old Ecole Militaire without ostentation. Before the funeral hundreds of thousands filed past the catafalque in the chapel of the military school as a mark of homage to the victor of the Marne.

Fully 3,000 persons spent Sunday afternoon in the Rue Oudinot, while Ministers of the French Government, Generals and Ambassadors for foreign countries came and signed their names on the register placed in an ante-chamber.

The Marshal's body, wrapped in a long, loose black coat belonging to the uniform he wore in 1914 during the Battle of the Marne, lay on a simple iron bed.

Monday morning at dawn the body was transferred to the chapel of the military school in readiness for the population of Paris to begin filing past the catafalque.

The condolences of the entire world continue pouring in to Madame Joffre and to the French Government. Kings, Governments and private individuals have sought to express their sorrow. Throughout Paris and France flags were at half-staff.

Paris was touched at the public utterances of sorrow that came from every country, and none were more grateful than those from Germany, where some of his ancient enemies honored his simple-hearted patriotism.

Sketch of Joffre

London, Jan. 4.—Except in military circles the name of Joffre was unknown in England when war broke out in August, 1914, but before six months had gone by he had become the idol of the British people, who looked to "Pere Joffre" to drive the enemy back across the frontiers. It was in the billet room of a house at St. Quentin, the headquarters of the British Commander-in-Chief, Sir John French, that his historic meeting with Joffre took place toward the end of August, at a time when the British expeditionary force was imperilled because its corps had not been able to comply with the orders of Sir John French, and was committed alone to battle with the enemy masses on the line Cambrai-Lecateau. Sir John French has written of that interview and of how heartened he was by the sympathy and understanding of General Joffre.

Relations between French and Joffre remained intimate and animated by mutual confidence, and when Sir Douglas Haig succeeded to the British command there was an equally close contact, one famous meeting between the two being at Chantilly, in November, 1916, when the plan of campaign for 1917 was drawn up.

Man of Character

Character was the key of the confidence Joffre inspired alike in Paris and London. Essentially authoritative in temperament, sound in health, and concerned with one task only, the beating of the enemy, Joffre was a commander in the full sense. His personal activity in the days after the Battle of the Frontiers, which opened the war, was astonishing, but it was essentially of the moral and not of the operative kind—deciding, encouraging, punishing. Joffre left the supreme command under a cloud, but time and history have brightened his horizon. It is astonishing to recall that notwithstanding the defeat his army commanders sustained in the Battle of the Frontiers he never wavered in his intention to assume the offensive at the first opportunity, which arrived a few weeks later at the Marne, one of the decisive battles of world history.

Thenceforward, his role in the war was that of a spectator, except for a period in which he was sent on a mission to the United States in the spring of 1917. Marshall Joffre was elected a member of the French Academy in 1916. Having in July, 1914, been given the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor he had received the still higher honor of the Medaille Militaire in November, 1914.

Enjoys Needed Rest

During the eight years since the hero of the Marne visited Canada, the United States and Japan, in 1922, receiving great acclaim in each country, he had done little else than write his Memoirs, attend public functions and enjoy the quiet country life of his beloved France.

Several times he was reported to be seriously ill, but with characteristic audacity he immediately put an end to the rumors with vigorous denials. Once, to prove his prime condition, he walked two miles at the age of 72.

Although for several years after the war there were many differences of opinion as to who was the real hero of the Marne, before Marshal Joffre's death it was generally conceded that it was he who hurled back the invading Germans when they were within thirty miles of Paris.

King Mourns Death Of Eldest Sister

Invalid For Many Years Passes in Sleep at London Home

END COMES SUDDENLY

London—The Princess Royal, eldest sister of the King, died here on Sunday afternoon, at the age of 63.

Though she was known to be more or less of an invalid for many years, the first intimation to reach the public that her condition had become critical was in the form of a bulletin issued in the early hours of the morning from her residence in Portman Square saying she was showing signs of increasing weakness.

This bulletin was followed in a few hours by the announcement that she had died suddenly in her sleep in the presence of her daughters, Princess Arthur of Connaught and Lady Maude Carnegie.

Princess Louise Victoria Alexandra Dagmar was of such a retiring disposition that she sometimes was called "her Royal Shyness." She was greatly loved by all who knew her.

Led Peaceful Life

Her life, for the most part, was tranquil and uneventful, yet contained at least one real romance and one big adventure.

"Her marriage at the age of 22 to the Earl of Fife was the romance," Queen Victoria, as a page from her diary shows, was greatly pleased when asked for her consent to the marriage of her granddaughter to Lord Fife. The then Earl was created Duke of Fife by announcement of her Majesty at the wedding breakfast of the young couple."

Shipwrecked Off Spartel

The adventure was when the liner Delhi, carrying the Princess and her husband to Egypt, was wrecked at night in a furious gale on the rocks near Cape Spartel, ten miles from Tangier. The Princess and her husband reached land with great difficulty, and afterward had to remain some hours in a torrential rain on the rocky coast before help arrived. The Duke of Fife died the following year, and his death was generally attributed to after-effects of the exposure he underwent on this occasion. Since her husband's death the Princess Royal shrank more than ever from the light that beats upon the Royal family and her quiet and peaceful passing seems in some sort a fitting end to this gentle woman's whole career.

The sad news was telephoned immediately to the King at Sandringham. The Lord Chamberlain's office announced there will be four weeks' full court mourning, and two weeks' half-mourning.

Chain Store Statistics

There are 350 different systems of chain stores in Canada, according to a survey made by the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics. Of 210 making returns to the Government, there are 42 grocery chains operating 1,699 stores; 18 general, department and variety chains, with 354 stores; 29 drug chains with 260 stores; 9 meat chains with 186 stores; 4 tobacco chains with 173 stores; 17 boot and shoe chains with 157 stores; 11 restaurant chains with 131 stores; 12 bakery chains with 121 stores; while other chain systems varied from 12 to 108 stores. Total sales in 1929 of the 210 chain systems amounted to $255,129,974, or an equivalent of $68,889 per store.

Seven Are Injured In Windsor Crash

Michigan Central Engine Struck in Fog Hits Passenger Coach

Windsor.—Seven persons were slightly injured Saturday morning in a crash in the yards of the Michigan Central Railway. Cuts by flying glass and bruises about the body constituted the injuries.

The injured were Edward Parish and George Miller of Buckland, N.Y., and four from New York: Miss May Case, associate editor of Vogue; A. H. Geuting, president American Retail Shoe Dealers' Association; Jessie Adler, vice-president of the association, and A. H. Kenyon, associate counsel for the association. The name of the seventh person was not ascertained. They were en route to a big convention in Detroit.

The first section of a special train from New York to Detroit was at the Windsor depot and a light engine was standing close behind it, when the second section of the special loomed up out of a fog, struck the yard engine and crashed it into the rear coach of the standing train.

Passengers were bumped about, but only the seven required first-aid treatment, which was given in Detroit, to which station the train proceeded immediately after the crash. Damage to rolling stock was slight.

Heavy fog was the cause of the crash. During the early hours of the day objects a hundred yards distant were hardly visible, but at noon there was some improvement. Despite the fog and slippery pavements there has been a dearth of accidents in the border area during the week-end.

Hero of the Air Gets $1000 Reward

Ottawa.—It was all in the day's work with R. L. Wasson when he brought two companions of Capt. E. J. A. Burke out of the frozen North, but the Dominion Government on Dec. 23 said he was a hero and presented him with a reward of $1000.

It was Wasson who flew into the Northlands of Liard River and brought Emil Kading, Vancouver engineer, and Robert Marten, Atlin prospector, lost among the hills while flying back to the world.

Dr. H. M. Ami Dies in France

Internationally-Known Canadian Scientist Startled World With Eskimo Theories

Ottawa.—Dr. Henry Marc Ami, one of Canada's outstanding scientists, died on Jan. 4th at Mentone, France, according to news received at his Ottawa home. An archaeologist and palaeontologist of international reputation, Dr. Ami startled the world of science a few years ago by his discovery of evidence tending to show that the Eskimo races, now found exclusively in the Canadian Arctic, at one time lived in France.

In recent years, Dr. Ami divided his time between France and Canada. He was the founder and leader of the Canadian School of Prehistoric History in France, through which he made the archaeological excavations at Dordonne upon which he based his theory of the early life of the Eskimos.

Born in Belle Riviere, near Montreal in 1858, Dr. Ami was the son of Rev. Marc Ami, a Presbyterian missionary who came to this country from Switzerland. The son was educated at Ottawa public schools and McGill University, later studying at several universities abroad. He later entered the Canadian Government service as a geologist and, upon his retirement in 1912, began a life of letters.

Soon after the outbreak of the war in 1914, Dr. Ami was stationed at the British Embassy in Washington in charge of war metals and minerals. At the close of the hostilities, Dr. Ami resumed his scientific life, writing voluminously on many subjects and conducting endless experiments and excavations. He was a member of most of the important world scientific affiliations.

Dr. Ami is survived by his widow, three grandchildren, Nicholas H. Slater, Clara and Jeanne-Anne Slater of Toronto and a brother, William Ami of the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

Remains of Irish King and Queen Found in Stone Vault on Mountain

London—The remains of a king and queen, believed by experts to have reigned from 1,800 to 2,000 years ago, have been found on Sheedeg, a mountain near Carrick on Shannon, Ireland, according to a recent dispatch.

The skeletons, lying side by side, were discovered in a vault the entrance of which was barred by a solid block of dressed masonry weighing more than ten tons. Their heads were facing the former royal seat of Tara, where Irish kings were supposedly crowned in pagan days. Historians believe they are members of a dynasty whose origin has been lost in the mists of antiquity.

Further exploration is being carried out, as treasure and armour are believed concealed in another chamber in the interior of the mountain. The ruins are being guarded night and day by civic guards.

World Co-operation on Markets Sought

Berlin.—International co-operation in opening up and financing new markets as a effective means of alleviating the present strain on the industrial nations is proposed by Dr. Richard Lewinsohn, economic writer, in an article entitled "International provision of Work," published in the Vossiche Zeitung here. Much work remains to be accomplished, for instance, in China, in western Asia, and in Africa, let alone in Soviet Russia, he writes. Then there are the plans for a complete electrification of all Europe which have been worked out already to the very last detail. Road construction in the Balkans needs improvement and extension, and elsewhere, too, transportation could be bettered.

A conference, Dr. Lewisohn believes, of a small group of carefully selected men, commanding a sufficient knowledge of the questions involved and possessing access to the necessary capital, might be of some use in the present situation.

Building Statistics Show New High Mark For 1930

Several Ontario Cities Report Records in Construction for Year

Other 1930 Statistics

Peterboro, Ont.—Official figures available at the City Engineer's office gave Peterboro a building total of $797,895 for 1930, which sets an all-time record for this city. Going back over the last five years, 1930 is shown to be $100,000 higher than the record set in 1928.

Decrease in Kitchener

Kitchener, Ont.—Though there was a decrease in the total building for 1930 compared with 1929, the total of $1,344,232 for the year is viewed with satisfaction by City Hall officials. In all 147 residence permits were issued with a value of $509,700. The sewage disposal plant accounted for $217,000 of the total, while apartments erected were listed at $129,000, and additions and alterations totalled $128,000.

Prosperity in Stratford

Stratford, Ont.—City Engineer W. H. Reeple reports a prosperous year, so far as the building is concerned. The total value for the year was $414,410 as against $354,849 for 1929. Building permtis were few in December, three being issued, with a value of $5,663.

Activity in Galt

Galt, Ont.—Building operations for last year locally amounted to $279,-23(. With 27 permits issued in the previous year the total expenditure on new buildings was $527,315, which was a record. A feature of the year's construction was that it included 32 new dwellings with a valution of $120,700.

Increase at Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont.—There was an increase in the value of building permits issued last month, compared with December of 1929, the figures being: December, $39,350; December of 1929, $26,350. Last year building permits were issued valued at $433,-878, compared with $905,510 in 1929.

Drop in Woodstock

Woodstock, Ont.—Building permits issued in the last year show a decrease of $93,741 from the total for 1929. The totals for the two years were $287,456 for 1929 and $193,715 for 1930, the decrease representing a drop of 33 per cent.

Record in North Bay

North Bay, Ont.—Fire Chief Brady, building inspector, stated that permits totalling $1,024,710 were issued in the last year, a record in the building history of the city.

Birth Rate a Record

Peterboro, Ont.—Seven hundred births, a record number, were registered in Peterboro in 1930. Because of the high birth rate and low death rate total, the population shows a natural increase of 354. Marriages showed a decrease from 1929 of 14.

North Bay Totals

North Bay, Ont.—According to the annual report of Dr. A. E. Ranney, Health Officer, birth totalled 443 for the year ending Nov. 30. Deaths total 196. The city's population is now given as 16,353, and the death rate per 1,000 was 10.4.

Tillsonburg Optimistic

Tillsonburg, Ont.—The New Year promises better things for Tillsonburg, industrially and otherwise. The past year has witnessed a splendid building year with virtually no unemployment. Negotiations are under way for two important new industries, and new building in 1931 is expected to include an addition to St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Violent Deaths Increase

Kitchener, Ont.—Violent deaths in Kitchener in 1930 numbered 22, compared with 16 in the preceding year, according to the police records. Automobiles again caused the most deaths.

Court Cases Increase

Guelph, Ont.—Convictions registered in the Guelph police court in 1930 numbered 2,804. The total cases heard were 3,752, a high record. It was pointed out that in the first year in which Magistrate Watt held office, only 300 cases were heard, only one-twelfth of the total for 1930.

Decrease in Collections

St. Catharines, Ont.—The St. Catharines Customs Office will show a large decrease in collections last year over 1929.

Total Falls in Galt

Galt, Ont.—The customs returns for December amounted to $47,896.45, a decrease of $11,270 compared with December a year ago.

Predicts Musical Lighthouses That Will Sing to Sailors

Talking lighthouses to tell sailors miles out at sea just which lighthouse they are watching, or even to entertain these passing mariners with news of the day or weather forecasts or the latest song and dance hits, were predicted by O. H. Caldwell, former United States Radio Commissioner and now editor of Electronics, in a recent address to the Virginia Section of the American Chemical Society in Richmond, Virginia. The secret, Mr. Caldwell said, is the modern process by which music, speech or any other sound may be "modulated" on a light beam much as radio programs are sent out on the beams of radio waves from a broadcasting station. To the eye such a music-carrying beam looks quite as usual but if it is allowed to fall on a photo-electric cell, properly arranged with vacuum tube amplifiers and other apparatus, the sound message on the light beam may be picked off and made audible. The beam from a revolving lighthouse, for example, might be made to sing a definite note whenever its rays fall on a small photo-electric cell mounted on a ship's bridge. Even the captain in his cabin thus would know, by the distinctive musical note of the beam, which lighthouse of several along a coast was then in sight. Such lighthouses now are distinguished by color or by the number and arrangement of flashes as the light revolves. The use of color necessitates decreased intensity of the light, since colored lights are not so bright as pure white ones. The recognition of lights by flashes requires considerable practice. It might be easier, Mr. Caldwell believes, to have each lighthouse identify itself by a musical note or even by spoken words, although the former might require ship's captains to possess musical ears in addition to the manifold qualifications already necessary for that job.

Russia Also Has A Family of Smiths

By Helen Christine Bennett
McCall's special representative to Russia

In America we have one family name that crosses all boundaries. It is the name of Smith. It may be borne by the socially elite or the woman who goes out by the day. We knew there must be its equivalent in Russia. When asked, smiles came at once to the faces of Russian women. "Of course we have such a name. In Russia it is Ivanoff." It is the Smiths—the Ivanoffs of Russia who tell the story of the new life.—The Editor of "McCall's."

One of the most revolutionary changes brought about by the Soviets has been the freeing of woman to an extent not equaled in any country in the world. In Russia today woman may vote and hold office with none of the discriminations found in other countries. She has equal sex rights and privileges; she may marry and divorce at will; she has equal rights in her children and all her children, born in wedlock or out, are legitimate. She may do anything a man may do without stigma. She is free as no woman in the world has ever been free—as man is free.

When you first arrive in one of the great cities of Russia and look at the people on the streets, you search in vain for the smart, well-dressed men and women you are accustomed to see on the North American continent. The Smiths who pass you wear the clothes of workers. They are comfortable and useful clothes, but there is nothing luxurious about them. Let us look at the women. The one just passing, dressed in khaki shirt and knickers, is the foreman of a construction gang. The older woman, with the red kerchief that marks the member of the Communist Party, is a high official, and the woman with her, in a drab gray, is a factory manager. Behind them are two doctors, a judge, and a "superior soldier" (officer) in uniform. There are in Russia women soldiers with a rank equal to that of a general. All work is open to women.

But if we want to know the more typical Mrs. Smith of Russia, we must go to the factories. At the Melangi Combinat, a textile factory at Ivanovo-Voznesensk, where there are 7000 workers, Martha Smith—Marfa Ivanoff—stands before a great spinning machine. Seven hours a day she watches the spindles. The week is five days.

"I get the children ready for school before I come to the factory," she said. "No, I give them no breakfast—that is at the school. My shift begins at ten. Pieter and Lydia stay by the school two hours after my work, that I may buy for the house. Dinner? It is at the school. Mine is here, at the factory—My breakfast also. My husband, he eats with me here. At evening we make supper at home. At night? Now—"her eyes sparkled—"I go threo time a week to the class. I learn to read and write. The children? The sleep. If my husband goes, my neighbor listens."

"Every cook," insisted Lenin, "must learn how to run the government."

Marfa is learning. To help her, the government has shortened her working hours, served her children free meals at school, and given her and her husband meals at low prices at the factory. As a worker, Marfa actually receives much more than the 80 rubles a month she is paid at the factory. She and her husband have food cards, clothing cards, cards for railways tickets at less than the ticket office sells them, soap cards and cards for sweets, and through the factory she may buy tickets to theatres, cinemas, concerts, at much less than box-office prices. As she will eagerly tell you, there is much more.

At almost every factory a doctor looks after the health of the workers. "If I am sick," said Marfa, "the doctor will care for me. Pay? No—I am a worker!"

Why all this fuss about factory workers in Russia? Why should they be preferred citizens? There is justice in the question. Preferment for any class is far from a Communistic ideal of share and share alike. The Soviet government is frank in its reply.

"We have no Communism yet in Russia," said one official. "We are but nursing the first feeble germs of Communism. We live now under a dictatorship of the proletariat, of the workers. It is a transition period and will not last. It is the first essential step toward Communism."

"Is is essential." These are the words of a woman of the intelligentsia. "You must understand that for centuries what the Russian workers earned was the property of the czar, the nobility, or the church. So little was left for them that they lived unspeakably; joy for them was nothing but vodka. There is a proverb—'Work loves a fool.' To do as little as possible was a creed of self-preservation. Then came the war, revolution, famine. If we were to survive, it must be through a new idea of work. The Soviet government created a nobility of industrial workers, and Russians began to work."

Despite the money which has been expended for health measures, the people of the U.S.S.R. suffer acutely from lack of one of the greatest of health assets—a sufficient allowance of house room.

Marfa showed me her apartment in a "model" six-family house. Two bedrooms, one kitchen, one wash-room (sink and toilet, no bath). In one room, spic and span, a single bed, a cot, one small table, two chairs, curtains and plants at windows, rag rugs on the floor. Marfa and her husband and their two children slept in that room. The second bed-room is willing rented by Marfa to a married couple who share with her the small kitchen. Next door are eight people! Yet Marfa and her neighbors do not feel crowded. It is the remnant of the aristocracy and the bourgeoisie who suffer in this terrific overcrowding.

Yet many women of those classes have found themselves under the new conditions. Listen, for instance, to Najeda Ivanoff, my interpreter.

"I was not a revolutionist," she said. "But now that this thing has come, I am happier than ever before.

"I was a physician's daughter. We had an apartment of 14 rooms for father, mother, and six children. I was educated as a lawyer, but under the czar I was not permitted to practice. I studied languages. I lived abroad. But never did I feel right. There were four porters in our apartment-house, and the one at our door had one room, dark, unheated. There were his wife, a half-grown son, and a new baby. There was one narrow cot. The boy slept on the floor. The newborn baby lay in a hole in the brick wall. There was a little table, a chair, and that was all.

"They must have cooked on another porter's stove, for they had none. Now nobody lives like that. Next to me in my apartment is a charwoman. Her work is to sweep and scrub the flags at one of the big stores. Her husband works in a factory. She has two winter coats, blankets, a good bed. Her husband has made a radio. Her baby was born in a hospital, and she was taught to care for it. This costs nothing. Such things were unknown ten years ago. My husband always was a revolutionist. Now I have learned to believe."

Such intelligent, cultivated women in Russia today go forward, not seeing clearly the future for themselves and their children, but willing to go on and work, because justice is nearer than before.—"The Reader's Digest."

Guard the Baby Against Colds

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy and good-natured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Customer—"Yeh, but suppose my ears get tired?"

The life guards at the bathing beaches ought to make good bookkeepers. They all know how to handle figures all right, all right.

A New York salesman was staying in a Texas hotel where he observed an old-fashioned roller towel.

Salesman (to man in wash room)—"Say, doesn't the owner of this hotel know that it's against the law of the State of Texas to use roller towels now?"

Man Addressed—"He knows it all right enough, but I reckon that law wasn't passed when this towel was put up."

Flapper Motto—"Better be fat in the head than thick at the hips."

A young man, who had an enormous month, became engaged to a girl, and went to her father to ask his consent.

Youth (smiling broadly to hide his confusion)—"I have come to—to—ask you for your daughter's hand. I—I—"

The Father—"Excuse me, but will you close your mouth for a moment so I can se who you are?"

One thing you never hear one girl say to another any more is: "Why don't you take a tuck in it?"

The young farmers were boasting about the size of the vegetables they had grown. Finally one of them turned to Uncle Seth:

Young Farmer—"What was the biggest thing you raised this year, Uncle Seth?"

Uncle Seth—"A squash."

Young Farmer—"Well, how big was it?"

Uncle Seth (drawling)—"We never measured it, but we used the seeds for snow shoes."

First Travelling Salesman—"Being on the road ain't what it used to be."

"Second Ditto—"Naw, I've been on the road for ten years now and never had to sleep at a farmer's house yet."

Hostess—"Would you like a sonata before dinner?"

Her Guest (giving a start of surprise and pleasure)—"Thank you, I had a couple on the way over here, but I think I could manage another."

Customer—"How much will it cost to have this guy bumped off?"

Hi-Jacker—"Shucks, partner, I leave it to you. You pay me accordin' to the good yer gets out of it."

Little Girl Next Door—"What's the new baby at your home, Johnny, a boy or a girl?"

Disgusted Little Brother—"Aw, it's a girl. I saw 'em putting powder on it."

Horace — "You can't go out with Kate. She's a girl of rank."

Manuel—"Yes, and I am as rank as she is."

Danger from Colds

Every woman beyond middle age should realize that a majority of the troubles she has to fear have their origin in what are known as common colds. Each attack lowers her vitality and reduces resistance to disease. At this season of the year every woman should see that her blood is toned up to meet the rigors of the climate and especially that strength should be restored after any cold, however slight. For this Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a reliable tonic.

These Pills are not a mere stimulant giving temporary relief. They build up the body by creating that rich red blood which imparts the glow of health; steadies the nerves, improves the appetite and digestion and make the users capable of withstanding the rigors of our Fall and Winter months. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Excavating of Old Fort Reveals Roman Past

Glasgow.—The fort baths brought to light during excavation work on the Roman fort at Cadder promise to give very clear evidence of the various periods of Roman occupation, said John Clarke at a meeting of the Glasgow Archaeological Society. It was hoped to complete the excavations next year, Mr. Clarke added. The fort had been the sixth of the Antonine Wall forts from the west end of the wall.

During the year a large outer system of defenses had been discovered inclosing an area of 15 acres, apparently anterior to both the fort and the wall. Neither the period of this system nor its relation to the smaller fort were yet certain. Several rare objects in pottery, a coin of Galba, and several interesting iron articles had been found.

There are still a great many people who simply will not let the dentists do all the looking down in the mouth.

How Women Lose Fat In England

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want, and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen, and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal, and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts. Take one-half teaspoonful every morning in a glass of hot water, and when you have finished the first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat, and you'll also know that the six vitalizing salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

That's the way Englishwomen keep slim—why not you?

Les Baux

(From The Atlantic Monthly)

There is no need for vain regret.
For envy of the lives whose lot is set
In this enchanted place,
Where grey crags touch the sky—while far below,
Meadows, miraculously green,
Are sunk in sleep, between
Uptowering rocks, and from the cliff's sheer face
White-flowering bushes grow.
Should you live here, you must choose
The mountain or the valley—and so lose,
For one, the other joy; too soon the when and where
Would have you in their customary care.
Rather, let your dwelling here
Be in the mind—and you are free
Of all the range the ravished eye can see;
May house you without fear
In the topmost pinnacle, where the star-pricked dome
Shall roof you through the night's slow-wheeling hours,
Or make your home
Among the lilacs and the meadow flowers
Down in the valley—at your will
Be shepherd, huntsman, poet; you may dance
With the linen jiggling on the line
In the cherry orchard by the water mill,
Or where the sunbeams shine
From the blue backs of swallows, as they glance
In the mid-air, below
The rocky terrace, to and fro
Your insubstantial form may go,
Now vast as night, now infinitely small—
As having nothing, yet possessing all.

Cottonseed Meal Found Excellent Food for Trout

Ithaca, N.Y.—Cottonseed meal, long an accepted livestock feed, has been found an effective food for trout, reports Professor C. M. McCay, of the New York State College of Agriculture. Professor McCay, working at Cornell in co-operation with the Connecticut state fish hatchery at Burlington, Conn., also has found that cocoanut meal, dry skim milk and dry buttermilk are excellent trout feeds. A half million dollars could be saved annually if the various fish and game commissions would make use of the recent discoveries, he says.

The cottonseed meal is not fed alone but is mixed in equal parts with dry skim milk and a good fish meal. With the newer feeds Professor McCay finds that the trout is more efficient than the pig in converting feed into meat.

In contrast to cottonseed meal, linseed oil meal, another livestock feed, is found to poison brook trout. The linseed meal kills the fish in a few weeks, although they are capable of living without any food for several months.

Sightless Author Acts in Own Play

Paris—A play written by a blind man in which he acts with another blind performer is being presented at a Paris theatre. It is called "The Triumph of Will."

M. Casier is the author-actor. "There are two classes of blind people," he said in an interview. "Those who lost their sight in the war and those who became blind through some other misfortune. I am pleading for the latter. It is not that the world is indifferent to them.

"But we do not wish to make our living through the charity of others or by begging. We wish to live by our own intelligence. We want to prove that we are capable of taking care of ourselves and even supporting a family. We do not want people to encourage us to live lazily, but we do want them to encourage us to work. That is what I bring out in my play and I have a right to propagate this idea because I am the father of seven children and work daily as any normal citizen does."

GAS relieved

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All druggists sell it—50c.

Forty years of service with the Canadian Pacific Railway have received recognition in the appointment of George Hodge, assistant general manager, eastern lines, to be manager of the newly-created department of Personnel of the railway, announced by Grant Hall, vice-president of the company recently. Mr. Hodge was specially selected for the appointment in view of his wide experience in labor matters and his particular flair for arbitration and kindred activities. He was specially in the limelight at the time of the McAdoo award when his presentation of that situation evoked unstinted praise in Canada and the United States.

Likelihood of a large entry list from the Prairies for the third annual Empress Hotel Midwinter Golf tournament to be played at Victoria Golf Club February 23-28 is indicated in enquiries pouring in from leading amateurs of the plains. Last year the tourney brought together 150 leading men and women golfers of the North Pacific and the Prairies and it was the plainsmen who upset the dope by carrying off important portions of the silverware against the best golfers of Victoria, Seattle, Vancouver, Tacoma, Portland and Spokane.

Since the opening in 1523 of the New Brunswick School of Agriculture, 150 young men have attended the annual fall short course in practical agriculture. Attendance at the 1930 course which closed December 19, was the largest on record, the number of students registered being 35, half of them being members of young people's livestock and poultry clubs. The silver cup for general proficiency was awarded to Ralph H. Colpitts, of Petit Codiac.

So fine is the quality of the turf produced by Bent Grass seed, a comparatively new variety produced in Canada, that during the past five years between 50,000 and 75,000 pounds of the seed have been exported to the United States each year. The best quality is produced in Prince Edward Island and is used for lawns, golfing and bowling greens.

Motor tourist traffic to New Brunswick from the United States was 44 per cent. greater in 1930 than in the previous year, this percentage of increase in tourist business being the greatest shown by any province of Dominion during that year, it is claimed by the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel. Value of the trade is placed by independent estimates at $18,000,000 in 1929 which must have been fully maintained if not up to $20,000,000 in 1930.

One hundred pure-bred dairy cows were recently shipped from Vancouver to Hong Kong, being the largest shipment of cows that has been made from Canada to the Orient. Sixty per cent. of the shipment were Holsteins and the balance Ayrshires and Guernseys.

Old Dobbin is not being supplanted by the tractor and motor car, in Canada since there were in June 1930, 3,296,923 horses on Canadian farms compared with 3,490,352 in June 1920, a very small decrease in a decade. Combined figures for Alberta and Saskatchewan where there is a constant tendency to mechanization in farm work, were 80,073 less horses than the previous year which practically accounts for the decrease throughout the whole of the Dominion.

Mother Restored to Family

If you asked the average happy and comfortable Ontario housewife what a gain of 49¾ pounds would mean to her, she would probably look aghast at the very suggestion. Suppose, however, she were in the position of Mrs. Roberts, a woman with a family of young children in a small Ontario town where there was "little to earn and many to keep," growing weaker and weaker from overwork and poverty, finally obliged to leave her little ones to friends and neighbors and betake herself to the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives.

Then began the long, long fight to put back the precious pounds which to Mrs. Roberts and so many like her, mean milestones on the road to health. Thanks to ten months of good care, rest, nourishing food and experienced medical attention, Mrs. Roberts one day saw the scales register 149 — a happy gain from the 99¼ pounds she registered on entering the hospital.

Where is she now? Back at home, joyously taking up the care of her family, and grateful for her restoration to health. A great work assuredly, which needs much assistance from friends because poverty and tuberculosis so often go hand in hand. Will you help, please? A subscription sent to Mr. A. E. Ames, 348 College Street, Toronto, will be greatly appreciated.

GRANT FLEMING, M.D. — ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

CERUMEN, OR EAR WAX

It is commonly said that, if our special senses, hearing comes second only to sight. These two senses are so necessary for the full enjoyment of life that it is impossible to say which of them is the more precious. Everyone will agree that to lose one or the other is a calamity and that it is well worth while to take whatever care is necessary to preserve both.

The outer part of the ear which we can see acts as a receiver, collecting the sound waves and directing them inward to the hearing apparatus where the sounds are registered.

The canal which leads inward and which ends at the eardrum is lined with a tissue which secretes a substance called wax or cerumen. This secretion keeps the lining of the canal moist and soft. After the wax has given off its moisture, it falls off in small flakes which are carried outwards by the hairs which grow from the tissue lining the canal. In some cases and under certain conditions, there is so much wax produced that it is not got rid of quickly and, as a result, it accumulates in the canal. Poking at the ears to get rid of some wax or to relieve the itchiness in the canal very often leads to trouble.

Boils in the ear canal practically always follow some injury to the canal due to poking at the ears. Boils in any part of the body are painful, but when located in the ear canal, they are more distressing than usual, which is saying a great deal.

Someone has said that we should never put anything smaller than the elbow into the ear. This is sound advice. It is much better to take the trouble of having any excess wax properly removed than it is to run the risk of the occurence of boils in the ear.

Not only may the canal be damaged, but an injury may be done to the eardrum by poking at the ears. While we urge that it is necessary to avoid unskilful attempts to remove wax, we are not suggesting that it is a difficult matter to do so, if the procedure is properly carried out. In most cases, a gentle stream of water run into the ear will break up and wash out the excess wax.

Our advice is that nothing be put into the ear by unskilled hands. If wax cannot be washed out, then the removal should be undertaken by a skilled physician. The wax requires to be removed, for not only will its collection interfere with hearing, but if it is left resting against the eardrum for a long period, it may cause damage to that part.

What we have said about wax applies also to the removal of insects or of any foreign body which may become lodged in the ear. Warm water is as good as anything to destroy and dislodge an insect, but the removal of beads, beans and other such objects that children put in their ears should be left to skilful hands.

MOTORISTS be CAREFUL!

The season for wet, slippery pavements is here and demands that special care be exercised by all drivers of motor vehicles.

DRIVE CAREFULLY . . . and read carefully every word of this advertisement

THE Highway Safety Committee has been urging motorists during the year to exercise CARE, COURTESY and COMMON SENSE in the operation of their vehicles. The Committee appreciates the whole-hearted support its efforts have received from every source. We have had the best of co-operation from the Advisory Committee, which is composed of some of the leading citizens of the Province, from the press, from motorists and from pedestrians and, as a result, driving conditions have improved. Let us continue to be traffic conscious and at all times CAREFUL and COURTEOUS when driving.

Severe penalties are provided in our motor vehicle laws for those who are careless or inconsiderate of the rights of other users of the highway.

The Financial Responsibility Law which became effective on September 1st provides that the driver's license and all motor vehicle permits of a person convicted of any one of the following offences shall be suspended until proof of financial responsibility in the form of a certificate of an insurance company, a bond or securities is filed with the Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

READ CAREFULLY

Driving without holding a chauffeur's or operator's license.

Reckless or negligent driving or exceeding the allowable speed limits if any injury to persons or property occurs.

Driving, or being in charge of a motor vehicle, while intoxicated, or any other criminal offence involving the use of a motor vehicle.

Evading responsibility following an accident.

Operating a motor vehicle in a race or on a bet or wager.

Chauffeurs, operators and owners of motor vehicles are warned that the provisions of this law must be applied in every case.

ACCIDENT REPORTING

The law now requires every person directly or indirectly involved in a motor vehicle accident, if the accident results in any personal injuries or property damage apparently exceeding fifty dollars, to report such accident to the nearest police officer. A penalty is provided for failure to so report.

Remember your Personal Responsibility whenever driving a motor vehicle or you may be required to prove your Financial Responsibility.

Councillor J. W. Drennan

Councillor John W. Drennan will be the youngest man ever to sit in the village council, it is believed. He is 27 years of age and ran third in the contest.

Mr. Drennan, "Jack" to his friends, is well-known throughout Peel county through his connection with various organizations. Jack gained much of his ability as an orator with the Streetsville Junior Farmers as a member of their debating team.

President of the Peel County Junior Farmers Association, Mr. Drennan is also treasurer of Peel County Conservative Association, treasurer of the Grand Lodge O.Y.B., and holds junior offices in the River Park A.F. and A.M. and Streetsville L.O.L.

A member of the Peel and Dufferin regiment for more than four years Mr. Drennan has risen to the position of second in command of B company.

In seeking municipal honors, Mr. Drennan is following in the footsteps of his father, Joseph Drennan, who has served on the council and school board.

At present he is working Peel county for the London Life Insurance Co., but was formerly employed by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. in Toronto for eight years.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Catherine Stark

The funeral of the late Catherine Wilson, widow of Robert Stark of Esquesing Township, who died at the home of her son-in-law, Victor Hall, Trafalgar, took place to Boston Church Cemetery. Rev. Horace Kaye conducted the service. Mrs. Stark was in her eighty-first year, and was a member of Boston Presbyterian Church. Two daughters survive, Mrs. Daniel McGibbon of Esquesing Township, and Mrs. Victor Hall of Trafalgar Township.

LET US SMILE

In Hollywood this story is told about William Tibbett, famous western sheriff and father of Lawrence Tibbett, singing star. A riot broke out in a small town called Kern City, and the local constable wired Tibbett to send aid.

"What?" said the constable, "just you, only one man?"

"Well," answered Tibbett, "there's only one riot, isn't there?"

DIXIE

St. Patrick's dance held on Wednesday, January 7th, was a great success and the crowd was very large. The prize winners for euchre were as follows: Ladies' first, Miss L. Shain; second, Miss Agnes O'Brien; consolation, Mrs. Farrell, Streetsville; gent's first, Mr. William Fulton; second, Mr. Jim Blower; consolation, Mr. Farrell.

Dixie Presbyterian Church raised during the past year $3,134, an increase of $100, it was shown in reports presented at the annual meeting. Included in this sum were the amounts of $1,126 raised by the women's association of the church and $1,356 realized in the current account.

During the past year the congregation has made an advance of seven in membership, now numbering in all 110 members, with a Sabbath school of seventy members. There were three deaths in the congregation during the past year.

Officers elected were: Board of managers, G. B. Jackson, Alex Thomas, F. Fenwick; treasurer of general fund, R. E. Malpus; treasurer of building fund, Jas. Sabiston; sec., Ivan Death.

Cook; Young People's Society, president, Miss Elsie Thomas; pres., Mrs. G. C. Lamont; sec.-treas., pres., Mrs. G. C. Lamount; sec.-treas., Mrs. A. Thomas. Rev. C. C. Lamont presided over the meeting.

COOKSVILLE

Everbody who knows Cooksville knows Wm. McKay and are offering congratulations to him upon the celebration of his 74 birthday. Mr. McKay has lived in Cooksville for upwards af half a century. He was born in Hartford, Connecticut, spent a few years in Ireland before coming to Canada. He recalls when elections were decided at the open polls and when the votes were worth "just what you could get"; when the stage coach ran between Toronto and Hamilton and another from Port Credit to Streetsville; when there were five toll gates between Erindale and downtown Toronto, and when the farmers threshed their grain with old-fashioned horse power. In his younger days Mr. McKay followed the threshing machine for ten years. Motive power to run the separator was provided by five teams of horses hitched to the horsepower. The self-feeder was unheard of on the separator and two men did the job. At that time the farmer only paid from $8 to $10 per day for his threshing, while now he pays $30 per day or more. At that time barley was worth $1.25 a bushel and other grains correspondingly high, while today the price of grain had dropped to alarmingly low levels. Out of a family of ten, Mr. McKay has eight children living, one of his boys having died from the after effects of war wounds. Mr. McKay's wife died 16 years ago. A member of Cooksville L.O.L. for 25 years, Mr. McKay has been made a life member.

Reports tendered at the annual meeting of Cooksville United Church show total receipts of the church for the past year to have been $2,244, made up as follows: General fund, $1,470, Sunday school $300, Women's Association, $353, W.M.S., $87, Mission Band 9, Young People's Society $25.

Officers elected at the meeting were the following: Board of Managers, 1-year term—Robert Whaley, Jr., P. A. Christie, Geo. Dyer, 2-year term—W. Dulmage, W. C. Irwin, L. D. Sanderson, 3-year term—R. M. Pickett, D. Rowbottom, R. S. Whaley. Board of Sessions, 1-year term—Fred Royce, P. A. Christie, L. D. Sanderson, Mrs. R. Duff. Two-year term—Geo. Brown, Miss L. Readman, W. C. Irwin, E. M. Dillon. Three-year term—E. Laughton, R. Pardie, C. H. Radford, J. S. Gay.

Other officers of the church are: choir leader, Mrs. A. H. McFadden; organists, Mrs. A. H. McFadden and Mrs. J. V. Kingsbury, president of Women's Assn., Mrs. C. S. Jones; pres. of Women's Missionary Society, Miss L. Readman. During the past year there were 7 deaths, 2 marriages and 10 baptisms in the congregation. The meeting was well attended. Rev. C. S. Jones was chairman.

WEDDED 58 YEARS

On Saturday, January 3rd, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Block, Port Credit, celebrated their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary. On Sunday morning at the service in First United Church, the pastor, Rev J. D. Richardson presented Mr. and Mrs. Block with a beautiful bouquet on behalf of the congregation. Mr. Block is the oldest official in the church.

The choir of the United Church under the leadership of Mrs. R. Lundie are making preparations for a Cantata to be given in the church on Easter Sunday.

HOCKEY! HOCKEY!

Streetsville Town League Big Opening

On Friday night last, ideal weather and an enthusiastic crowd greeted a double header of Canada's National game. The spacious well-light rink, centrally located will, without doubt, prove a mecca this year for Streetsville's sport loving public.

The first encounter saw the Creditvale Cavaliers put up a game fight against the High School Bucaneers. The goal getters were R. Cowan and A. Pape, while for the school, Bailey and Hope bulged the twine. The game ended in a tie 2-2.

Line up:

Creditvale—Goal, B. Edwards; defence, W. Smith, O. Schnuer; forwards, R. Cowan, A. Pope, T. Doherty; subs, R. Edwards, M. Edwards.

High School—Goal, Ron Bruce; defence, M. Steggall, Reg. Bruce; forwards, Hope, Ardagh, Bailey; subs., Cook, Lines, Treanor.

Referee—Ted Ellis.

The second game was even faster. Arch's Tigers nearly had Trinity Club up a tree. For the Tigers, Geo. Klink, Cunningham and Ted Cooke were outstanding. While the goal getters of Trinity were: H. Wright, Steggall and Arch. The effective defence work of Ellis and Wright broke up many a Tiger invasion. The final score of this game was Trinity 4, Tigers 3. Line-up: Tigers—Goal, W. Arch; defence, Geo. Klink, N. Russell; forwards, Cunningham, J. Lindsay and Ted Cooke.

Trinity—F. Haddon; defence, T. Ellis, H. Wright; forwards, Steggall, Arch, Atchison; subs, C. Cave, Geo. Cave and Smith.

Referees—P. McArthur and Reg. Bruce.

Standing of League

	W	L	T	Pts
Trinity	1	0	0	2
High School	0	0	1	1
Tigers	0	1	0	0

On Friday night at 7.30 an all-star team from the league will meet Riverdale Collegiate team of Toronto at the local community rink.

COMMUNITY CLUB

Our last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Fullerton on Jan. 7th. The attendance was not large on account of bad roads and sickness. It was discussed about helping a family that is in need. Several members thanked the club for fruit received while on the sick list. The meeting closed with our song. The hostess, assisted by her mother, served a dainty lunch. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Will Cook on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

ERINDALE

The Erindale Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, January 7th. at the home of Mrs. Geo. Burke. The attendance was good and the meeting throughout was a success. Mrs. James Allen, Toronto, was the special speaker, taking for her subject, "Home craft for women and girls." Mrs. Allen demonstrated her talk by exhibiting some of her own handwork. Mrs. Allen's address was very interesting and much enjoyed.

The regular routine of business was transacted which was followed by two vocal solos by Miss Annie O'Brien and was accompanied on the piano by Miss May McGill.

The Committee served refreshments after the meeting had adjourned.

Information for the Busy Farmer

By winning almost forty prizes in the Grain and Hay Show in Chicago, Ontario exhibitors demonstrated that our seed stocks and climatic conditions are quite favorable to the production of highest quality commodities on the market.

"The feature of 1930 in Essex County was the come-back in corn," states Agricultural Representative S. B. Strothers. "Essex should be in a position to take care of a good portion of the Canadian seed corn trade in 1931. This at one time was an excellent industry with us, and we hope to secure this market once more."

Canada has 100,000 fewer horses than it did a year ago, despite the fact that the area under cultivation has increased by about a million acres. The tractor and the combine in Western Canada are primarily responsible. In the east, where mixed farming is the rule, the same inroads have not been made. In Ontario, notwithstanding the motor car, there are more horses than there were. The total for this province is 606,000.

A Real Opportunity

Some idea of the opportunity for Ontario farmers to develop the export trade in hog and pork products is afforded by official figures with respect to dead meat imports into Great Britain. For the first ten months of 1930, bacon imports reached a total of 7,414,020 cwt., valued at £34,922,063, and of this volume Canada supplied only 87,109 cwt., which had a value of £433,955. During the same period imports of hams totalled 865,035 cwt., of which the United States supplied 715,352 cwt., or more than ten times the 70,968 cwt., supplied by Canada. These were the only two in a long list of dead meat imports in which the Canadian contribution was large enough to list separately.

Rural Hydro Grows

Latest available figures show a total of 7,100 miles of rural hydro lines in Ontario and it is proposed to add almost 2,000 more during 1931. Reduction in rates has had a lot to do with the recent rapid growth. Nearly every county now has hydro in the rural districts. The average cost for current to light the house and barn and run ordinary appliances such as toasters, washing machines and irons, is about $5.00 per month. It runs considerably higher where a motor and a stove are operated. In addition to providing needed conveniences, the development of rural hydro is expected to prove one of the biggest factors in improving farm conditions in Ontario in the future.

Manitoulin Turkeys

During the month of December over 8,000 turkeys were shipped from Manitoulin Island to different parts of Canada and the United States. The average weight of the birds was about 20 pounds, which speaks highly for the quality of production there. It is worthy of note that the turkey was introduced into the island for the purpose of checking a plague of grasshoppers, which it did effectively. The farmers were not slow, however, to see that there was money in turkeys and from a sideline they have become a leading industry of the Island.

O.A.C. Exhibits

Warm tribute has been paid to the O.A.C. by the International Livestock Exposition officials for the excellent character of the College's exhibit at the recent show in Chicago. During the last four years a series of four educational exhibits have been placed at the International by O.A.C. The first one referred to the use of legumes in crop rotations; the second to the development and usefulness of the Canadian type of bacon hog, the third to Canadian lamb, and the fourth to Hardy Alfalfa. These exhibits have not only been of outstanding value at the big exposition, but have also been a splendid medium of advertising for Ontario products. The college is to be congratulated on its very useful work in this connection.

Experimental Union Gathering

Prominent agriculturists from all parts of Ontario were in attendance at a banquet given last week in connection with the 52nd annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union at O.A.C. Praising the wonderful work carried on by the Union, Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, issued a strong appeal to the young men of Ontario to stay on the farms and be proud of their calling. Dr. Archibald, director of the Ontario Experimental Farm at Ottawa, and Mr. J. B. Fairbairn, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, also delivered addresses. A strain of optimism pervaded the address of Mr. D. Z. Gibson of Caledonia, president of the Union, who in referring to prevailing unsatisfactory conditions in the farming industry, declared that farming should be in no way discouraged, as similar conditions have been experienced before. "History repeats itself," he said. "The past is a guarantee of the future. And just as an era of prosperity followed the serious depression of 35 years ago, so there will come in the near future better times for the farmer as well as for others."

EBENEZER SHORT COURSE NEWS

The month courses in agriculture and home economics at Ebenezer got away to a good start during the past week. Forty-nine boys were enrolled in agriculture and 48 girls in domestic science. The Castlemore Women's Institute and the Toronto Gore Township Council have provided the buildings with light and fuel for the students. These courses are proving popular with the older people as well as the young.

The students are all within driving distance of Ebenezer, coming from Weston, Thistletown, Malton, Claireville, Mono Road, Nashville, Bolton, Woodbridge and Coleraine. Over a dozen boys and girls are from York County. So far the roads have been open for motoring, a factor which is responsible for the high regular attendance.

Two special lecturers added spice to the boys' course. Frank Parish of Brampton took up knots and rope splicing on Jan. 6. This demonstration was especially worthwhile and at the end of the class each boy had a rope halter of his own making to take home. Jas. Bryden of Guelph took up soil fertility and fertilizers on Jan. 8. Many of the older farmers came in for his talk on commercial fertilizers for the various crops. Needless to say the hall is crowded with the present enrolment of boys.

Mrs. E. W. Kellam has the girls in her home for sewing and domestic science. Two large rooms provide seating accommodation for the 48 girls. The girls and older women are very enthusiastic about the subjects and the way they are taught.

Friday afternoon, Jan. 9, the boys and girls held a combined meeting in the township hall. Musical numbers, class songs and yells, contests, readings made up the program, with moving pictures to finish an enjoyable afternoon.

It is planned to have a conducted tour to Toronto on Jan. 14. Visits will be made to industrial concerns, large departmental stores and packing houses. This trip will be worthwhile from an educational viewpoint. A literary and social evening is being planned for Thursday night, Jan. 15, in the Toronto Gore Township Hall to which all the parents and friends of the students are invited. These courses at Ezenezer will set attendance records for Peel County and are among the largest held in the province in 1931.

DRAMATIC SERIES

Already a coach from each of the six junior organizations have visited the office of the Dept. of Agriculture and have made their play selection for the dramatic series which is well under way in the County of Peel. These plays have been ordered from the publishers and within a short time rehearsals will commence. The coaches are as follows: W. W. Wilkinson, Cheltenham; Mae Harper, Bolton; Rev. W. T. McCree, Streetsville; Mrs. J. M. Dolson, Brampton; Mrs. Elgin Bryans, Trinity; Chas. Hewson, Tullamore.

This is the first time that Peel Juniors have had a dramatic series and it is creating a good deal of interest. These plays will be run off early in February in groups of two and the winners will play off the first week in March and may use the same play or choose a new one. Each play must have five characters and takes approximately 30 minutes to present. It is expected that these plays will be presented in a fine manner and no doubt a good deal of talent will be discovered.

The dramatics are taking the place of the debating series which the Peel Juniors have had in previous years.

PEEL JUNIOR NEWS BULLETIN

The Junior organization in Peel has decided that they want their fellow workers to know what they are doing in their own local branch, so with this in mind they have decided to publish a Junior News Bulletin. Each organization has been asked to appoint a reporter and this reporter will write up meetings and other items of interest and all the material will be sent to the office of the Department of Agriculture at an early date. The Agricultural Representative and Home Demonstrator will act as editors for the first publication and if it proves to be of interest to all, the bulletin may be published monthly and editors-in-chief chosen from among the Juniors. This News Bulletin will be printed at the agricultural office and a copy will be mailed to each junior on the mailing list. At present Middlesex is the only county in the province issuing a paper of this kind, and this will be a new venture for Peel.

With each branch co-operating it is certain that the paper will prove interesting and will be of value to the various branches.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate and Martin are the only working members of the Widow O'Hara's household. Martin studies medicine at night; he has a chance to go to Germany but finances forbid. Mary Kate works for Gordon Rountree in his office. She meets Gordon's friend, Christopher Steynes, who is being pursued by a Russian countess and her daughter—object marriage. In order to discourage them, Christopher proposes that Mary Kate act as his wife for 24 hours. With the thought of using the cheque she is to receive from Steynes, to send Martin to Germany, she agrees. The countess is discouraged and Mary Kate goes to Steynes' house for the rest of the night. A burglar breaks in and is shot by Steynes. The police take her name and address as a witness. Mary is supposed to be on a business trip for Rountree.

CHAPTER XXIV.—(Cont'd.)

"My God!" prayed Mary Kate, covering her eyes with her hand, crouching down against her pillow, shuddering in the chilly gloom that comes before morning. "My God, what have I done!

"Is it as easy as this," she thought, for a girl to get in wrong? Is this all there is to it?"

Whether it was the coffee, or Mrs. Peters' snoring, or her own tireless threshing thoughts that kept her restless, the fact was that she was hopelessly awake, sleep was as absent from the possibilities of the moment as flight, or peace of mind, or coherent reflection. Mary Kate tossed and twisted, sighed, started up nervously, settled herself, with an aching head and a dry throat, resolutely to sleep.

After awhile there was pearly gray at the windows. Morning! And never had she longed so little to see the day.

The shapes of the furniture emerged slowly from the mass of shadows. The two glass doors through which alone the light was filtering—for Mrs. Peters had barred and locked the window—grew a brighter gray.

Mary Kate had been cold, an hour or two ago. But now she was feverish with the bad air of the hermetically sealed room, maddened by the drone—drone—drone of the sleeping woman's breath.

Suddenly she was out of bed. She groped for the dressing gown, and felt for her slippers. Noiselessly she opened one of the porch doors, and noiselessly crept out into the wet freshness and silence of the porch.

On this same porch she had been happy, last night, just as the sun was sinking. But between sunset and sunrise she had lived through half the emotions of her life.

The garden was drenched with heavy dews, but already the warmth of the coming day was softening the air, and the trees and shrubs, gray shadows on lighter gray a few moments ago, were taking definite shape. Color was pouring into them; brown into the great gnarled oak boles, green into the young trembling leaves on the lilac trees. A great clump of bridal wreath stretched snowy streamers into the brightening air; the sad and subtle odor of wet earth and grass was cut by a sudden exquisite breath of acacia.

Mary Kate huddled in a basket chair, wrapping about herself a plaid that had been folded across it. She saw the wet leaves glisten in the first shafts from the east and the stiff curved leaves of the oaks and the thin shredded foliage of the peppers take on a paten of shining gold. The sun dazzled bright in the upper leaves of all the trees, sank down through their branches in broad banners and waves of warmth and brightness. It was morning.

The girl watched until her eyes were heavy and sore, and until columns of blue smoke were arising here and there beyond the trees, from more than one stately roof-line. Birds were hopping and calling among the wet bushes now, there was chirping, and the flash of wings, everywhere, and toward the kitchen Mary Kate heard the crisping of steps, and the clink of milk bottles.

She went wearily indoors, finding Mrs. Peters gone, and the neighboring bed flung open to air with a certain Nordic thoroughness. Exhaustedly she flung herself once again on her bed, drawing the covers over her, wrapper and all. And this time sleep found her almost instantly, deep, dreamless sleep, in which she could forget for a little while what had preceded the merciful oblivion, and what must follow the inevitable awakening.

* * * *

"This is Miss O'Hara. Yes. Now, Miss O'Hara," said Constable Browning, looking up from an improvised desk, in that very living room for whose Spanish completeness Mary Kate was so deadly weary, "we'll only detain you a moment. Will you sit down?"

Mary Kate had entered heavily, slowly, looking fearfully into the face of one man after another. She was dressed in the clothing she had worn down from town, on the day before; she looked ghastly pale, and the rings about her eyes were black this morning.

There were several persons in the room. Chris was there, Peters and Joseph, the old gardener, Gordon Rountree, looking nervous and sympathetic and troubled, a young police officer, Constable Browning, who had been here last night, and a businesslike young man who was busily taking stenographic records of everything that was said. There was also a heavy-faced, gloomy-looking young man who seemed to be from the Coroner's office, or perhaps he was from the City and County Hospital. A jury of Spanish Inquisitors could not have appeared more horrible to Mary Kate. To her the room was a veritable torture chamber.

The bright dawn had been obscured by a heavy fog; the garden, the world, were blotted out by it. There was a certain gloom in the room, accentuated by the roughly-plastered walls and the dark furniture; above the table where the Constable sat a light was burning.

"You were in this house last night, Miss O'Hara?"

"I—yes. I was here."

"Have I your name and address correctly?"

He read them. Her tragic eyes wandered to Chris's face.

"Yes, that's right."

"You are a friend of Mr. Steynes?"

"Hardly that. He asked me to do something for him, as a sort of joke—"

She saw the expressionless glances of the officers cross and meet.

"Why, that's all right," Browning said considerately. "That isn't our affair. We merely want to know how you first became aware that somebody was trying to break into the house. Just tell it simply, what you heard and saw, and what you did. Take it easy. All we want is the truth."

"I told you," Gordon Rountree said in a low, hurried voice, uncomfortably, awkwardly, "that Miss O'Hara has been my secretary for two years, and that she is a young lady for whom—ha!—I have the greatest—well, respect."

The Constable's hard eyes fixed him with an impersonal stare. He pursed his lips as if about to expectorate, swallowed, looked back at his papers.

"Sure," he conceded indifferntly.

Mary Kate, rapidly, without looking at any of them, told her story. There was a brief, not unkindly, cross-examination.

"That's all," said Browning.

"You won't need Miss O'Hara any more?" Chris asked.

"Not unless he gets well—the feller that was shot," the officer said, with all the rancor of his type for the arrogant and idle rich. "If he does she may have to appear in court."

"It seems to me a—well, if you'll excuse me, a rotten thing," Christopher said, "that a man can't take a shot at any armed burglar in his own house, without dragging his—his friends, his guests through all this publicity."

"It isn't that," Mr. Browning explained, with the menacing patience of those who know that they are invincible. "It's that—looka here, now, I don't say it's so in this case, and I don't say it's often so, but suppose this young lady had framed this up with the burglar? How would I know—"

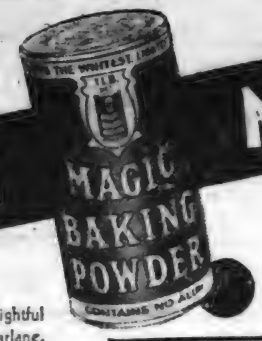
"It seems to me you're rather exceeding your authority, Constable," Chris said, in a pause, in a tone Mary Kate had never heard from him before. "Anything that is in the line of your duty, by all means do," he went on, a white line forming about his mouth as he spoke, and his color receding under his country tan, leaving his face pallid, "but don't diverge into any plot that you happen to remember from any book you may have read!"

The two men frowned at one another. Each was measuring the other's strength; the power of the law against the power of money. And as usual the money won. The Constable dropped something of his truculent manner; no use to antagonize these people, who had influence sometimes in unexpected quarters.

"That's all right, sir," he said civilly. "I'm sure I have no object in annoying Miss O'Hara. As far as I'm concerned we'll have no further use for her, and if she's wanted at the trial, she can settle that with the Court."

"All right, Mary," Chris said, coming over to her. "Come out into the patio a minute," he said, putting his hand on her shoulder, "I want to talk to you."

The square patio was filled with fog, but the sun was beating against the gray mass, far up in the sky, and the soft damp air was warm and penetrated with a strange golden light. The little red fish swam busily under their lily pads, and the parrot walked upside down on the gay hoop of the perch, and talked and chuckled mysteriously to himself. All the upper windows were open to the morning air, letting out the smoky, close, dusty air of the night.



"Don't worry about him," Chris said reassuringly, with a jerk of his head toward the living room, and the inquisitioner. "He's just puffed up with a little brief authority."

"Chris, if Moody—the burglar, lives, will they have a trial?"

"Why should there be any trial? There isn't any question that Moody was in the house; they saw him lying there, themselves, at the foot of the stairs. The man undoubtedly will plead guilty. I never heard anything funnier in my life than the way this Browning ass is carrying on!"

Boys will be boys! And it is interesting to note the effect in their mannerism when garbed in mannish togs as the English sack suit illustrated.

It is quite like dad's and gives young lads such a big thrill to wear a real mannish suit.

The collarless coat has open neckline and buttons down centre-front with rounded corners at lower edge. It has a real pocket at each side with pocket above for "hanky." The straight shorts are pressed in crease at front.

Mother will find it very simple to make.

In soft brown and tan shades in diagonal tweed with brown bone buttons, it will be found very practical, warm and smart. The cost will be surprisingly small.

Style No. 3230 is designed for boys of 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. The 8-year size requires 2¼ yards of 35-inch material with ⅛ yard of 35-inch lining.

Brown wool jersey, navy blue twill, tan and light brown checked wool velour, tan gabardine and nile green poplin are only a few of the many attractive combinations suitable.

Fiber of Wood Pulp Is Good Cow-Feed

The Forest Product Laboratory, Madison, Wisconsin, has developed a process to convert fiber of wood pulp into suitable food for cattle. The food resulting from the treatment of the wood pulp with heat and chemicals has been made suitable for cows; and the cows like it. It is believed that in this way it will be possible to utilize the sawdust that up until this time has been practically a useless by-product of lumber camps. Apparently the use of sawdust in this way does not cut down either the quantity or the quality of the milk from cows using this sort of fodder. According to chemists, it is perfectly feasible to convert sawdust into succulent dishes for human consumption also.

Isn't it a good thing the new year comes around once in a while with its manuscript of 365 days, all untried clean sheets? Somehow we feel we can start over then for Father Time seems to be handing us another chance to make good.

One of the yearly puzzles that keeps growing more and more perplexing to many people is the money question. Things that were considered luxuries are now necessities and it is hard to keep track of where the money goes. The following suggestion might help to solve this problem.

First subtract from the annual salary 10 per cent. for savings and income tax payments. Then divide the remainder into five equal parts for—1st. food; 2nd, shelter; 3rd, clothing; 4th. household expenses (which includes electricity, fuel, water, maid service, repairs and refurnishing); 5th development (which includes church and club dues, vacation funds, benevolences, medical bills, automobile upkeep, personal expenses, entertainment, education and recreation).

Then lay aside these sums every pay day over the year and keep within them every week. It works out fairly well.

Window Cleaning.

Occasionally wipe the windows off with clean paper. Tissue paper is best if you have it. It keeps the dust and dirt from accumulating and reduces the number of real window washings. The amount of black dirt collected on the paper, also the ease with which they can be cleaned is a surprise and clean, shining windows for another week or so is the result.

Three-year-old Beatrice was eating her porridge slower and slower. Her mother knew she wanted her toast and honey waiting on her plate, so she said: "Eat all your porridge now, dear." But there was no answer. After a while a violent coughing took place. "Why, what is the matter, what are you doing that for?" Still no answer, but the coughing kept up, a noticeably forced cough. "Listen, Beatrice, why do you do that?" At last the muffled answer came: "I coughing 'cause I don't want my porridge."

Twilight Hour Story—Chapter 7

Billy, the farmer man's son, left the barn door open and then went to get George, the horse, and pretty soon Mamma Hen thought she would see if it was a nice day outside. Of course when she went out all the four little chicks went too. It did look nice outside for the sun was shining, but just as they got outside of the door—swish came the wind, and it was such a cold wind. It was so cold that the little chicks came running back and wanted to get under their Mamma again. But just think, Mamma Hen wouldn't sit down on them as she did before, so they could get warm under her wings. All she did was hunt around for something to eat for herself, and besides that, she walked so fast they could hardly keep up with her. I really believe she is going to be a bad Mamma, and the chicks looked so cute, too. I don't see how she could act that way, do you? Well, she just got worse and worse and even got quite cross because they followed her, and all at once she ran real fast away from them and left them all alone. Wasn't that a dreadful thing to do? And there were four little chickies without a Mamma. She went off and left them just like some bad mammas leave their little boys and girls sometimes. It is a good thing it isn't often that there are bad Mammas but once in a while that is what happens. We should be so glad we have dear kind mammas who always take such good care of us, shouldn't we? I tell you there is nothing, no, nothing in the world so good and nice as a good mamma, is there? So you must always remember to love her and help her just all you can and when bed time comes, it pleases her if you hurry up and get into your warm little beds, then turn out the lights too, so you can feel the soft dark that makes eyes sleepy. What that little verse again? Perhaps you can say it from memory.

The dark is kind and cosy,
The dark is soft and deep,
The dark will pat my pillow,
And love me as I sleep.
God made the dark so daytime
Could close its tired eyes,
And sleep awhile in comfort
Beneath the starry skies.

Next Week—"The Little Chickens' New Mamma."

Hey-Day

Come and go a-berrying,
Would you wiser be!
Come and learn that everything
Younger is than we—

We who almost dared to think
In our wearying
There were no more springs to drink,
No more pails to swing!

We were dusty with our books,
Come and let us go
Out among the lyric brooks,
Where the verses grow.

Where the world is one delight
Made of many a song
Lasting till the nod of night,
Lovely all day long.

Till the smallest glimmering nook
Holds the moon in glory;
And the heavens are the book
And the stars the story!

There the peaceful earth is sweet,
Either way it lies—
Under unacquainted feet
Or in tired eyes.

—Witter Bynner, in "Young Harvard."

Obligations

No man can be under an obligation to believe anything, who hath not sufficient means whereby he may be assured that such a thing is true.—Tillotson.

Master: "How did you puncture the tire so badly?" Chauffeur: "Ran over a bottle, sir." "Didn't you see it in time?" "No, sir; the man had it in his pocket."

Canadian Coal Industry

The last three years in the Canadian coal industry have shown a larger output than any similar period in the history of mining in the Dominion. Two of the three years have seen new records established. The year 1929 showed a slight decline, but the output even in that year was nearly 12 per cent. higher than the average production of the past five years. Within the five-year period the increase in output has been nearly 30 per cent. Canadian mines last year supplied approximately one-half of the coal consumed in the country. Imports came largely from the United States, while there were similar quantities from the United Kingdom.

The Canadian fuel problem is geographical in character. The Dominion possesses abundant supplies of coal, but these are situated at the extreme ends of the country. The two central Provinces of Ontario and Quebec are without local coal supplies, though at present certain deposits are under investigation in the northern part of Ontario. As a result of the distribution of coal within the Dominion, there are large imports into Quebec and Ontario from the conveniently situated mines in the United States.

All the smart young women are wearing snappy jacket suits of lightweight woolen.

The one sketched is just adorable with the bodice of dress in lighter blending tone.

The pointed treatment of skirt creates a flat slimness through the hips and waist. The snug fit of the skirt is what makes it so popular. Note the low placement of fulness with three inverted plaits at front and one at centre-back which flare only in motion.

Style No. 3190 can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Spanish red tweed in diagonal weave with beige wool jersey bodice is youthfully smart.

Hunter's green wool jersey is sportive made entirely of the one fabric.

Wool crepe, silk crepe, kasha, canton crepe and tweed-like rayon crepes are suitable for this chic model that may be worn all through the spring.

Through a Glass Darkly

If I could be as sure of life
As I am sure of death,
It would be easier by far
To draw this constant breath.

If I could see the gates of life
Swing wide on such delights
As swing the gallant gates of death,
I should sleep well o' nights.

But life is such a twisted thing,
And death it goes so straight
Between the stars and through the moon.
Oh, I must not be late—

And I must not be hesitant,
But step with valiance out
Beyond the little lanes of life
To learn what death's about.

Sunday School Lesson

January 18. Lesson III—The Ministry of John the Baptist—Luke 3: 7-17. Golden Text—Bring forth therefore fruits worthy of repentance.—Luke 3: 8.

V. 15. We are told that many people wondered whether John the Baptist might not be Christ. The word "Christ" is of Greek origin and means anointed. It thus corresponds exactly with the Hebrew term "Messiah." In the Old Testament "Messiah" hardly occurs as a title, but many people are thought of as "anointed" in a special way. Thus kings or high priests, or even foreigners, such as Cyrus (Isa. 45: 1), might be spoken of as "mine anointed."

In the time of Jesus the term had come to have a technical meaning. For long centuries now the Jews had been subjected to one great heathen empire after another; at this time they were a part of the Roman Empire; they were allowed certain special privileges in it and almost complete religious freedom; but they had nothing like the liberty and independence of "Dominion status." They were held down by military force, and felt that in spite of religious liberty their national life was thwarted and spoilt by the heathen oppression. They were perhaps the proudest and bravest race in the Empire, and they dreamed of freedom. God, as many of them thought, must raise up for them a Deliverer, a great king in their midst, as David had been who should restore and increase the ancient glories of their nation. This Deliverer, for whose reign they hoped, they called "Messiah."

This hope and widespread expectation was much more than political. The world, as they saw it, was given over to evil; the best of them were much concerned for the triumph of righteousness and the spread of true religion than they were for their own national aggrandizement. Surely, they felt, the world had suffered the rule of Satan and of the heathen long enough; surely God must soon overthrow sin and evil, and establish his glorious kingdom of righteousness and peace and true religion! The expectation of Messiah was widespread, but not, it seems, universal; many thought that the Messiah would be an earthly king and deliverer like David; others thought of a mysterious, angelic Being who should appear on the clouds of heaven. It was not unnatural that in the excitement of John's "Revival" some should wonder whether he might not be the expected Messiah.

V. 16. But this was not John's function. He was like the outrider who precedes the royal carriage, or like the servant who cuts a way through the thick brush, that his master may follow. He was the herald, the forerunner of the Messiah, not the Messiah himself. John had baptized with water, immersing his disciples in the Jordan, but there would follow him "the stronger One"—apparently he meant Messiah—who should baptize men "with the holy Spirit, and with fire."

This phrase combines two very different ideas. What is meant by "fire" the following verses show. John proclaimed the near advent of the fiery Judgment. In the Day of Judgment the worthless chaff would be given to the flames and burnt. Hence, the future baptism would be a baptism of "fire." It would not, however, be quite true to say that John the Baptist preached "hell fire," for his meaning is that the wicked, the chaff, will be destroyed, not that they will be eternally punished. We ought not to expect to find in his teaching a realization of God as the Father of infinite mercy as the divine Shepherd who seeks for the lost sheep "until he find." It is not very clear how John could have spoken of a baptism of fire and of the holy Spirit at the same time, and it is possible, though not certain, that the words, "and with the holy Spirit," were added by the Christians to correspond better with the real facts, for though the coming of Jesus was in a real sense a Judgment (see John 3: 19), yet, actually, Christian baptism was a baptism of the Spirit.

"Denunciation is an ineffective method. It is very doubtful if scolding ever does any good. Righteous indignation may sometimes be needed, but it is not enough. Rebuke for failure in duty will only aggravate, unless the better way can be shown. Humanity need not despair, but hope. The gospel is positive, not a mere negation of evil, but the overcoming of evil with good. Herein is its glory. Duty can be achieved, and conscience can be void of offence, and righteousness can, and presently will, cover the earth like a garment."

Cold Compressed Air From Texas Oil Wells Baffles Geologists

Nature Continues to Astonish Men of Science—But Man Bodly Harnesses Force Even Though Phenomenon Remains Mystery

Snyder, Tex.—One of the greatest mysteries in Texas to geologists, that of the source and cause of the frigid compressed air which comes from wells in the section around Snyder, has been heightened by the bringing in of another well of enormous compressed air flow in a new locality five miles from the other wells. The latest discovery was made in a test for oil that was being drilled by Seifert, Dibble & Blackburn.

The air stratum was encountered at a depth of 1,171 feet. The air rushed out of the hole with a tremendous roar and quickly covered the derrick with frozen moisture. The flow was brought under control and preparations are being made to harness it for use in boilers in industries of nearby communities.

The first of these strange wells was completed near Snyder about five years ago. The air was below the zero mark in temperature and during the hot summer days, when the surface temperature was 90 to 100 degrees, the freezing air from the well was used for refrigerating vegetables and other products. Later it was turned into boilers of industrial plants and the power used as a substitute for steam. Since the original discovery two other similar wells have been brought in here and are furnishing power for boilers. Many geologists of note have visited the freak wells, but none of them has been able to explain the phenomena. For a time it was thought that the product of the wells might be non-inflammable helium gas, but an analysis showed that it was pure oxygen.

In Acts 19: 2 we read of a company of disciples in Ephesus who knew of John's baptism, but knew nothing of a pouring out of the holy Spirit. It was this new "Spirit," given to Christians which chiefly distinguished John's baptism from that of Jesus. The receiving of the holy Spirit, which was the seal and proof that a man was a Christian, was associated with baptism, sometimes because it was given in baptism, sometimes because it immediately preceded baptism. When we think of baptism by the holy Spirit we should not have in mind the strange "speaking with tongues," so much as the new power and hope and character which came with Christianity.

John is here represented as looking forward to the coming of Messiah (though the name is not used) whose shoe-lace he felt himself unworthy to untie.

Bad Patches

Have you noticed how disappointments come in waves? The explanation is hard to find. It puzzles us why, at certain periods, all kinds of troubles should seem to concentrate upon us.

It is really stupid to allow ourselves to be intimidated by a continuous run of bad luck. If we were wise enough, we should probably discover just why these things happen. We may be suffering these set-backs through a force of circumstances over which, apparently, we have no control. On the other hand, they may be the final result of some perpetual wrongdoing of our own. Much of the trouble can be eliminated if we look into the reasons honestly and without fear of finding unpleasant facts about ourselves.

"I'm feeling blue and bad-tempered," we say. Immediately the fact becomes more certain. In nine cases out of ten, these bad patches are of our own making, and they continue with us because it is too much trouble for us to get rid of them.—G. H. G.

Stuff To Give 'Em

Farmer Jenkins believed in giving his workers a real Christmas meal.

This year he ordered the feast to start with soup, to be followed by goose, roast beef, and unlimited supplies of plum-pudding.

The workers, having fasted all day in order to be in good trim for the Christmas meal, were prepared to make the supplies look foolish. Roast goose and strong ale were all they expected.

"'Ere, what's this?" said a disappointed guest, when a plate of soup was placed before him. "You've forgotten the goose and stuffin'. I don't want any gravy."

Cheek

A very young man-about-town entered the hairdressing establishment for a quick shave.

Much to his annoyance, however, the shop was full of people waiting to be attended to.

"I say, my man," he said, "how long before I can get a shave?"

The barber, who was working at full speed, looked him up and down.

"Well, sir," he said curtly, "you might be able to start in about a couple of years."

Canada's Fisheries Report Good Year

Outstanding Increase is in Salmon Pack on Pacific Coast

Although prices were lower, Canada's catch of sea fish and shell fish in the first nine months of the past year was larger by some 30,000,000 pounds than the catch in the corresponding period of 1929. The outstanding increase was in the salmon pack on the Pacific coast, in which it is already clear there will be a new record established for the year. The combined catch of all varieties of sea fish and shell fish in the nine months' period was approximately 818,570,000 pounds, compared with 788,201,700 pounds in the first three-quarters of 1929.

Increase on Pacific Coast

The sea fisheries for the month of September showed an increase on the Atlantic. For the two coasts together there was a drop of 32,900,000 pounds in the catch. On the Atlantic coast decreases were fairly general in nearly all the principal fisheries, although Quebec and Nova Scotia both fared better as regards mackerel than they had done in 1929 and there was an increased catch in Nova Scotia halibut. The major lobster fishing for the month was in New Brunswick, and the catch there was nearly 1,997,000 pounds compared with 1,311,400 pounds in September, 1929. The total catch of lobsters on the coast as a whole since the beginning of the late season of 1929 was 40,105,200 pounds, while in the preceding corresponding period landings totalled only 36,498,900 pounds.

On the Pacific coast, salmon and pilchard landings for September were both well ahead of the totals for the same month of 1929, though in each case the value was less than a year ago. The salmon catch amounted to about 33,643,000 pounds, a gain of over 600,000 pounds. The pilchard catch was 58,240,000 pounds, against 50,826,200 pounds in September last year. The month's halibut fishery was much less productive than the halibut operations in September, 1929. In September of the present year the catch was 2,874,000 pounds, compared with 3,493,800 pounds in September, 1929.

For the British Columbia salmon pack figures are now available up to Oct. 11, at which date it had reached 1,990,509 cases, or more than 590,000 cases above the pack total for the full year 1929, and only 74,689 cases less than the record quantity put up in 1926. There have been large increases this year in the pack of all varieties of salmon in British Columbia except cohoes. The sockeye pack increased by over 187,000 cases. Pink production has more than doubled as has also the production of springs. There have been substantial gains in the case of chums, bluebacks and steelheads, although the pack of the last-named is never large. There is little question but that the pack for the full year will set a new record for the British Columbia canned salmon industry.

No more COLIC pains

. . . give Castoria

A CRY in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. When there's need of gentle regulation. Every child loves the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to right the irregularities of older, growing children. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. It's prescribed by doctors!

S.H.S. LITERARY NOTES

Oh! oh! back again. The New Year didn't start so badly after all. Last Friday night we showed the public what we could do in the way of hockey. Our boys, who spend a lot of their time on strenuous study, played an excellent game with a number of Creditvale's youth and the score was "ties."

Well, we started hot lunches on Monday. We had "pork and beans" and coffee. We're going to have various kinds of soup and tea, too. These things will sure make us enjoy our cold lunches much more. It will make our boys play hockey even better, if possible.

Well that's about all for this week, so I'll say good-bye.

HELEN TURNER, reporter.

RAILWAY TRAINS WILL NOT CHANGE

Consideration is being given by the Canadian Pacific Railway officials to a proposal to send passengers for Orangeville from Toronto around by way of Streetsville and Brampton. At the present time passengers travel by way of Woodbridge, Kleinburg, Bolton, Mono Road and Caledon, by the mountain line to Orangeville. According to the proposal, passengers for Bolton would be taken care of by the trains to Sudbury, and passengers for Mono Road and Caledon by mixed trains.

There is no intention of abandoning the line from Bolton to Orangeville, the Globe was officially informed last night. "We are only in the discussion stage, and before any definite steps could be taken three townships affected would have to be consulted, and the whole matter receive the approval of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners."

The townships are interested through bonuses given years ago to the old Credit Valley Railway and the Toronto Grey and Bruce Railway, which are now part of the Canadian Pacific Railway system.

"Nothing may come of it," the official said. 'There are many obstacles in the path at present, and premature publication of any proposals might interfere with our plans'," he said.

VILLAGE COUNCIL

The inaugural meeting of the village council was held Monday morning. After the oath of office had been administered, a short religious service was participated in by Revs. Perry, Purchase and McCree.

A lady representative from A. E. Wilson and Co., Toronto, addressed the council re insurance against accidents on the streets and sidewalks. This matter was laid over.

Mr. W. Leader, made application for Hydro. He was turned down. Council will not agree to tenents putting in Hydro.

Streetsville Fair Board asked for the usual grant of $50.00. This was turned down, too.

The following motions were passed:

Johnston-Hardy—That meetings of council be held first Monday in month at 8 p.m. Carried.

Hardy-Johnston—That Messrs. Bailey and Drennan be Road and Bridge Committee. Carried.

Johnston-Bailey — That Messrs. Hope and Hardy be Finance Committee. Carried.

Drennan-Bailey—That Messrs. Hardy and Johnston be Fire, Light and Water Committee. Carried.

A. V. Devins was granted a renewal of Pool Room and Bowling Alley license at usual rates. He is to close every night at 11 o'clock and keep closed on Christmas, Good Friday and Thanksgiving Day. No boys under 16 years to be allowed in.

Rev. R. J. W. Perry was re-appointed to the High School Board for 1931-2-3.

Rev. G. H. Purchase was re-appointed to Public Library Board for 1931-2-3.

W. T. B. Switzer will be assessor for another year.

Harry Gill will be Fire Chief for 1931.

Joseph Drennan was re-appointed as a member of Board of Health.

Geo. Duller, Henry Noble and W. S. McClintock were re-appointed as fence-viewers.

The Council is advertising for tenders for the positions of Constable, Road Overseer and other jobs that usually go together, and will meet again on Jan. 19th to pick a man.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Block, Port Credit, celebrated the 58th anniversary of their marriage last week and received a gift of flowers from the congregation of the United Church. Their pastor, Rev. J. D. Richardson, conveyed the good wishes of the congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Block were married in Streetsville by Rev. Samuel Clements of the Methodist Church. They have lived in the same house for 58 years.

TRINITY CHURCH CLUB

Trinity Church Club will re-open its season's activities with a monster meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 21, at Church's Hall (above the Review office). All members are requested to be present as there is important business to be discussed. An invitation is also extended to anyone interested in the club to be present. Kindly keep this date open. Light refreshments will be served after the meeting.

IN MEMORIAM

HAWKINS—In loving memory of our dear father, Geo. E. Hawkins, who departed this life Jan. 12, 1929.

How sweet to sleep where all is peace,
Where sorrow cannot reach the breast,
Where all life's idle throbbings cease
And pain is lulled to rest.

—FAMILY.

Mr. Tom Epps was given a farewell party at the rectory one evening last week prior to leaving for Montreal, where he will remain for some time.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William Taylor

In a little white house, in the pretty village of Erindale, Mrs. Will Taylor was preparing for a family re-union on Christmas day. But we know not what a day nor an hour may bring forth. In the midst of her labor a message came, "your task on earth is ended, you must come and wear your crown." And for a few days she hovered on the banks between time and eternity, while death came closely, stealing on, how quietly. Then Mrs. Taylor drifted out upon the dark and unknown sea, that rolls around all the world. On the last day of 1930 friends came from far and near to pay their last tribute of respect to one who was loved by all, which was shown by the numerous floral tributes. In the beautiful Anglican Church on the hill, beside the River Credit, where she loved to worship, she was carried in by six of her old friends, Mac Wilson, Wesley Miller, Fred Turner, John Thompson, Reg. Little and Dugald McGregor. In that hush that followed the prayer, the choir sang that good old hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace." Then the Rev. Mr. Thompson said, On the last day of the year and the last time our loved member would be with us in the church, we will find in the last book, and the last chapter, in the Bible, these words, repeated three times, "I come quickly, I come quickly, I come quickly." And this call was so unexpected that it came quickly and it found her gratifying her particular fancy in life, tending to the happiness of others. When the casket was slowly moving down the aisle, the place that will know her no more forever, Mr. Merchant, her son-in-law, sang that beautiful hymn she always loved to hear. When the last solemn words were said, "Dust to dust, Earth to earth, Ashes to ashes," and we started on our separate ways, we did not think of our friend, Annie, in her chamber in the silent halls of death, but we almost hushed our voices to hear and strained our eyes to see her getting a New Year's greeting and singing at the great Re-union:

"We are gathered at the River, the beautiful, the beautiful River;
We are singing at the River that flows by the throne of God."

We always find ourselves drawing aside the curtain on the life of friends when they pass away. And the thought does not satisfy us, How much money did they make or how many great offices have they filled? But the great comforting thought is, they lived each day as they wished they had lived when they come to die. And as we look back into other years, tender memories around us twine, when the Hamilton family, father mother, four sisters and four brothers, settled on Lot 4, Ninth Line, Trafalgar. They were industrious and happy, but now only three of this family survive: John, of Brampton; Mrs. Ritchie, of Trafalgar and George of Streetsville. Annie attended No. 10 White School and was a favorite with teacher and scholars. With several other members of the family and all the young people of the neighborhood were earnest members of the Sons of Temperance Society that was held in the little frame schoolhouse on the Town Line corner. The motto of this Society at that time was, "Touch not, taste not, handle not" for it stingeth like a serpent, and bitteth like an adder—so much unlike the so-called Temperance of the present day that looks like flooding a field to make it dry.

One time when revival meetings were held in Eden church, Rev. Mr. Starr, one of the ministers preached one Sunday night, at the McCurdy's church, Ninth Line. When the choir were singing (there was a splendid choir in the church then) that old favorite hymn:

"There's a land that is fairer than day,
And by faith we shall see it afar,
For the Father waits over the way,
To prepare us a dwelling place there,
In the sweet bye and bye, in the sweet
bye and bye
We shall meet on that beautiful shore.

And from that day henceforth Annie Hamilton had in a vision so far and fleet, her passage securely booked for that beautiful shore.

When she was married to William Taylor they settled on their farm on Dundas Street. A few years before Mr. Taylor died, they sold their farm and bought a house in Erindale, where Mrs. Taylor has always taken an active part in everything, "For the good that needs assistance, for the ills that need resistance, for the good that she could do." But, above everything else she loved St. Peter's Anglican church and the minister, Rev. Mr. Thompson. She would say to him, "He understands all life's perplexities; he makes life's troubles so small and eternal blessings so great."

In June, 1929, she attended a school re-union at her old school, S.S. No. 10, Trafalgar, where she met so many she had not seen since her school days. Annie is the first and only ex-pupil of about six hundred, who met that day, who has passed away.

When we are travelling on life's way,
We may lose the path and go astray.
Let us stop and turn and let us try,
The road we would like when we come to die.
For voices are floating through the air,
There are sin sign-posts, dear friend,
beware.
And all sins are recorded on life's sheet,
And will meet us some day at the judgment seat.
Then we rejoice to think we have one friend more,
To plead for us on the other shore,
And pray our sins will be forgiven,
And keep on the road that leads to Heaven.

Where spending is saving

The moderate charge paid for having your family wash done at this laundry is actually a saving over any known home method in time—in money — and in wear-and-tear. For the convenience of those who still believe in doing part of the laundry at home we have six different kinds of family wash service, beginning with damp wash —each one a step nearer completion and each priced accordingly, so that a housewife may select as much or as little assistance as she desires. This is a splendid idea, as our constantly - growing list of regular customers shows. Our newest success is our No. 6 service of completely finished laundry on men's shirts. Phone to day or stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen.

OUR PRICES

1. Damp Wash—20 lbs. for $1.00—
5c. per pound

Canada's Population Estimated At 10 Million As Census Begins

Ottawa, Ont.—This is census year. In the first year of every decade Canada's official population is recorded, racial tendencies noted and other important facts and figures gathered by an army of government field workers. This work will begin soon, the preliminary organization having been going on in Ottawa for some months.

At the turn of the twentieth century Canadas' population was 5,371,315, and since then the country has made more rapid expansion than in any other period of its history. The opening of the West and the great basic wealth of the country has attracted thousands of immigrants, with the result that in 1911 the population was 7,206,643. When the World War began, however, immigration waned and then virtually ceased.

In 1921, when the last census was taken, Canada's population was 8,788,483. Government officials estimate the Dominion has crossed the 10,000,000 mark and that the 1931 count will show this to be Canada's official population.

170 Workers Buried By Huge Landslide

Disaster in Ecuador Will Halt Traffic for Month

Guayaquil, Ecuador. — Emergency crews worked feverishly on Sunday to extricate the bodies of 170 track laborers who were engulfed by a landslide along the Guayaquil-Quito Railway Saturday, but had little hope of finding any one alive.

Railway officials said the slide was of such enormous proportions that the normal movement of trains will be impeded for a month.

The men buried were removing the debris from an earlier slip, when they were overwhelmed. The great mass of dirt and stone poured down over their bodies and into the river along the tracks, thereby pushing a rush of waters toward the near-by town of Huigra, menacing it.

Telegraph and telephone lines also were broken, but most of these have been repaired.

Canada Forges Ahead As Rubber Exporter

The annual statistics of the United Kingdom for the calendar year 1929 again place Canada first among the external sources of supply of rubber footwear to this country, writes Gerald A. Newman, Assistant Canadian Trade Commissioner in Liverpool, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. For that year the heading "rubber boots and shoes" is separated into "rubber boots" and "rubber shoes, overshoes and goloshes." In dozens of pairs the total for both of these commodities is 4,046,769, valued at £1,660,948, Canada supplying 238,232 dozen pairs (£669,747), as compared with the previous year's record of 233,803 dozen pairs (£702,288).

Canvas shoes with rubber soles are likely to find an expanding market in this country, as there has been a marked increase in indoor winter games such as badminton. The heavy and very prevalent rains of the winter season make rubber boots (wellingtons) popular among women. Cuban and Louis-heeled shoes are the styles most in demand.

Rubber hot-water bottles have a large winter sale, and are heavily advertised by all drug and department stores. Household rubber gloves are receiving a good sale and are supplied chiefly by the United States and Germany.

English Journalist Honored By King

Washington.—The large corps of domestic and foreign correspondents in the capital were congratulating one of the ablest and most popular of their number on the first of the New Year on the signal recognition extended him by his sovereign.

Will Mott Harsant Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times for a number of years, was informed on Dec. 31, 1930, that in the list of honors bestowed by King George of England he has been made a Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Sir Will Mott has been in Washington since 1921.

Dominion Air Transport Shows Big Development

The growth of air transportation in Canada has been striking. The Dominion's vast distances have proved a unique field for speedy expansion in the transportation of passengers and freight, the exploration of northern regions, and more recently in the establishment of air mail routes.

The rapidity of this development is illustrated by the fact that from 1924 to date, the total personnel carried one mile (personnel-miles) increased from 855,000 to 12,399,000, the total freight or express from 77,000 lbs. to 3,904,000 lbs., and mail from 1,200 lbs. to 431,000 lbs.

A still greater future undoubtedly lies before aerial operations in Canada and already 6 important firms are manufacturing aircraft or aircraft accessories in Canada.

Saskatchewan Wheat Champion Repeats

Saskatoon.—George C. Canfield, of Wild Rose, Sask., is for the third time provincial wheat champion, his sample of reward wheat weighing 66 pounds to the bushel being declared the finest exhibit of hard red Spring wheat in the 22nd Saskatchewan Seed Fair. Mr. Canfield held the trophy in 1921 and 1922 and was runner up in the following year.

Winterless West Now Predicted

Weather Yearly Less Violent, Is Claim, and This Year Holds Record

Winnipeg.—Bare, dusty streets can be seen in Alberta cities and towns; Saskatchewan reports very little snow and Manitoba has yet to feel a real heavy stroke from the hand of old man Winter. Throughout the Canadian West Jack Frost so far this season has failed to maintain the reputation he has built himself on the prairies.

Wild ducks are cavorting about the lakes of Manitoba, turning deaf ears to the call of the warm, sunny south, contented with the mild weather prevailing. Blackbirds have been reported in several districts.

Old timers are wondering where Winter has gone, some even predicting that in 50 years' time there'll be no Winter on the prairies. They point to the fact that the weather has been losing its violence yearly.

There were no uplifted hands rubbing frost-bitten ears in Winnipeg on Jan. 9th for the temperature was six above. A year ago citizens shivered in weather 31 degrees under the zero mark.

Bell Telephone Plans Extensive 1931 Program

Montreal.—C. F. Sise, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, announces that in 1931 the company will spend $20,000,000 on plant replacements, renewals, and extensions.

Mr. Sise points out that during the last five years, a period of great expansion in business, the company has spent, in the aggregate, more than $116,000,000 in plant extensions and improvements, or an average of a little over $23,000,000 a year.

During 1930, he says, when the general business depression might have led the company to defer much work that had been planned, the company went ahead with its expansion program, and spent even more than in preceding years, thus considerably benefitting the employment situation.

Among the projects contemplated for 1931 are several new dial stations in Montreal and completion of the new toll headquarters buildings, adjoining the company's head office building in this city.

Bonnie Mealing Sets Unofficial Record

Sydney, Australia.—Bonnie Mealing, Australian representative in the 1928 Olympiad, set an unofficial world's record for the 150-yard backstroke swim here on Jan. 3rd, at 1 minute and 53 4-5 seconds. This betters by 4-5 seconds the best recorded mark for the distance which she set herself but four days ago.

Miss Mealing set the new mark in a race in which she finished third. It was a freestyle event and the first and second place swimmers used the crawl.

World Wheat Yield Shows 9% Gain

Washington.—The total 1930 wheat crop for 41 countries exclusive of Russia and China was estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture at 3,649,656,000 bushels.

This estimate, which included the first official report on the Argentine crop, represented an increase of 9 per cent. over the comparable 1929 total. These 41 countries a year ago accounted for 96 per cent. of the estimated world crop.

The current Argentine crop was placed at 271,404,000 bushels against 162,576,000 bushels a year ago, or an increase of 66 per cent.

While the total world crop for the 41 countries was increased, the 1930 production for the 25 European countries so far reported, excluding Russia, is 5.3 per cent. below the 1929 total for the same countries. Russian production for 1930 was estimated at 1,157,400,000 bushels against 702,851,000 bushels in 1929.

Waste Apple Product To Be Made Fruitful

As a result of representations made by the Nova Scotia Government, arrangements are reported to have been made by the Federal Department of Agriculture to establish research laboratories in the Annapolis Valley for the purpose of utilizing apple by-products and extending the market for surplus apples.

Two laboratories are to be established, the larger one, for research work, will be located in the new plant now under construction at Middleton, and will cover all apple by-products except vinegar, while the vinegar research plant will be in Bridgetown.

Ontario Led Gold Output

Ontario was the largest producer of gold among the provinces of Canada last year, as it has been for a number of years. The production in this province in 1929 was 1,622,267 fine ounces, valued at $33,535,234.

British Columbia came second with 154,204 ounces, worth $3,187,680, with Quebec third at 90,798 fine ounces, worth $1,876,961. Smaller quantities of gold were produced in Nova Scotia Manitoba, Alberta and the Yukon.

"I see," said Smith, "that a famous man has been saying four hour's sleep is enough for anyone." "Pooh!" said Jones, "that's nothing. I've a two-year-old boy at home who knew that a year ago."

Septic Sore Throat Feared in Manitoba

The Pas, Man.—Possibility of an outbreak of septic sore throat, the disease that took a toll of lives in Kirkland Lake, Ont., last fall, is feared by residents of Reed Lake, a small community 19 miles inland from Mile 55 on the Hudson Bay Railway.

According to provincial health authorities, the disease may prove to be diphtheria. It was not divulged how many persons were suffering from the disease at Reed Lake but at Mile 227 Mr. and Mrs. Walter Asmus and two children were stricken by the unknown malady and rushed to hospital at The Pas. A third child, it was stated, had died from the sickness at Mile 227.

Dr. H. H. Elliott, commissioner of health for Northern Manitoba, stated that Dr. A. Larose was rushed by special to Mile 55 where he struck inland to Reed Lake by dog team.

"We are not sure that it is diphtheria," Dr. Elliott stated. "There is the possibility it may be septic sore throat."

The condition of all four members of the Asmus family is reported as "serious." When Dr. Larose reached Reed Lake, he inoculated all the children in the little settlement which has a population of 30 persons.

Well Water Being Sold By Gallon in Hamilton

Hamilton.—In the heart of Hamilton, where hundreds of thousands of gallons of city water flow from household faucets daily, drinking water from a well is being sold to the citizens in gallon containers. This fact came to light over the week-end while city authorities were investigating stories that phenol and chlorine in the city water had rendered it unpalatable to many consumers. One citizen, it was learned, was doing a good business from his well.

Fur Farming In Canada Dates Back to 1878

The fur farming industry of Canada is each year becoming of greater importance. On a commercial scale it dates from about 1878 when a number of foxes were raised on a farm near Tignish, Prince Edward Island. The industry grew rapidly; but, even as late as 1922-23, ranch-bred animals represented only about 3½ per cent. of the total number of pelts obtained by trappers and from ranchers. In the year just mentioned the total number of pelts taken was 4,963,996.

Old Letters Acquired From Widow Reveal Historical Facts of B.C.

Victoria, Jan. 11.—Considered one of the most valuable historical collections in the British Columbia archives, a group of 1,068 original official letters and memoranda written in Western Canada in the period 1830-59, has been acquired for the province by John Howie, provincial archivist.

The collection was secured from the estate of the late George Graham of the Hudson's Bay Company, through his widow, at Fort William, Ont. Outstanding are lengthy letters from the pen of Sir George Simpson, famous fur trader, who was governor of Rupert's Land. Other documents were written by Peter Skene Ogden, Dr. John McLoughlin, Sir James Douglas, John Work, Robert Campbell, Peter W. Deane, Judge Thom, Alexander Ross, Sir John Pelly, Sir John Richardson and many others.

Included in the collection are the personal letters of Rev. J. Smeithurst (Florence Nightingales' lover) to various persons in Upper Canada. A remarkable portrait in oil from the brush of Paul Kane, in 1846, discloses a fine representation of Donald Ross, chief factor of the fur trading company in that day.

Daring Rescue Saves Three Lives

Skater at Sault Holds Up Girl Companion Until Rescuers Arrive

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jan. 11.—Chilled to the point of exhaustion, Wilfrid Sanderson and Gladys Boville, had a narrow escape from death when they broke through the ice on the St. Mary's River, near the pavilion. They were some distance from shore and in deep water. After several skaters had regarded it as almost impossible to reach the pair, who were clinging to the ice, Gordon McDonald and George Draper, who were skating on the river, came to their rescue. McDonald pushed a plank to the pair and went out on it. He first pulled the girl to safety and then rescued Sanderson just when the waters were about to claim his life. Spectators declare that Sanderson showed great heroism.

Warns His Companion

He broke through the ice first, then warned his companion to circle back to safety as soon as possible. She was apparently unnerved by the accident and fell, breaking through in another place. Sanderson broke his way to her, and for ten minutes held her up until the rescuers arrived. When the people gathered near by he pleaded with them to make an effort to save the girl and let him perish.

The girl was much weakened by exposure and was unable to stand after she was pulled out of the water. Sanderson suffered from chills.

Welland Child Saved

Welland, Jan. 11.—Betty Bramfield, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bramfield, had a narrow escape from drowning when she fell through the ice on Chippawa Creek. The little one succeeded in holding to the ragged edges until cries for help were answered by A. E. Raby, a civic employee. He, under great difficulties, crawled over thin ice and caught the child just as she was relinquishing her grip. She was taken to the home of J. McMillan where she was attended to before being taken to her home, suffering from shock.

Canadians to See Prince Open Fair in Argentina

Montreal.—Canada's delegation to Argentina will reach Buenos Ayres in time for the official inauguration on March 14 of the British Empire Trade Fair by the Prince of Wales, as the departure of the mission from Halifax has been advanced by nine days. Announcement to this effect is made by Angus McLean, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and Elmer Davis, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, institutions sponsoring the visit to South America.

Under the altered itinerary the Canadian National S.S. Prince Robert will sail from Halifax on February 21, stop at various ports en route and reach Buenos Ayres on March 13, placing the trade delegates in the Argentine capital a full day before the exhibition is opened officially.

Ten days will be passed in Argentina, departure on the return to Canada taking place on March 22. The liner should reach Halifax on April 11th.

Welland Ship Canal Adds to Efficiency

In water transportation facilities the opening this year of the new Welland Ship Canal will mark a new era. It provides greatly improved canal facilities between lakes Ontario and Erie. Built at a cost estimated in excess of $103,000,000, it has an actual length of 25 miles, is 200 feet wide, and has a minimum depth of 27½ feet. Eight locks replace the 26 locks used in the old canal.

It will be possible for the large freighters of the upper lakes, some of them over 600 feet long, to travel a distance of 953 miles farther towards the seaboard, to Prescott, on the St. Lawrence River, where grain elevators are being completed.

New Hockey Rule

Montreal.—A new rule regarding the handling of the puck during National Hockey League games was announced by President Frank Calder. The revised regulation, which went into effect on January 3rd, reads:

"A minor penalty shall be imposed on any player, with the exception of the goalkeeper, who catches and holds the puck, momentarily while it is in the air or on the ice."

Nearly 400-Mile Speed Goal for Schneider Cup

London. — Speed approaching 400 miles an hour will be developed at the Schneider Cup airplane races in 1931, it was prophesied by experts at the Royal Aero Club.

The club received notification that France would enter three seaplanes in the 1931 races. Italy already had announced it would be represented by four planes, and the British, of course, will be represented in what is regarded as the keenest air competition yet developed.

The races probably will be held over the Solent, as in 1929. The Solent is an arm of the English Channel between the Isle of Wight and the mainland of England. It is seventeen miles long and from two to five miles in width.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drugstore; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Chauffeur Whose Truck Splashed Pedestrians Fined in Berlin

Berlin.—Pedestrains who received a mud bath when a chauffeur drove his truck through a puddle of water next to the curbstone in a Berlin street filed a complaint and the chauffeur was summoned to court. The evidence showed that he had plenty of room to turn out and avoid the puddle, and the court imposed a fine of three marks. Similar decisions have been rendered also by Bavarian courts.

It is Said—

Mint can be chopped more easily if sprinkled with coarse sugar.

Stains on the hands will disappear if rubbed with a cream made of olive oil and sugar.

A piece of burlap makes a good polishing for the hot range, as it does not readily ignite like paper and a cotton or wool cloth.

Several layers of newspaper spread between the bed springs and mattress will prevent sleepers getting cold backs.

New Braiding

Frequently the tailored woolen frock is given a different trimming slant by means of braiding. This form of flat decoration has a tailored air but proves to be quite dressy when used on the dress of velvet for afternoon. Rows of narrow silk braid fashion flat collar effects and cuffs, sometimes in self color such as black, or in black attached over a foundation of white.

Owl Laffs

Some folks want to know your views only that they may oppose them.

Attorney—"But, madam, you cannot marry again. If you do, your husband has clearly specified in his will that his fortune will go to his brother."

Widow—"Yes, that's so. It's the brother that I'm marrying."

A young school boy halted before the blacksmith's forge and watched the smith with great interest. Very much annoyed, the smith suddenly held a red hot piece under the boy's nose, hoping to make him back away.

The Boy—"If you'll give me a dollar I'll lick it."

The smith took a dollar from his pocket and held it out. The boy took the money, licked it, placed it in his pocket, and slowly walked away, whistling.

There is a big difference between seeing through a thing and seeing a thing through.

Young Lady—"Were you pleased with the new school to-day, Tom?"

Tom—"Naw. Dey made me wash me face an' when I got home de dorg bit me 'cause he didn't know me."

Many ideals, like many people, look good until you try them out.

Mrs. Jones—"What kind of interior decoration does your husband prefer?"

Mrs. Smith—"Well, just between you and me, it's corn beef and cabbage."

Women are getting so they can break out of jail just as well as men ever could. Women are quick to learn the tricks of men.

Ignorance is the mother of prejudice. Meanness is probably its pa.

Gerald—"What kind of girl is Flossie?"

Harold—"Well, she knows life like a book—that has been suppressed."

Mr. Rook was reading statistics in the newspaper. "In New York a child is born every two minutes," he announced. "Good heavens!" exclaimed his wife in horror. "And we're planning to stay there two weeks!"

It is our guess that no 200-pound man would even enjoy jumping from an airplane and trusting himself to a parachute.

Census Enumerator—"What's your husband's vocation?"

Housewife (haughtily) — "He's a vegetarian."

Enumerator (politely)—"No, no, I mean what does he do for a living?"

Housewife (with patience exhausted)—"I told you once. He's a vegetarian—he sells vegetables."

Easy money is predicted by some of the big financiers of this country. Well, that is what most people are looking for.

She—"Why so thoughtful, dear?"

He—"I have one dollar over this week, and I don't remember which installment I forgot to pay."

The Education of Man

At 20 we know it all.
At 30 we think we know it all.
At 40 we become somewhat uncertain.
At 50 we have grave doubts.
At 60 we give it up.

Drury—"Did you ever hear of the collegiate flower?"

Dempsey—"No, what's its name?"

Drury—"The blooming idiot."

Doctor—"What's your trouble?"

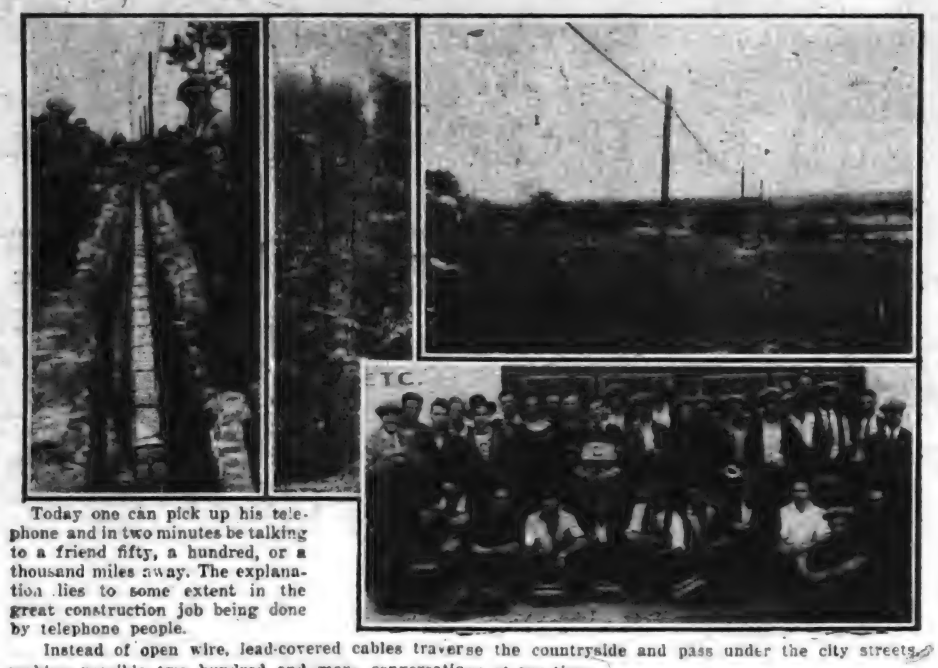
Patient—"I can't sleep."

Doctor—"Drink a glass of whiskey every half-hour throughout the night."

Patient—Will that make me sleep?"

"Doctor—"I don't know, but it will make the time pass more pleasantly."

Woman's Fortitude



Forces Herself to Smile Through Pain

"I never seem to find time to rest," says many an overworked housewife. Under smiles and forced cheerfulness she conceals weariness and nervous depression; headaches and backaches. Often she is in real pain, but still refuses to give up. This very fortitude is apt to be her undoing. If she continues to neglect the signals of distress she will sooner or later suffer a serious breakdown.

A noted doctor has stated that nine-tenths of the ills of womanhood are due to poor blood. That anaemia is the cause of the low spirits, the poor appetite and palpitation that make life a burden for so many.

There is no need, however, for women to suffer in this way. All the miseries of anaemia can be banished by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills create an abundance of new, rich, red blood and this new blood will bring strength and vitality to nervous, overtired women. The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Voice Highways to Cost $6,000,000

Today one can pick up his telephone and in two minutes be talking to a friend fifty, a hundred, or a thousand miles away. The explanation lies to some extent in the great construction job being done by telephone people.

Instead of open wire, lead-covered cables traverse the countryside and pass under the city streets, making possible two hundred and more conversations at one time.

Of course operating efficiency has kept pace with mechanical improvements or present day service would not be possible.

This job of building these voice highways is one for experts and telephone men receive intensive training in every feature of the communication art before they can qualify for the work.

In the coming year the Bell Telephone Company plans to spend over six million dollars on its long distance system in Ontario and Quebec.

Pastorale

(By Clara Shanafelt in "The Saturday Review of Literature," New York)

I had forgotten that hills could be like this,
I had forgotten the vastness and the stillness,
These slow appeasing rhythms made visible,
Swung in space—lento,
Like the slow movement of a symphony
Arrested in a long caesura;
The colors of autumn melted, fused together,
Held as in the prism of an opal.

I had forgotten the high upland pastures,
Elegantly constrained
By the handsome and strict geometry of their stone walls,
Smooth as park glades—
The earth's supple sensuous contours
Naked among her glorious jewels;
The bright separate flames of the trees,
Crisp cones and pyramids of shocking color—
Vermillion, magenta, amber, wine
gold—
The black stains of the evergreens
blotted against them;
The ragged gray of the torn granite;
The far pellucid amethyst horizons.

Rarely the sweet lyrical phrases of cow-bells
Seep like springs from fissures in the air—
An old pastoral music long forgotten;
The roads are deserted, the landscape empty else.
You smell the breath of the north—
Pungent, resinous, cold—
Passing the rocky virgin grottoes, ravines
Lit with their ancient candlelight of
gold
Maple and birch, flaring among the hemlock and spruce,
Their shadows.
Ferns green in imperishable elegance
Lift above hot drifts.

O why were we divided, our hearts,
our flesh,
Our hard intractable minds cleft asunder
On such a day, in such a place. . . .
I burnt by the fire to madness and you like rock?

Club House Rolls

One pint of milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, butter size of an egg, 3 cups flour, ½ yeast cake. Scald milk; add sugar, salt and butter. Dissolve the yeast in a little of the milk. When it has become lukewarm, add to other ingredients, then add flour. Let rise three hours, then add flour to knead. Let rise again and shape into rolls by rolling each into an oblong shape, brushing with butter and folding. Let rise till very light, then bake in hot oven. If wanted for supper, start about 10.30 and shape at 4.

Barley First Plant Sown

London.—Barley was probably the earliest plant cultivated by man, and the rise of civilization can be dated from the time it was first deliberately sown, Dr. E. S. Deaven says. Origin of all the present races of cultivated barley, he said, can be traced to the wild form still found in Palestine, Syria and Persia. Barley 7,000 to 10,000 years old has been found by explorers in Egypt, he declared.

Singer: "I'm afraid I didn't do very well." Wireless Announcer; "Oh, that's all right! As a matter of fact, through an error you were announced as 'Zoo imitations.'"

The oil of joy is very cheap, and it you can help the poor on with a garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.—Henry Drummond.

Crying Babies are Sickly Babies

The well child does not cry. He is laughing and happy all the time. Baby's cry of distress is the only means he has of telling the mother or nurse he is ill. Mothers, you can keep your little ones well and happy by giving them Baby's Own Tablets—the safe and efficient remedy for all childhood ailments.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Uses For Cold Tea

Tea that is to be used for any of the following purposes should be carefully strained to ensure that none of the leaves find their way to the articles.

Cold tea will give a beautiful ebony shade to lace. Add a little to the final rinsing water after the lace has been washed.

Use a mixture of strong cold tea and water for washing varnishing woodwork. Allow the mixture to dry on the material, then polish with an old silk handkerchief.

Tea can be used for giving a gloss to mirrors, windows, and glassware. Add a generous quantity to the water with which the glass is to be cleaned.

A New Vogue.

At such a period in the sartorial year it is not possible to insure anything a vogue. But all signs point to a resort and spring season of plaids. Small plaids in woollen mixtures, large diagonal plaids in silks.

Plaids usually bring to mind the multi-color effects common to ginghams and the bold patterns of coatings for sports. The trend now is toward plaids in two colors such as a navy design printed on a red background or a white one on black.

Having run the gamut of florals from diminutive to huge sprawling designs in silks, it is plausible that the plaid will become a fashionable variation in patterned fabrics.

"Do you believe that marrying in haste necessarily means repenting at leisure?" "After a man marries he has no leisure."

High Seas

By Cyrus C. Johnson in "Phychology"

I care not how the winds may blow
If but the winds blow strong.
Pray send no veering, halting breath
To bear my craft along,
Just a bright, bright star to steer me
by
That my ship may not go wrong.
I care not how the seas may toss
Or ever the winds may roll
Or if the fires of outpost stars
Must be my utmost goal,
If Love shall be my flaming cross
To guide my outcast soul,
To Magic Isles of distant clime
I do not sail alone
But to Eternal Summer Time
And Ships that I have known.
I shall be glad when the skies are bright
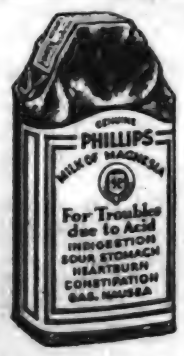
And sing when the skies are gray,
If only Love shall ride with me,
And the course be a long, long way.
For the dream is old
And the tale is told
Of Ships on a Golden Bay.
I ride with Beauty on Treasure Ships
Where the far dim quays are piled,
And I carry the kiss of a mother's lips
And the smile of a little child,
And I give all the gold
In a brimming hold
For a song when my heart's beguiled.
These are enough, O Master of Ships,
(With the stars to guide aright),
A far-flung sail, a booming breeze,
And a song when the spray is white,
To know no fear
When the Port is near
And a great dawn floods the night.

Irish stew, as served in the British Navy, consists of mutton (119 lb. to 500 sailors), potatoes, pearl barley, onions, and turnips.

Take Long Walks Fat Men are Told

How can you walk off your fat if you haven't any energy to do it?



You can take off fat with Kruschen Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, modify your diet and exercise regularly.

There are six different salts in Kruschen that your body organs must have if you are to enjoy good health.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in vigor, energy, vitality and power of endurance.

That means that soon you will be able to walk many miles without fatigue and enjoy every step you walk.

Drug Stores all over Canada sell Kruschen Salts, and a jar costs but 75 cents—it's a real blessing to fat people.

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, 'disagrees,' lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or billiousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drugstores in the Dominion sell it in 50c bottles.

Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle.

Care of Shoes

To secure satisfactory wear out of shoes they must have care. Frequent cleaning and polishing, as well as alternate wearing, will provide this care.

All shoes should be brushed after each wearing to remove dust. If they take a high polish this should be frequently given. They should be continually kept in a lusterous state.

Cleaning powders, liquids and pastes are now obtainable for every type of shoe, so whether leather or fabric footwear is worn, whatever color or finish, there is a dressing that will restore the original condition.

These compounds will keep the leather soft, will cleanse fabric shoes and keep metallic leathers from tarnishing, which all tends to preserve the attractive appearance of the shoes and give satisfactory wear.

A somewhat nervous woman was about to take a short trip in an aeroplane—her first. As she climbed into the cockpit she gulped and said to the pilot: "Is this—er—flight likely to be at all dangerous?" "What!" exclaimed the man, aghast. "Dangerous? For $5.00!"

Genuine Gratitude Compels Tribute.

Mr. Victor Hills, of Thornton Heath, writes:—"For many years I have suffered with that distressing complaint—constipation, and its attendant effects of sick-headache and indigestion. It was a red-letter day for me when a friend recommended me a treatment of Carter's Little Liver Pills, and I can honestly say that results have been truly marvelous. I now enjoy good health and feel that life is worth living. The relief I have experienced compels me to add my sincere tribute." Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. All druggists 25¢ and 75¢ red pkgs.

FARMER'S WIFE GETS STRENGTH

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wilton, Ont.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through the Change of Life. It helps me and I cannot praise it too highly. I was troubled with heat flashes and my limbs were heavy so I could hardly walk to do my farm work. I saw in the newspapers your ad about the Vegetable Compound and thought to give it a trial. The first bottle gave me relief and I have told others what it does for me. I am willing for you to use my letter if you choose."—Mrs. D. B. Parnes, Wilton, Ontario.

THE STAFF OF LIFE

Bread is an important article of diet. It provides us with the cereals we require in a satisfactory and acceptable form. We consume it regularly and in considerable quantities. Bread, because it is made from cereals, is essentially a carbohydrate or energy food. It also contains proteins and minerals.

Bread is not a complete food. In order to secure a properly balanced diet, it is necessary that we eat a wide variety of foods, of which bread or cereals form an important part.

The wheat grain consists of a white inner part known as the endosperm which has a dark outer covering. The germ of the wheat is at one end of the grain and lies between the endosperm and the outer covering.

The entire grain is milled to produce whole-wheat flour from which whole-wheat-bread is made. For graham flour, the outer layers of the covering are removed in milling, leaving the inner part and the endosperm; graham flour may contain the germ. White flour consists entirely of the endosperm; the covering and the germ are removed.

The covering is bran, a form of carbohydrate not digestible by man, but largely digestible by cattle and is a valuable food for them. In the human diet, it supplies bulk and roughage, which, for some persons assists in regular elimination. The germ is rich in vitamin B.

The practical advantage of white flour is that it has excellent keeping qualities, and so it can be distributed without loss as it does not become rancid after milling.

If the diet were to be restricted to a few articles, it would be preferable, from a dietetic point of view, to use whole-wheat flour. The diet, however, should not be restricted; it should always include a wide variety of foods, and if it does, there is no reason why white bread should not be used, if it is preferred. Where, for any reason, the diet cannot be widely varied, it is preferable to use the whole wheat. Whole-wheat and graham bread make a pleasant change in the average diet.

Whole-wheat flour is not a complete food. If it is used, it must be supplemented by other foods in order that the diet may contain all the essentials to proper nutrition.

Deficient as it is in many dietetic qualities, bread is a desirable food, because it provides energy food in a form which is pleasant to use and which is readily digested.

The most important point to be remembered is that a proper combination of foods is always required to furnish the balanced diet necessary for the maintenance of a condition of health.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Inaugurated in 1926 in answer to the demands of rapidly increasing travel between Montreal and Boston, the "Red Wing", fast running Canadian Pacific night express between the two cities will have forty minutes cut from its schedule on and after January 11, leaving Montreal, forty minutes later than before but arriving at Boston at the same time as on the former schedule. The train will leave the Windsor station, Montreal, at 9.55 instead of 9.15 as heretofore. The "Red Wing" is an all-steel train with all equipmen of the latest type.

Appointment of W. R. Patterson to be deputy general auditor, Canadian Pacific Railway, is announced by E. E. Lloyd, Comptroller of the railway. He is succeeded in his late position of auditor of disbursements by Charles B. Gordon. Mr. Patterson is one of the younger men holding important offices in the Canadian Pacific Railway, having been appointed auditor of disbursements four years ago at the age of 36. Mr. Gordon was comptroller of the Kettle Valley Railway in British Columbia, prior to his new appointment.

A motor cycle and side car carrying two men and towing a man on skis, awoke the silence of Lake Louise December 28 when at nearly 6,000 feet altitude it roared around an improvised track at a speed above 50 miles an hour. It was the first time in history that a motor cycle has been on Lake Louise; the first motor cycle ski-joring that has taken place there and the first time a motor cycle has travelled under its own power from the Prairies to Lake Louise in the depth of winter.

On the stroke of midnight of December 31st. last one of the most remarkable railroad careers in the Maritime Provinces ended with the retirement of Charles H. S. Henderson, dean of Canadian Pacific Railway conductors. Mr. Henderson became a train conductor in 1878, at the age of 17 on the New Brunswick railway between St. Stephen and Edmundston. He completed 54 years of service with this railway and the C. P. R. December 31. He has been conductor on the trains of three successive presidents of the Canadian Pacific.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 10, 1931.

Dear Editor:

The year is young yet, so I wish you and your readers a very happy and prosperous new year.

You will see I have left Empire for a while, until the cold weather is over, which has never arrived yet. The most wonderful weather—no need to seek a warmer climate. I see men in their shirt sleeves, no hat or mitts on. There is quite a lot of snow, especially on the back streets, but just as many waggons as sleighs and of course trucks and autos. Sitting by my window on Sunday evening—we live on the corner of Colony where it crosses Portage at the Hudson Bay Store—I counted one hundred cars in five minutes. At church time the streets are lined with cars. We came to the city before Christmas and this was my first sight of Christmas decorations in a big city. I don't think any kiddie was more delighted than I was. The streets and stores were beautiful and just at this corner was the most beautiful spruce tree's, covered with all kinds of bulbs in different colors.

The bay has the beacon light on top of the building. The light is red with a green ball on top. It throws down a red shade. Well, it just looked like fairy land. It was wonderful to me.

So many electrical contrivances. Our fathers and mothers never dreamed of the wonders in store for their children. And the children—it surely would have driven all thought of hard times from any one's mind to watch them in Eaton's toyland, toys and animals all working, as real as it was possible to make them. One little boy says, "Mama, are there two Santa Clauses, for I seen one in Hudson Bay, and one in Eaton's; or are they brothers?" But Santa was popping out of all kinds of unexpected places. I don't think any family went without a Christmas dinner if they let their need be known, for churches and societies worked hard and the people gave freely of what they had.

Just visiting in the city you would wonder where the hard times are. I never saw so many beautiful fur coats. The restaurants are well patronized, show houses are full, also beer parlors, and large numbers seem to be enjoying a pipe or cigar. And yet the city is treated to a robbery almost every day—some very young in crime. It seems such a pity. But there are hard times amongst the farmers, more than any other class of people. Some have gone out of their mind over the inability to pay their way. If the pool would pay what they owe, it would help out a whole lot. One woman said to me, "The pool owes us five hundred dollars; if we could only get that it would pust set us up." Such is life; the poor are always with us, and, believe me, if grain does not soon take a rise, there will be more poor, for I know farmers, a few years ago well off, now nearly down and out.

THE NICEST PRESENT HE COULD GIVE HER

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls now begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want—it speeds up the service. If you don't know the distant number, "Information" will look it up for you.

It was wonderful to be engaged but it was miserable too because Dick was out on the road all week and letters were difficult when he moved around so much.

Then one night, when he was specially lonely, he telephoned her from his room in the hotel. It was the nicest present he could have given her and it cost less than the price of a movie.

It was so easy and it made them both so much happier that they arranged regular visits by telephone every Tuesday and Thursday evening — moments of affection to remember and look forward to. The weeks seemed only half as long.

Telephoning is the next best thing to being together. Out-of-town calls are simple, dependable, inexpensive — and quicker now than ever before.

LET US SMILE

Two broom vendors met in a London street.

" 'Ang it all," said one, "I don't see 'ow you can sell these 'ere bloomin' brooms for a shillin'. I steals the brush an' I steals the wire, an' I steals the 'andles, an' I can't sell 'em for a shillin' and make any money on 'em."

And the other replied: "Why, I steals 'em readymade."

COOKSVILLE

"We find that May Towers came to her death on Monday, January 12, at the radial crossing on the third line, Dixie. We find that her body was cut in two by the radial wheels after being accidentally struck by the rear of an automobile driven by Leonard Jefferson, which forced her under the radial. We would ask the Railway Board to issue a slow order at all highway railway crossings. We recommend that the approach to all railway crossings where the roads are paved shall be sanded in slippery weather." (Signed) F. B. Pence, Foreman.

The above verdict was returned at the inquest on the death of May Towers, killed on the radial crossing on the third line east, Dixie, on Monday last, recently. A large number of the spectators were youths, friends of the deceased girl.

Coroner Dr. A. H. Sutton, Port Credit, presided, and R. W. Lent, Brampton, acted for the Crown, G. B. Jackson, Cooksville, representing E. H. Towers, father of the dead girl; Chas. Bowyer, Brampton, the Jefferson family, and J. M. McKerrow, Toronto, the C.N.R.

OBITUARY

Robert Ruddell

Robert Ruddell, farmer, died at his home in Esquesing Township, after an illness of two years. Deceased, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was a son of the late Francis Ruddell of Georgetown. He was a member of Ashgrove United Church and was a Conservative. Surviving are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Harvey Agnew of Nelson Township, and Mrs. Wilbert Ford of Trafalgar Township.

Mrs. James Coyne

S. V. Howden, the wife of the late James Coyne, died at the home of her son at Newcastle, Ont., on Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1931. Mrs. Coyne was overtaken with a stroke in July and after lying ill in her own home for a time it was found fitting to have her removed to her son's home in Newcastle, where she could spent her last days with an only son with love and care ever present. The funeral took place on Thursday, Jan. 8, to Bethel Cemetery and was well attended by many friends and old acquaintances. Her pastor, the Rev. Mr. Neill, spoke very highly of her past life. Our departed sister led a good Christian life, giving her heart to God when a young girl in her teens. She was a great Sunday School worker, especially in her younger days in the old Bethel Church. Mrs. Coyne's life was an inspiration to all of us who knew her, and are endeavoring to following the Master's footprints. I am certain she could say with the apostle Paul, "I have fought the good fight, I've finished the course; I've kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." One of her old Sunday school scholars contributed the following:

At home on the beautiful mountain of God,
By the valley of rest so fair;
Some day, some time, when our task is done,
Dear friend, we shall be there.

BUMPS AND BLOWS FROM THE RINK ALLEY

By Lou Swamp

Oh what a difference our new arena makes. Wednesday night the fans were treated to another thrilling doubleheader in the town league, and the games were well worth while. Don't miss any of these games. Although the old merk was down below the zero mark the crowd that filled the arena was held in position until the final bell, "some game." Would like to advise that I am agent for the Coleman Heaters.

The second game on the card, Creditvale vs. Anglicans produced some real hockey, and the boys are rapidly rounding into condition. It was a swell game to win and a tough one to drop. Creditvale deserves the long end of 3 to 1, as they had the edge on the church boys most of the game, but it was really closer than the scoreboard reads. Creditvale iced a real snappy team, much improved over their first appearance. They trotted out a smart new goalie in Evans, and he handled everything in pro style. The one shot that beat him was not his fault, he got caught in the netting and was unable to make the play. The lion's share of the glory for Creditvale goes to Evans, Pope and Doherty, who played very heady games, but the whole team played up to par.

The Trinity Church boys failed to hit a stride and for no good reason at all wanted to steal the old puck and take it home. This style of play doesn't get you anywhere. In the second period Goalie Haddon was cut badly from a bullet shot over the eye and was forced to retire. It took several stitches to close the wound. Harry Gill donned the pads. Harry certainly showed the fans some of his old time stuff, looking more like Chabot every minute. He was called upon to do the splits on several hot shots, but took care of everything that came his way. Hec Wright worked hard, but a nasty blow in the first period, on the leg, slowed him up for the rest of the game. It hurts. I must say the boys all worked overtime and gave the best they had.

Irving Ardagh handled the bell for both games. He gave perfect satisfaction to all "Not one kick". He will be working overtime, I think, all winter.

Final score: Creditvale 3, Trinity Church 1.

STANDING

	P.	W.	L.	T.	P.
Creditvale	2	1	0	1	3
Trinity Church	2	1	1	0	2
Town	2	1	1	0	2
High School	2	0	1	1	1

If you don't turn out and see our kids perform you are missing something. Thursday afternoon we had an Inter-school game, Public vs. High, and what a game. How they can handthat puck. Mr. Langmaid, coach of the Public School team must be congratulated on the way he has his boys working. Several are worthy of the spotlight, such as Norman Potts, Lloyd Hope and Maynard Redick of the Public School, also Jack Schnurr of the High School team. Watch these boys.

Thistles Win

In one of the fastest and cleanest games played at the arena this winter, "Streetsville Thistles" defeated "Riverdales", Toronto, 4 to 2.

The lightning pace never let up, and the spectators were on their toes every minute of the struggle. The arena was well filled, very few empty box seats could be seen. It would be hard to pick the stars of the game. The boys all played a real game. Klinck and Pope were always in there, and their rushes were very effective, Geo. Klinck getting three goals and Archie one. Ellis and Walker were the scorers for Toronto. Teams—Toronto—Goal, Miller; defence, Barry and Lavery; forwards, Walker, Macfarland and McLelland, subs. Ellis, Bedford and McLelland. Streetsville—goal, Evans, defence, Klinck and Steggall, forwards, Pope, Steggall and Doherty, subs. Arch, Wright, Ardagh, Bruce and Cunningham. Final score 4-2, Referee Ellis. Only five penalties were necessary. Melville Steggall received a nasty gash on the leg and was forced to retire in the first period. He received prompt attention from the club physician "Dr. Snook". Don't neglect a visit to the Ellis Cafeteria while at the game.

The Bowling Alley

The bowling alley is also ringing with "Strike out Big Boy". We have three interesting leagues in town and they are producing all kinds of excitement. Men's league, ladies' league and a mixed league.

Ladies—Dot Graydon, 1937; Mrs. Redick, 1878; Norma Smith, 1670; Mrs. J. Lindsay, 1630; Mrs. C. Evans, 1628; Miss M. Chester, 1556; Miss Cliffe, 1457; Mrs. Wright, 1284.

Mixed—Saul, 18; Ardagh, 16; Wood, 15; Merden, 14; King, 13; Arch, 5.

Men's—Arch 17, Wood, 15; Atkinson, 10; Pickett, 9; McDowell, 7; Saul, 7.

We had our old friends from Port Credit visit our alleys Thursday night and tackle our all-star aggregation. The final score 6-0 for the locals. After the game the bunch were entertained at the home of one of our stars, Fred Maas and a swell time and swell table of refreshments was indulged in. Some niht. If you don't think so, ask the reporter.

Doc. has introduced a new shot, "The Creeper", and oh, how it works. Ernie had his hook working to perfection. He nearly made a strike. A real comeback has been made, Slim has found himself. The two Harrys, Fred, Mel and Stan carried the load. As a bowler Hec would make a swell pin setter. Try one of Vern's "STONE GINGER", it's good.

TOWN VS. STUDENTS

Town defeats students 3-0 in a very warmly contested game. The strong defence of the town was the big stumbling block and had the students shooting from the blue line. In around the nets the students were weak and also their shooting was away off the target.

For the town, Cook, Russell and W. Arch played a swell game.

M. Steggall, Reg. Bruce and Pat Ardagh were the pick of the school boys.

THE CARNIVAL

The opening carnival on Saturday night was a bumper. It was a record breaker for attendance and costumes. The ice was in perfect shape. Our local orchestra furnished the music.

The big night opened with a game of "broom polo" and, oh boy, what a kick it produced. It was no place for a person with a cracked lip.

The final score 4-3 in favor of a team picked from the "Home of Incurables."

Have your brooms trimmed and ready for the next game.

DRUMQUIN SPARKS

Well the busy blacksmith is one who is surely making the sparks. Of course there are other varieties of sparks.

Another highly esteemed friend and neighbor has been called home. Gone the way we all have to follow sooner or later. This time in the person of Mrs. Jas. Coyne, after an illness of several months. The late lady had been with her son and family at Newcastle during the greater part of her illness and the funeral was at Bethel on Thursday, the 8th, and was largely attended. The pastor, Rev. Neil, spoke in glowing terms of the beautiful christian life of the departed and she will long be remembered by her friends and neighbors. She leaves to mourn her loss, one son and one daughter and three brothers. Much sympathy is extended the relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dembert Downs are the proud possessors of a young daughter early in the new year.

Mr. A. R. Lunau had the misfortune to break his right arm in cranking his car recently, and nearly coincident with this was the piercing of his foot with wire of the fence while assisting a relative to start his car. Mr. Lunau will be confined to the house for some weeks and has the sympathy of his many friends.

Mrs. Clarence Ford entertained some of her many friends one evening this week.

Many farmers are in much need of water for their stock. Some are hauling, others are driving the animals to some stream. This makes a good deal of extra work.

A. G. McNabb is driving a new Dodge Six Sedan. There may be more dodgers in the vicinity by the time the dirt begins to fly.

There was a goodly attendance at the school meeting and among the many questions discussed was the seating accommodation which was inadequate, owing to the many additional pupils. These have been procured and a new member added to the board in the name of Mr. Emerson Ford to replace the retiring member, Mr. Frank Dunn. The board were pleased with the progress and conditions of the school.

EBENEZER SHORT COURSE NEWS

The interest of the community and the enthusiasm of the students have increased during the second week of the Short Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics at Ebenezer. The boys have a paid-up enrolment of 66 members, and the girls 60. The older people are turning out in goodly numbers for the afternoon sessions.

Perhaps the outstanding event of the week was the conducted tour to Toronto under the guidance of J. C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative, and Miss A. E. Wise, Home Demonstrator. The boys were shown through the Swift Canadian Packing Plant and the Union Stock Yards in West Toronto, while the girls were conducted through the new Eatons Store at the corner of College and Yonge Sts. Both classes were met by the officials of the U.F.O. Company and shown through every department of their plant. These inspections of the various companies were of immense educational value to the boys and girls. Efficiency in every operation seemed to be the keynote or slogan of the concerns. The classes went next to the Parliament Buildings and were ushered into the Legislative Chamber. M. J. E. Whitelock, former Agricultural Representative for Peel, introduced Hon. Mr. Martin, Minister of Welfare, who welcomed the classes in the absence of our Minister of Agriculture, Hon. T. L. Kennedy. One boy summed up the tour in these words, "this has been the greatest day of my life."

Large classes turned out to hear Dr. F. R. Page, of St. Mary's, on common ailments of farm animals and their cure. Jas. Telfer and Bill Howard, of Paris, were speciallists in their own line, namely, Sheep. A big market lamb, bought from Jas. Codlin, of Claireville, was sheared, slaughtered, and cut up into retail cuts to bring mutton as a good cheap meat to the notice of the students.

The classes put on a literary program for the community on the night of January 15th. Over 125 people were in attendance to hear the solos, readings, class papers, orchestra selections and class songs.

Mr. R. S. Duncan, Director of Agricultural Representatives has been secured as guest speaker for the closing execises which are being held in the form of a luncheon, at 12.30 on January 30th. The Castlemore Women's Institute are looking after the details of the Luncheon.

Broadcast of O.A. College Conversat

The young people attending the O.A.C. and MacDonald Institute at Guelph, are given an opportunity to broaden their social education as well as the regular educational training. The Conversat is the elite social party of the college course. The students intend to broadcast the dance program over C.K.G.W. on Jan. 30th, between 9 and 10 p.m. Wright Bros. orchestra from London, will furnish the music. Keep the date and time in mind. Tune in and listen to this interesting and worthwhile program.

Some two hundred ladies who live in the vicinity of Ebenezer were entertained at afternoon tea, Friday last, by the girls of the Ebenezer Short Course. The first two weeks' class work was completed and the sewing which had been done during the eight sewing lessons was on display. The 200 ladies who called at Mrs. Kellam's home where the course is being held were received by Mae Shaw, the Class President and Elsie Elliott, the Secretary, assisted by Mrs. A. Moody and Mrs. H. W. Fletcher. The guests not only viewed the work but were entertained by the girls in a very splendid way. Tea was poured by Florence Elliott and Margaret Wallis, and those assisting in the tea room were Ann Lindsay, Edith Hunter, Margaret Adair, Clara Kellam, Dorothy Farr, Doris Wright, Vera Wilson, Jean Gardhouse, Mildred Egan and Grace Bowyer. Those waiting on the tea room were Mrs. Dalziel, Mrs. Codlin, Mary Jackson and Charlotte Evans. In the sewing room were Mrs. Lawrence, Reta Robinson, Irene Shaw and Mrs. J. Thompson. Music was provided by Mrs. J. C. Shaw, Reva Nattress, Katie Bland and Patricia Lawrence.

All arrangements for this event were made in the Domestic Science classes which are being conducted by the Home Demonstrator, Miss A. E. Wise. During the afternoon Dorothy Shaw presented Mrs. E. W. Kellam with a picture from the class and Mrs. H. W. Fletcher presented Miss M. McLaughlin, the sewing instructress, who was leaving, with brass book ends. Miss A. E. Wise and J. C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative, welcomed the guests and told something of the activities of the classes being conducted under their management. Mrs. E. Dalziel, President of the Castlemore W.I. spoke, and also Mrs. J. A. McBride, District President of the Women's Institute.

The Class of 60 girls are to be congratulated on their splendid work and on the way they co-operate in order to make this event a success.

Fair Board Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Toronto Township was held on Saturday with a good attendance. The reports showed the Society to be in good standing, and while the 1930 Fair was held on the wettest day of the year, the Board made up a deficit of $400.00. Directors gave good accounts of their departments. Mr. T. A. Leslie was re-elected to the chair for the fifth year in succession. Messrs. Wm. Couse and G. S. Bonham were appointed auditors.

Mr. S. S. Rice, who has been Secretary for two years, and gave good service to the Board, has given up the office, and said he absolutely would not consider acceptance of the position for another year.

At the annual meeting W. O. Brownridge, Milton, received the V. C. Johnston silver cup awarded the exhibitor taking the greatest number of prizes.

Officers of the board for the coming year are as follows: President, T. A. Leslie; first vice-president, Kenneth McIlwrick; second vice-president, O. L. Turner; directors, W. S. English, W. J. Cooper, W. A. Hardy, Rev. G. H. Purchase, S. S. Rice, James Rutledge, Elm[illegible] Leslie, W. C. Andrews, Sam Marl[illegible], W. H. McCauley, J. E. Dowlin[illegible], A. Adamson; honorary directors, H. W. Hope, reeve of Streetsville; J. H. Pinchin, reeve of Toronto township.

BRAMPTON

At the annual meeting of Derry West District Orange Association on Tuesday, Jan. 13, in the Orange Hall, Brampton, the following officers were elected for the coming year: W. McCurdy, D.M.; T. Nixon, P.D.M.; W. J. Gowland, D.D.M.; H. R. Woodall, chaplain; C. Doyle, rec. sec.; A. Robinson, financial sec.; H. Mara, Treasurer; W. Dale, Marshall; T. Canning, 1st lecturer; G. Embling, 2nd lecturer.

The election was conducted by P.D. M. Worshipful Bro. V. Bonham and the installation of new officers conducted by M. H. McKenna.

After the meeting adjourned luncheon was served.

At the annual meeting of the Peel County Agricultural Society it was shown by the treasurer's report that the Society had a deficit of $492.53 in 1930, due, it was explained, to a falling off of the smaller donations.

Total receipts of the society for 1930 were $6,334.33, made up of $624 provincial grant; $400 county grant; gate receipts, $1,834.70, etc. Cash prizes paid at the annual show amounted to $2,820.45, which was the largest item on the list of expenditures, the interest on the mortgage of the hall being $456.64, and the purse for the trials of speed being $455.

Officers elected were: President, F. B. Fenwick, Cooksville; vice-presidents, Gladstone Shaw, Tullamore; Lee Wilkinson, Brampton; directors—Brampton, L. J. C. Bull, Joseph Harrison, Richard Robson, A. H. Milner, George Farr; Chinguacousy, H. Laidlaw, H. A. Dolson, M. W. Carter, William Bovaird, Charles Strangways; Toronto Township, Douglas Dunton, Hunter Arnott; Streetsville, O. R. Church; Toronto Gore, Robert Gardhouse; auditors, Jas. Laidlaw, F. J. Thomson. The committee of scrutineers in charge of the election was A. H. Milner, Robert McCulloch, James Laidlaw and John Speers.

Wreford Hewson was presented with the silver cup for best heavy draft team at the recent exhibition, and, as this is the third time he has won the cup, he retains it permanently.

With large representations from Orion lodge, Georgetown; Maple Leaf lodge, Orangeville; Milton and Streetsville lodges assembling with them, Golden Star Lodge, I.O.O.F., extended an official welcome to N. J. M. Lockhart, St. Catharines, grand master of the I.O.O.F. for Ontario. Accompanying Mr. Lockhart was the grand secretary, William Brooks, Toronto, and other staff members. The first degree was exemplified by the local lodge on 22 applicants, of whom fifteen were seeking admission to Golden Star.

An interesting feature of the ceremony was the presentation of veterans' jewels to twelve members of Golden Star. Owing to advanced age, Jesse Perry, Toronto, and Thomas Wilson, Brampton, with over 50 years' membership, were unable to be present to receive their jewels. Others had from 25 years' service up to their credit.

And the other replied: "Why, I steals 'em readymade."

COOKSVILLE

"We find that May Towers came to her death on Monday, January 12, at the radial crossing on the third line, Dixie. We find that her body was cut in two by the radial wheels after being accidentally struck by the rear of an automobile driven by Leonard Jefferson, which forced her under the radial. We would ask the Railway Board to issue a slow order at all highway railway crossings. We recommend that the approach to all railway crossings where the roads are paved shall be sanded in slippery weather." (Signed) F. B. Pence, Foreman.

The above verdict was returned at the inquest on the death of May Towers, killed on the radial crossing on the third line east, Dixie, on Monday last, recently. A large number of the spectators were youths, friends of the deceased girl.

Coroner Dr. A. H. Sutton, Port Credit, presided, and R. W. Lent, Brampton, acted for the Crown, G. B. Jackson, Cooksville, representing E. H. Towers, father of the dead girl; Chas. Bowyer, Brampton, the Jefferson family, and J. M. McKerrow, Toronto, the C.N.R.

OBITUARY

Robert Ruddell

Robert Ruddell, farmer, died at his home in Esquesing Township, after an illness of two years. Deceased, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was a son of the late Francis Ruddell of Georgetown. He was a member of Ashgrove United Church and was a Conservative. Surviving are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Harvey Agnew of Nelson Township, and Mrs. Wilbert Ford of Trafalgar Township.

Mrs. James Coyne

S. V. Howden, the wife of the late James Coyne, died at the home of her son at Newcastle, Ont., on Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1931. Mrs. Coyne was overtaken with a stroke in July and after lying ill in her own home for a time it was found fitting to have her removed to her son's home in Newcastle, where she could spent her last days with an only son with love and care ever present. The funeral took place on Thursday, Jan. 8, to Bethel Cemetery and was well attended by many friends and old acquaintances. Her pastor, the Rev. Mr. Neill, spoke very highly of her past life. Our departed sister led a good Christian life, giving her heart to God when a young girl in her teens. She was a great Sunday School worker, especially in her younger days in the old Bethel Church. Mrs. Coyne's life was an inspiration to all of us who knew her, and are endeavoring to following the Master's footprints. I am certain she could say with the apostle Paul, "I have fought the good fight, I've finished the course; I've kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." One of her old Sunday school scholars contributed the following:

At home on the beautiful mountain of God,
By the valley of rest so fair;
Some day, some time, when our task is done,
Dear friend, we shall be there.

BUMPS AND BLOWS FROM THE RINK ALLEY

By Lou Swamp

Oh what a difference our new arena makes. Wednesday night the fans were treated to another thrilling doubleheader in the town league, and the games were well worth while. Don't miss any of these games. Although the old merk was down below the zero mark the crowd that filled the arena was held in position until the final bell, "some game." Would like to advise that I am agent for the Coleman Heaters.

The second game on the card, Creditvale vs. Anglicans produced some real hockey, and the boys are rapidly rounding into condition. It was a swell game to win and a tough one to drop. Creditvale deserves the long end of 3 to 1, as they had the edge on the church boys most of the game, but it was really closer than the scoreboard reads. Creditvale iced a real snappy team, much improved over their first appearance. They trotted out a smart new goalie in Evans, and he handled everything in pro style. The one shot that beat him was not his fault, he got caught in the netting and was unable to make the play. The lion's share of the glory for Creditvale goes to Evans, Pope and Doherty, who played very heady games, but the whole team played up to par.

The Trinity Church boys failed to hit a stride and for no good reason at all wanted to steal the old puck and take it home. This style of play doesn't get you anywhere. In the second period Goalie Haddon was cut badly from a bullet shot over the eye and was forced to retire. It took several stitches to close the wound. Harry Gill donned the pads. Harry certainly showed the fans some of his old time stuff, looking more like Chabot every minute. He was called upon to do the splits on several hot shots, but took care of everything that came his way. Hec Wright worked hard, but a nasty blow, in the first period, on the leg, slowed him up for the rest of the game. It hurts. I must say the boys all worked overtime and gave the best they had.

Irving Ardagh handled the bell for both games. He gave perfect satisfaction to all "Not one kick". He will be working overtime, I think, all winter.

Final score: Creditvale 3, Trinity Church 1.

STANDING

	P.	W.	L.	T.	P.
Creditvale	2	1	0	1	3
Trinity Church	2	1	1	0	2
Town	2	1	1	0	2
High School	2	0	1	1	1

If you don't turn out and see our kids perform you are missing something. Thursday afternoon we had an Inter-school game, Public vs. High, and what a game. How they can handthat puck. Mr. Langmaid, coach of the Public School team must be congratulated on the way he has his boys working. Several are worthy of the spotlight, such as Norman Potts, Lloyd Hope and Maynard Redick of the Public School, also Jack Schnurr of the High School team. Watch these boys.

Thistles Win

In one of the fastest and cleanest games played at the arena this winter, "Streetsville Thistles" defeated "Riverdales", Toronto, 4 to 2.

The lightning pace never let up, and the spectators were on their toes every minute of the struggle. The arena was well filled, very few empty box seats could be seen. It would be hard to pick the stars of the game. The boys all played a real game. Klinck and Pope were always in there, and their rushes were very effective, Geo. Klinck getting three goals and Archie one. Ellis and Walker were the scorers for Toronto. Teams—Toronto—Goal, Miller; defence, Barry and Lavery; forwards, Walker, Macfarland and McLelland, subs. Ellis, Bedford and McLelland. Streetsville—goal, Evans, defence, Klinck and Steggall, forwards, Pope, Steggall and Doherty, subs. Arch, Wright, Ardagh, Bruce and Cunningham. Final score 4-2, Referee Ellis. Only five penalties were necessary. Melville Steggall received a nasty gash on the leg and was forced to retire in the first period. He received prompt attention from the club physician "Dr. Snook". Don't neglect a visit to the Ellis Cafeteria while at the game.

The Bowling Alley

The bowling alley is also ringing with "Strike out Big Boy". We have three interesting leagues in town and they are producing all kinds of excitement. Men's league, ladies' league and a mixed league.

Ladies—Dot Graydon, 1937; Mrs. Redick, 1878; Norma Smith, 1670; Mrs. J. Lindsay, 1630; Mrs. C. Evans, 1628; Miss M. Chester, 1556; Miss Cliffe, 1457; Mrs. Wright, 1284.

Men's—Arch 17, Wood, 15; Atkinson, 10; Pickett, 9; McDowell, 7; Saul, 7.

We had our old friends from Port Credit visit our alleys Thursday night and tackle our all-star aggregation. The final score 6-0 for the locals. After the game the bunch were entertained at the home of one of our stars, Fred Maas and a swell time and swell table of refreshments was indulged in. Some niht. If you don't think so, ask the reporter.

Doc. has introduced a new shot, "The Creeper", and oh, how it works. Ernie had his hook working to perfection. He nearly made a strike. A real comeback has been made, Slim has found himself. The two Harrys, Fred, Mel and Stan carried the load. As a bowler Hec would make a swell pin setter. Try one of Vern's "STONE GINGER", it's good.

TOWN VS. STUDENTS

Town defeats students 3-0 in a very warmly contested game. The strong defence of the town was the big stumbling block and had the students shooting from the blue line. In around the nets the students were weak and also their shooting was away off the target.

For the town, Cook, Russell and W. Arch played a swell game.

M. Steggall, Reg. Bruce and Pat Ardagh were the pick of the school boys.

THE CARNIVAL

The opening carnival on Saturday night was a bumper. It was a record breaker for attendance and costumes. The ice was in perfect shape. Our local orchestra furnished the music.

The big night opened with a game of "broom polo" and, oh boy, what a kick it produced. It was no place for a person with a cracked lip.

The final score 4-3 in favor of a team picked from the "Home of Incurables."

Have your brooms trimmed and ready for the next game.

The reports showed the Society to be in good standing, and while the 1930 Fair was held on the wettest day of the year, the Board made up a deficit of $400.00. Directors gave good accounts of their departments. Mr. T. A. Leslie was re-elected to the chair for the fifth year in succession. Messrs. Wm. Couse and G. S. Bonham were appointed auditors.

Mr. S. S. Rice, who has been Secretary for two years, and gave good service to the Board, has given up the office, and said he absolutely would not consider acceptance of the position for another year.

At the annual meeting W. O. Brownridge, Milton, received the V. C. Johnston silver cup awarded the exhibitor taking the greatest number of prizes.

Officers of the board for the coming year are as follows: President, T. A. Leslie; first vice-president, Kenneth McIlwrick; second vice-president, O. L. Turner; directors, W. S. English, W. J. Cooper, W. A. Hardy, Rev. G. H. Purchase, S. S. Rice, James Rutledge, Elmer Leslie, W. C. Andrews, Sam Marlatt, W. H. McCauley, J. E. Dowlin, A. Adamson; honorary directors, H. W. Hope, reeve of Streetsville; J. H. Pinchin, reeve of Toronto township.

BRAMPTON

At the annual meeting of Derry West District Orange Association on Tuesday, Jan. 13, in the Orange Hall, Brampton, the following officers were elected for the coming year: W. McCurdy, D.M.; T. Nixon, P.D.M.; W. J. Gowland, D.D.M.; H. R. Woodall, chaplain; C. Doyle, rec. sec.; A. Robinson, financial sec.; H. Mara, Treasurer; W. Dale, Marshall; T. Canning, 1st lecturer; G. Embling, 2nd lecturer.

The election was conducted by P.D. M. Worshipful Bro. V. Bonham and the installation of new officers conducted by M. H. McKenna.

After the meeting adjourned luncheon was served.

At the annual meeting of the Peel County Agricultural Society it was shown by the treasurer's report that the Society had a deficit of $492.53 in 1930, due, it was explained, to a falling off of the smaller donations.

Total receipts of the society for 1930 were $6,334.33, made up of $624 provincial grant; $400 county grant; gate receipts, $1,834.70, etc. Cash prizes paid at the annual show amounted to $2,820.45, which was the largest item on the list of expenditures, the interest on the mortgage of the hall being $456.64, and the purse for the trials of speed being $455.

Officers elected were: President, F. B. Fenwick, Cooksville; vice-presidents, Gladstone Shaw, Tullamore; Lee Wilkinson, Brampton; directors—Brampton, L. J. C. Bull, Joseph Harrison, Richard Robson, A. H. Milner, George Farr; Chinguscousy, H. Laidlaw, H. A. Dolson, M. W. Carter, William Bovaird, Charles Strangways; Toronto Township, Douglas Dunton, Hunter Arnott; Streetsville, O. R. Church; Toronto Gore, Robert Gardhouse; auditors, Jas. Laidlaw, F. J. Thomson. The committee of scrutineers in charge of the election was A. H. Milner, Robert McCulloch, James Laidlaw and John Speers.

Wreford Hewson was presented with the silver cup for best heavy draft team at the recent exhibition, and, as this is the third time he has won the cup, he retains it permanently.

With large representations from Orion lodge, Georgetown; Maple Leaf lodge, Orangeville; Milton and Streetsville lodges assembling with them, Golden Star Lodge, I.O.O.F., extended an official welcome to N. J. M. Lockhart, St. Catharines, grand master of the I.O.O.F. for Ontario. Accompanying Mr. Lockhart was the grand secretary, William Brooks, Toronto, and other staff members. The first degree was exemplified by the local lodge on 22 applicants, of whom fifteen were seeking admission to Golden Star.

An interesting feature of the ceremony was the presentation of veterans' jewels to twelve members of Golden Star. Owing to advanced age, Jesse Perry, Toronto, and Thomas Wilson, Brampton, with over 50 years' membership, were unable to be present to receive their jewels. Others had from 25 years' service up to their credit.

200 Prisoners Rebel In Toronto Jail

Seven Ringleaders Weeded Out and Each Given Five Strokes—Some Desperadoes Among Leaders

Toronto—Smouldering embers of rebellion among prisoners at the Toronto Jail were fanned into a blaze on Saturday night when over 200 took part in a riot which required the combined efforts of the entire jail staff four hours to subdue. According to an official statement authorized by Leopold Macaulay, Provincial Secretary, the outbreak had its basis in a plan to effect a wholesale delivery of prisoners by overpowering the guards.

Shouting and yelling and stamping their feet in the cells and corridors, the prisoners, among them many hardened criminals, created such an uproar that for a time Governor Hedley Basher and his staff faced a situation of great difficulty. It is believed the object of the plot was to have one of the jailers unlock a corridor door and then overpower him. But the scheme failed. Aided by his entire staff, Governor Basher weeded out the ringleaders, placed them in isolation cells and, backed up with weapons, forced the remainder to subside.

Ringleaders Strapped

Seven ringleaders, young men between the ages of 17 and 21, were each given five strokes with the strap on Sunday night for their part in the affair. This was the first time in many years that prisoners have been strapped at the Toronto Jail.

The outbreak was similar in character to the one which occurred at the Don Jail about a month ago. Since that time vigilance at the jail has been redoubled, newcomers have been watched closely and a constant guard has been kept on quarters where an outbreak was likely to take place.

At the time of the outbreak on Saturday night shortly before 6 o'clock all the prisoners were in their cells with the exception of a few sleeping in the corridors for lack of space. There were 247 male prisoners and 17 female prisoners.

From what can be learned from authoritative sources, the storm broke suddenly without any previous rumblings of disorder. Strict enforcement of the jail regulation prohibiting the use of tobacco and resentment at the lack of proper accommodation are said to be some of the reasons for the bedlam of noise which preceded Governor Basher's rushing from his nearby home to the jail in response to a telephone message from a guard.

Starting in one of the corridors in the east wing, the wave of rebellion spread throughout this wing and through the west section of the building. That the outbreak was not something impromptu but was the result of a carefully-laid plan would be indicated by the stubbornness with which the prisoners resisted the attempts of the guards to restore order. Seizing every movable article in the cells, the prisoners banged on the walls, shouted abuse at the guards outside the grilled doors, and made every demonstration within their power against authority.

Entire Staff Called Out

From corridor to corridor amid the deafening noise and shouting, Governor Basher and the guards went, taking suspected ringleaders from one corridor and then proceeding to the next to remove prisoners believed at the bottom of the trouble. The temper of the prisoners in the cells and corridors was at its ugliest when the governor and his guards entered, but the show of force overawed the inmates who still continued to shout and create pandemonium but made no attempt to come to blows with the officials.

The official statement issued last night by H. M. Robbins, deputy provincial secretary, on the instruction of Hon. Leopold Macaulay, provincial secretary, is as follows:

Action Effective

"Effective action has been taken by Major G. Hedley Basher to terminate occurring breaches of discipline which occurred in Toronto Jail on the evening of Saturday, January 17. Major Basher, who is the governor of the local jail, received a message from the guard in charge that a serious disturbance was taking place in the institution. Going to the jail from his nearby residence, he found the prisoners were indulging in an organized program of shouts, catcalls, profanity and obscenity. The prisoners at this time were all in their cells with the exception of a few sleeping in corridors for lack of cell space. The noise originated in one of the corridors in the east wing, gradually spreading throughout this wing and to some extent to the west section. It required the combined efforts of the governor and staff from about 6 p.m. to about 10 o'clock to restore order.

"At date there are 247 male prisoners and 17 females. It is stated that at times about two-thirds of the male prisoners were implicated in the outbreak. The ringleaders were detected and placed in isolation cells and quiet was gradually restored. It is established that the leaders were lads of from 17 to 21 years of age. One of the chief complaints seemed to be regarding the deprivation of tobacco, the use of which is strictly forbidden under the jail rules. The older prisoners, and particularly the repeaters, advised against the disturbance, it is said.

"It is alleged that plans were being made to overpower the guard who first attempted to quell the disturbance, probably with some idea of effecting a wholesale jail delivery. There are a number of desperate characters in the jail at present and the staff has been aware for some time that a number of these men were planning an escape, although the present incident has no connection with such plans.

"Hon. Mr. Macaulay, who is displaying commendable energy in improving conditions in the penal and reformative institutions of the province, unhesitatingly states that the jail staffs will have the backing of the Government in maintaining proper discipline in the institutions. Conditions are trying at the present time, owing to the large number of inmates, many of whom have been engaged in crime of a serious nature Hon. Mr. Macaulay points out that this is the first time in a very long period that measures of this type have been found necessary in the local jail.

"The use of physical punishment is regarded as an extreme and regrettable measure, but the minister expresses the determination that incipient revolts of the type referred to shall not be allowed to grow into riots of the type which have recently occurred in American prisons. He feels that prompt handling in the present instance will discourage similar outbreaks, either in the Don Jail or in the other institutions in which prisoners are incarcerated throughout the province."

Radio Abridges Arctic Silence

Personal Messages from Down South and Movements of Residents Broadcast

Ottawa.—The traditional silence of the Arctic has been broken by Government radio stations broadcasting news and special programs to the ice-bound inhabitants of Canada's far north, it was announced recently by Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine.

Through the Government chain of radio stations in the north news of political, sporting and other current events now is relayed to them a few hours or days after they have taken place. The inauguration of the system was accomplished a few days ago and already the results have justified the effort, Mr. Duranleau said.

Three of the Government stations, those at Churchill on Hudson Bay, Chesterfield Inlet on the eastern side of the bay and Coppermine River on the Arctic Ocean, have been equipped with broadcasting apparatus. Each station goes on the air at stipulated times after it has picked up news synopsis, personal announcements and general information from Canadian, British or United States shortwave stations. This is consolidated and edited before being relayed to the isolated inhabitants of the north.

One of the chief duties of the stations is to broadcast the latest "Social news" of the north. When a trader or trapper leaves a post for another settlement, this is sent over the air and if he does not arrive at his destination on time, immediate efforts are made to locate him. Personal messages from 'down south" are sent out to missionaries and traders which might take months to reach them if sent by mail.

Fast French Train Beats the World

Paris Express Does 95 Miles at 63 Miles an Hour

A railway engine shaped like an airship and driven by a propeller has just been tested in Germany. The greatest speed it attained, however, was only 113 miles an hour.

This proves that railway engines now classed as obsolete could, in a race with this latest invention, run away from it.

As far back as 1903 a German-built electric engine tore over the rails at 130½ miles an hour, while many of our fastest locomotives could do likewise if they were allowed to.

The fastest train in Europe is in France, which covers the 95 miles between Paris and St. Quentin at over 63 miles an hour. Running it very close is our Great Western Railway's London to Bath express, which does the 106 3-4 miles in exactly 105 minutes.

Germany's speed limit for railways is 62 m.p.h., and the fastest train in that country averages 55 3-4 miles an hour. Yet almost a hundred years ago our Great Western Railway ran an engine at 53 miles an hour.

Whether electric engines are more powerful than steam has yet to be proved conclusively, but something in the nature of a test was carried out a couple of years ago in America, when a steam locomotive and an electric engine were put on one line for a pushing contest. It ended in victory for the electric monster, the steam loco being slowly pushed backwards! —Pearson's Weekly.

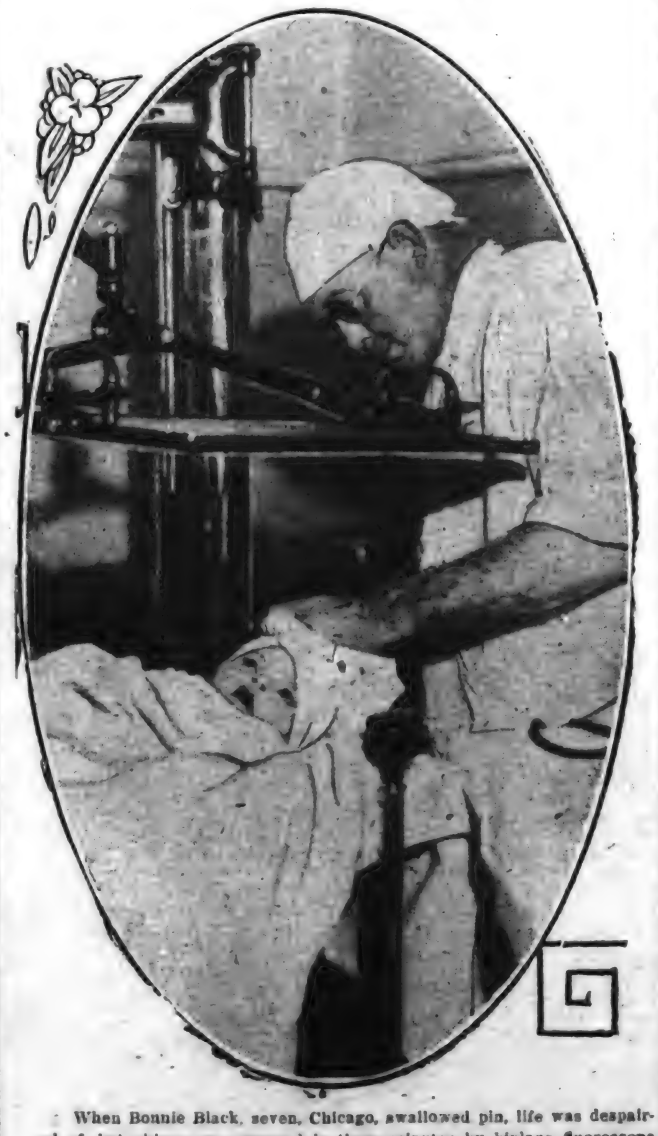
Mariners Seek New Shipping Laws

Toronto.—T. O'Reilly of Sault Ste. Marie was elected President of the Marine Engineers' Association here on Jan. 16th at the closing session of the convention. Other officers elected are: G. Price of Waubaushene, Vice-President; J. B. Polding of Mildand, Secretary-Treasurer; J. S. Adam, Toronto, Chairman of Executive Committee.

Important discussions on the coastwise shipping laws occupied the last day of the session. Recommendation and a resolution to the effect that certain clauses be altered will be sent to the Dominion Government through the Trades and Labor Council.

"The coasting laws are being evaded," the mariners declared, "by Canadian grain having been shipped from Canadian heads of the lakes to Buffalo and other United States points, and transhipped from the United States boats back to Montreal by United States ships or by ships of the Canadian register which are owned and operated by United States capital.'



Canada and Mexico Near Trade Treaty Agreement

Mexico City.—A commercial treaty to govern the interchange of products between this country and Canada is being considered by government officials and the National Federation of Chambers of Commerce here. It is reported that the terms of the treaty are almost complete and that it will be ratified in the near future.

Communications between the Secretary of Foreign Relations and the Canadian Consul indicate mutual desire of the countries to reach an agreement.

The proposition originally was fostered by agricultural interests in Sinaloa and encouraged by Mexican chambers of commerce.

Rock Slide Alters Contour of Falls

Fall of Rock is Largest Ever Recorded on American Side

SERIES OF CRASHES

Niagara Falls, Ont.—Giving way to the erosion of water, thousands of tons of rock broke away from the parapet of the United States part of Niagara Falls some time between darkness Saturday night and daylight Sunday and caused the greatest change in the contour of the cataract within the memory of living man.

The breaking away of the huge mass created a gigantic U-shaped indentation in the brink, estimated by observers to be 150 to 200 feet deep by about 150 feet wide and beginning approximately 300 feet from the bank of Luna Island.

Accurate estimate of the extent of the erosion will not be possible until aerial photos have been compared with the previous contour. The rest of the American Falls is 1,030 feet wide, with an average depth of 1.5 feet of water. The broken-up rock formation is piled in immense blocks half-way up the 167-foot cliff at the base of the U incision.

Reservation officials reported that several rumbling noises were heard between 10 p.m. Saturday night and 6 o'clock Sunday morning, while customs and immigration officers on Falls View Bridge reported they heard a rumbling crash at 5.30 a.m.

New Contour of Cataract

The new contour of the cataract to the experienced eye is apparent at once.

News of the change spread among residents of Niagara Falls. First official report was made to police headquarters by a patrolman at 2.30 p.m. Meanwhile, tourists from all parts of the world were photographing the cataract. The average erosion of the American falls is estimated at one inch a year.

Cave of Winds Not Damaged

The Cave of the Winds, known to practically every tourist who has visited Niagara Falls, does not extend out as far as the gouged-out part of the cliff, and was not damaged. About eight years ago a fall of rock in the cave of the Winds injured several persons.

From Prospect Point, on the American shore, the new indentation is not sharply defined because the observer's eyes are almost on a level with the brink. However, from Luna Island and the Canadian side, especially the latter, the change in appearance stands out plainly.

The most noticeable scenic aspect is the addition to the rock debris at the base of the American Falls. At the point of the latest erosion gigantic rocks, some of them larger than houses, are piled up.

Normal Process of Erosion

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 18.—The cave-in of rock at the crest of Niagara Falls to-day was described by Dr. Reginald H. Pegrum, professor of geology at University of Buffalo, as part of the normal process of erosion which gradually will carry the falls back to within a few mile sof the Tonawandas, where the waterfall is expected ultimately to disappear or become transformed into a long, swift series of rapids.

'This, of course, will take thousands of years, Dr. Pegrum said. "There is nothing highly unusual from the geologic point of view in the destruction of the section of the falls crest to-day. It is just part of the normal erosion which has been going on since the falls were formed thousands of years ago at Lewiston, and which has chiseled the great rock gorge of the Niagara."

Scientists vary in their estimates of the age of the falls. They are believed to have existed 40,000 to 100,000 years and to have had an average annual recession, due to erosion, of several inches.

Apparently only one man saw the actual fall. A tourist was standing on the Canadian side looking at the American Falls when he saw a great cloud of spray, followed by three rumbling crashes, and he saw before his eyes a veritable mountain of rock taking form in front of the great curtain of spray. The new mountain, when ice and snow have done their work, will probably tower high over the Falls themselves. The appearance of the American Falls has been materially altered.

Pieces Broken Off Daily

"Pieces of the crest are being broken off daily, only they generally are not as large as those destroyed to-day when the amount of the falls line disturbed was discernible," Dr. Pegrum said.

The land formation under the waterfall is capped with a 60-foot guard of hard rock, it was explained by the scientist. Under this rockbed is a stratum of comparatively soft shale. The churning water at the foot of the falls gradually washes away the shale, leaving sections of the hard rock protruding. These, battered by the rush of water, break off and fall.

"In the course of time this undermining progresses so far that the projecting portion of the caping stratum breaks down for want of support," Prof. Pegrum said, "and the crest line of the fall becomes abruptly altered. That is exactly what happened."

Royal Heir Starts On Long Journey

Prince George Accompanies Elder Brother—Goal is Argentina

Paris.—The Prince of Wales, accompanied by his brother, Prince George, arrived here on January 16th and spent a quiet evening at their hotel. They were strictly incognito and there was none of the pomp usually accorded visiting royalty.

They did not go to the theatre as the Prince is accustomed to do on his visits to Paris, because both were in mourning for their aunt, the Princess Royal, who died last week.

The two young men, on their way to South America, where the Prince of Wales is to open the British Trade Exhibition next March, crossed the Channel in the Prince's aeroplane, reaching Le Bourget field after two hours' flying over threatening clouds and through fog.

The Princes proceeded from here to Santander, Spain, where they boarded the liner Oropesa for the voyage across the Atlantic.

A couple of British Army planes escorted them to France, and the British Air Attache greeted them at Le Bourget.

London to Rebuild Whitehall

London.—Whitehall, the area holding most of the government offices and ministries, is to be largely rebuilt at an estimated cost of $10,000,000. Slightly changed locations will permit cultivation of public gardens and the rebuilding of several historic houses.

Overwork or Worry

Taxes the Health of Thousands of Young Girls

In the "teen-age" years when school or office work is exacting and outside activities use up so much energy, many girls undermine their health and spoil their happiness for years to come.

At such a time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found most valuable. They purify and enrich the blood; build up the nerve cells and correct run-down conditions. Concerning them Miss Margaret Torrey, Indian Road, Toronto, Ont., says: "When I was attending high school I suffered a complete breakdown. My heart would palpitate at the least exertion; I could not sleep and nothing I ate agreed with me. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and before long I gained in weight and every distressing symptom left me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Japanese Way

It is said that the Japanese working-class crowd is the only one in the world from which there is no odour. When one learns about their social habits and about the important part the soap and water bath plays in the daily life or the very poorest in that country, one is not surprised. The natives are scrupulously clean, and every opportunity is given them to be so.

There are many public baths, just vats sunk in the ground; but before using the community bath they soap thoroughly and wash from little wooden tubs hard by. The Japanese have no false modesty; men and women, boys and girls, all bath at the same time—a bamboo pole across the bathing house marks the dividing line for the sexes.

In country inns washing takes place in the entrance hall, where, as a rule, are found a wooden trough and a number of brass basins, together with stubby brushes.

But the Japanese does not stop at washing his body clean; he is very particular about his garments, and after a long journey a rickshaw runner will take the opportunity when resting of not only having a bath, but of washing his clothes. Spreading them out on boards, he soaps, scrubs, and rinses them, and if they are not sufficiently dry for the return run he brings out a second suit from under the seat of the rickshaw and is as spick and span as when he started in the morning.—"Tit-Bits."

England Plans More Television Broadcasts

London. — Plans for next year's broadcasting in England call for closer co-operation between officials of the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Baird television group preparatory to developing television broadcasts.

Advanced experiments with the Baird process have been conducted by B. B. C., officials of which announce the system will be employed in connection with sound broadcasting as soon as possible.

Mexican Journalists Demand Greater "Freedom of Press"

Mexico City.—Freedom of the press was the principal topic discussed at the National Journalism Congress, attended by representatives of leading newspapers throughout the republic, which has just adjourned in Mexico City. A tentative amendment to Constitutional articles 6 and 7, which dealt with freedom of thought and speech, was adopted by the congress, and a committee was named to present it before Congress at its next session.

One of the points of the amendment project provides that "free criticism of the acts of public employees and officials is an essential element of every democratic regime, and for this reason never can be considered as criminal any allusions, assertions, information, or comments relative to their public life."

OTTAWA TO HOLD BIG WINTER CARNIVAL

Ottawa takes to the hills in earnest when she holds her annual winter carnival, which this year embraces a complete week of sports events from February 2 to February 7. There will be the renewal of the 100-mile dog derby for the Chateau Laurier $1000 Gold Cup; National and International speed skating races; ski jumping competitions; fancy skating; international hockey matches, and, since the young people are as ambitious as the grown-ups, a junior dog derby for which boys and girls of Ottawa and district towns are now training their dogs.

Photographs show, top: International speed skaters preparing for their championship race; Lower left, Emile St. Godard, defender of the Chateau Laurier Gold Cup which he won in 1930 hundred mile dog derby, and right, one of the ski-jumping champions of Canada going off the take-off at the Rockcliffe Park jump in an attempt to establish new distance records.

Northern Pines

These gaunt trees, these green, rough-elbowed towers,
Shelter our lanes and make our homesteads snug;
They halve brash winter with a boughy shrug
Or double springtime in their singing bowers,
And scorning all the arguments of storm
Protect the owl and keep winged beauty warm.

For them the year has only upreaching days;
They draw earth's secret from the stony deep
And bear it in their hearts, as soft as sleep,
Or build with it towards heaven, seeking the blaze
Of universal noon or star-spread stream
That lifts them, rooted—like the things we dream.

Discovers Control Seat Of Glandular Activities

The "tuber cinereum," a small projection from the base of the brain, has been discovered, so he believes, to be the seat of the control for gland activities by Professor L. O. Morgan, of the University of Cincinnati, who has been studying this organ in the brains of dogs. His findings were reported as including the discovery of certain groups of living cells which control the secretion of body chemicals by the various glands, including the adrenal glands and the thyroid glands.

Professor Morgan has found this organ in the body of rats and even men to be full of these cells. He recalls that experts have already discovered that disease or disturbance of this organ often causes body changes, hot and cold flashes, changes in blood pressure and changes in eye pupil size, which were thought to be controlled by glandular activity.

This brain cell activity indirectly guides almost every bodily function through the direct control of these functions by gland chemicals sent out in the blood like written messages carrying orders to the many organs of the body.

A Simple Treatment for Children's Colds

Cold in the head is very common at this time of year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotic or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's fretfulness, relieve its suffering and ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhoea; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreaded teething period easy. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Stained Necks

If your necklace "comes off on your neck" and leaves a dark ring around your neck, dip it into shellac. This keeps it from tarnishing or marking the skin.

INK SPOTS.

Milk often takes ink spots out of colored clothes when used immediately. There is little use worrying with anything but a regulation ink remover later on.

Veteran Retires

Forty-five years of continuous service with the Canadian Pacific Railway earned rest and pension for Dugal Carmichael, who retired December 31, 1930. More than half of his service was as conductor on the Montreal-Toronto run and it was there that his service ended on New Year's day, when he brought his train for the last time to the Union Station. In addition to his work as conductor, he was trainmaster in 1904, assistant superintendent in 1908 and then acting superintendent and terminal superintendent, but ill health forced him to return to the less strenuous duties of conductor on his old run in 1917. Photograph shows him signing in for the last time on New Year's Day at the Toronto Union Station.

Cause of High Blood Pressure Due to Ions?

What are believed to be important clues to the long-standing mystery of why changes of weather affect many human beings, like the rheumatic patients who can feel an approaching storm "in their bones," are being discovered by the researches of a distinguished German physician and X-ray specialist, Dr. Friedrich Dessauer, of Frankfurt-on-Main. Ten years ago Dr. Dessauer conceived the idea that these effects might be due to differences in the number or kind of ions in the air, ions being electrified gas atoms known to vary in number and character from time to time and in different kinds of weather. To test the idea, apparatus has been constructed to manufacture artificial air containing definite numbers of ions of two kinds, those electrified with positive electricity and those carrying negative electricity. Experiments on animals have now been extended to healthy human beings. An excess of negative ions, Dr. Dessauer finds, lowers the blood pressure and makes the breathing slower. An excess of positive ions, on the other hand, raises the blood pressure and quickens the breathing. Other bodily effects are now being investigated. The number of ions in the air is known to vary not only with the weather, but in different localities, like the mountains and the seashore. Positive ions are known to be plentiful in city smoke, which possibly may help to explain the many cases of high blood pressure in modern cities.

British Potato Yield Declines

London.—A reduction of 1,006,000 tons, or 35 per cent., in the potato crop of England and Wales for 1930 is reported by the Ministry of Agriculture. The total crop is estimated at 2,502,000 tons, compared with last year's 3,588,000 tons.

ITALIAN RICE.

Rice has been cultivated in Italy since the fifteenth century, and that country now leads Europe in the production of that cereal, 673,000 metric tons being raised last year.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Five Boys— Best Evidence.

Mrs. Corcoran, of Leigh, writes:—"I suffered with biliousness accompanied by sick headaches for days at a time, and every medicine I tried failed to bring relief. A friend gave me some of your wonderful Carter's Little Liver Pills and the first dose gave me great relief. For three years I have taken them every night as a regulator and I find they prevent these bilious and sick headache attacks. I have five little boys and I give them three or four every week. I have great faith in them." Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. All druggists 25¢ and 75¢ red pkgs.

Weak After Operation

"I was very weak after an operation. My nerves were so bad I would sit down and cry and my husband would not go out and leave me alone. Now my nerves are much better, thanks to a booklet that was left under the door. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound surely put me on my feet. I have taken eight bottles. My friends tell me I look fine. My sister has taken this medicine too."—Mrs. Annie Welton, 67 Stanley St., Kingston, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

PAIN after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on bottle.

DREADED GOING TO ENGLAND

Lumbago Always Crippled Him

NOW KRUSCHEN KEEPS HIM FREE

England hasn't any monopoly in Lumbago. Yet, although this engineer has lived in many parts of the world, it was always when he went home to England that lumbago attacked him. Eventually he tried Kruschen, and now—living permanently in England—keeps free from his old trouble. He gives us permission to publish this:—"I some time ago spent ten years in China, and every time I came home on leave I was crippled with lumbago. About nine years ago I came to England to reside permanently. Wishing to keep clear of the trouble, I started a course of your Kruschen Salts exactly as prescribed on the label, taking same in my breakfast coffee each day. During these nine years, apart from one mild attack about four years ago, I have been entirely free from Lumbago and in good health. You may make what use you wish of the above, with the understanding that my name is not published."—N. B., A.M.I.E.E.

Lumbago, Rheumatism and all other uric acid complaints can be traced—in nine cases out of ten—to intestinal stasis (delay). Poisons bred in the accumulated waste enter the blood and cause all kinds of trouble. The unfailing effect of Kruschen is to rid the intestinal tract of all clogging waste matter. Your pains ease, then disappear. And so long as a condition of internal cleanliness is maintained by the "little daily dose," you will really enjoy life—because the six salts in Kruschen keep the system sweet and clean—the eyes bright and the brain active and alert.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

No more COLIC pains

... give Castoria

A CRY in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. When there's need of gentle regulation. Every child loves the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to right the irregularities of older, growing children. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. It's prescribed by doctors!

UNITED CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL SLEIGH RIDE

Friday last was a gala day for the members of the Sunday School when they had their annual sleigh ride. Five large sleighs were taxed to the limit. After riding several miles they returned to the Sunday School room, where a tasty supper was ready, provided by the members of the Women's Association. Over 200 sat down and enjoyed full and plenty. Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. John Wagner and K. Featherstone who looked after the sleighs owned by J. D. Steen, Jim Steen, Frank Workman, Wm. Turney and Frank Dowling and the ladies who so kindly provided and looked after the tables. This was expressed in a motion moved by Eugen Gerhart at the Sunday School session and carried most heartily.

A SOCIAL EVENING

Under the auspices of St. Joseph's Church a very enjoyable social evening was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Streetsville, on Monday, Jan. 12. The ideal weather and the favorable condition of the roads did much to bring together a capacity crowd. Guests were in attendance not only from Streetsville and surrounding districts, but also from Toronto, Dixie, Mimico, Port Credit, Oakville, Milton, Brampton and Toronto Gore. The Streetsville five-piece harmony orchestra furnished choice music from the hour of 8.30 until 1 o'clock a.m. While many enjoyed the dancing in the fine large hall downstairs, others played progressive euchre in the lodge room upstairs. The prize winners at euchre were: Miss Dorothy Rundle, lady's 1st prize; Mrs. W. Hickey of Dixie and Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick of Streetsville equally merited the ladies' 2nd prize; Mrs. W. Hutchinson of Toronto Township received the ladies' consolation prize. Mr. Hugh O'Connor of Milton won the gents' 1st prize; Mr. W. J. Callanan the gents' 2nd prize, and Mr. C. J. Boegel of Dundas Street, the gents' consolation prize. Mr. Hope, Reeve of Streetsville, made a short speech and presented the prizes to the lucky persons. After the euchre, the guests repaired to the lunch room, where the ladies of the church had in readiness an abundance of sandwiches, cake, tea and coffee. Following the serving of refreshments the euchre players joined with the others in the hall below where a most enjoyable and social time was spent in old-time and modern dances. Miss Florence O'Hara of Brampton won the lucky number dance prize. The committee in charge are to be congratulated upon the success, social and financial, of the so-called social evening.

BRAMPTON

Finding that he had been arrested at Langstaff without legal authority and justification, a county court jury, before Judge Lee, returned a verdict awarding $250, with costs, to John Edward Mitchell, automobile mechanic of Langstaff.

Suit was against Chief Constable Andrew Herkes of Brampton. Mr. Mitchell had asked $1,000 damages on the ground that he had been falsely arrested. Defendant had taken him to Brampton jail, where he was detained overnight, and had done so without a warrant, plaintiff alleged.

Mitchell testified that he had, next day, been found guilty of the theft of two radios, the property of S. H. Mitchell, by Magistrate Bull of Brampton, and was fined and had to restore the radios.

George T. Walsh, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, E. Richardson defending.

Reading Club

A meeting of the Reading Club was held at the home of Mrs Wm Couse Tuesday evening, Jan. 13th, when The Play "Quality Street," by Barrie, was read and enjoyed by all present.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Couse on Tuesday Jan. 27th.

Road Meeting Saturday

A meeting of all those interested in the new hard surface road which Peel County Council promised to construct between Erindale and Stretsville, will be held in Church's Hall, Streetsville, Saturday evening Jan. 24th, at 8 o'clock sharp. All those who were at former meetings and any others are requested to be present. The object of the meeting will be to appoint a deputation to wait on the County Council next Wednesday and ask them to start to build the said road as soon as it can possibly be done Come and bring someone with you.

Will Take the $5

Brampton Town Council passed a by law to provide for the payment of $5 per meeting for its members —and they are justly entitled to it. Port Credit Village Council has been getting paid for the past ten years. All the Township Councils draw down their allowance. Streetsville and Bolton are the only Councils in Peel County who do not get paid but they should be. Somebody said we could get better service from the men who volunteered their services free gratis—but that remains to be seen. However there is a certain amount of honor in these offices and the pay generally is to be relieved of the postion at the end of the year especially if the tax rate rises a mill or two, and no matter how hard the member works in the best interests of the town.

EASTERN STAR OFFICERS

The new officers of the Peel Chapter 96, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed in the lodge room Monday night. The installing officers were Mrs. George Slack, Toronto, and Dr. G. Elliott, past grand patron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, assisted by Mrs. W. Couse, Mrs. G. Bunt, Mrs. W. Atkinson and Mrs. H. Cavell, past matrons of the chapter, and Mrs. M. MacDonald and Mrs. E. B. Abrahams of Toronto.

Mrs. O. R. Church, I.P.M., and O. R. Church, I.P.P., were presented with jewels.

Officers installed were: Mrs. H. Gerhardt, W.M.; George Bonham, W. P.; Mrs. E. Durie, A.M.; S. Cordingley, A.P.; Mrs. J. T. O'Neil, sec.; Mrs. G. Bunt, treas. ;Mrs. J. Duhn, conductress; Mrs. H. Couse, associate conductress; Mrs. G. W. Morris, chaplain; Mrs. H. Wolfe, marshall; Mrs. W. Atkinson, organist; Miss M. Miles, Adah; Mrs. Archie Price, Ruth; Mrs. G. Bonham, Esther; Mrs. H. Beattie, Martha; Mrs. E. Drew, Electa; Miss L Montgomery, warder; Harry Gill, sentinel.

Following the installation, refreshments were served and a toast list was conducted by Bro. Geo. S. Bonham, Worthy Patron.

Hoist Ship Through Window

When it was decided to exhibit in a London department store for the Christmas season, the historic half-ton water-line model of the Canadian Pacific super-liner "Empress of Britain" which had been featured a few weeks previously in the Lord Mayor's Show, it was found necessary to lift the model about thirty feet in the air so that its great size might be safely admitted to the department store by an upper window. The photographer has caught the scene just as the model is entering the window. Traffic was blocked for an hour during the hoisting of the model, which was carried out with complete success.

Have you checked up on the overhead of your "home" laundry? Figure out what each wash costs you in time, fuel soap and equipment and then compare your price per wash with ours. Then phone us and let us do a trial wash for you and show you what we mean when we say that we can give you better results. We have six different kinds of family wash service from which you may choose, each wash done separately in soft water. Let our young lady explain these to you — or stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen.

OUR PRICES

1. Damp Wash—20 lbs. for $1.00—
5c. per pound
Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in ten changes of water. Excess water removed and the bundles returned damp, sweet and clean, ready to be ironed.

2. Damp Wash, Flat Work Ironed,
8c. per pound
12 1-2 lbs. lbs. for $1.00—
Same process as Damp Wash with the exception that all body clothes are returned ready to iron and flat work such as bed linen, table linen and towels are ironed by us, ready for use.

3. Dry Wash, 14 lbs. for $1.00—
7c. per pound
Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in ten different waters and thoroughly dried in moderate air-cooled dry room tumbler.

4. Dry Wash, Flat Work Ironed.
10c. per pound
10 lbs. for $1.00—
Same process as dry wash with the exception that all body clothes are returned dry and flat work such as bed linen, table linen and towels ready for use.

5. Semi-Finished, 9 lbs. for $1.00—
11c. per pound
Everything ironed. Flat work perfectly done and body clothes or wearing apparel ironed in such a manner that it is entirely finished except a few of the fussy corners and 90 per cent. can be worn without any further touching up.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate and Martin are the only working members of the Widow O'Hara's household. Martin also studies medicine at night. Christopher Steynes, a friend of Gordon Rountree's, Mary Kate's boss, induces her to play the part of his wife for twenty-four hours in order that he may deceive a Russian countess and her daughter into thinking he is married. Mary hopes, with the cheque she receives from Steynes, to be able to send Martin to Germany to study. She explains at home that she is going on a business trip for Rountree; then she goes to Burlingame and meets Steynes. The countess is discouraged. That night Mary Kate stays at Steynes' house. A burglar gets into her room. Steynes shoots the burglar. Police take Mary Kate's name and address. Mary Kate fears her mother will find out and misunderstand.

"As a matter of fact," Chris continued, "Gordy thinks much the best thing would be to let the whole thing drop, not persecute. In that case I decline to appear against him, say that nothing was stolen—nothing was—and the man would be discharged."

"Wouldn't the police—wouldn't the District Attorney prosecute?"

"I don't believe so."

"He might—" she said, in agony.

"Not without a complaint being filed."

"I think Gordy's brother considerable pull," the man went on; he'll work it, if we need it. But at any rate, here's what I was thinking," he added, in a brisker tone, returning to the problem of the present moment. "They're through with us, and we can beat it. I'll have Rountree take the luncheon on. He can have the crowd over to the Club. You're in no condition to play hostess after last night, and Gordon'll make our excuses. Get your things, and put them in the car and we'll drive out somewhere and fool away the time until your Los Angeles train is due."

Again in the beautiful Serano, which shot through the green springtime roads like a projectile, Mary Kate was very silent at Chris's side. None of the happy bubble of yesteray was repeated; she watched the countryside go by with somber, brooding eyes.

"Like Half Moon Bay?"

"I didn't hear you."

"I asked you if you'd like the run over to Half Moon Bay?"

"Oh? Oh, I don't care."

And she lapsed into her apprehensive silence again.

The car climbed up above the trees to the top of the hills, and started down toward the broad plane of dira grayness that was the ocean. The grass was spattered with buttercups, and their milk smell was sweet, with a thousand other good springtime odors, in the warm soft air.

Larks went whirling up to the blue sky, leaving their plaintive liquid notes like bells in the air beneath them. In the sheltered dingle of a great rock, on the ridge, there were poppies in the grass, satiny burning petals lying sprawled in a foam of delicate green foliage, or folded into shining orange cones.

Going down the long grade the vegetation changed; became the stout, tough, shorter herbage of the coast. Lupin and onion flowers were blue in ash-gray furze, and about the silvery old barns and farmhouses pink mallow grew on blowing bushes.

The wind was keen and soft from the sea; it brought the color into Mary Kate's tired face. Chris stopped the car on a headland, and they looked out across the rolling blue waters, heaving and dimpling placidly, mysteriously, under the season's first hot sun.

North and south the beaches curved between waters and land, sometimes rising to cliffs, some broken by great tumbled masses of rock. The tide foamed and bubbled and slid into a thousand pools, and churned through a thousand channels, in the rocky places, and wrote endless, unceasing curves over and over again on the sand.

All along the shore were the little frame houses, beaten and discolored by wind, and set in angles of artichoke and cabbage patches. Now and then there passed a humble little village, marked by windblown hedges, and blighted gardens whose paths were outlined by irridescent abolone shells. It was a deserted world, on a fragrant spring morning. The men were in the fields, the women in houses. Now and then a Saturday group of little girls, walking toward a village store, and gum, and chocolate bars, huddled cautiously at one side of the road, when the car, with its long, desolate, melancholy, four-toned cry, went sweeping by.

The queer, endless day dragged by. At half-past one o'clock they had mussels and spaghetti and sour, delicious Italian bread, at a bleak, bare, odorous seaside restaurant that looked as if they had been its only guests in years, and the old Italian host made zabayone for Mary Kate himself, and brought it, warm and foaming, to the table.

It was three o'clock, four o'clock. They were going back over the hill; they were in Belmont, and had turned north. At the Burlingame station Chris very simply and kindly put Mary Kate back on her train.

"You have money?" he asked, while they were waiting at the station.

"Oh, plenty, thanks!"

"You've been an awfully good sport, and I'm awfully sorry it's turned out this way. But don't worry. It'll be all right."

"Oh, I hope so!"

"And I'll see you, soon."

But at this she looked up at him unsmilingly.

"I think not. I'd rather not—ever see you again!"

"Oh, say—" he protested with that widening of the eyes that was familiar to her now. "Why this?" he asked.

"I'm hoping to get married this year," she told him. But without any confidence or happiness in her tone. "I'll be leaving Mr. Rountree—"

"You don't mean," he asked as she paused, "you don't mean that you think you have to tell the man you marry about this?"

"No, I wasn't thinking of that," she said quietly. "Although it might be the wise thing to do. I'm going to tell my mother the whole story, this afternoon, and if she thinks I ought to tell Case—"

"She won't!" Chris protested.

"But I was thinking that our ways won't cross again," the girl went on, as if she had not been interrupted. "There's no good reason why they should. So good-bye."

She held out her hand, and Chris shook it, and said again: "I think you've been a wonderful sport! And don't worry, you'll never hear of this housebreaking mess again. And thanks awfully, Mary."

"You're welcome," she said youthfully, indifferently. He followed her, with her bag, into the car, and placed her luggage conveniently. There was only a second left, in which to run to the door and jump down. Mary Kate was on the wrong side of the train; she did not see him again.

And then it was all simple. The towns and villages of yesterday began to reverse themselves, like a film running backward, and in no time at all she was in San Francisco, she was in a taxicab, she had given the driver the O'Farrell street number.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The city looked grimy and weary; workers were streaming home in every direction. The dreadful sense of being a child that must return to inevitable punishment—a sense that had shadowed her all day, returned to Mary Kate, and by the time she had reached her own doorway she was almost sick with emotion and excitement.

The children were all out upon her like a flash, Pat and Regina and Tess, and big Tom, who kissed her with a warm, unshaven cheek against hers, and brought up the procession with her bag. Mother was in the kitchen, and Aunt Julia was here.

Mary Kate had never felt an impulse of affection toward Aunt Julia before. But she fairly loved the dreary monologist who was in the rocker this afternoon; Aunt Julia was so notoriously disagreeable and so scathingly critical that the O'Haras never had time for anything, during her visits, but a feverish concentration upon her conversation. Afterwards they pieced it all together, and laughed about it until they had to lay their heads down upon their supper plates.

At the sink, broad, capable, mistress of all she surveyed, was Ma. And when Mary Kate saw her mother she forgot that the separation between them was a matter of hours rather than weeks or months, and ran toward her confidante, her friend, her nurse and teacer, judge and advocate, the court of last appeal for all the difficulties and woes her twenty years had known. Her arms were about her mother's neck, her cheek was pressed against the soft, shapeless cheek, her tears were wet upon her mother's face.

"Mary Kate, between us and all harm!" Mrs. O'Hara said. "I didn't tell you, Aunt Julia," she explained to the caller, in a somewhat strangled voice, "that Mary Kate went up to Sacramento, all by herself, and stayed at a hotel there!"

"Oh, Mother, I'm so glad to be back!"

"Well, don't cry about it, dear-r-r!" the mother remonstrated, her own smile coming through tears. "You'd think it was a year, and she away!" she said, half-scornfully, half-proudly, to the visitor.

She held Mary Kate off at arm's length, and her tone changed.

"Why, what's come to you, dear?" she asked quickly.

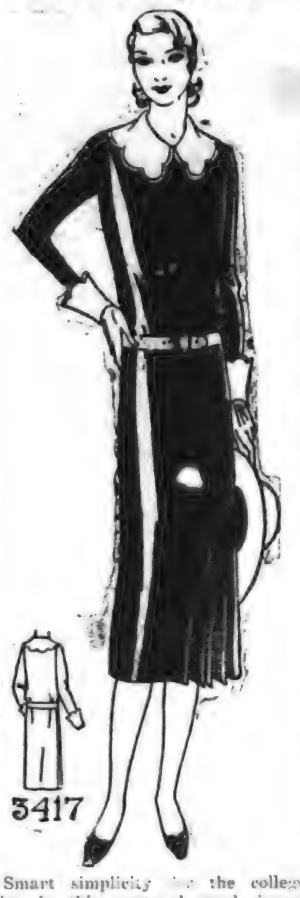
"She's the picture of death," observed Aunt Julia Deane, pleasantly, as she watched the pair.

"What is it, Mary Kate? Were you train sick?" Mrs. O'Hara continued alarmedly.

"I'm tired, Mother." The girl clung to her as if she could never let go, drooping her weary head upon the broad breast, tightening her slender arms about the older woman's shoulders, laughing and crying.

"But darlin', you look sick!"

"I think—" She had arranged this with Chris, for just this emergency. It came upon her now as an inspiration. "I think maybe I had a touch of ptomaine, Mother."



"You'd get worse than that, drinking the water in them trains," Mrs. Deane suggested.

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Smart simplicity for the college miss is this rust-red wool jersey straightline sports type.

The lingerie collar and cuffs of white pique is interesting detail.

It's so entirely youthful and smart for the business woman or for general day wear.

A plaited inset of grouped plaits stitched part way, for tailored effect and to keep the silhouette slim, provide ample flare to the hem.

Style No. 3417 comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years.

The 16-year size requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting and 2½ yards of binding.

It is very attractive in Bordeaux-red tweed mixture, dark blue wool crepe, monk brown flat crepe silk and novelty rayon crepe.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Westminster Cleaners Find Images of Angels

London.—Workmen scrambling over the sides and top of Westminster Abbey in giving that gigantic edifice its first scrubbing in centuries, have discovered two marble figures of angels carved in the thirteenth century.

The two pieces, exquisitely enamelled in color even to the rosy complexions, were found on the corners of the window of the south transept, buried beneath nearly an inch of grime. More remarkable discoveries are expected by those directing the work, who maintain the task will require at least five years.

Economy Corner

Cornmeal Muffins

Cream ¼ cup butter, add ½ cup of sugar and 2 eggs well beaten. Mix and sift together 1 cup cornmeal, ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt and 2½ teaspoons baking powder. Add to first mixture and then add ½ cup currants. Bake 25 minutes in a hot oven.

Sponge Cake

Please follow directions carefully. Sift 3 times the following: One cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 level teaspoon baking powder, so it will be ready when eggs, sugar and vinegar are ready.

Beat the yolks of 2 eggs until light and creamy.

Beat whites until stiff and dry; add whites and yolks together; beat until stiff; add 1 teaspoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon flavoring. (We like orange). Beat again. Now add 1 cup of sugar gradually, then fold in flour, a small portion at a time. When smooth, add ½ cup of boiling water, to which you have added 1 teaspoon (a bit heaping) of butter. Beat hard. The more you whip egg whites and kolks and sugar for sponge cake, the finer grained it is, if you do not use too much baking powder. This is a small sponge cake and the longer you keep it the moister it grows, not dry as some sponge cakes.

Baked Caramel Custard

Two cups scalded milk, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 eggs. Melt sugar, stirring constantly, until light brown. Add hot milk and cook until free from lumps. Add eggs, slightly beaten, salt and vanilla. Strain into buttered mold and set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes, 325 degrees.

Apple Batter Pudding

Peel and core 4 or 5 medium-size apples in a pie dish. Sprinkle with ½ cup of sugar with a little cinnamon over apples. Cream ½ cup of sugar and 1 tablespoon of butter, add 1 well beaten egg and pinch of salt, then ½ cup flour. Beat well. Spread the batter over the apples and bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees for about 30 minutes.

Memory Pads

To jolt your memory and save strain have a memorandum pad tacked over the kitchen table with pencil attached so that you can jot down kitchen lists, or things you want to get done, or clothes to be sent to the cleaner. If you put each item down as it comes into your mind, you will be surprised how much strain it saves you.

Cranberry Pie

One and one-half cups cranberries, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup water. Cook all together for 10 minutes. Cool, place in one crust with a high rim. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes, then cool oven and bake 30 minutes, slowly. Add strips of paste, lattice fashion, if desired.

Cheese Sponge

Scald 1 cup of milk and add 1 cup of stale bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ pound grated cheese. Stir until the cheese melts, then add the beaten yolks of 2 eggs. Take from the fire and add the beaten whites. Turn into a buttered dish and bake in a hot oven. Serve immediately.

Bran Muffins

One-quarter cup sugar, shortening size of egg, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk (or sweet milk), 1 cup bran, 1¼ cups flour, 1 level teaspoon soda (or 2 teaspoons baking powder if sweet milk is used), pinch salt. Cream shortening and the sugar together. Mix and sift dry ingredients. This will make 12 large muffins.

Onion Sauce

Four tablespoons flour, ½ pint rich milk or cream, 1 pint milk, ½ cup chopped onions, salt. Mix flour with cream. Bring milk to a boil and slowly add the first mixture, stirring gently. When thick, stir in onions cut very fine and boiled very soft; salt and serve with fowl or game or any meat.

Sausage Puff

One and one-half pounds of sausage meat, spread in the bottom of a broad tin. Beat together ½ cup milk, ½ tablespoon flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 egg. Pour over sausage meat and bake.

CLOTHES COVER.

Keep the lingerie collars on your dresses fresh by using a washable shoulder cover over the hangers in your closet. These are simple to make and have a hole in them to slip through the hanger hook.

Jewelry, Gloves, Shoes and Stockings Brighten the Mid-Winter Attire

Small things constitute the high spots of costumes. Jewelry, gloves, shoes and all other adjuncts of the well-thought-out ensemble give fresh zest to the appearance when the season begins to ebb. A tempting assortment of costume jewelry is appearing to help those who would look their best. Most of it is frankly synthetic, or a glass reproduction of precious stones. Little of the jewelry shown is bizarre—only the eccentric wear huge chains and ornaments suggestive of barbaric adornment. The new jewelry, both real and imitation, caters to woman's love of color.

Coral is having a revival. It is being made into chokers and necklaces of a single or double and triple strands of beads. Pink coral is becoming to almost every one and is guaranteed to "go" with any gown. White coral, creamy as ivory, is flattering when worn to accent a black-and-white costume. Pink and white coral are combined in the new flat collar-shaped necklace, whose pointed edge is decorated by black beads.

In one of the new necklaces beads of white coral the size of marbles are strung at the back, while at the front are attached long tassel-like strands of tiny pink coral beads. Necklaces made of the small old-fashioned coral sprigs are popular among the younger set. Quaint chokers are composed of carved medallions of coral and jade strung together.

Envelope Bags.

New bags have a definite relation to the costume in style, quality and color. Ultra-smart bags in shark, the coarser reptiles and leather are shown with sports clothes; the softer skins and fabrics for dressier wear. An envelope shape of medium size is the accepted model, and while bags with rigid handles of amber, tortoise, wood or leather are seen, the back strap is more usual. Black bags for daytime, in the soft leathers, reindeer, antelope and suede, are the most fashionable, in both plain and elaborate models.

Clasps are of enamel, semi-precious or synthetic stones in the less expensive bags, and of precious jewels in the finer ones. A handsome bag seen this season is an envelope of black French reindeer. Across the top is a straight bar of coral enamel, beneath which is a watch framed in diamonds and surrounded by coral circle.

Charming new styles in footwear are being brought out for women who need to freshen their frazzled wardrobe. Black and brown kid, patent leather, buckskin and suede are preferred for the street. A welcome innovation for afternoons is the colored shoe in suede or buckskin. For dressy occasions there is a high heel sandal, cut very low at the sides. Vamp and quarter are shaped with strappings of leather in the manner of sandals worn on the beach and with Summer frocks.

Nail Heads For Shoes.

An ensemble of shoes and bag is especially designed for the smartly dressed woman who drives her car. The shoe of dull black kid is low cut and has a moderately high heel. Small brass nail heads stud quarter and heel—to protect the shoe from being scratched as the driver operates the brake—and are laid in a fine pattern over the toe. A small flat bag of leather, with a leather-covered handle, is studded in the same manner. Shark and python are the most fashionable skins for street wear and travel.

New styles and colors in hosiery are just out. One is a sheer silk stocking whose top is woven in a lace pattern, giving it a touch of elegance, and insuring the wearer against dropped stitches. Sun ray is a new shade, and all of the brown tones from light to dark seal are fashionable. Open clocks are shown in many of the new stockings, that silk, lisle and wool are woven in large and small round weaves.

Styles in gloves for late Winter and early Spring are distinctive. The Biarritz, or pull-on, is considered modish, though some new gloves have one or two buttons. Plain gloves are more fashionable for day wear than those with fancy stitching and cuffs. Evening gloves are getting longer, and in addition to conventional black and white are seen in pastel shades, the most liked being delicate flesh or pink. A delicately traced border of rhinestones trims the top of the most elaborate long white or pastel tinted suede gloves.

The Early Riser

These dark mornings who likes to get up at midnight? That is what it feels like at 6 o'clock or 6.30 a.m., and the old alarm clock dings, dings until you are just wide enough awake to realize how delightful the warm covers feel.

They say the early bird catches the worm, but one likes to think while in semicoma state that the worm is also tucked away under the hard ground and won't venture out either in the cold and dark. Then there is that cold gray open window where the wind is whistling around in gusts. What about it?

But all these thoughts make it worse the longer you debate, so perhaps—and it really is the best way—you better spring out of bed without stopping to think about how cold it is and close down the window, for it must be done.

After prodigious exercising one might even feel like smiling and come to the conclusion that it isn't so bad after all. Allowing your thoughts to turn to someone else peacefully snoring you remember how nice it was in bed and perhaps a little vindictive mirth is mixed with the loud call, "Jim, get up! Why do you lie in bed so long? Don't you know it is seven o'clock?"

But after the early breakfast is over there is a most satisfied feeling of having a full day ahead of you when the work planned can be accomplished with time and thought. And isn't it a most provoking feeling to come down an hour late, after which it takes all day just "catching up."

An Excellent Mock Angel Food Cake

Sift together four times 1 scant cup granulated sugar, 1 cup fine cake flour (such as Swandown's flour), 3 teasp. baking powder and a pinch of salt. Into this pour 1 cup boiling milk and stir until smooth. Fold in the well-beaten whites of 2 eggs. Do not beat. Bake in ungreased cake tin for 45 minutes in slow oven.

Twilight Hour Story—The Little Chickies' New Mamma

Chap. 8

When these four little chickies found their mamma had left them and they were all alone in the world, as they weer frightened and they didn't they looked around I can tell you they were frightened and they didn't something like you would feel if your mamma left you all alone down town or in a big city before you know the way home. Isn't it a good thing that you know she never would leave you? Good mammas do everything—yes, just everything, to keep their little girls and boys safe and warm, don't they? Good mamma hens don't run away from their chickies either, but then this one was a bad one, wasn't she? Well, when they grew frightened they started to run. They didn't know where, but they ran on and on until they came to what they thought were a lot of trees. But they weren't really trees. We wouldn't think they were trees. But they were higher than the chicks, much higher, so high the little balls of thistle-down could easily hide in there. What the chickies thought were trees was grass that hadn't been cut and grew so long that it would come up to about your little knees. They all got close together in there and began to feel a little better. But soon the old wind blew them and whoof—he blew at them and they just had to run out again. Then the biggest little chick (let's give him a name. How would Jimmy be? Their mamma ran away before she named them, so we'll have to give them names, shall we?) Well, Jimmy saw a big stone. It looked as big as a house to him, but he made a big jump and used his little wings too, and found himself on top of it. He looked all around and then called out very loudly: "Mamma, Mamma," only it sounded like this, "Peep-peep-peep," and do you know Mamma did hear him. But it wasn't Mamma Hen. It was the nice farmer lady in the big house who heard him. It just happened she came out doors to get the eggs out of the big chickens' house where all the older chickens were.

The farmer lady could hardly believe her ears when she heard little Jimmy calling. She stopped and listened, then said, "Do I hear a little chicken?" Then listened again. Sure enough, it was Jimmy calling again louder and louder than before. Then she saw him on the big stone. She went over to him ever so carefully and then she saw the others too, but as soon as they saw her they ran away in the grass, but Jimmy couldn't get down quite so fast as he was afraid of this big lady, for she was even bigger than Billy when he saw them in the barn. But she came on making a nice soft noise. Really it was a little bit like his own Mamma. "Come chick, chick, chick," she said. By this time he managed to get off the stone and ran a little, then waited till she nearly caught up to him, but when she got near he was afraid again and ran on a little farther. But over near the corner of the house she caught him. Ooh—ooh—he fluttered and even jumped a little, but her hands were so nice and warm. Even then he looked at her sharply out of his little black eyes to see what she would do, but she held him in her cupped hands so warm and gently he could hardly believe he was so comfortable and very soon snuggled down as cosy as could be. Then she heard the others crying in the grass, for the cold wind would not leave them alone, and she went over and caught each little baby until she had them all close together in her two hands.

New Velvets

New models of velvet shown at the recent opening in Paris were labeled spring and summer which means that this very wearable material will continue to be an important factor in dress. The short wrap of white velvet promises to be one of the smartest for the unlined suit of chiffon velvet worn with a blouse of a heavy sheer fabric. Free from fur trimming it is an ideal type for warm weather.

Frocks of shantung are allied with velvet jackets in such gay colors as red or vivid green, making a striking sports costume. A luxury model is the lounging pajama which combines chiffon trousers with a velvet jacket.

Wax Spots

Wax spots on dresses or linen can be taken out by putting a clean blotter under the spot and another clean one over the spot and pressing the blotter with a hot iron. The blotting paper absorbs the wax. Move it around until the spot is entirely obliterated.

Atoms in Rock Crystals Called Cause of Mountains

The action of atoms composing the crystals of the rocks inside the earth causes mountains and tablelands to rise. The arrangement of the atoms or molecules is altered by the high pressure and internal heat of the earth. In this process the atoms exert powerful forces tending to thrust the earth's surface upward.

Such is the theory advanced by Dr. Bailey Willis, research associate of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, who made careful studies of the rift valleys of Africa.

Sunday School Lesson

January 25. Lesson IV—Jesus Tempted—Luke 4: 1-13. Golden Text—In that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is to succour them that are tempted.—Hebrews 2: 8.

The Temptation narrative is really part of the Baptism story, though Luke has inserted the genealogy of Jesus between the two events. Pictures of the Baptism which are familiar to us suggest some sudden light in the sky and a mysterious thundering voice from heaven, but that seems to be far from the Evangelist's meaning. The Baptism of Jesus, he tells us in his pictorial Jewish way, was for him the occasion of a new and profound religious experience; the voice from heaven spoke to Jesus and to Jesus alone. We are not able to enter into the soul of Jesus as to understand exactly the nature of this experience. The early Christians thought of it as being, like their own baptismal experience, a receiving of the Holy Spirit; in Jesus' case it seems to have been an experience which sent him forth upon his public ministry. Some thirty years he had lived quietly in Nazareth, attracting no public attention to himself, but now the word of God came to him, bidding him come out before the people. It has often been supposed that Jesus, at his Baptism, first realized that he was the unique Son of God, or that he was Messiah; but this is quite uncertain. The Temptation is intimately connected with the Baptism, because we are told that the same Spirit, which descended upon him at his baptism, also drove him into the wilderness.

In order to understand the Temptation story we must recognize what kind of a story it is. Children often ask us whether the tale we are telling them is true; their question is sometimes difficult to answer. For instance, is the "Pilgrim's Progress" a true story? Surely it is one of the truest of true stories, but, of course, it is not literally true; there is no literal castle of Giant Despair, no literal Apollyon to straddle across our way. In what sense exactly are we to say that the Temptation narrative is a true story? We involve ourselves in very grave perplexities if we try to maintain that it is literally true. Can we, for instance, say that the Spirit of God literally drives any one to be tempted by the devil? Or how are we to picture the devil? Or is there any place on a mountain, or in the air, from which literally all the kingdoms of the earth can be seen at once? Obviously the story was told when men believed the world to be flat. But we misunderstand the story if we get ourselves into these difficulties. If a friend should tell us that he was at one time greatly tempted to be dishonest, and that for a week he had to fight the devil, we should perfectly understand him; we should never take his words literally, and ask him whether he fought with a sword or a gun. So here we shall miss the real meaning of the story, and get involved in useless discussions if we do not take it spiritually and interpret it, as best we can, of Jesus' inward experience of temptation.

Many interpretations of the Temptations have been offered, and we can never be sure that we have caught the whole meaning of them. It seems clear, however, that Jesus went away into solitude in order to think out the implications of his baptismal experience; hence, the repeated phrase, "If thou be the Son of God."

The temptation to make stones into bread might be either of two things; it might be the temptation to do private miracles for his own comfort and advantage, or it might be to attain his Messiaship, his kingship, by dealing first with economic problems. The Romans knew well that any ruler could win popularity if he would give the people "bread and circuses" for nothing.

The temptation to win world-empire by worshipping the devil suggests that he was tempted to use worldly means to achieve spiritual results. Propaganda, war, party-spirit, bribes, have too often been used by Christians to serve the cause of the church, but Jesus would not bribe nor cajole, nor force men into the kingdom; they must enter with their eyes open, because they understand and love.

The Jews demanded of him some "sign from heaven," some miraculous proof of his claims, but if they would not believe Moses and the prophets (Luke 16: 31), if they were not able to judge of the authority of John (Mark 11: 27-33), he would not cast himself down from the Temple, nor do any such miracle to prove his claims.

Then the devil left him "for a time," or "till his opportunity." The verse, perhaps, looks forward to Gethsemane.

"Luke omits in his narrative the ministry of angels mentioned by the other two synoptists, a sweet postlude we should have missed much, had it been wanting; but he gives us instead the retreat of the adversary: 'He departed from him for a season.' How long a season it was we do not know, but a brief one it must have been, for again and again in the story of the gospels we see the dark shadow of the evil one; while in Gethsemane the 'prince of this world' cometh, but to find 'nothing in me.' And what was the horror of great darkness, that strange eclipse of soul Jesus suffered upon Calvary, but the same fearful presence, intercepting for a time even the Father's smile?"

Fashion Gems

Every dress should have its jacket, whether it be silk or wool. As many as four color combinations are utilized. The suit proper remains subdued in tone, the colors lending their brightness to the blouse.

The cowl cape has to a certain extent supplanted the cowl neckline. It is very youthful, and in many instances reaches almost to the waistline both in the front and back. It fits closely the high neckline from which all fullness is eliminated. The high neckline, by the way, is considered the correct neckline for mid-season wear.

Novelty fabrics are accepted as correct for the top coat. Self scarves play an important part, while long-haired furs are also meeting with approval. While the coat of more dressy type has a novelty weave, the colors are plain. Long, fitted lines, accentuated or not by a belt, lead as to style. Large shawl collars and often cuffs are consistently in the foreground.

Petticoats

At the present time, crisp hemlines are as much seen on the season's evening frocks as are the dripping lines of the Greek silhouette. Frequently the entire undersection of a frock is fashioned of white or flesh-colored organdie. Sheer velvet may form the body of the frock, leaving a wide hem of organdie below. Other frocks of lace or velvet are worn over underskirts of taffeta, but always the wide, sheer flaring hem is in evidence. Thus the name "petticoat frock" designates this model, which swishes pleasantly as the wearer dances and reminiscent of the quaint bouffant gowns of the past.

The Rough Woolens

Rough woolens are smart for coats but equally so for frocks. A rough woolen called frisca cloth is being shown in soft colors of pistachio, strawberry-rose, lemon-yellow and in periwinkle-blue. The fact that the material is thin and supple enough to be worn comfortably in warm houses and classrooms as well as rough and nubby on the surface guarantees its future popularity.

Gabbie Gertie

"The man who doesn't rejoice when he finds a fifty-dollar bill is usually a husband.'

Mother: "Why do you play with all those rough boys? Why don't you play with the nice boys?" Boy: "Their mothers won't let me."

Mother: "I don't like to shout at you Harold." Little Harold: "And I can't say that I like it, either, mummy."

A distinctive model for the miss of 11, 13, 15 and 17 years, that will give her smart sophistication.

It merely pretends a bolero through the attached circular cut applied bands.

The circular skirt with its smartly fitted hip yoke is emphasized by cleverly shaped applied bands, that give it lots of snap.

Style No. 2885 takes but 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 35-inch contrasting for the 15-year size.

Lightweight tweed mixture, wool jersey rayon novelties, flat crepe and wool challis prints are ideal for immediate and spring wear.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Methodical Cleaning

If there is one time more than another when dresses should take a trip to the cleaners it certainly is just before starting a season with a freshly lined coat. It is surprising how quickly the lining of a coat gets soiled just through contact with even one soiled dress, and once the lining of a coat is soiled, even clean dresses will become dingy from it.

One woman who takes very good care of her clothes keeps a little cleaning fluid in the house for extra cleaning of collars and cuffs, gulmps, vests, and sleeveless blouses. These smaller pieces she cleans herself. Then when a new coat or freshly lined coat is to be brought into service, all the dresses to be worn under it are rounded up and given their annual, semi-annual, or perhaps quarterly trip to the cleaners.

It is cheaper, she considers, to have the cleaning of all dresses done at this particular time than to pay for cleaning a whole coat just because one or two soiled dresses were worn with it. As in a race, the coat and dresses all start off together.

3 Italian Cities Near Million

Rome.—Three Italian cities—Naples, Milan and Rome—are racing for the million population mark. Naples leads with less than 15,000 to go; Milan lacks 22,000 and Rome is short 50,000. Present growth indicates that all will reach the goal within two years.

Control of Radio Policy Is Urged

Canadian Listeners-in Delegates Wait on Federal Minister

Ottawa—A national radio broadcasting company, sponsored by the Federal Government, which would own, operate and control a number of powerful broadcasting stations throughout the Dominion, was the desire of the vast majority of the radio owners in this country, a delegation from the Canadian Radio League informed Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, here on Jan. 9th.

Such a company should be administered by a directorate of 12 persons, voluntarily employed, who would be drawn from industrial, educational, amusement and other circles, it was stated. Distributed throughout Canada, according to the representations of the Radio League, would be six 50-kilowatt broadcasting stations that would reach into every section of the Dominion, thus neutralizing to some extent the virtual monopoly enjoyed by the higher-powered and more numerous stations at present operating in the United States.

For revenue purposes, the company should, in the opinion of the delegation, handle indirect advertising; but direct advertising was disapproved by the Radio League. The delegates urged upon Mr. Duranleau that the Government take affirmative action upon the report of the Aird Commission.

Mr. Duranleau assured them that the Government had been studying this matter, appreciating the importance of the problem and being resolved to protect Canada from the effects of foreign advertising and foreign propaganda.

Stock Betterment Urged on Farmers

Most Vital Problems Faced by Dairy Industry Today, Says Commissioner

Cornwall.—Periodical testing of herds and direct efforts at improvement of stock are the most important questions before Canadian dairy farmers today, sair Dr. J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, in a address before the annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario.

Farmers were feeling the pinch of low prices, but, he said, the average farmer "is losing very nearly, if not quite, as much every year by his failure to give attention to this matter as he is through the drop in values at the present time."

After explaining that in New Zealand the group testing system had so improved the quality of cattle that the average annual yield of butter fat had increased from 175 to 220 pounds for each cow, Dr. Ruddick said.

"The average annual yield of milk per cow in Canada is now thought to be about 4,500 pounds, or the equivalent of just about 400 pounds of cheese. If this yeld were increased by 30 per cent., which is easily possible, it would be equal to an increase of 2½ cents a pound on the original 400 pounds of cheese at 15 cents a pound, after allowing for the cost of manufacture."

From reports already received, the Commissioner estimated butter production in 1930 was probably 10,000,000 pounds higher than in 1929, which in turn had been 6,000,000 pounds greater than in 1918. If the estimate were justified by complete returns, 1930 would show the greatest increase in butter production since 1914.

LONGEVITY

The child born today may be expected to live for several more years than the child born fifty years ago. The average span of life has been considerably lengthened.

This has been brought about chiefly by better care of infants, by a notable reduction in the diarrhoeas of young children which, formerly took such a heavy toll, and by the control of such diseases as smallpox, typhoid fever and diphtheria.

We have now available to control disease measures which were unknown a comparatively few years ago. People, in general, are now better informed as to how to live in order to keep well. Mothers have come to rely upon their intelligence rather than their instinct in caring for their children.

A much higher percentage of people now reach the age of fifty than did formerly, but once that age is reached, the expectation of life is not greater than it was during the past century.

The reason for this is that the undesirable conditions which have been overcome were those which chiefly affected the young; little has yet been done which would directly benefit the adult. It is quite right to do all that has been done and even more for the child, but if health is to be maintained through life, it must not be neglected after childhood has passed.

Outside of those individuals reached by industrial health services, the vast majority of adults do not receive any systematic health supervision once they have left school. The result is that abnormal conditions pass unnoticed until actual disease develops. The adult is apt to forget that, with advancing years and altered manner of living, his habits must be somewhat modified if he is to retain the health and vigour of earlier life.

If the adult is to have health, if he or she is to have more healthy years of life, then time must be taken to give to the body the care it requires. The busy man or woman, for example, must take time from work and other activities to secure the rest and exercise required by the body.

The ideal to strive for it not so much a longer life, but health throughout life. Health is worth having because it makes for happiness throughout a life of greater usefulness.

To the adult who desires to increase the expectation of years of health, we can say—moderation in all things is essential, and above all, in food. An interest in life must be maintained, whether it is in work or in play.

Here and There

Approximately 29,000 people living in Canada are shareholders in the Canadian Pacific Railway, their number having been increased by over ten thousand during the past year. Many of these are employees of the company, while a large percentage of them are small investors who have bought a few shares with an idea of safety and profitably employing their surplus capital.

On January 15, 1931, the city of Lethbridge, Alberta, was made a point of call on the air mail route operating between Winnipeg and Calgary. Lethbridge is a point of considerable potential importance as the probable point from which the air line to the Pacific Coast will commence. Official surveys by technical officers of the Canadian Government Civil Aviation Branch have definitely indicated the route from Lethbridge as the most feasible passage of the Rocky Mountains.

Operating on an equal footing with the fastest system in the world, the Canadian Pacific Grain Quotation Service installed by the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs was officially opened with the New Year and places Winnipeg second to none among the world's brokerage centres. Practically perfect operation of upwards of 80 tape ticker machines, carrying their news with lightning speed, beating all previous records by two-thirds, is announced by W. M. Thompson, manager, western lines, Canadian Pacific Telegraphs.

An official report shows that at the end of November last, there were 446,676 licensed radios in Canada or about one for every 22 of the population. Ontario leads with 228,480 sets and Quebec next with 81,033. Toronto leads all Canadian cities with 71,142 sets and in western Canada Vancouver tops the list with 17,830 with Winnipeg next with 16,953. It is only ten years since the first programme was broadcast by radio.

Among foodstuffs taken from the sea, the Indians on the coast of British Columbia put seaweed as worth adding to the menu of an epicurean, and in earlier days it was used among them as money also. On the Atlantic Coast of Canada some use has been made of seaweed, in combination with fish offal, in producing fish meal which is a valuable stock food.

What is regarded as one of the principal unorganized industries of Canada is the work in connection with the cultivation, harvesting and sale of blueberries. No modern methods have been yet applied. It totals hundreds of thousands of pounds in volume of production and there are about 600,000 lbs in cold storage at the present time. Blueberry pie is a dessert that even Epicurus himself would have smacked his lips over.

Fish caught in the fresh water lakes of Northern Saskatchewan are now shipped by aeroplane to markets in Eastern Canada and the United States. About 3,000 pounds of whitefish and trout are carried from the northern lakes to Prince Albert in two daily trips. It is planned to increase the service so that 6,000 pounds can be transported daily to the railhead.

To Bring Bermuda Next Door

Already the winter playground of many Canadians, Bermuda will be brought even closer to Canada by the inauguration, January 31st, of a weekly sailing from New York by the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of York.

The island—or, to be correct—the 365 coral islands that form Bermuda in addition to being the closest summer-weather resort to Canada is famous for lilies, golf and bathing.

Canadian professionals from Toronto and Hamilton are familiar faces on two of the many fine courses of which Bermuda boasts, and excellent bathing both on beaches and in open-air sea-water pools is a feature.

The Only Home She Knows

Little blue-eyed, auburn-haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

For work such as this, your subscription is asked. Will you please send as much as you can to Mr. A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto.

Sisters Re-United

Mary and Ellen are sisters, 23 and 22 years of age. Their parents are both dead, and the girls must need provide for themselves. Mary had just begun to earn a comfortable wage when she was stricken with consumption and had to go to the Muskoka Hospital.

Ellen, left to her own resources, having to work harder than ever, soon proved unequal to the task—long exposure to the disease through close contact with her sister, coupled with overwork, brought the inevitable result; a few months later she too was compelled to give up and join her sister in the hospital.

There both girls are doing well, and their restoration to health is confidently expected.

Would you not like to help in such work as this? Your contribution will be gratefully acknowledged if sent to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

Mr. E. G. Shields, Harris Corners, is well pleased with his returns from his silver foxes this year. He received a cheque for $2,000 for his raw furs.

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation, and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

MEADOWVALE

Total receipts of $1,525 were reported at the annual meeting of the Meadowvale United church, when Rev. C. S. Jones, the pastor, presided.

Of the receipts the Sunday school contributed $90, the Women's Association $200 and Women's Missionary Society, $187.

WEDDINGS

Henderson—Lush

Clarkson, Jan. 26—Ethel Margaret Lush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lush, Clarkson, became the bride of Gerald William Henderson, Toronto, at a ceremony performed at the Lush home, Saturday evening, by Rev. R. Spencer of Clarkson United Church Attendants were Zella Lush, her sister, and Archibald McFarlane of Peterboro, with Rosemary Hunter as flower girl. Dorothy Buell, Winnipeg, played the wedding music. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson left for a honeymoon in Muskoka. They will live in Toronto.

LET US SMILE

Joseph had been sent to bed by his mother for using profane language. The boy's father was a shovel operator, and when he came home from the job the good woman sent him upstairs to punish the kid.

"I'll teach the young fellow to swear!" he roared and started up the stairs. He tripped on the top step and even his wife held her ears for a few moments.

"You'd better come down now," she called up after the air had cleared somewhat, "he's had enough for his first lesson."

CLARKSON

The Library Board held its annual meeting at which officers were elected for 1931. Those appointed were: Mrs. Percival, president; W. Taylor, vice-president; Miss E. Dennison, secretary-treasurer; A. Windell, librarian; Miss F. Pickett, assistant librarian. An executive is composed of Messrs. White, Ward, McMurray, Adams and Hare.

Mrs. Norman McLean has been visiting relatives in New York State.

BUMPS and BLOWS FROM RINK AND ALLEY

By Lou Swampe

The first skating party, on our new arena, was held last Tuesday night, and everybody had a wonderful time. It was under the auspices o fthe Anglican Skating Club. The music of the evening was sent in by air under the supervision of our genial friend Albert Lovatt. It made a hit.

After skating the bunch were entertained at the rectory and how they did enjoy the lunch.

Town 4, Officials1

Friday night saw the arena packed to the rafters to witness the big double bill of Broom Polo and Hockey.

The first tilt, "Polo" was called at 7 p.m. and (whoopee) what a contest. She was a side splitter for the fans but a heart breaker for the poor officials.

For a real laugh do not miss this Polo stuff.

From the toss of the ball, Bruce Ardagh and Lovatt had the Father's dizzy, with their fine com. and the smelling salts supplied by Reeve Hope for his team soon lost its effect and the distress signal was sent out many times. The only men to stand the pressure were Staley and Drennen.

Vic. Johnston happened to get in front of the ball a couple of times.

I hear there are a few positions open at the Clerks office, but qualifications read, that you have to be able to use a broom.

Stan. Wood introduced a new idea, tying his broom to his arm, but during the battle his broom was broken, and all he had left hanging was the stub.

Cheer up officials, next year we will elect some real players for you.

Final score: Town 4, Officials 1.

Arthur Arch handled a hard game well.

Teams:

Officials—Hope, Staley, Drennen, Wood, Johnston, Smith and Buck.

Town—Maas, Woodruff, Ardagh, Saul, Bruce, Lovatt and Graydon.

Trinity 3, High School 1

The second game on the card was in the Town League, Anglicans vs. High School.

This was the fastest game seen at the arena this winter. Both teams travelled at top speed all night and it was a hard fought game from bell to bell.

The school boys were weak around the nets and failed to bore in.

Andrew's in the nets played a nice game and Hope, Bruce, Steggall and Baillie worked well on the attack.

For the Anglicans their defence of Wright Ellis and Steggall was almost unbeatable, and with Harry Gill between the posts, it was a proposition. A. Arch, Smith and C. Caves played a strong checking game.

Final score: Trinity, 3 H. S. 1.

Referee, Ardagh.

2-2 Overtime

In our weekly inter-school game Public vs. High we could not declare a winner after 20 minutes overtime.

How the kids did work for that winning poke. Some of these boys are just about ready to step up into the big money ranks. Turn out and give them the encouragement they deserve.

Final score: 2-2.

Referee, Langmaid.

Tigers defeat Caveliers in "season's greatest game" on Wednesday, Jan. 21st.

Zero weather prevented our fans from witnessing one of the greatest games of the season. All players were "rarin' to go" (they had to be, to keep warm, as the thermometer stood at ten below zero).

Defensemen on both teams repulsed numerous attacks but by the end of the third period each team had piled up a grand total of one goal each.

Referee Ellis decided that the boys had better play for six hundred additional seconds. The first 373 seconds passed with no further excitement but at the 374th second "Casper" Cunningham of the Tigers dashed through the defense and scored. Just 48½ seconds later he broke loose and scored again, thereby clinching the game for the Tigers.

Official score: Tigers 3, Caveliers 1.

Scorers: Tigers, Cunningham 2, Lindsay 1. Caveliers, Pope 1.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The last meeting of the Community club held at the home of Mrs. Will Cook on Jan. 21st. The meeting opened with our song. The attendance was not large on account of the bad roads. Several members thanked the club for fruit received while on the sick list. It was decided to hold the annual euchre and dance on Friday, Feb. 13th., and committees were formed.

The meeting closed with our song, and the hostess served a dainty lunch, assisted by her daughters.

We were glad to see one of our past members, Mrs. P. Stephens, with us.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Beatty on Tuesday, Feb. 3rd.

TRINITY CHURCH ANNUAL VESTRY

Progress and Prosperity marked the annual business meeting of Trinity church. A large attendance gathered on Monday evening to receive reports from all departments. The rector, Rev. R. J. W. Perry, reviewed the past year, calling attention to the progress in the different departments and voicing the appreciation of the whole congregation. Total proceeds was $3,339.11; Balance on hand $333.62. Mr. Jack Drennan reported for the wardens: Receipts, $2,209.68; balance $147.24. Franklin Haddon for the S.S. showed receipts of $134.93; balance $32.07. Mrs. H. Graydon, treasurer of the W.A. $114.38; balance 40c, in addition to the splendid bales sent to the Indian Schools and second hand clothing distributed. Mrs. A. Hammond, receipts with last year's balance of $241.84 to be $507.12, with a balance of $150.15 for the W.W. Gladys Dadd reported for the Girls' Auxiliary. Mrs. Saxon as Superintendent of Juniors; Miss E .Drennan, Missionary returns; Mrs. H. Wright for the choir; Mr. Edgar Steggall, the Tennis Club; Mr. Arthur Arch, the Club; W. S. McClintock, the cemetery, all of which showed interest and enthusiasm and were heartily received.

The officers were then appointed. Wardens, J. E. Bailey and C. J. Crozier, whose energetic, wise and faithful work merited the many words of appreciation from the members of the vestry.

Sidesmen and ushers: Jack Drennan, Albert Lovatt, Albert Quennell, Frank Haddon, Edgar Steggall, Herman McClintock, Bert Brighty, Thos. Sharpe.

Advisory Board: The Wardens, H. F. Staley, Geo. Crozier, Geo. S. Bonham, J. H. Atkinson, W. S. McClintock, J. H. Lugg.

Delegates to Synod: Geo. S. Bonham, T. H. Goodison, J. A. Hammond.

Auditors: H. F. Staley, J. W. Drennan.

Choir leader, Mrs. H. Wright; organist, Mrs. H. Graydon; Committee for Garden Party, Miss B. Quennell, Mrs. Perry, Herman McClintock, Arthur Arch. Mr. A. Dennis re-appointed Vestry Clerk. Miss Peck reported progress in connection with the Parish House which is in the course of erection and which will be open in a few weeks. The work is well advanced and will make a very attractive addition and be a great asset to the work of the church.

Hearty votes of thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Perry, the wardens, the choir and the officers of all the organizations for their splendid services and we go with thankfulness to Almighty God, Who has lead us thus far and has vouchsafed His blessing in the past with faith, hope and confidence in the future that we shall be enabled to contribute our part to the benefit and uplifting His church.

Streetsville Churches had Good Year

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING OF ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, STREETSVILLE

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, St. Andrew's held their 103rd annual congregational meeting. After devotional exercises, Mr. McCree was appointed chairman and J. H. Wylie, secretary.

In spite of the business depression that was prevalent here as well as elsewhere the reports showed the different organizations to have done most efficient work during the year, the financial statements exhibited a balance from all sources of $1166.08. Behind this bald statement of fact which one can read in a moment and then cast carelessly aside, lies a year's earnest effort of love and devotion to the Master's cause. The following are a few extracts from the Kirk Session Report:

The year 1930 will always be remembered as a very difficult year. Business which for so long has been prosperous suddenly entered into a time of depression and the whole world has been left in the grip of a stringent financial crisis. There is a general uneasiness in the minds of men and only the steadying and fortifying influences of true religion can avoid the social and international dangers that lie ahead. It is here that our church in company with others may do effective work. Faith in the sovereign power of God and an active belief in, and practice of, the teachings of Christ will enable us to avert the threatened dangers. We must maintain the gains that have been made in Christian civilization and must prepare the way for a further expansion of Christian work. We should remember in the past the greatest steps forward have always followed when faithful souls fought through their days of adversity with undiminished loyalty to God.

Several of our oldest and most loyal members have been called to a greater work. Men who have wrought nobly for Christ's cause in our midst have left their places and their mantles must be worn by those who in their lives have felt the divine influence and the spiritual impetus given by the late Thomas McCracken, Nathaniel Steen, John R. McIlwrick, T. A. McClure and Henry Rogers.

We regret that our worthy superintendent, Mr. Thomas Wilson feels compelled to resign his office. Mr. Wilson has stood by the school in a very trying period of its history and it is largely due to his faithful work that the Sunday School has continued to be the training ground of the church. The heartiest thanks of the congregation are due Mr. Wilson.

During the evening Mr. Wilson was presented with a chair and an appreciative address read by Miss Reid on behalf of the officers and teachers of the school. The following persons were elected members of the Board of Management for three years: Messrs. M. A. Stewart, W. N Tisdale, T. A. Rogers, R. M. Woodruff, W. A. Hardy. Trustees of Church property: Messrs. John Wylie, W. Couse F. A. Maas, Adam Beamish, S. J. Wolfe; auditors, Mrs. Maas and Miss E. M. Reid. Votes of thanks were given to the church treasurer, Mr. W. A. Hardy and to Mr. Arthur Adamson, and to those who assisted in the floral decoration of the church and to the ladies for their most efficient help so cheerfully given. The following are the names of those who have charge of the different organizations of the church for the coming year:

Session Moderator, Rev. Walter McCree, M.A.; clerk of kirk session, John Weylie; treas., T. H. Wilson; Mission treas., John Weylie; board of management, H. W. Couse (chairman); sec., John H. Weylie; treas. ordinary fund, W. A. Hardy; assist. treas., Thomas A. Rogers; choir leader, Mr. McCree; assist., Mrs. R. H. Greig; organist, Miss Clara Steen; sec., Miss Jean Dunn; treas., Miss Bertha Shain.

Sunday School supt., Mr. M. A. Stewart; assistant, Mr. Floyd Marlatt; sec., Miss Mary Wilson; treas., Mr. Allen Couse; librarians, Messrs. H. Couse, W. L. McCracken; organists, Misses Elizabeth and Erna Bailey; teachers, Misses E. M. Reid, Reba V. Weylie, Cora Woodruff, Jean Dunn, Floyd Marlatt; assistant teachers, Mrs. Maas, Mrs. H. Couse, Mrs. Wm. Hardy; Bible class, honorary pres., Rev. W. T. McCree; pres., Mr. R. H. Greig; vice-pres., Mrs. Webster; sec. and treas., Mr. Arthur J. Adamson; organist, Mrs. Wm. Couse; W.M.S., hon. pres., Mrs. Geo. Leslie; pres., Mrs. McCree; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. Wm. Couse; 2nd vice, Mrs. Elliott; treas., Mrs. M. A. Stewart; sec., Mrs. Hardy. Home Helpers, sec., Miss Reba V. Wylie; library sec., Mrs. Wm. Couse. Glad Tidings sec., Mrs. W. Bailey; auditors, Mrs. Dunn and Miss R Weylie. Strangers Committee, Mesdames Buck, Ross, Stewart, Wilson. Mission Band leader, Miss E. M. Reid; Women's Assoc., hon. pres., Mrs. McCrea; pres., Mrs. Webster; 1st vice, Mrs. Dunn; 2nd vice, Mrs. Stewart; sec-treas., Miss Reid; auditors, Mrs. Dunn, Miss Reba Weylie. Olive Branch Mission Band, leader, Miss E. M. Reid; pres., Miss Peggie Carter; vice-pres., Miss Erna Bailey; sec., Miss Rose Hollingshead; treas., Miss Elizabeth Bailey. St. Andrew's Young People's Society, hon. pres., Mr. McCree; pres., Mr. Reg. Tucker; vice-pres., Mr. A. J. Adamson, Miss Cora Woodruff, Miss L. Buck, Floyd Marlatt; sec., Miss Mary Wilson; assistant, Miss Winnifred Carter; treas., Miss Reba Wylie; pianist, Mrs. H. Couse; refreshment committee, Misses Cora Woodruff, Gertrude Drewell, Rose Hollingshead, Messrs. Ross Hollingshead and Edward Rutherford.

Thus another year has been added to the history of St. Andrew's which extends back for more than a century and remembering this, we can say, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us," and standing on the threshold of another year of church work we can thank God, take courage and go forward.

United Ch. Raises $6728

Re-ports an unprecedented growth.

Completing one of the best years in its history, the total receipts of the United Church amounted to $6723. This was reported at the annual meeting on Wednesday evening last. Total Missionary giving almost $1100, of which the W.M.S., Mission Band and Circle raised $426; Sunday school $340; Women's Association $1233, with a balance of $588 The General Financial statement presented by the Treasurer; Chas. H. Falconer, showed a substantial balance after all obligations were met.

The reports of the several departments were most encouraging. Mr. Purchase reported a membership of over 300, number of families 130, with 14 new families linking up with the church during his ministry of one and a half years. Mr. Purchase stated to the meeting that is was one of the happiest years in his ministry. He stressed the need of more spiritual power and that all work with the one aim of leading men and women to Christ, and that Christ be pre-eminent in everything.

K. Featherstone, superintendent; Edna Falconer, treasurer, and Bill Lines, secretary, reported a year of unusual growth in the Sunday School, not only increased financial returns, but an increased interest on the part of teachers, officers and scholars, and increased membership. There has recently been started a Young People's Bible class with Mr. Purchase as teacher. The attendance is most encouraging.

Eugene Gerhart reported for the Junior Society, which is very prosperous; May Steen for the Young People's association, which reports a good year, Edna Stephens on behalf of the Mission Band, Alma Heugill for the Mission Circle and Mrs. J. D. Steen. Mrs. T. Gould presented encouraging reports for the W.M.S. Mrs. Lundie spoke on the work of the choir soliciting the co-operation of singers in the congregation. Mrs. Lindsay, secretary of the Women's Association, gave the number of members and items to show the amount of work the women are doing. Mrs. Caslor, the veteran Chancellor of the Ex-chequer, gave her annual statement which is always looked forward to with interest, as in Previous years she was able to give a good account and could say "The Best Yet". The congregation heartily voted thanks to the women's association for their co-operation in all of the Church's activities. Thanks was also extended to C. H. Falconer for his untiring efforts as treasurer of the church.

The following were elected to the Board of Stewards.

Eugene Redick, taking place of Fred Longwell, moved away. Stewards elected for 3 years, Thos. Steene, P. Stephens, T. Rogerson, O. R. Church, N. McCracken. Next year 5 more will come up for election. There are 15 in all, 5 for for 3 years, 5 for 2 years and 5 for 1 year.

On the session 3 yrs. J. Ross, Chas. Falconer, Dr. Bowie, W. E. Steene. For 2 yrs., A. Sibbald, K. Featherstone, T. Gould, J. D. Steen. For 1 yr., J. A. Workman, A. Bruce, O. Turney, C. P. McArthur.

The meeting was closed by Benediction, then the congregation gathered in the Sunday School room for a sociable time and a splendid lunch provided by the Women's Association.

James J. Curry, husband of the late Mary Brunskill, passed away at Toronto General Hospital on Jan. 23rd. The funeral took place on Monday, from his late residence, Cooksville, to Park Lawn Cemetery.

U.S. Rum Chaser Shells Nova Scotia Vessel

Officials Claim Vessel Ten Miles From Shore Within U.S. Waters When Fatal Shell Fired. Canadian Captain Killed

Ottawa, Jan. 25th.—The government made an official statement here to-night that an immediate explanation would be asked of the Washington Government, as soon as official notice is received of the fatal shooting of Capt. William Cluett, of Lunenburg, N.S., by the United States coastguard.

Shot at Wheel — Vessel Halts After Captain Fatally Wounded.

New York.—Shot down when his vessel, the Josephine K., was fired upon by United States coast guardsmen off Ambrose lightship last night, Capt. William P. Cluett, a Canadian citizen of Lunenberg, N.S., died early to-day in the United States Marine Hospital on Staten Island.

A one-pound shot ripped through the cabin of the Josephine K. as she was fleeing before the advance of the coast guard cutter No. 145, according to the official announcement. Capt. Cluett was at the wheel of his vessel when he was brought down.

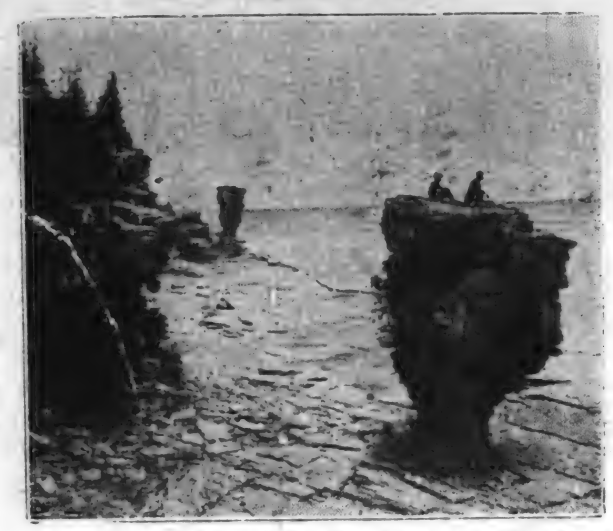
The coast guard patrol boat, with a crew of four under Capt. Cecil M. Gabbett, was cruising about four miles northeast of the lightship which marks the entrance to New York harbor, when she came upon four boats, huddled together.

One was the Josephine K., a British oil screw vessel. Lying alongside her, coast guardsmen reported, were the barge Brooklyn, the tugboat Dauntless No. 6 and a small speed boat.

Eight men were seized on the Josephine K., eight on the tug and three on the barge. The captain of the tug was John Ambrose and the captain of the scow Mario Landi.

Cases of liquor were being transferred from the Josephine K. to the barge, the officers said. They threw searchlights on the group of vessels and fired three blank shots in order to forestall any attempt to escape.

The Josephine K headed for the open sea, they said, with the government cutter in close pursuit. Several shots were fired across her bows and when she continued to flee, the officers said, a one-pounder was fired directly at her.



Was On His Last Trip.

Lunenberg, N.S. — Captain Cluett was on his last trip as a liquor-runner, after three years as captain of the Josephine K without previous contact with the coastguard. During his Christmas visit, he had expressed himself to Major Ryder as dissatisfied with the game, and ready to get out of it. Though still in his twenties he had made an enviable reputation as a sound seaman, and for some years, after coming here from Baloram, Newfoundland, his birthplace, had followed the coastal trade. Steady, reliable, of consistent good habits, he was just beginning to reach fairly comfortable circumstances. He is survived by his wife, June Cluett, and two small sons, five and three years old. In a few weeks she will become the mother of their third child. Wives of those who toil on the sea are never demonstrative and a stunned silence, followed by a few quiet tears, were the only outward signs of grief.

A brother of the dead captain was engineer of the Josephine K and another brother, Bronson, lived here but is now at sea on a fishing trip. His mother and several other members of the family still live at Baloran, Newfoundland.

Arrangements have been made to have the body brought to Nova Scotia for burial.

More Rock Breaks Away At Falls, Officials Report

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 23rd.—Another large fall of rock close to Prospect Point is reported to have taken place, by Canadian bridge officials and others on this side. Under a certain condition of wind, the new bare rock may be seen at the foot of the Falls, some distance down river from the week-end fall.

Accurate measurements compiled by reservation engineers show that 75,000 tons of hard Lockport limestone rock fell over the week-end, a third more than the total fall and erosion during the past 90 years. The figures were reached by comparison of new photographs and plans with old and accurate contours.

The new gap has been found to be 65 feet deep and 290 feet wide on the crest line. It is estimated that the surface lost 10,000 square feet of rock. The layer of hard Lockport limestone rock is 85 feet deep, and the layer of Rochester soft shale underneath extends for another 65 feet, and the height of the Falls at this point is 168 feet.

$500,000 Damage In Winnipeg Fire

Six-Storey Office Block and Store Destroyed in Early Morning

Winnipeg.—In the heart of Winnipeg's downtown business section, fire early Sunday morning raged for close to five hours, destroying the Avenue Block, a six-storey office structure, and causing damage estimated at about $[illegible],000.

Firemen battled the blaze in freezing weather. Companies from all sections of the city answered the early morning call and toiled till long after daybreak before the flames were dead. It was believed the fire broke out in Allan's shoe store about 4 o'clock.

Flames shot up the elevator shaft, gutting the top three floors, devoted to offices. Firefighters were successful in checking the blaze from below and damage on the second and third floors were confined to that caused by water and smoke. Stocks in retail stores in the lower Portage Avenue building were completely wiped out. Cause of the fire had not been determined.

Canadian Wheat Finds China Market

Winnipeg—During the past week eleven carloads of a special quality wheat have been shipped from Central Saskatchewan destined for China, according to T. P. White, Superintendent of Car Service for the Canadian National Railways. The grain has been shipped from Melville, Cana, Dernic and Canora, and will be sacked at Vancouver before being loaded on ships for the Orient. Whether the wheat will be used for seed or milling purposes in China is a matter for conjecture.

Canada Ranks High In Ratio of Doctors

Toronto — Canada holds second place among the leading countries of the world in regard to the number of medical practitioners per 100,000 population, recently prepared statistics of the Canadian Medical Association show. Canada has 97 doctors per 100,000 citizens the figures show. In the United States, there are 127 doctors for 100,000 people.

Boys Guard Wild Life

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—Jan. 23.—Fifty Sault boys between 12 and 18 years of age have joined a juvenile Game and Fish Association here, which, the Algoma Game Fish and Forest Association hopes, will be a Province-wide movement to enlist youth in wild-life conservation. It is even hoped that the organization of boys in the conservation movement will cover the Dominion. The boys all seem enthusiastic with the prospect of doing something to assist in the conservation of wild life, appearing to realize that, when the members of the senior association pass on, they will have to carry on the work which has resulted in such great benefit to Algoma.

Next Governor-General May Fly Own Flag

Ottawa—While no official announcement has yet been made, it is rumored here that the next Governor-General of Canada will fly his own flag as personal representative of His Majesty the King.

At present the only flag which is officially recognized in Canada is the Union Jack. The Union Jack flies over the residence of the Governor General, and when His Excellency is traveling on the sea the Union Jack, defaced by a crown, is flown. It is understood, however, that a change is contemplated and that, with the approval of the King, his personal representative in Canada will shortly fly a flag of his own.

Paroled Prisoners Mostly "Make Good"

Toronto—Few paroled prisoners are "real failures," according to Dr. A. E. Lavell, Chief Parole Board Commissioner. Out of a total of 1100 prisoners paroled or liberated on extramural permits during the last fiscal year, there were only 112 "real failures." Sixty-three of these disappeared, and 39 committed further crime while out on parole.

The Parole Board interviewed 1948 prisoners during the year, and gave consideration to their cases; 684 who were serving indeterminate sentences were paroled, and 429 who were serving definite sentences were placed at work "outside," under custody. Dr. Lavell is pleased with the situation, and also with the work of the board.

Tomb of Egyptian Queen Discovered Near Sphinx

In Egypt.—The [illegible]gnificent tomb of a queen of antiquity said to rival that of Tut-Ankh-men in beauty and interest, was reported on Jan. 28th to have been discovered by Prof. Selim Hassan, widely-known archaeologist.

The tomb was declared to have been found in the enclosure of Ra-Wer, high priest buried near the Sphinx, outside Cairo, in the vicinity of the desert burial places of ancient kings.

It was said to have been discovered sealed and intact during excavations by a party led by Professor Hassan. The description related that the tomb consisted of two chambers.

One was said to have contained the sarcophagus of a queen of Egyptian antiquity. The coffin was surmounted by a magnificent gold crown set with precious stones.

The outer chamber was filled with furniture and various toilet requisites in fine gold, beautifully wrought, while alabaster statuetes stood guard around the room.

The tomb was believed to have been that of the mother of Mersa-Ankh, whose mummy Prof. Hassan discovered in the enclosure last year.

Mersa-Ankh, or Nerzo-Ankh, was known as the favorites of Ra-Wer, powerful high priest in Egypt. His tomb was discovered during excavations last Spring in connection with the expedition uncovering the extensive tomb of Ra-Wer, said to be among the largest ever found.

Radio Enthusiasts Criticize Aird Report

Ottawa—With the opening of Parliament approaching, the Department of Marine is receiving hundreds of letters on the merits and demerits of the Sir John Aird report on radio broadcasting. It is expected that some action will be taken on the recommendations of the report at the coming session and radio enthusiasts from the Atlantic to the Pacific have been expressing their views to the department in anticipation of this.

The report recommended that the Government take over radio broadcasting in Canada and it is with this point the majority of the letters deal. Although a few of the letters have originated on the Prairies and in British Columbia, most of them have come from eastern Canada, particularly Ontario.

In some quarters it is expected a committee of the House of Commons may be appointed to deal with the report and the whole question of radio control. If this course is followed, it is likely a consensus of the letters will be made and presented to the committee members.

Conditions in the West

Winnipeg Tribune : It is absurdly untrue to represent the whole West as starving, disheartened and hopeless. The plain fact is that the cash income of the average farm over the whole West was reduced in 1930 by $300—a fact serious enough in a way, but by no means warranting the gloomy picture some politicians and agitators are endeavoring to present of conditions here.

Dominion Governors-General To Have Special Flags

London—Governors-General of British Dominions soon will have new flags all their own to fly over their official residences, or on ceremonial occasions. The first to have one will be Earl Clarendon, new Governor-General of South Africa. King George has approved the design, which consists of a blue field with the royal crest in gold, thus symbolizing his position as the representative of the Crown. Above the crest the words, "Union of South Africa," and below it the same in Afrikaan language, "Unie Van Suid Afrika." The design of other Governor's flags have not yet been approved.

Canada's Exports

Quebec Evenement: The total trade of the period 1930-1931 will be some $700,000,000 less than it was for the preceding period. As regards Canadian exports, the figures do not mean in the least that we have been less busy. The volume of foreign sales has not changed to any extent; it is the prices which have dropped, in some cases more than 50 per cent. This is clearly demonstrated, for instance, in the exportation of wheat. Canada sold 185,000,000 bushels this year, compared with 154,000,000 bushels for the corresponding period of last year. . . . Even with the unprecedentedly low figure at which wheat is selling the West will have realized by the end of March an amount exceeding $200,000,000 for its principal export product.

Two Wires Carry 9600 Words a Minute By Use of Canadian System

New York.—Division of a single pair of telegraph wires into 24 separate channels capable of handling 400 words a minute each or a total of 9600 words a minute for the line, was explained here recently to the Radio Club of America by R. B. Steel of the Canadian National Telegraphs, Toronto, one of the engineers responsible for the development.

Through the multiplex system, Mr. Steel explained, each channel can be divided up to take 400 words a minute, and improvements in the carrier current system have increased the number of such channels possible on a single pair of wires from 10 to 24.

This does not mean a stream of words being received on a single machine at 9600 words a minute, he said, but rather 24 sending machines, each working at 400 words a minute through each of 24 channels, the total output being divided up on another 24 machines at the receiving end.

Mr. Steel outlined the history of telegraphy from the time of the earliest manual systems, with a capacity of from two to five words a minute, to Morse and Vail, who increased the capacity to 25 words a minute, and on to the high-speed manual operation of the present day, which permits of straight message transmission of approximately 35 words a minute.

He also told of the invention of the printer system in 1849, with a capacity of 43 words a minute, to the modern simplex printer, which has a capacity of 50 words a minute, and the subsequent development of the multiplex, which permits the simultaneous transmission of 200 words a minute in each direction over a single strand of wire. —The Christian Science Monitor.

Fifty-Six Killed In Ontario Mines

2,223 Accidents During Year, But Shows Decrease Over 1929

Toronto—A decrease of 221 in the total number of casualties and an increase of one in the number of men killed over the preceding year is revealed in the annual report of mining accidents and fatalities in the province which was issued at Queens Park recently.

During the year 1930 at the mines, metallurgical works, quarries, clay, sand and gravel pits regulated by the Mining Act, there were 2,223 accidents to employes reported to the department up to January 15, 1931. There were 56 fatalities arising out of 54 separate accidents.

The report shows a fatality rate of 3.02 per 1,000 men employed, which is 0.02 per 1,000 lower than the average for the past 25 years.

There were 117 non-fatal accidents per 1,000 men employed which shows a decrease of nine per 1,000 men from the rate in 1929. The percentage of non-fatal accidents followed by infection decreased from 6.9 per cent. in 1929 to 6.2 per cent. in 1930.

The fatalities were distributed amongst the various branches of the industry as follows: Gold mines, 18; nickel mines, 17; metallurgical works, 11; quarries, four; sand, clay and gravel pits, 6.

Nearly 46 per cent. of the total number of men killed at mines was through "fall of ground," the report states, Sixteen men were killed from this cause.

A Healthy City

Brantford—Despatches today credited Hamilton with having the lowest tuberculosis death rate in the world —38 per 100,000 population. Brantford, however, can go one better. The annual report of the Brantford Board of Health shows that the tuberculosis death rate for the city is at the low figure of 24.5 per 100,000 population, an average for 1928, 1929 and 1930. The City Council recognized this remarkable record by sending letters of congratulation to the Brant Sanatorium and all organizations engaged in antituberculosis work here.

Queen's Graduate Awarded Bigsby Geology Medal

Kingston—Dr. Norman L. Bowen, a son of Kingston, and a graduate of Queen's University, has been honored by the Geological Society of London, with the award of the Bigsby Medal, for his study of the physical chemistry of igneous rocks. This medal represents one of the highest awards in the world of geology. Dr. Bowen, who has been attached to the geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institution, Washington, D.C., for a number of years since he was Professor of Mineralogy in Queen's occupies an outstanding position in geological research work.

School Boys Direct Traffic In Buffalo

Buffalo, N.Y.—Four elementary school boys in a downtown section of Buffalo act as traffic policemen in a busy street in front of their school, daily safeguarding several hundred of their fellow pupils who are obliged to cross the street.

Unable to get the city to detail patrolmen to the spot, the school authorities selected the four boys for their honor records, and permit them to regulate traffic by means of small four-way signs. The boys range in age from 11 to 13 years.

Growth in Canada's Fishing Predicted

Halifax, N.S.—Marked improvement in the Canadian fishing industry through better marketing methods and increased demand is predicted by E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries, who has just arrived here.

"I am satisfied in a very few years we can increase consumption of fish as a staple article of food by 10 pounds per head per year," he said.

ROYAL BANK ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada, the President, Sir Herbert Holt, referred to the world-wide depression, cited credit conditions as the chief contributing factor and reviewed developments in and prospects for Canadian industries.

He said that while the results of the Imperial Conference are naturally disappointing to the overseas Dominions, it was too much to expect that a ready-made proposal would be acceptable to Great Britain. Her trade with the outside world is relatively much more important to her than is the case with the Dominions, but proposals put forward by the Canadian delegates involved a principle rather than a plan and this principle is one which should command serious consideration. It is hoped that preliminary discussions before the proposed conference at Ottawa will lead to a common basis of agreement at that time.

Sir Herbert dealt with the principal industries of Canada, making a number of constructive suggestions. He strongly advocated that the west should be less dependent on the production of grain, substituting mixed farming. He approved of the suggested formation of an agricultural credit corporation to assist the farmers to purchase cattle, sheep and hogs.

He advocated the increased use of fertilizer as a means of ensuring more stable results, pointing out that experiments have demonstrated that fertilizers properly used will increase the yield of wheat by eight to ten bushels per acre. The development of the Canadian livestock industry has not kept pace with general increase in production and we are actually importing large amounts of butter and meat. In the meantime our exports of animal products have steadily decreased. In his opinion statistics clearly point to an opportunity for greater profit by diversification.

In conclusion, Sir Herbert said: "The stability of our great industries and the strength of our financial institutions during the past year constitute a record which we may view with pride. It is this stability which is the basis for my optimism concerning the future."

Mr. C. E. Neill, Vice-President and Managing Director of the bank, confined his remarks to a discussion of the world depression and the relation of the price level to gold supplies and central bank policy. He pointed out that only the return of normal international financial relations would end the present depression and advocated a conference of the leading financial powers to formulate a plan to apply the necessary corrective measures.

The General Manager, Mr. M. W. Wilson, referred to the satisfactory manner in which the Canadian chartered banks have taken care of financial requirements in Canada during a difficult year, as clearly demonstrating that the Canadian banking system is adequate to the needs of the country in times of stress as well as under normal conditions.

Even Modern Girl Shoud Learn to Sew

Start Teaching Children As Early As Possible the Art of "Sewing a Fine Seam"

In a recent edition of "The Christian Science Monitor" Marion Broomfield gives some interesting tips to mothers of the modern generation. Here are some excerpts from this interesting article:

An accomplishment useful to a girl through life is to know how "to sew a fine seam." She may not keep house, but wherever she lives, even a few stitches are an asset to her appearance and a saving to her pocketbook. Even if she should buy her clothing ready-made, there are always a few stitches to be taken, whether they are alterations, or repairs. There is always the beauty of hand work, and the practical art of mending. Table linen and gifts need the hand touch.

But teaching the little girl to sew sometimes takes patience. There are, in fact, modern mothers who exclaim, "Oh, Betty will learn to sew at school, so why should I bother?" But teaching sewing is planting the seed of domesticity, and this cannot be taught too early. A girl unconsciously learns the quiet pleasure of the peace possible in home making. Further, sewing is an antidote for those hours of "What shall I do, Mother?"

One mother who realized that she was not as patient as an outsider, started two little sisters of 7 and 9 with embroidery lessons, one summer vacation. Now some might say, "Why not learn a few practical stitches, first?" But the idea and its reason were excellent, for those children through their love of beauty and color learned to sit quietly and execute fine stitches. What might have been a tedious task when stitched with thread into cotton cloth, was fascinating with rose embroidery floss.

She Needs a Thimble

The first article to give the little girl is a thimble. An aluminum one is most practical because it is cooler and lighter, and first ones are apt to be lost. But for comfortable use, it must be small enough to fit. Many little girls discard thimbles simply because they are a wabbly nuisance.

Basting is the easiest stitch to learn first, and a medium width hem easiest for small hands to manage at the beginning. Handkerchief or skirt hems are so narrow and so deep respectively, that they are a trial. Instead an inch hem on a bureau scarf or stringer is easier, and rather coarse material like crash is better for the beginner's sticky little needle. A strawberry emery is first aid of course to a sticky needle and part of a sewing outfit. Soft materials like voile and muslin are easy for the beginner's needle. The stiff cambric of our grandmother's day is a trial for faultless stitches. Dimity is rather a good material to work with, for this will be stiff enough to crease, and yet be pliable to the needle.

Seaming Before Hemming

Running a seam nicely comes really before hemming. If the seam is carefully basted with contrasting thread, a little girl will not have much trouble keeping the final running stitches on the straight line of the seam. Fifty thread is usually about right, as finer thread breaks too easily. Mercerized thread is especially smooth to use. Another way to learn to make small straight stitches, as the next step, after basting, is to sew trimming on some article. Rickrack braid, tape or bias binding is excellent for this purpose, for results are fairly quick and little girls must not be discouraged by too long a stitch. A little apron of unbleached cotton or gay crepe (soft to sew) is quickly finished by being bound around with the bias binding. Both basting and running stitches are learned this way. And the bias tape comes in a great variety of pretty colors. Doll clothes, curtains, breakfast cloths and even bedspreads can be trimmed with it.

Hemming should be practiced on cotton, silk and wool. And it is better for a little girl to try for 10 even stitches every day, than to sit at length and make crooked ones because of fatigue.

Overcasting Doll Clothes.

Overcasting may be practiced on the seams of doll clothes. And it is surprising how young girls can be taught a French seam. Girls as old as 12 enjoy making lingerie for themselves, and French seaming it—especially if a little embroidery, such as an initial, is part of it.

Buttonhole stitch is much more interesting to learn, if taught first as embroidery, instead of as stitches around a troublesome buttonhole. A guest towel or collar is nice to scallop with buttonhole stitch ¼ inch deep. To pad the scallops, teach the little girl to run a few stitches first along the scallops for several rows. Another easy way to teach buttonhole stitch is to let the beginner learn the simple blanket stitch first. A doll blanket can be edged this way with wool yarn and a darning needle. In general coarse materials and needles are easiest for little girls at first.

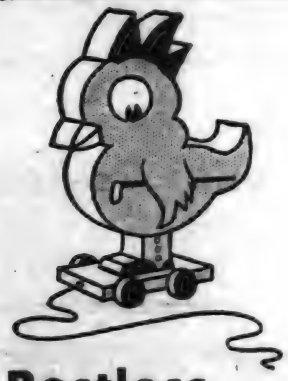
Even featherstitching, which most children delight in, is easily done with yarn and a big needle. Striped material is useful again here to "branch" the featherstitching from as a guide line.

Gift Making.

Gift making offers a decided incentive to learning stitches. Thus a bib for baby brother made one little girl patiently learn "back" or outline stitches. But what child does not find "outlining" a rabbit, chicken, cat butterfly or flower more fun than work? A laundry or collar bag for Daddy worked in white floss on blue linen will teach many an ambitious Miss half a dozen stitches from chain stitch to the making of a neat casing for the draw string. Stamped articles are especially delightful for children. The more pictorial sewing is made for youngsters, the more it appeals.

Learning to gather can be taught in making organdie doll clothes for lamps, pillows and 'phone covers. Or, in making ribbon flowers. Even if the work is clumsy, of the material spoiled, what is that, if a girl is encouraged to be feminine and interested in beautifying a home?

The practical art of mending can be made pleasant, too. It is even worth while to pay a girl of 10 a nickel for every neat darn she puts in the family socks each week, or at least a sliding scale payment from one penny up, according to the size of holes. See that she has a pretty celluloid egg to darn over, and cotton to match the hosiery. A good way to teach the sewing on of buttons is to trim some frock with them. Then the task becomes decorative. Another scheme is to put a girl on her mettle to keep Dad's buttons sewed on.



To Learn to Patch.

Repairing rents and patching is difficult even for adults. But an interesting way to teach patching is to let a little girl "applique" crepe fruit flat on some more crepe of contrasting color. In other words teach the idea, with pretty materials and decorative effects. Three-cornered rents that must be darned and pressed should probably be taught on old materials, then the child does not worry if the first effort is not a complete success. Explain that the stitches are merely like darning stockings, only the surface is flat instead of convex. But also show youngsters how useful ravelings are in making the darn inconspicuous.

Sewing rips is one of the first steps in mending, for children learn to keep their clothes in order this way. The adage "a stitch in time saves nine" can be readily illustrated by showing them how to check chain stitching. A rip in a glove is not too difficult for a girl of 12 to accomplish. And in teaching sewing it may be held out that each year a new stitch will be learned. The result will be that a girl will be able to put in hat linings, sew on simple trimmings and be ready to follow a dress pattern.

Attractive Outfit.

A final encouragement to learning to sew is an atractive outfit. A large pretty box is often available, and really practical, for when the lid is lifted, all the sewing tools are ready at hand. A good plan is to have the tools fastened with elastic inside the lid, as this leaves space for the cloth in the box below. Keeping sewing fresh and dainty is thus encouraged. Some girls enjoy a bag, so they may carry them when they visit. Cretonne with a round or square bottom so material will not be rumpled, makes a useful bag. Then a basket open or closed is nice. The great thing is to have a thimble, pair of scissors and emery, all in place, as well as a rule or tape measure so that they can be instantly found. Spools of thread, a paper of pins and a needle book are also necessary. Many of these items can be bought at 10-cent stores, and can be added a few at a time, as a reward for learning certain stitches.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

Nerves Out of Gear

Need New, Rich Blood to Restore Their Tone.

Men and women with nerves out of gear become irritable, fretful and ill-tempered. The fault is not theirs—poor health is the cause. The tired wife or mother whose household duties have worn her out; the bread-winner whose anxiety for his family have worried him until he was ill, are the ones who become run down. Their digestion becomes bad and their nerves ill-fed. The nerves like all bodily organs need healthy red blood and that red blood can best be gained through a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood; improve digestion; strengthen the tired nerves and bring energy and happiness not only to the sufferer but to those around him. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rare Bird Returns to England

Two events of great interest to nature-lovers have recently been reported. The first is the appearance in London of that rare bird, the little auk.

Driven by stress of weather, it alighted, of all places, on the Round Pond in Kensington Gardens. Gulls attacked it, but it was rescued, only to die in the zoo a few days later.

The other event was the reappearance of the Golden Eagle in the Lake District, where it was exterminated a century ago. One eagle was seen between Windermere and Coniston and another on the Wrynose Pass recently.—From "This and That."

Vivid Colors Taboo in Glass, Pottery

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Modern glass and pottery ware has broken with futurism.

The housewife in the coming season, the trade believes, will follow the trend in furniture, in wall coverings and in draperies in preferring ware of classical, Georgian, Jacobian or American Colonial trend. Glaring color is taboo.

The trend is toward subdued tints and those of ruby, stiegel green, amber or crystal, all tried favorites of past days. In bric-a-brac alone is a flash of color permissible.

Always on Hand

To be always kept on hand is a sure sign of appreciation of a medicine. Baby's Own Tablets hold this enviable distinction in thousands of homes from one end of Canada to the other. Mrs. Ernest Gallant, Shediac, N.B., is one of the young mothers who appreciate the Tablets. She says:—"Baby's Own Tablets are wonderful. I have used them for my little one for the last two years and would not be without them. They quickly banish constipation and colic and keep baby happy."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the stomach and bowels; relieve indigestion; break up colds and promote healthful sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Manitoba To Have Estonian Grouse

Winnipeg, Man.—Manitoba may be the first territory in North America to import, as an addition to its family of birds, the giant grouse, the largest member of the grouse family. That this bird be brought to the Province is a recommendation by the Manitoba game commission.

The birds are found in Estonia, where the climate is somewhat similar to that of Manitoba. There are supposed to be none of these birds anywhere on the continent.

The government proposes to bring 100 pairs of Hungarian partridges from Alberta this month, and more later, to the total number of 300 pairs. The birds will be looked after by farmers until they accustom themselves to their new surroundings.

Recompense

I never see slim birches bowed
Beneath their shining rime
But I recall the fragrant white
Of apple blosom time.

And on a still December night
When I behold the stars,
I see again the flaming files
Beyond the meadow bars.

Chill winter has its recompense,
For memory will bring
Sweet thoughts before the blazing hearth
Of rarer days in spring.

Nature's Lesson

"I could not reconcile complete extinction in death with the eternal economy of nature.—Guglielmo Marconi, inventor.

Flowers and Rooms

London.—"It does not seem to matter how many flowers I buy for this room, it never looks as though there were enough. They don't make any show."

"I can explain it," said the visitor; "indeed, I saw from the first that the room would be a bad background for flowers. The carpet is wrong. Although the center is beige, an excellent color, there is too much solid rose pink and blue in the border. With color spread rather heavily in patches all over the floor like that, the light and delicate coloring in a bunch of flowers is more or less submerged."

From this the talk developed into a discussion on the importance, in deciding the color scheme of a room, to see that it is something that will not detract from the beauty of flowers but will form a good background for them. If a room is so arranged that the flowers dominate it, it is possible to give a sense of constant change and variety simply by arranging in distinctive vases skillfully chosen and well-placed blossoms.

Flowers, both growing and as house decoration, are to-day being more and more appreciated. The great popularity of beige, pale yellow, stone, and grays for walls is an almost instinctive recognition that all of these are shades against which practically any colored flower looks lovely. The harmony of a pot of scarlet field poppies backed by a cream-colored wall will never be forgotten. Even white flowers contrast delightfully with this warm, deep creamy yellow.

But with regard to carpets, how few people when choosing them have the claims of flowers in thought? As with walls, most plain-colored carpets are safe from this point of view. The Persian type of design, which is so intricate and small as to give a general all-over effect with no particular color predominating, always produces an unobtrusive sense of harmony.

In a room with a wall paper having a decided pattern that does not set off flowers, it is a good plan to hang up a width of parchment brocade, mounted at the top on a strip of oak or mahogany molding. This may be placed either in a recess or in the center of a wall, with a side table in front of it, on which may be placed a jar of beautiful flowers. This is a useful hint for the woman who cannot afford at the moment to have her walls papered.

Too many ornaments in a room always detract from the effect of flowers, as do too great a number of pictures—for flowers should never be placed so that they cut across pictures.

Flowers generally look delightful in a room with chairs covered in floral cretonnes. Such a room often gives the appearance of out-of-doors, the real blooms and the woven ones combining to impart a sense of the abundance and variety of a herbaceous border in an Old-World garden.—The Christian Science Monitor.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

On February 2, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Copeland will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage, which took place at Burnhamthorpe at the home of bride's father, James Pellett, and was performed by the local Methodist pastor of the village.

Jos. Copeland was born in Burnhamthorpe 74 years ago, as was his father, Robert Copeland, before him, his grandfather dating his first connection with the village back to 1818.

Mrs. Copeland is also 74 years of age, her father having come from England to settle in the rapidly developing township of Toronto. They farmed in the district until 30 years ago, when they retired to the village. Their best man, Henry Pellett, brother, of the bride, is living and resides in Shelburne, but Jane Copeland, the bridesmaid, died six years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland have one son, George, residing at Summerville, and five grandchildren. Only one member of Mr. Copeland's family is living, a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth McClure, Oyama, B.C., but besides her brother, Henry, Mrs. Copeland has two brothers, Friend and Mark, both of Burnhamthorpe, and two sisters, Mrs. W. Chadwick, Burnhamthorpe and Mrs. C. Grice, Dixie. Their relatives will join them on February 2 to express their good wishes and celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner.

OBITUARY

Joseph Fewster

The death occurred of Joseph Fewster, in his 71st year. Mr. Fewster was born in England, coming to Canada 50 years ago, and farming in the neighborhood of Brampton, retiring to the town from the farm five years ago. He is survived by his widow, formerly Mary Mogridge, three sons, Joseph, Woodbridge; William, Centre road, and George, of Brampton; a daughter, Mrs. Elmer Russell, Streetsville, and eight grandchildren. Mr. Fewster had three brothers in England, and no members of his parental family in Canada. He was a member of St. Paul's United Church and a Conservative in politics.

S.H.S. LITERARY NOTES

Last Friday afternoon the monthly meeting of the Literary Society was held. President Bill Lines occupied the chair.

The meeting was opened by singing "O Canada."

The minutes of the previous meeting, were read and adopted.

A financial report was given by the secretary, Iola Hope. The usual business was discussed.

A beautiful piano duet solo was rendered by Erna and Elizabeth Bailey.

Our elocutionist, Hazel Ross, recited about "The Freckled-Faced Girl." Mildred Quennel then delighted us with a beautiful piano solo. It will probably be noticed that these smart students are all members of First Form.

However, two of the Fourth formers put forth an extra effort and a comic skit was staged by John Houlgrave and Harry Johnson.

An interesting letter from a correspondent in Australia was read to us by the president. The critics' report was given by Mr. Gerhart.

The meeting was closed by singing "God Save the King."

Mr. Editor:

Your correspondent was Privileged last week to visit the Young Peoples' Association of Eden United Church on the Streetsville Charge. It was surprised to find in this little Church such a body of live young People. I am told that each night they have wonderful meetings. The programs are taken part in by the members.

They conduct business in a very methodical way. The President, Mr. John Ferguson, conducts the devotions, followed by the minutes and business. The Association has as its most capable secretary Miss Dorothy Morris niece of Mrs. T. Gould of your village. Her minutes were concise, very well arranged and well rendered.

The meeting which I visited last week was under the Literary and Social Department of which Helen Hall and Duncan Sinclair are the Conveners. The main feature of the evening was a debate on the subject, "Resolve, that in Ontario the country offers greater opportunities for the development of Life and Character than does the city, the affirmative supported by John Ferguson and Mildred May; the negative by Bernice Lyons and Wilmer Mason. The arguments, delivery and manner showed that much time was spent in its preparation. Your correspondent has listened to a number of debates recently, but none could surpass the one taken last Thursday evening. By a very slight margin the affirmative side won, I could not help thinking what wonderful opportunities are opening up before the Young People of today. Mr. Purchase and the officers of the Association are to be congratulated upon the splendid work they are doing. We wish them a bright and encouraging future.

OBITUARY

The death occurred at Marcellus, New York, on Thursday, January 8th, of a former resident of this district, in the person of Mrs. E. F. Owens. She had been in poor health for some time and death came as a happy release when it claimed as one of its victims a kind lady, loved by all who knew her.

The deceased was born in Norwich, Norfolk County, England, seventy-eight years ago and came to Canada at an early age, where she was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to the late Frank Owens ,and for several years they kept a hotel at Lambton.

A number of years ago the late Mrs. Owens went to Marcellus, New York, to make her home with her son, Frederick.

On Sunday, January the eleventh, 1931, friends gathered at her late home to pay their last respects and much sympathy is extended in the loss of a true, loving mother.

A splendid service was conducted by the Rev. E. Arthur Woolley of Marcellus. The floral offerings were exceedingly numerous and beautiful. There are left to mourn her loss, three sons, James and Fred of Marcellus, Thomas of Toronto, and three daughters, Mrs. D. B. Little, Andover, Mass., Mrs. Norman Buffan, Marcellus and Mrs. Norman McLean of Streetsville, Ont. There are also thirteen grandchildren surviving. Interment took place in Highland Cemetery, Marcellus.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE EUCHRE

The Women's Institute held their community euchre Monday evening, Jan. 26th, in Johnston's Hall. It was a very successful affair. Twenty-four tables of euchre were filled; also the draw for our blankets. The prizes for the euchre were won by, first, and second for ladies, Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Langmaid; the gentlemen's prizes going to Mr. H. Chambers and Mr. Jas. Farrell. The lucky number and chair was won by Miss Mabel Graydon and Mr. Gerhart. The draw was made by Mrs. Len Pope. 1st, Mrs. Morris; 2nd, Ruth Greig; 3rd, Mrs. C. Rundle. The Institute wish to thank all who helped to make their evening a success, especially Mr. Johnston, who so kindly gave the use of his hall.

UNITED CHURCH

An outing of great interest took place last week when the Women's Association of the United Church had a sleigh Party to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Workman. To add to the pleasantness of the occasion, the weather was ideal and the roads good. The 40 ladies who took advantage of the outing reported a good time..... Games were played and other items of interest played a prominent part in the afternoon's gathering.

Mrs. Workman was assisted in the entertaining by her two daughters, Gertrude and Mrs. Harry Lee, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Workman. They provided an appetizing lunch, which was enjoyed by all. The thanks of the Association was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Workman and family, under the presidency of Mrs. Chas. H. Falconer. They make ideal hostesses and their hospitality will be again appreciated for Mr. and Mrs. Workman extended another invitation to come before the snow goes away.

We've outgrown ourname onshirts

The name of this laundry indicates the class of work we have been doing on family wash since our establishment many years back. Now we have stepped over the "semi-finished" line into "completely finished" on men's shirts. This new line of work has met with the unanimous approval of our customers and scarcely a bundle goes home without some mens shirts. Perhaps the lower price does it, but we are pleased to think that it is the superior work. Let us tell you about this and our five other kinds of family wash service. Phone to-day —— or stop any one of our courteous driver salesmen.

OUR PRICES

1. Damp Wash—20 lbs. for $1.00—
5c. per pound
Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in ten changes of water. Excess water removed and the bundles returned damp, sweet and clean, ready to be ironed.
2. Damp Wash, Flat Work Ironed,
8c. per pound
12 1-2 lbs. lbs. for $1.00—
Same process as Damp Wash with the exception that all body clothes are returned ready to iron and flat work such as bed linen, table linen and towels are ironed by us, ready for use.
3. Dry Wash, 14 lbs. for $1.00—
7c. per pound
Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in ten different waters and thoroughly dried in moderate air-cooled dry room tumbler.
4. Dry—Wash, Flat Work Ironed,
10c. per pound
10 lbs. for $1.00—
Same process as dry wash with the exception that all body clothes are returned dry and flat work such as bed linen, table linen and towels ready for use.
5. Semi-Finished, 9 lbs. for $1.00—
11c. per pound
Everything ironed. Flat work perfectly done and body clothes or wearing apparel ironed in such a manner that it is entirely finished except a few of the fussy corners and 90 per cent. can be worn without any further touching up.
6. Shirts Fully Finished, 11c each

In addition to the weight charged in the service that they be sent in excepting Damp and Dry Wash. Dress Shirts extra

Rag and wool rugs, mops, awnings and comforters may be included in any of the above services at no extra charge.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara, in order that her brother may have the opportunity of going to Germany to study medicine, agrees to the proposition of Christopher Steynes, a friend of her boss. She is to act the part of his wife in order to discourage a Russian countess and her daughter who have been chasing Steynes. Mary Kate tells her mother she is going on a business trip for a day for her boss, then she meet Steynes at the station in Burlingame. The countess is discouraged. Mary stays overnight at Steynes' house. A burglar enters and is shot by Steynes. Police take Mary's name and address. She is terrified at the thought of her mother finding out. She arrives home, tired and weary.

"Go get into your bed," the mother directed. But Mary Kate made no move to obey.

"I'm honestly all right, Mother, but the train was hot—"

"Did you have any lunch?"

"Yes'm, but not much. And I'm dying for tea, and some hot toast—"

"I'll make it!" Tess shrilled, rushing into action.

"Oh, will you, darling? And will you take my hat and coat upstairs, Regina, or hang them over the bannister, anyway. Oh, it's delicious to get home," sighed Mary Kate, sitting down at the table, and dragging Pat into her lap. She sat kissing the top of his head, and looking respectfully at Aunt Julia, while the reviving currents of home love and home atmosphere poured through her parched being in a heavenly wave.

"You wouldn't be better off in bed, dear?"

"Oh, no, Mother."- She wouldn't be alone. "Truly—truly, this is all I need!"

"She takes after Martin, don't she, Teresa?"

"Well—? And in a way she favors my own good mother, too."

"Oh, Pat, I'm so glad to be home!"

"What's Sacramento like, Mary Kate?"

"Well, in a way it's wonderful. We'll all go up there some day, and have a look at it—I didn't hear you, Tom."

"An elephant couldn't hear in this din!" Tom muttered. "I asked if you saw an oil well?"

"Is it a sort of a—a hole in the ground, with a—a sort of a fence 'round it?"

"No!" he shouted. "It's not. You get the chance to go up there, through Port Costa and everything, and that's all you see! I suppose you were goggling at the Governor—"

"Tom, don't talk to your sister that way—stop it, now."

"Oh, Lord!" growled Tom, in his half-and-half, raw, pathetic voice. He laid his arms on the table and dropped his big untidy black head upon them.

"How's Uncle Robert, Aunt Julia?"

"He's bad. And now you've asked for him, and done your duty, and you can forget him again," Mrs. Deane answered rapidly.

"Oh, that's too bad."

"You'd wonder the Lord wouldn't remove him," Mrs. O'Hara said, with a sympathetic cluck-clucking of teeth.

"Where's your boy, Martin, Teresa?"

"Mart, God bless him! Oh, I forgot to tell you, Mary Kate, that Doctor Van Antwerp is havin' Mart drive him up to Portland, Oregon," Mrs. O'Hara explained, animatedly. "He went up to give a lecture or whatever, in the vacation, and Mart's drivin' him."

"Oh, Mother!" And with the pleasure and relief of it the first natural color, the first natural manner she had displayed since her return transformed Mary Kate. "Oh, what fun for Mart!" she said immediately. And secondarily, and deep in her soul, unexpressed, she thought, "I'll have time to think about it, to decide what to do—whether to tell them or not! "When did he go?"

"After dinner last night. And they'll be off the whole week."

"And he'll be paid for all that extra time, Mother! Tess," said Mary Kate in a fervent aside, "I have never tasted such tea and such toast. The toast is—simply—delicious!"

"She drew it so weak on you, you would think it would taste of nothing but the kettle."

"I love it weak, Aunt Julia."

"I'd as soon drink hot water and do my stomach some good."

"This is doing my stomach, and every other bit of me all the good that ever was!" Mary Kate rejoiced.

"The old feller at the Fair, in the old country," Mrs. Deane recalled with a sudden laugh. "He says 'Pigs and swill goes together!' "

The O'Hara eyes everywhere—Mary Kate's from the table, Tess's from the stove, where she was toasting bread for herself, Mrs. O'Hara's from the sink, met in solemn, pregnant silence. For the next three years there would be hysterical laughter among them when they remembered this gem from Aunt Julia.

Then Cass was suddenly there, leaning over from behind her, to kiss her quite simply, before them all, infinitely heartening and happy and affectionate, "darling" as the little girls said later with cranky old Aunt Julia.

Aunt Julia, declining a second cup of tea scornfully, went off in her dingy weeds to minister to crippled Uncle Robert, to be a miracle of tenderness and consideration, and even of gayety, to the helpless old man. Then the OHara's had supper.

Mary Kate did not eat much, but she sat next to Cass, her slim fingers often in his, her fond, proud eyes on his tense, handsome face with its forceful impression of gray eyes and firm jaw, hard brown cheeks, and quick, authoritative voice. He was so clever, and so sure of himself, and so fine!

Her color came back, and her spirits, and the past twenty-four hours were relegated to the world of nightmares; there was no Spanish house, with a parrot and a fountain, there was no ivory satin dress and quilted wrap richly furred, there had been no dinner, no burglar, no police investigation. It had all been a dream!

She begged off from going to the movies and helped Ma with the dishes, and was so sweet and gentle and helpfully considerate that she seemed ten years older, in her watchful mother's eyes at least, than the girl of yesterday.

"It's love has done it to her!" Mrs. O'Hara thought, going off with the little girls and Pat for their regular Saturday night's entertainment. Tom, lumbering and superfluous, and not invited to share anyone's plans, had disappeared, so that Mary Kate and Cass had the kitchen to themselves.

For awhile they sat close, at the table, his arm about her, her shoulder turned against his breast, her elbows on the table, so that when she twisted her face to speak to him, or look into his eyes, her bright silky hair brushed his cheek, her thick long lashes were but a few inches from his own. Fragrant, slim, crushed like a soft cool rose in his hard embrace, newly gentle and weary tonight—that was Cass's girl, that was Mary Kate.

"My cousin Mamie Terry was talking about you yesterday, Mary Kate. She said you were the loveliest girl she knew. She said you always reminded her of a little girl."

"She doesn't know me!"

"Oh, doesn't she?"

"You know her husband's two sisters and her brother and his wife, and their husbands, and all the children, always come and have dinner with Mamie on Tuesday nights. And she wants you to come Tuesday."

"You told her?"

"I gave her a pretty strong hint." He looked concernedly down at the bright crushed hair that dropped suddenly on his shoulder. "Why? Mad?"

"Oh, no, dear. Only—I don't know, sometimes, that I'm good enough to be anybody's wife!"

"Joke over?" Cass said, with a joyous, explosive laugh.

She sighed in infinite content and weariness, resting against him, without answering. And presently she dismissed him, and went upstairs, to light the gas, and unpack her bag, and put away brushes and powder and the peach-colored night dress that had figured in last night's horror and fright.

Then she got into a fresh gown, brushed her hair, washed her face thoroughly, and knelt down, with her soap-fragrant hands hooped over her face, to say her prayers. She turned down the little girl's bed neatly—and was reminded of Mrs. Peters, putting the guest room in order last night, and falling heavily into sleep the minute she got into bed.

Suddenly Mary Kate visualized Chris. A pang, sharp and piercing and completely unexpected, went through her heart. She would never see him again.

His tall, lean figure in the comfortable tweeds, his long, lean hand holding a cigarette, his bronzed face that yet somehow remained fair under all its burning, and the loose wave of his fair hair very bright against the Indian forehead, all these were suddenly before her eyes.

Fever devoured her. Thirst made her fling her head back, breathing hard, like a person dying for air.

Oh, Chris—Chris! Oh, loose tweeds and brown hands and leisurely, casual voice so full of sureness and authority!

Trembling, hardly knowing what she did, Mary Kate lowered the light to a bead, and lighted the special, green-hooded jet that hung above her couch. She flung a book on the bed, stepped out of her slippers, established herself comfortably on her pillows.

It was no use. She could not read. Frenzy shook her. She must hear his voice, she must see him—talk to him again.

She threw the book aside, and put out the light. Only the tiny bead over by the bureau burned on, to guide Tess and Regina, when they came upstairs. And from the big cigarette sign on Geary street long streamers of light came into the shabby upstairs bedroom, swelled on the wall, stood still, were gone, and swelled again.

Mary Kate's heart was beating and her mouth was dry, her veins pulsed with insufferable longing and despair. She lay awake, in the crowded, shabby darkness of the bedroom, writhing, breathing deep, forcing herself to quiet, smitten with recurrent misery, and covering her face once more with her hands.

Mongrels Possess Keenest Brains

In France Dogs Are Bred for Mental Powers Regardless of Looks

(Condensed from The American Weekly, November 9th, 1930)

In the news it is not the noble looking thoroughbred dog, but the mongrel with no aristocratic pedigree, that sounds the fire alarm, drives away the burglars, or rescues the baby from drowning.

On the stage it is never the handsome winner of the blue ribbon at the dog show, but plain "Mr. Mutt," of unknown ancestry, who stars in all the clever tricks. Only on the screen, where the director's patience and intelligence count for more than the dog's, is the blue-blooded canine aristocrat of any use at all.

The reason is this—the pedigreed dog has the points that catch the eye, the mongrel has almost a monopoly on intelligence. The cause, according to Dr. William J. Lentz, director of the Small Animal Hospital connected with the University of Pennsylvania, and George E. Roberts, who has spent fifty of his sixty years training dogs and other animals for the stage, is that dog breeders are doing man's faithful friend a cruel injustice—making a beautiful but stupid animal out of a creature with almost human intelligence.

For more than ten thousand years the human race has been breeding its partner and associate, the canine race, for intelligence and character, rather than beauty. The cave-man did not care how his dog carried its ears as long as there was brain enough between the ears to understand the job of guarding the cave and hunting. The pup that was slow to learn was cooked and eaten, regardless of whether it had "cute" ears and a "gay" tail:. As a result of this careful selection through the ages, the average dog of about a century ago had evolved a brain with convolutions on it quite similar to those of its master.

Just about that time dog breeding began on a large scale, and Dr. Lentz believes that had the breeders bred for brain we would have dogs to-day that could not only be intelligent servants and assistant police detectives, but be able to talk, though not by speech, because their vocal apparatus is unadaptable to articulation.

Instead of performing this valuable service, dog fanciers bred exclusively for appearance, a beautiful coat, long or short legs, shape of head and how ear and tail were carried. Often as not they did not breed for beauty, but rather the reverse, producing such monstrosities as some of the bulldogs and the hideous asthmatic pug. All the time brains were neglected so thoroughly that it amounted to breeding out intelligence, except in a few varieties like the hunting dogs, the St. Bernards and the Newfoundlands—breeds that still had work to do.

It does not take long to breed the smartness from the inside of its head to the outside of a dog's body. Hardly more than twenty-five years ago the collie, one of the most popular dogs in the world, was famed for its high intelligence. Then the effects of breeding for points began to show. The old style collie that made the name famous had a head wide enough for a sizeable brain with ample room for convolutions. The new style, for some perverse reason, called for a head so narrow as to almost suggest a pickerel, and the breeders got it at the expense of brains. It is now in the mongrel collie that one finds the famous collie intelligence.

An even quicker example of extinguishing a dog's intelligence in favor of its points is the case of the German shepherd or police dog. The animal won its fame originally because of its remarkable mind, so bright that it was possible to teach the creature to perform the most astonishing services as a policeman's assistant. The original brain that could do these things was big and had to be encased in a roomy brain-box much too wide for some people's ideas of beauty.

In Europe, where they still employ the dog for useful purposes, they still breed that wider head, but in the United States breeders have relentlessly narrowed its skull, until now the once smart animal is becoming an unemployable canine moron, like the Russian wolfhound, the fashionable Borzoi and the greyhound, which for size get along with the minimum of brains.

Gustave Michaud, in France, started in to breed dogs for their mental powers regardless of looks. Although unable to complete his experiments, he obtained such startling results in a few canine generations that Dr. Lentz believes super-dogs could be easily produced, but that it would take longer than any one man's life. The stock from which these four-footed future canine Einsteins are to come will never be found on any show bench, but among the strays and "yaller" dogs who have been taught no parlor tricks, but have learned, themselves, the more difficult ones of collecting a living from back porches and avoiding the dog-catcher.

Breeders of race horses had in mind only one thing—speed; but they soon found that a stupid horse was not much good in a race, even if he had the legs. So they bred for brains as well as legs and wind, with the result that beauty was incidentally thrown in, the beauty that goes with perfection. Few would dispute that a thoroughbred race horse is at least as good to look at as anything in a dog show. The horse is not naturally as intelligent an animal as the dog, but the thoroughbred racing equine is the brightest of its kind, as the dog thoroughbred is the dullest.

Mr. Robert, the dog trainer, gets high prices for some of the stage dogs he breeds, and to look at many of them one would think he was getting something for nothing. But he and his customers know better. They are dealing in brains, a scarce and high-priced commodity.

The most precious strain of brainy blood in his kennels came from little Beaucoup, for which he paid not a cent. Beaucoup was a hungry little mongrel who attached herself to a circus, probably because she was sufficiently intelligent to know a good master when she saw one. At any rate, Robert found her a faithful and devoted friend.

That hungry little tramp founded a royal dynasty of the stage. Her sons, daughters and grandchildren have become stage stars, and she has started a new sort of pedigree, one that really means something, a pedigree of brains. So, like Gustave Michaud, George Robert is putting back the brains which the fanciers have taken out of dogdom, and he is getting well paid for it.

A dog may be bright and quick, understanding its master's orders and foreseeing them, but still not be using reason but only memory and intuition. Dr. Lentz gives an example of real discretion and reasoning on the part of a German shepherd or police dog.

"On the occasion of my first visit to a certain friend's home," he said, "the dog made me his friend. Perhaps it was his instinct that told him I was not an undesirable person, and he was not only willing that I should come to the house, but on my arrival each time he would come to meet me, as a sort of welcoming gesture on behalf of his master.

"But my friend one evening put the dog to the reasoning test, and to my mind he made good. We were alone in a room smoking, and the dog was lying on the floor, apparently contented. Being reared in Germany, the dog understood German, and my friend addressed him in that language, saying:

"'I am going out of the room, and while I am gone I want you to keep your eye on this man,' indicating me. 'Don't let him leave until I get back. Watch him all the time I am gone.'

He then left the room and the dog and I remained alone. This dog had been my friend, but as soon as his master left the room, the shepherd's eyes were upon me. Bigger and bigger they grew, his muscles became tense.

"Just for a test, I moved in my chair and looked toward the door. The dog was on his feet in a minute and ready to spring. I am convinced that he would have done so if I had started for the door.

"A moment later my host returned, and again spoke to the dog in German, saying that he had been mistaken, that I was all right — that there was no further need for watching. Immediately the dog again became my warm friend, and he has since remained so."—"Magazine Digest."

Progress

Let it be borne in mind that all progress is due to dissatisfaction with things as they are. While all change is not improvement, there can be no improvement without change. Hence those who perpetually say, "Let well enough alone," are not the best friends of the race, though they sometimes do a good service in checking too rapid or too radical alteration, and holding new projects under challenge till they have proved their right to supplant the old. That which exists is not "well enough" if something better is fairly within our grasp; and oftentimes its being better cannot be clearly seen until it has been tried. It is a mistake to be too readily satisfied with our condition. The only motto is, "Onward and upward."

BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

Montreal Presse: An official communique of the Ministry of Agriculture declares that the vaccination recommended by the Pasteur Institute of France against bovine tuberculosis has not given satisfactory results to date in Canada, in spite of tests carried out with the greatest care under the direcion of federal inspectors and of the National Council of scientific research. This news will undoubtedly cause great disappointment to cattlebreeders who had put their confidence in this preventive treatment which was reputed to be efficacious in Europe. Does this mean that the vaccine loses its strength in our climate or that it is improperly administered?

Among certain African tribes, we read, it is the custom to sit for hours at a time with the head clasped between the hands as a sign of mourning. Usually this behavior is a sign of the morning after the night before.

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lessons Furnished With Every Pattern

Quite the smartest thing for practical wear beneath the fur coat is the woolen jacket suit.

Today's model chooses a cunning blouse of washable flat crepe. To show it's very feminine, it uses pleated ruffling. And the jacket doesn't hide this pretty trim, for it is collarless.

A cricket green monotone tweed with darker blending shade wool jersey blouse is distinctly smart.

Black wool crepe with turquoise blue is still another fascinating combination.

Style No. 2910 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Rust-red wool jersey with beige is youthful.

Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards 54-inch with 1⅝ yards 39-inch for blouse.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

My Neighbor

Her steps seem always newly scrubbed;
Her children's frocks just freshly tubbed.

Muffins for tea are feather-light
And served on cloths of snowy white.

Old brass gleams in the firelight's glow
Her hearth is spotless, too, I know.

Yet she finds time to laugh, and play;
To gather flowers, and make home gay.

And so I pray: "Lord, bless my neighbor,
Who know the dignity of labor."

—Helen Cameron Graham in "The New Outlook."

Trees in Winter

I think the trees, with all their leaves away,
Look like aged people,
Wrinkled, withered, grey.
The maple's an old lady, by her dainty grace,
The chestnut, strong and gnarled, a man's lined face.

The elm-tree's a grandmother, in a shawl,
The oak stands up, grandfather-like,
Erect and tall.
But trees are only old until the spring,
Then they'll put on green clothes to dance and sing.

—Florence Westacott in "The New Outlook."

Care of Sink

Have you one of those old iron sinks in your kitchen? Of course it is an "eyesore" to you, but why not give it the same care you would a white porcelain sink?

Every time you use it, thoroughly wash it with hot soapsuds, then rinse well and dry. About twice a month rub it with a clean cloth dipped in fine machine oil.

With such care your sink will have a polish and be quite as smooth as a porcelain sink.

Mother: "Do you think that young man has saved anything?"

Daughter: "Oh, he must have, mamma; he says he never courted a girl before."

FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief?

There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets.

Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

Teaching Obedience

A child, to be happy, needs to obey. We must teach the baby very early in life he cannot have everything he cries for. Many parents actually think they are being kind to him when they give in to his childish wants if he cries. If he does not, early learn this lesson he will have some bitter ones to learn in later years. How much better it is to learn the lessons from those who love him best.

The best method to teach children obedience is through gentleness and kindness but also a firmness that cannot be moved. A couple of screaming spells is all that is needed, sometimes only one, to teach the valued lesson, although, of course, constant vigilance is necessary to see that his bright little mind does not get ahead of you. The baby will soon learn that mother's "no" means "no" and "yes" means "yes." When he grows bigger he can be taught more and more by observation and explanation and it is generally found a child can reason and understand remarkably well. The training brings the child's will into agreement with the law of obedience which is for his own good.

Coal

Deep in the hush of those unfathomed glooms
Whereunder steamed the wet and pregnant earth,
Pulsing thick sap and pungent, hot perfume,
This providence of unguessed needs had birth.
From drench of the innumerable rain
And drowse of unrecorded noon on noon,
It sucked the heat and plucked the light, to gain
For times unborn a boon.

Vitamines

During the winter months we are in danger of forgetting the importance of eating foods containing enough of all the vitamines. The following may help to check up on this important subject:

Vitamine A—Found in eggs, cod liver oil, milk, tomatoes, greens, whole wheat.

Vitamine B—Found in meat, butter, yeast, any kind of vegetable.

Vitamine C—Found in oranges, lemons, any kind of fresh fruit, tomatoes and green vegetables.

Vitamine D—Found in cod liver oil, egg yolk and sunshine.

The lack of vitamine A will cause eye disease and eventually blindness. It assists very much in keeping away a cold.

The lack of vitamine B will cause paralysis and it stimulates the appetite.

The lack of vitamine C will cause scurvy.

The lack of vitamine D will cause disease in grown-ups and rickets in children. But a person who gets little sunshine would be helped by taking cod liver oil.

Twilight Hour Story

The Little Chickens' New Home

Chapter 9

When the kind farmer lady from the big house had the four little chicks cupped in her warm hands she started walking over to the house, saying to them on the way: "I wonder how I am going to be so good to you that you will think I am really your hen Mamma, you dear little balls of down with your bird-like voices?" Then a bright idea came to her, but she had to set them down for she couldn't do anything as long as they were in her hands, could she? So until she was ready for them she put them into a small basket so they wouldn't get lost but could run around in it. She also took one of Billy's old sweaters which he seldom wore and put it under them and around them. Do you know, I believe they thought it was their Mamma sitting on them again only it wasn't as warm as Mamma's body and feathers, but it was a good deal better than outside. Oh, yes, a great deal better. Don't you think it was pretty nice for the farmer lady to be so good to these little chicks? Shall we call her Mamma Lady? Just because she liked them so much. Well, Mamma Lady knew that the basket even with the warm sweater wasn't nearly warm enough for them. No, if she wanted to keep them she had to find a place where it would be real warm all the time. Mamma Lady thought and thought. Then she remembered she had a nice big box just the right size with a cover on it so she sent Billy down cellar for it. You see when Billy came in Mamma Lady told him about finding the little chicks all alone. He was so glad she caught them, for don't you remember Billy told Mamma Hen as soon as he first saw them that she couldn't be a very good Mamma to hatch them out so late. Now he was glad because he knew if his own good Mamma would take care of them they would be just fine.

Savoury Butters

Savoury butters are excellent for sandwich fillings. They can also be used on hot fish, grilled meat, and other dishes of the kind. Most people use maitre d'hotel butter and neglect the many others that are easy to make and very tasty.

Anchovy Butter is used on plain boiled fish, grilled fish, or made fish dishes. Work enough anchovy essence to flavor and color into the amount of butter required. Anchovies themselves can be used instead, and in this case take five, soak them in warm water, drain, dry, and remove all skin and bones. Pound in a mortar with three ounces of butter, add a little pepper, and, if a very smooth butter is liked, rub through a sieve.

Devilled Butter can be served with lamb chops or with fish. Mix well together a teaspoonful of curry powder, ¼ of a teaspoonful of black pepper, a pinch of cayenne, and three ounces of butter, and leave in a cool place to harden.

Ham Butter makes a pleasing adjunct to finnan haddock, or can be spread on toast before poached eggs are added. Chop an ounce of ham very finely, add pepper, salt, and a pinch of cayenne and pound with two ounces of butter, adding a little milk if too stiff. Rub through a sieve if liked.

Horseradish Butter best accompanies grilled steak, and is made by grating a well-washed horseradish and pounding it in a mortar with an equal quantity of butter and enough salt to flavor. Rub through a sieve (this is optional) and leave in a cool place.

Watercress Butter is particularly good with liver. Wash the watercress well, chop it finely and allow two ounces of butter for every tablespoonful. Dry the watercress before pounding in a mortar with the butter and seasonings.

Sunday School Lesson

February 1. Lesson V—Jesus the Great Physician—Luke 4: 38-44; 5: 12-16. Golden Text — Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows.—Isaiah 53: 4.

ANALYSIS

I. MIRACLES OF HEALING, Luke 4: 38 39.
II. DEMON POSSESSION, Luke: 40-44.
III. LAW AND GOSPEL, Luke 5: 14-16.

INTRODUCTION—Jesus is represented in the Gospels as the great healer of men's bodies, as well as of their souls. A generation ago it was customary to say that miracles cannot happen, and that the miraculous cures reported in the gospels discredit the whole gospel narrative. The attitude of thoughtful and scientific men now is completely different. No one today can reasonably deny that Jesus performed cures which seemed to his contemporaries to be miraculous. But we are not to suppose that Jesus healed men miraculously in virtue of his unique power and position as Son of God. He commanded and expected his disciples also to be healers, and "miracles" of healing have been performed in all ages, including our own, by persons within and without Christianity. In the light of modern knowledge we may fairly say that such a person as Jesus must have healed men of manifold illnesses. Difficulties may arise in our minds about particular details in the gospel stories, but hardly about the stories as a whole. When we come to details, we do well to remember that we cannot now know exactly what was the matter with the various patients whom Jesus cured. "A fever," "a withered arm," and even "leprosy" are vague terms; we never have anything like a modern doctor's medical diagnosis of the complaint. It is idle, therefore, to ask, were there any diseases which Jesus could not heal, or what exactly are the diseases which Christians, in the name and power of Jesus, ought to be able to heal? We can only say with certainty that Jesus was a great healer, and that he expected his disciples to be healers, too.

We have a familiar saying that it is not hard work, but worry that kills, and every doctor knows that he can never restore real health to the bodies of some of his patients until they can find peace in their souls. There is a very intimate connection between spiritual health and physical health. This does not necessarily explain all the miraculous healings of Jesus, but no doubt it explains many of them, and it opens a wide and fruitful field today, as always, to the disciples of Jesus; a calm and serene faith, a cheerful pirit, are themselves healing powers which are available to the humblest of Christ's followers. Many sick persons need conversion much more than physic for their healing.

I. MIRACLES OF HEALING, Luke 4: 38, 39.

V. 38. Apparently Jesus made Simon Peter's house his headquarters while he lived in Capernaum. Peter, we note, was a married man, and it seems that later on his missionary journey he took his wife with him, 1 Cor. 9: 5.

V. 39. Illness was very generally supposed to be due to "demons," or devils, which had entered the patient's body; hence, Luke says that Jesus "rebuked" the fever.

II. DEMON POSSESSION, Luke: 40-44.

Vs. 40, 41. "Demon possession" is still a common illness with well-marked characteristics in countries such as India and China; missionaries and Christians are often called in to exorcise the demons. The malady is almost certainly spiritual or psychological rather than physical in origin; it has often been cured in the name of Jesus.

Vs. 42-44. There was danger, it seems, lest the chief work of Jesus, the preaching of the good news, should be swamped by the demands which the sick made upon his time.

V. 12. The account of the symptoms of leprosy, given in the Old Testament (Lev., chap. 13), shows that the disease was something quite different from that which is called leprosy today; it seems to have been some kind of very contagious skin disease.

III. LAW AND GOSPEL, Luke 5: 14-16.

V. 14. Christians are no doubt right in maintaining that the Law of Moses is not binding upon them, but it was not till many years after the death of Jesus that, largely through the missionary work of Paul, Christianity broke away from Judaism. Jesus did not seek to draw the Jews away from the religion of their fathers; rather, he called them to enter into the great prophetic heritage of Israel.

V. 16. We may, perhaps, conclude that Jesus found the ministry of healing both physically and spiritually exhausting.

Helpful

The train was crowded, but by dint of long search the passenger discovered a carriage with one seat occupied by a small case. He quickly stepped in and inquired of the gentleman opposite the case if the seat was engaged.

"Yes," said the gentleman, "it's—er—my friend's. He's gone out to get a paper."

"Oh, well," said the other, "I'll have to stand!"

Time passed, and no "friend" appeared.

"Your friend will lose the train if he doesn't hurry," said the seatless one.

"Yes," replied the other shortly.

The train started. Grabbing the case, the last-comer remarked: "Well, he needn't lose his bag as well." And before the other traveller could stop him he hurled the bag out of the window.

FARM PROBLEMS

Conducted by Prof. Henry G. Bell, Dept. of Chemistry, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph

The object of this department is to place at the service of our farm readers the advice of acknowledged authorities on all subjects pertaining to the farm.

Address all questions to Professor Henry G. Bell, in care of The Wilson Publishing Company, Limited, Toronto, and answers will appear in this column in the order in which they are received. When writing kindly mention this paper. As space is limited it is advisable where immediate reply is necessary that an addressed envelope be enclosed with the question, when the answer will be mailed direct before being published.

Here are some of this week's questions and answers:

G. W. M. (a) On soil where the muck has been burnt off, what analysis of fertilizer would you recommend for an oat crop?

Burned over soil is usually useless for at least one year. Burning of the soil concentrates the phosphoric acid and potash in it, renders the lime more available and destroys the organic matter. The latter change is very injurious to the soil, hence an early endeavour should be made to increase the organic matter in this area. If you are planning on seeding a burned over area that has been standing for a year in all probability a fertilizer analyzing about 3-10-5 will give you results. Apply about 200 lbs. to the acre at the time the crop is drilled in.

(b) What analysis would you use where the muck is not burnt off and where you are going to seed down with red clover and timothy?

On muck soil that is not burned over make sure first of all that the soil is neutral or sweet in reaction. If it is at all sour apply at least ½ ton ground limestone per acre just before the last harrowing of the soil. This will work the lime into the area where grass and grain and clover seed will sprout. You will in all probability find that the muck soil is short of phosphoric acid and very short of potash, hence for a fertilizer application I would advise about 250 lbs. per acre of 0-14-6, drilled in at the time that the grain and grass seed is sown.

R. S. M. Could you please advise what proportion of fertilizers would bring best results when growing tomatoes, strawberries, melons and peppers?

We have been using a 5-8-7 mixture but I have heard of greater benefits from other mixtures and the claim that they stay in the ground longer. We have a contract for a large amount of manure so we do not depend on fertilizers alone. Our soil is a sandy loam on which garden crops do well. We are setting out raspberries and grapes. What fertilizer would you advise adding for them?

Ans.—For tomatoes and peppers we would advise 750 lbs. to 1000 lbs. per acre of 2-12-6 fertilizer, ¾ applied broadcast and worked into the ground before the setting of the plants and the remaining ¼ scatter around the plant and worked in at the time the tomatoes and peppers are transplanted. When setting out a strawberry bed we would advise 500 lbs. per acre of a fertilizer analysing about 3-10-5. Successful strawberry growers apply on old beds about 200 lbs. nitrate of soda per acre before the strawberries come into bloom. This must be done after the dew is off the plant so that the nitrate of soda will not stick to the damp leaves. It readily dissolves and helps the growing crop.

For melons we have records of good results being obtained from 4-8-10 fertilizer on medium light loam soils, applying about 500 lbs. per acre. You do exceedingly well to include a good application of manure in your system of handling this soil. Many gardeners lose sight of the fact that although fertilizer gives great and profitable assistance to the growth of garden crops, they are not to be depended upon to keep up the organic matter of the soil. This you are doing by the splendid application of manure that you are making.

When setting out raspberries or grapes, many growers have obtained good results from the use of about 500 lbs. per acre of bone meal, or if manure is short, about the same quantity of a 4-8-6 fertilizer, working it in along the row where the canes or vines are to be set.

Window Frosting

There is a hymn frost-crystals sing
Upon the window pane,
Spreading as does the swallow's wing
To shed the drops of rain.

Attune your ears to catch the sound
Which falls with rhythmic beat,
Like flowers which sprinkle all the ground—
Or tiny bird-like feet;

Or music of a spider-net,
Where wandering breeges blow
The gossamer, with dew-drops wet,
A-swaying to and fro.

Listen and hear the melody,
And see the crystal throng
Form grass, and fern, and rock and tree—
A picture and a song.

Berlin Likely To Sink Into Bog

Berlin.—One of these days most of the older buildings in Berlin will cave in unless the State of Prussia or the municipality takes the necessary precautionary steps soon. This is the warning issued by Ernst Runge, former government architect.

He pointed out that Berlin was originally built on sand and bog and that, for example, all buildings in the business district between the two squares Potsdamer Platz and Belle-Alliance Platz have been erected on earth fills over sand pits and peat bogs. He doubted the adequacy of some of these fills.

The foundations of the historical buildings near the Opera House, he said, suffered from the lowering of the underground water, which the recent reconstruction of the state opera necessitated, and many of the pile frames of these buildings now show marks of extensive decay.

Similar decay of the foundations of office and other business buildings erected urged the speedy adoption of precautionary measures to prevent the collapse of many valuable buildings.

INDIGESTION

Indigestion is a word which has no particular meaning beyond conveying the information that there is an uncomfortable feeling in the abdomen, which the sufferer attributes to the stomach or to some other part of the digestive system.

Discomfort in the region of the abdomen may be due to one of many conditions. It may be caused by an ulcer of the stomach, inflammation of the gall-bladder, appendicitis, constipation, or to some one or other of the many conditions, sometimes trivial, sometimes serious, which are responsible for what is popularly known as indigestion.

There is only one way to treat indigestion properly and effectively and that is to find out the cause and then remove it. The general tendency is for the sufferer to dose himself with medicines, or to try some kind of diet which his well-meaning, but medically ignorant friends will suggest at once.

Soda is often taken in large amounts, regularly or frequently, by those who think that their trouble is an "acid stomach," with the idea of neutralizing the acid in their stomachs. They ignore the fact that if digestion is to take place in the stomach, acid must be present, and therefore large doses of soda merely interfere with normal digestion.

A certain amount of roughage in the diet is generally desirable, but, if the intestines are irritable and are causing discomfort, the addition of roughage—so often taken by the sufferer to overcome the constipation which accompanies the condition—is likely to increase the irritation. It is a smooth, soft diet which is indicated in such cases.

These points are sufficient to make clear that the proper treatment of indigestion depends, first of all, upon finding the cause. Careless or improper treatment may result in actual harm, the condition tending to become chronic and increasingly difficult to treat successfully.

Indigestion which occurs repeatedly after the age of forty should never be neglected. The cause should always be found. This fact is emphasized because of attacks of indigestion at that period of life may be the first sympton of cancer; and, if attended to without delay, there is every chance of cure.

The whole trouble may be due to bad habits of eating rather than to any internal condition. Eating too quickly, washing down food with fluid instead of chewing it properly, making meal-time the occasion for unpleasant discussions — these bad habits cause trouble.

There are some conditions which require medical or surgical care and when such treatment is advised, it must be undertaken without delay. Self-medication is a mistake; drugs should only be prescribed by a physician. Much can be done, however, to provent digestive troubles if the individual will cultivate proper eating habits and exercise care in the selection of foods.

More than two million fingerling salmon and 40,000 trout yearlings were placed in Nova Scotia lakes and streams during 1930 from the fish hatchery at Lake George.

About $80,000,000 was spent in Canada in 1930 on hydro-electric power development and installations, and it is expected that fully $300,000,000 will be spent for a similar purpose during the next three years.

Consumption of natural gas in Canada during 1929 for domestic purposes was calculated to be sufficient to displace 649,000 tons of coal. Natural gas is found in abundance in Alberta and some parts of Western Ontario, and the Maritime Provinces.

Province of New Brunswick's representation at Sportsmen's Shows in the United States this year will be larger than ever and new territory will be invaded. Its first exhibit will be at the New England Sportsmen's Show at Boston, February 7-14, and also at the Philadelphia Sportsmen's and Motor Boat Show, February 21-28.

Six thousand pounds of unfrozen white fish from Northern Saskatchewan recently went by Canadian Pacific from Prince Albert to Winnipeg and points beyond. It was carried 150 miles to Prince Albert by aeroplane in one hour and a quarter, a trip that would by ordinary means have taken from eight to eleven days.

When a 22-year-old woman recently fell from the wharf at Pier D, Vancouver, into the dangerous rip tide of Burrard Inlet, William Hillion, assistant chief clerk of the British Columbia Coast Steamships of the Canadian Pacific Railway, without hesitation dived in and after a 20-minute battle in the chill waters succeeded in getting her ashore. The woman will recover.

All Canada from hors d'oeuvres to dessert was represented at the first dinner served to the former Governor-General of Canada, Viscount Willingdon, on Canadian Pacific liner Montclare, which sailed for England recently. Starting with Saint John oysters, it included supreme of Nova Scotia sola saddle of western lamb, roast Ontario chicken, and bomb maple leaf as a sweet.

Work has started on the building of the British Columbia link of the Trans-Canada Telephone Line. A direct system through the Crow's Nest Pass to Alberta will be provided to replace the present system of routing telephone calls to and from British Columbia across the United States via Seattle. The proposed system will cost $1,250,000 and will involve some 655 miles of telephone lines, 125 miles of which have already been built.

Marriage at sea has happened before and will likely happen again, but the distinction of being baptised at sea is claimed to be unique and this occurred when two infant children were baptized in mid-Atlantic by Dr. Oliver C. Rankin, Scottish minister aboard Canadian Pacific liner Minnedosa, recently. The mothers and children were coming out to Canada from Great Britain and the minister is giving a course of lectures at McGill University.

EX-WARDEN'S ASSOCIATION

Probably the first association of its kind in Ontario was formed on Tuesday at Brampton, when thirteen former Wardens of the County of Peel met and organized what is to be known as Peel County Ex-Wardens Association. The officers are: President, N. S. Lindsay; secretary—treasurer, O. R. Church; Executive committee, W. J. Beatty, F. J. Jackson, J. J. Jamieson, and the President and secretary.

The object of the organization is chiefly to continue and perpetuate those friendly associations which have been formed while the members were in active municipal life, laying stress on the social side.

It ws decided to hold a banquet for the members and their wives about the middle of March.

Those present at the organization meeting were: N. S. Lindsay, Claireville; Thomas Elliott, Cheltenham; D. H. Mccaugherty and O. R. Church, Streetsville; H. C. Thompson and R. M. Parkinson, Port Credit; E. A. Orr, Oakville; F. J. Jackson, Peter Speers and W. J. Beatty, Brampton; W. J. Wilson Belfountain; J. A. McBride, Caledon; J. J. Jamieson, Cooksville.

The ex-wardens of adjoining counties should take notice of what their Peel county friends are doing and organize a similar association.

There are some 22 ex-wardens of Peel county living and those who were not present on Monday are invited to get in touch with the secretary and become members of the Association.

ERINDALE

The Women's Institute meeting will be held on Wed., Feb. 4th, 2.30 sharp, at the home of Mrs. F. Jones. Roll call and singing contest. The subject: Relics of Pioneer Days by Mrs. D. Ross, of Streetsville.

The Institute are holding a euchre and dance on Feb. 5th in Community Hall, 8 o'clock sharp. Music by Gordon Brown. Prizes. Refreshments. Admission 25c.

Do not fail to see the Broom Hockey to be played by the married men of the village. Hector Graydon has been selected as managing director, 6 teams will enter into the schedule, some rough playing may be expected but strictest rules have to be observed to avoid fatalities.

The Only Home She Knows

Little - blue - eyed, auburn - haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

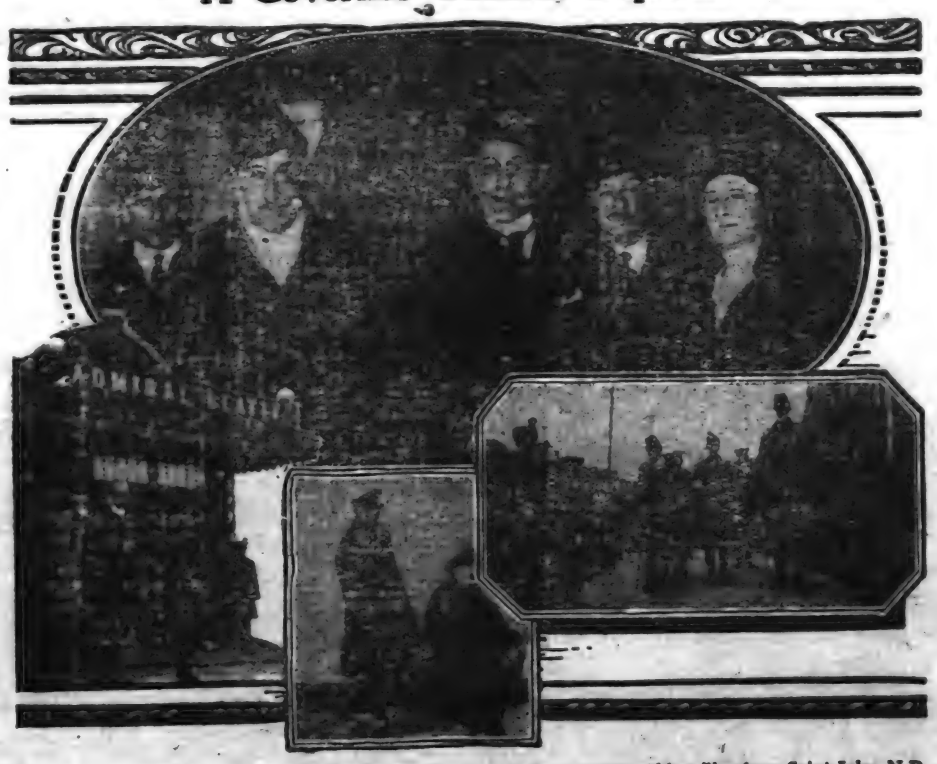
What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble — consumption — and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

For work such as this, your subscription is asked. Will you please send as much as you can to Mr. A. E. Ames. 223 College Street, Toronto.

Sisters Re-United



Mary and Ellen are sisters, 21 and 23 years of age. Their parents are both dead, and the girls must need provide for themselves. Mary had just begun to earn a comfortable wage when she was stricken with consumption and had to go to the Muskoka Hospital.

Ellen, left to her own resources, having to work harder than ever, soon proved unequal to the task—long exposure to the disease through close contact with her sister, coupled with overwork, brought the inevitable result; a few months later she too was compelled to give up and join her sister in the hospital.

There both girls are doing well, and their restoration to health is confidently expected.

Would you not like to help in such work as this? Your contribution will be gratefully acknowledged if sent to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

A Governor General Departs

Full military honors were accorded Viscount Willingdon, on the occasion of his sailing from Saint John, N.B. in the Canadian Pacific liner "Montclare", on relinquishing his post as Governor General of Canada to assume that of Viceroy of India. The picture shows: the vice-regal party on board ship, including Their Excellencies Viscount and Lady Willingdon; Captain G. Fitzgibbon McCombie, of the "Montclare"; Colonel Humphrey Snow, Comptroller of the Household; and Lieutenant D. H. Fuller, A.D.C.; the inspection of the guard of honor, with Captain Streatfield, A.D.C., in the foreground; he had a special berth on the ship; taking the salute in front of the Admiral Beatty Hotel, and one of the gun-crews of the saluting battery on Partridge Island, which fired 19 guns as the liner passed, bearing Their Excellencies to England.

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

They moved to Dixie 16 years ago. Deceased is survived by his widow, two step-sons, and one step daughter. Interment was made in Dixie cemetery.

BUMPS and BLOWS FROM RINK AND ALLEY

By Lou Swampe

Doings around the arena have been rather quiet, owing to old man weather dropping down a little too much of the beautiful, but we expect to—"catsup"—with our games this week. "Here's hoping".

Thursday afternoon brought together again our inter-school teams, public and high, and as per usual they dished up some real hockey. It was 50-50 to within a few seconds of the bell, when the high school boys broke through and saved which looked like another over-time game.

Final score High 2, Public 1.

Saturday night was our big carnival. Despite the inclement weather it was a big success; about 300 people came out to witness the event.

It was opened with a Broom Polo Game. Creditvale vs Town.

Oh what a game! The boys were all steaming like a frozen-up "rad". Ernie said he hadn't sweat so much since he had his last "Turkish Bath".

It was a fast game and much credit must be handed the Vale boys on their first appearance in Broom Polo. Sharp, Pickett, Little and Pope were outstanding for the visitors.

It would be hard to pick out the stars of the town bunch. In fact it was a cloudy night and we didn't see any.

Final score C.V. 8, Town 7.

Teams: C. V.—Pope, Pickett, Sharp, Little, A. Pope, Doherty, Burton.

Town—Maas, Woodruff, Ardagh, Lovatt, Rundle, Bruce, King.

Referee—A. Arch.

Prize winners—Best impersonation of Kayo, Billy Lovatt; best comic costume, Dorothy Graydon; best lady fancy costume, Mrs. Gene Reddick; best man, Geo. Cowlie; best girl, May Munroe.

Races—Boys, Lloyd Hope; Men's, A. Pope; Potato race, married men, C. P. McArthur; boy skater, Percy Lugg; Girl skater, Marg. Falconer; Lady skater, Lily Buckingham; Gent, Joe Sherman; Skating couple, Millie Beehoo and Ross Evans; Lucky ticket, W. M. Leader; Person bringing the largest load, C. H. Adamson. Judges, J. Drennen, H. McClintock and A. Arch.

Music was furnished by the Streetsville orchestra.

Don't neglect a visit to the Ellis Lunch Counter while at the arena. Everything is good.

Monday was a very bizzy day at our Ice Palace and it kept Manager Ellis going to make ice for the different events.

In the afternoon, Cooksville High school were here. For a daylight fixture we had a real turnout. Hard to beat the College games for noise.

It was a very slow game as far as hockey goes. The locals not being able to get any place. The same old trouble, they will not get rid of that puck.

Final score—Cooksville H. S. 3, Streetsville H. S. 2. Referee—Ellis.

Teams, Cooksville—Goal, McLelland; defence, Whaley and Yates; frant line, Duff, Whaley and Waterhouse; subs, Whaley, Pavanelli and Hewincks.

Town 5; Credit Vale 4.

7 o'clock and the bell started another Broom Polo game.

It turned out to be the best and fastest yet played at the arena. Both teams showed a big improvement in com and wind, and the game was in doubt up to the final bell.

The town made a real find in a new player, Mike Gerhardt. Oh, he must have handled a broom before.

Teams, C.V.—Pope, Pickett, Sharp, Doherty, Little, Burton, Pope.

Town—Maas, Saul, Woodruff, Ardagh, Gerhardt, Lovatt, King. sub, Bruce. Referee, Hec. Graydon.

Very sorry to hear Mel. Woodruff our flashy forward, had his lip badly cut by the puck. It required two stitches. Trust it will not keep Mel out of any of the games.

Lakeview 4; Town 7.

In a fast and clean game of hockey played Monday night, after the Polo game, the locals pulled out a nice win in the third period, after trailing at the end of the second 4-2.

It was not until the last period that our boys showed their real stuff, bulging the twine for 5 nice counters; the local flash, Pope, getting four, and also one in the second.

Lakeview scored the first in twelve seconds.

Teams, Lakeview—Goal, Kennedy; defence, Kevaney and Coyne; line, Roche, Jacobs and Klein; subs, Kevaney, Smith.

Town—Goal, Evans; defence, Klink and Wright; front line, Russell, Steggall, Pope; subs, Hope, Ardagh, Lindsay, Doherty. Referee, Ardagh.

"Lost"

"7 Men", of all shapes and sizes, answer to the name of "Officals"; when last seen were carrying brooms. Anybody knowing of their whereabouts, kindly get in touch with the arena.

Here is a job I got on broadway to-day. Say, Lou, why is not reading your articles, the same as not eating olives? Well, he says, "You don't miss much."

A TRIBUTE TO SANDY

A great many people of the present age make a grave mistake by waiting until a man passes away and then buy costly flowers to put on his casket. I believe it would be much better if we placed words of appreciation along their pathways in life. They would appreciate this and very often it would stimulate them to greater efforts in their work.

Aya is proud of its great son, Robbie Burns, Stratford on Avon of Shakespeare and Streetsville should be proud of Sandy. I have always read with interest the different poems from the pen of Sandy. I remember speaking to a leading business man of this County who was commenting on his writings and he said I would give a great deal if I could see the humor in life like Sandy. Another man of great literary taste said he had every poem Sandy wrote for the Review and treasured them very highly.

Sandy was never a great speaker but has helped many a young person in their maiden efforts in debate. The story goes that one night he was helping the two affirmative speakers on a certain resolution and as they left by the back door he escorted the negative side in from another door and also helped them.

In days gone by I remember Sandy in another role at the barn raisings that took place some 20 years ago. The younger generation know little about these raisings as it is all done by pulleys etc. today. Then the Neighbours gathered to help raise the heavy timbers. I have been at many a raising when the captain who had first choice would select Sandy from a crowd of 500 men. He was very strong, quick of foot and very accurate and was never known to hurt anyone below by making a mistake and dropping a mallet or brace. Mr. Editor, we always enjoy reading your paper and we certainly hope that Sandy will continue to give us some of his great thoughts from time to time.

Mrs. Amelia Ann Longwell, mother of Mr. Fred Longwell, formerly of this village, died at the home of her son, Alex Longwell, 40 Cluny Drive, Toronto, on Feb. 2nd, in her eighty-second year. The funeral was held on Wednesday of this week at Foxboro, near Belleville, Ont. The Longwell's were among the early settlers of Hastings County. Their interests were not only in the clearing up of land to make for themselves homes, but a noteworthy interest in everything to build up the work of the church with which they were associated. Mrs. Longwell was a staunch Presbyterian, taking an active interest up to the last in her church.

Inaugural Meeting County Council

PEEL COUNTY COUNCIL

A remarkably large gallery attended the inaugural meeting of Peel County Council on Tuesday afternoon to witness the appointment of the 1931 warden and to see his installation. Ex-wardens were there, twelve of them, past and present township council members, county officials and a few laymen.

A very fine touch was given the opening of this important meeting in the presence of Rev. Dr. A. Lloyd Smith, pastor of Grace United Church, Brampton, who read very appropriately the 37th Psalm and dedicated the council to the service of the county, praying for guidance in the difficult work of the coming year.

The council, for probably the first time on record, filed in in two rows, placed according to their positions in the council chamber, and sat down at the same time. It was an imposing spectacle, the reeves and deputy reeves of Peel's nine municipalities presenting themselves in this manner.

John Willis, Reeve of Caledon, received the honor of the warden's chair by acclamation, through the withdrawal of the only other candidate nominated, J. H. Pinchin. In addressing council after his nomination, Mr. Pinchin said that he had expected to be a candidate for the honor. But Toronto Township had always played fair and it was up to him to permit the township, unrepresented as far as the warden was concerned for 14 years, to have the honor in 1931. Loud applause followed Mr. Pinchin's action, testifying to the appreciation felt for the fine renunciation he had just made and the generous spirit in which he had handed over an honor on which he had set his own heart.

Mr. Willis in his brief but pointed address struck the keynote of the thought in every mind, that economy must be the policy of the county council for 1931. He was supported in this statement by every speaker who followed him, and backed equally by a former warden of Peel, D. H. McCaugherty, who pointed out that the taxes of Peel have increased from 5 mills to 15.1 mills since he was in the council, and are practically a rental on the farms of the county.

Those who spoke on Tuesday afternoon were ex-Wardens R. M. Parkinson and W. J. Beatty, members of the 1931 council, N. S. Lindsay, O. R. Church, E. A. Orr, F. J. Jackson, D. H. McCaugherty, Peter Speers, J. J. Jamieson, others being Tom Wilson, D. W. Sutherland, George Duck, J. F. McDonald, Howard McCort, R. Segsworth and David Wilson. Each member of the present council was invited to make a brief address, several taking the opportunity to voice their sentiments on the question of 1931 economy and all most heartily congratulating the newly appointed warden.

Before council adjourned a selecting committee, consisting of W. J. Beatty, W. Hostrawser, J. M. Dolson, J. H. Pinchin, E. Westlake was appointed. Yesterday they brought in the following report, first named in each group to be chairman: Finance, W. B. Hare, D. W. Moran, W. Denison; education, H. W. Hope, W. J. McKinley, E. W. McCulloch; equalization, E. Westlake, R. Smith, W. Hostrawser, W. J. Beatty, W. J. McKinley, J. M. Dolson, H. W. Hope, J. H. Pinchin; printing and contingencies, O. H. Downey, G. S. Bonham, R. M. Parkinson; agricultural, T. Bryans, J. M. Dolson, O. H. Downey; miscellaneous, R. Smith, D. W. Moran, W. B. Hare, G. S. Bonham; roads and bridges, W. Hostrawser, T. Bryans, J. M. Dolson, W. J. Beatty, W. Denison; county property, E. W. McCulloch, E. Westlake, R. M. Parkinson; Children's Shelter, J. M. Dolson, J. H. Pinchin; old age pensions, W. J. Beatty, J. H. Pinchin, J. M. Dolson, E. Westlake, John Willis.

In accordance with amendments made to the Ontario Highways Act in 1930 the council passed a by-law electing instead of appointing the good roads committee and by appointing the members for various terms, made a permanent body of the committee. A personnel of five members was selected, and the warden will be an ex-officio member with a vote. The money required for the work of the committee will be raised as formerly and the committee will practically function as formerly with the exception that it will now have a permanence desirable where works are done extending over a period of years.

Members were appointed for 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 years, the member appointed for one year being eligible for re-election, but must be appointed next time for 5 years if re-elected. Removal of members is secured on a vote of two-thirds of the council present at a regular meeting. In case of the removal of a member, his successor is to be appointed for the balance of his term, this to be the same in case of death or resignation of a member.

Following members were elected: J. H. Pinchin, 5 years; W. J. Beatty, 4 years; J. M. Dolson, 3 years; E. Westlake, 2 years; W. Hostrawser, 1 year. The committee beings to function at once.

A large delegation from Streetsville again visited county council yesterday to remind the members of the promise made last year, that this year's council will take into consideration the request for a paved road on the fourth line west. O. R. Church spoke on behalf of the delegation and stated that the members would be satisfied if the paved surface could be applied from Dundas Street to the village. Major Riches, speaker for the former delegation, again spoke of the immense traffic on the road below the village and said that the present cost for maintenance was almost sufficient to carry the debentures for the paved surface.

Mr. Pinchin reminded the delegation of the promise made in November and assured the visitors that one of the first matters to come before the good roads committee would be the Streetsville road.

Robert Smith, Bolton, put before council a picture of the financial standing of the village after a long period of improvements and necessary expenditures and begged that the village might not be mulcted the cost of the damage done to residents along the line of the new road into the village. It was pointed out that Mr. Smith would receive a hearing from the good roads committee who would then make a recommendation to council.

Col. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario visited council this morning and gave an address.

M. J. Kehoe once more appeared at county council in regard to having a piece of road on t... King-Albion townline made into a county good road. Mr. Kehoe explained that as a present resident of Albion, he has now a greater claim on action from the county council regarding this piece of road. It was suggested that he interest the townships concerned in fixing up this piece of road, so far, nothing having been done to make it even into a good township road. Messrs. Bert Mellow and Harper appeared on Thursday to ask some restitution for land taken off the grounds of the Albion and Bolton fair grounds during the cutting of Bolton Hill. They also informed council that they had been promised $45 by Engineer N. L. Powell, if they would forego the putting of a culvert at the old entrance, and the grading of the old entrance road, and take instead a new entrance at the south end of the grounds. It was pointed out that the Fair Board had received some consideration already in the form of new fencing, and that the $45 would be in the nature of a grant.

A long discussion was held over the matter of snow removal, and council was unanimous in deciding that changed conditions of winter traffic, by truck and auto make it imperative to keep roads in condition for such traffic. This has been done up to the present by the co-operation of the Armstrong Construction Company, who loaned their truck and plow. But council thought it better to invest in a tractor that would be of service in future maintenance work, and that would be of greater efficiency in operating a snowplow. Plow and tractor could be purchased for $6,091, J. H. Pinchin, chairman of good roads committee informed council, the old tractor would be turned in on the price, making the county's share of the cost about $2,020.

E. W. McCulloch explained the action that had been taken following a recent report from the inspector of prisons, on better fire protection for the jail. It is impossible, owing to the plan of the building, to erect outside fire escapes, but a stand pipe, and a quantity of large rubber hose will be installed at a cost of $307. The building will also be rewired and the antiquated type of wiring, a fire menace in itself, removed. Nearly $270 was expended on wiring for the courthouse, to bring the equipment there up to date.

Answering O. H. Downey, as to the cost of the county engineering department, Mr. Pinchin stated that in 1929, the cost was 3.8 per cent. of the money expended, in 1930, although the program was the most extensive ever undertaken by Peel, the cost was only 1.85 of the money expended, and this in face of the fact that a considerable amount of outside help had to be engaged.

D. W. Moran pointed out that once during the past session that it behoved the county council to study carefully the grants made during the present year. The following grants were passed, others being tabled until the March session: Brampton Poultry Association, $25; Ebenezer Short Course, for prizes, $60; home demonstrator, $500; district representative, $500. The agricultural committee brought in a resolution of appreciation of the very fine talk given on Thursday morning by Hon. T. L. Kennedy.

Report of the finance committee brought in on Saturday morning, showed that the amount due from Peel County on provincial highway construction in 1930 was $54,330.93; maintenance, $17,867.66. In the auditor's report, presented by A. S. Thomas, it was shown that there was owing for 1928 construction and 1929

Budgets of the Nations

A budget of $10,830,000,000—undoubtedly the largest peacetime budget ever presented for a single nation—was recently submitted for approval to the Soviet Congress in Rusia.

Russia's budget is a 'unified State budget" and concerns the balance of accounts as handled by the Soviet treasury. Along with it, and including it, was submitted a "unified financial plan" amounting to $15,875,000,000, covering all except a small segment of the national income.

The $15,875,000,000 figure, when compared with the budgets of other nations, would seem to indicate that the Soviet Republic is an enterprise exceeding the governments of Great Britain, the United States, Germany, France and Italy combined. This conclusion, however, is apparently unwarranted, for two reasons. In the first place, the Russian budget includes vast expenditures for activities that, in less socialized countries, are carried on and financed privately. In the second place, not all of the expenditures of other governments are listed in their ordinary budgets. Thus, Great Britain has an ordinary budget of $3,841,856,000; but to this must be added in similar manner $407,941,000 for post offices and roads. The United States budget estimate for 1931 is $4,014,941,900, but this does not include some $700,000,000 in postal expenses that will be met by postal revenues.

The 1931 French budget is $1,963,841,600, while that for Italy is $1,003,916,000. The German Government, with a budget of about $2,500,000,000, will keep only about $600,000,000 to finance its own operating expenses; the remainder will go for payment of war reparations and other obligations and to the Federated States for their settlements.

British Films vs. Hollywood

Great Britain Film Producers Now Plan Active Campaign for Canadian Market

Toronto, Ont.—Latest developments in the flurry of announcements linked with British Films is the organization of a British Film Guild, reporting an initial membership of 150 theatregoers.

Believing that the vagueness surrounding the specific activities of Briand directors, what British films are tish studios, the personalities of stars currently available for Canadian showings and how they strike Canadian tastes is one of the major handicaps to British film progress in the Dominion, the Guild hopes to act as a clearing house for information. Its appointees will preview incoming British pictures and if a British film does not please, they intend to say so and why. Sixteen British pictures are listed for this study in a preliminary bulletin to be issued shortly.

The membership in general will report on films seen and the resulting symposium of Canadian opinion, summarized, is to go back to the British producer for his information and as an index to the Canadian theatregoer's preferences. At the same time, statistics on British films now playing are to be compiled noting where they were shown, the audience reactions and the degree of box office success, with reasons. The plan developed, to an important degree, from suggestions made in reviews of the film situation by S. Morgan-Powell, literary and dramatic editor of the Montreal Star. It is stated that the co-operation of Canadian agents for British producers has been secured.

Scottish Antiques to be Exhibited in London

London—Preparations are going steadily forward for the exhibition in February of rare historical Scottish antiques. The exhibition will take place in Mrs. Robert Fleming's Moorish ballroom in Grosvenor Square.

A piece of jewelry worn by Mary Countess Linlithgow, and the Earl of Sountess Linlithgow, and the Earl of Airlie has promised the Garter Ribbon worn by Bonnie Prince Charlie. A shirt and handkerchief belonging to King Charles I will be lent by the Duke of Beaufort and the cap in which the Stuart Monarch went to the scaffold will be shown by Lady Carmichael.

Old Scottish spinning wheels, stools and other furniture, candle molds and even ancient agricultural implements, ancient Scottish silver, miniatures, and suits of armor, will likewise be represented in the exhibits.

Many of the pieces have never before been shown in public and the exhibition is sure to attract many collectors of historical antiques who are in London this winter.

Special Diet Will Stop Tooth Decay

Declares Dr. R. Bunting of University of Michigan in An Address at Toronto

Toronto.—In an address to the Toronto Academy of Dentistry at the Royal York Hotel recently, Dr. Russell Bunting, Professor of Dental Histology and Pathology of the University of Michigan, gave the following routine as a means of preventing decay in children's teeth:

One quart of milk, one green vegetable, tomato juice, as little sugar as necessary, as few sweets as possible, and all with well-balanced meals.

"If you observe this daily dietetic routine for the children, there likely will be fewer visits to the dentist," declared Dr. Bunting.

He asserted that diet can control the tendency to decay, although dental men cannot tell definitely what the conditions are which produce cavities in teeth. "There is an inhibitive effect of a well-balanced diet on the control of these cavities," he declared.

His opinions were based on research work done by himself and his staff at the University of Michigan, and at four institutions for children in the United States. He told the dentists that the experimens had been successful.

Dr. Bunting reviewed the work done over a century by scientific men in their efforts to define the causes of decay.

The dietetic routine suggested by Dr. Bunting is being followed at the Sick Children's Hospital, it was mentioned at the meeting, which was attended by many local dental and medical men.

Canada to Stop State Passports

Canadian Citizens Going Abroad Will Lack Official Papers

Ottawa—A long standing custom of the department of state in issuing certificates, or diplomatic passports, to private citizens going abroad has been stopped on an order from Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State, after consultation with the Prime Minister.

The original object of these certificates was to identify travellers in foreign countries, especially those travelling on government business, or public service. The great number issued in recent years has considerably lessened their value, it is said. Henceforth these impressive identification papers will be issued only to those abroad on Government business.

10,794 Movie Actors and Aides Killed Or Hurt Since 1925 in Hollywood

San Francisco.—Behind the scenes of the movie thrillers there is enacted a more realistic drama that counts its cost in deaths, disabilities and dollars. Hollywood's "hair raisers" cost the state of California much in compensation while actors and stage hands suffer injuries and death in the production of motion pictures.

Injuries during the five years preceding 1930 and the first six months of that year, industrial accident commission figures reveal, totaled 10,794. Fifty-five were fatalities among extras, regular actors or studio workmen. The remainder were listed under permanent or temporary injuries.

During 1929, noted in the movie industry for its avalanche of war pictures, sixteen deaths were reported. Last year two cabin monoplanes crashed in mid-air. Captain Ross Cooke and his nine actor-companies plunged to death in the Pacific.

An average of fifteen accidents, sufficiently severe to be reported to the Commission, occur daily from a multitude of causes.

The filming of "Trader Horn" on location at Tecate, Mexico, was held responsible for two peculiar cases. Donald Gooch wrenched his shoulder when a haltered zebra jerked away from him while an African jungle scene was being filmed. C. A. Marshall, an extra, received temporary disability compensation because an insect bit him.

A lobster pinched the upper right eye lid of Fred Metz as he stooped to pick up another lobster while making a comedy.

During a snow scene A. Mezzaville got some synthetic snow in his right eye. Ray Hammersley tried to drive a spike while building a stage set and struck himself in the left eye. Ronald Dicks, combatant in a general melee, fainted from exhaustion during the fight and was injured.

Others reported cat bites, burns from hot soup drank while participating in a domestic film, strained hands from typing and infection on the head after having the hair clipped to resemble a Comanche Indian.

California, during the five and one-half year period, paid movie workers $421,850 in workmen's compensation. Of this $247,500 was paid for the fifty-five deaths resulting mostly from the filming of "breath taking scenes."

Canadian High Commissioner Sails for England

Wearing the smile that is ever associated with his name, the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson sailed with Mrs. Ferguson from St. John, N.B., recently, on liner Montcalm to take up his new duties as Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain. He is seen on left, with Hon. Hugh M. McLean, V.D., K.C., lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick. In Mrs. Ferguson's left is Capt. A. Rothwell, commander of Montcalm.

Terrific Storm Hits British Isles

Death Toll in North Number Three—Shipping is Damaged

London.—The Winter's worst gale and blizzard struck the British Isles on Sunday, spreading death and destruction over a wide area. Ships were battered by heavy seas, telegraph lines in the north were down, and the night long blizzard threatened to paralyze transport services.

The death toll in the north of England had reached three Sunday night. Many cattle were reported missing. Train schedules were disrupted. Passengers on omnibuses in the vicinity of Glasgow, Scotland, were isolated along the highways by the blizzard.

The wind piled snow drifts four to six feet deep along roads throughout the north country. Three landslides bocked the Antrim coast and disrupted telephone and telegraph services.

The British steam trawler Lord Beaconsfield was reported in a serious position when its engines failed near Duncansbyhead, Caithness, off the north-east coast of Scotland. Mountainous seas whipped to fury by the gale menaced shipping in the east Atlantic.

The gale swept the Isle of Man, causing a landslide in which hundreds of tons of earth crashed into a ravine at Glenhelen, flooding the Douglas-Peel Railway.

North Scotland experienced the wildest weather in years, including snow, sleet and rain. Many of the main highways were blocked.

The storm reached into northern England. The Inverness express train, due at Euston Station, in London, at 6.55 a.m., arrived at 7.45 p.m.

Canada's Jobless 300,000 Early Improvement Seen

Ottawa.—Official figures, gathered from trade unions and other labor organizations, place the number of unemployed in Canada at 300,000, Senator Gideon D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, announced on Jan. 30th.

While this is an increase of approximately 100,000 since last August, it is customary for a seasonal contraction in employment to take place from November to January. Looking to the future, Senator Robertson predicted a "substantial improvement" within the next few months.

Vegetable Imports Drop, Report shows

Carrots and Cabbages Enter Canada in Smaller Volume

Toronto. — Importation of carrots and cabbages into Canada has decreased a total of 43 per cent. for the period Nov. 1 to Jan. 15, according to a report submitted to Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

A recent survey taken through the Vegetable Growers' Association show that there are approximately 60,000 bushels in storage in the province. A report on supplies has been forwarded to the Ottawa department.

Imports of cabbage up to Jan. 15 decreased about 18 per cent. and there are about 100 carloads in storage, the report stated.

"Extension of time on the dumping duty has been taken up with Ottawa," said the report. "We have just been advised that instead of terminating Jan. 31 the dumping clause will apply indefinitely."

Paris Writers Plan Forest War Memorial

Paris. — Something different, and very appealing, in the way of war memorials has been devised by the Association of Ex-Soldier Writers, who have decided to plant a forest of cedars in memory of their comrades who fell in the World War. An exceptionally appropriate site for this plantation has been chosen in the Department of Herault, near the watering place of Lamalou-les-Bains, since it was due to the deforestation of that area that the floods which caused considerable damage in southwestern France last spring were so sudden and impetuous in their origin. The forestry service is so enthusiastic about the Soldier-Writers' plan that it has decided to make their plantation the nucleus of a much larger forest, which will contain about 100 hectares of cedars and other trees. The association was greatly aided by a nurseryman who, when he heard of the project, offered to supply 10,000 cedars, plant them, and replace any of them which did not get a good start.

DO-X Motors Hold Up Departure

Start of Next 1,900-mile Leg Tentatively Scheduled For Monday

Las Palmas, Canary Islands.—Motor trouble caused postponement of the departure on Sunday of the DO-X, great German flying boat, for St. Vincent, the Cape Verde Islands, the next phase of its leisurely transatlantic flight to Brazil. The next leg is 1,900 miles. Mechanics repaired one of the 12 motors, and the start was scheduled tentatively for 7 a.m. Monday. The trouble was declared to be slight, but it necessitated the dismantling of the motor.

Capt. Fredrich Christiansen, in command, indicated that the trouble could have been repaired temporarily and the voyage continued on schedule but he felt it better to put the motors in perfect condition before starting the 900-mile flight southward to the Cape Verde Islands, off the west coast of Africa.

The DO-X landed in the harbor here at 2.10 p.m. (10.10 a.m. E.S.T.) Saturday, making the flight from Lisbon, Portugal, in 6 hours and 50 minutes. The distance is about 700 miles, and the DO-X made the voyage averaging a little better than 100 miles an hour.

The big machine appeared over the outer harbor amid the cheers of hundreds of persons who lined the piers and stood on the tops of buildings and houses to wave a welcome. The DO-X carried six passengers and 13 men in the crew. Four of the passengers disembarked here.

The flight from Lisbon was made with favorable weather and helping winds. It had been planned to detour by Madeira Island, but fogs in that area caused Captain Christiansen to proceed directly to Las Palmas.

24 Relay 'Planes On Air Mail Route

Ottawa.—The air mail flight which set out early Monday morning from Saint John is scheduled to stop at the following 24 points, where the mail will be transferred to new planes: Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, South Bend, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fargo, Grand Forks, Pembina, Winnipeg, Regina, Moosejaw, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Calgary.

Streets Used As Bedrooms

Further details of disaster at Ormate, Persia, nearly wiped out by earthquake recently, are clearly shown here by manner in which hundreds of families sleep in middle of streets for fear of new tremors or because their homes have been destroyed.

Germany's Zep-Train

An astonishing railway train has made its appearance in Germany. It is known as the Railway Zeppelin, since the cars look not unlike miniature airships. Each car is provided with a 600 horsepower aeroplane motor, which operates a propeller at the rear. It runs on rails just like an ordinary railway carriage, but is moved by propeller like a steamship or an airplane.

The tests were made on the railway where the rocket car was tried out last year. Speeds of nearly 100 miles an hour were attained with a full load of passengers, though in unofficial trials 115 miles an hour has been reached.

Passengers sitting in the car found that when it was travelling at over ninety miles an hour there was no shaking or jolting of any kind.

The new system has been designed to meet the demand for the transport of passengers and mails over long distances at the lowest possible cost.

New Brunswick Has Deficit of $635,129

Saint John.—The Province of New Brunswick had a deficit of $635,129.27 in its ordinary revenue account for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1930, according to the annual financial statement published in a nextra issue of the Royal Gazette recently.

In the year ended Oct. 31, 1929, a surplus of $9,337.80 was shown, while in the previous twelve-month period the surplus was $198,209.36.

Diffused knowledge immortalizes itself.—Sir James Mackintosh.

MIDDLE AGE

A Critical Time for All Women.

"I am beginning to feel my age" is the confession many a woman has to make when she reaches the critical time of middle life. There is no need, however, to think you are too old to be well and happy.

Perhaps you have lost your grip on things; perhaps the old vigor and energy is lacking; you get tired easily, and your limbs ache terribly. Often your back seems ready to break and the pain is unbearable.

Your blood is at fault — it has become thin and impure and does not give the health-giving nourishment to the body. What you need is a treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will set you right. They actually make rich, red, health-giving blood and this good blood will drive out all your aches and pains.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will banish headaches, backaches, nervousness and lack of appetite, and in their place will come new energy and happiness. You can get these Pills at all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bothwell Romance Again in Spotlight

Smashing of Earl's Burial Casket on the Island of Zeeland Recalls His Adventure with Mary Stuart

The pillaging of a forgotten village church on the remote little island of Zeeland, reported in Copenhagen dispatches last week, recalls one of the most brutal episodes in all British history. Here since his death, in exile, in 1578, has lain the body of one of the husbands of Mary Queen of Scots, the Earl of Bothwell. In searching for treasures, or accidentally, thieves smashed the glassed-in coffin which for more than three and a half centuries has held the remains of the man about whom historians agree that "no good word can be said."

James Hepburn, high-born and adventurous, inheriting the title and castles of the Earl of Bothwell, has been said to have contributed more than any other person to sending Mary to the gallows. Although a Protestant, Hepburn became one of the most violent anti-English leaders in the bitter religious wars between Scotland and England.

After exile in France and imprisonment by Queen Elizabeth in the Tower, Bothwell returned to Scotland in 1565 at the summons of Mary—his daring and strategy made possible his escape despite pursuit by ships Elizabeth sent in search of him.

His complete ascendency over Mary appears to have dater definitely from the murder of the Queen's secretary, Rizzio, in March, 1566. From then on he was her chief adviser, attending with her the Craigmiller conference at which both signed the "bonds" which were to result in the murder of the Queen's husband, Darnley.

To Mary, Bothwell was a "glorious, rash and hazardous young man." He was masterful and daring and possessed of a certain courage that even his bitterest enemies were forced to recognize.

The intention of Queen Mary to make the Earl of Bothwell her husband was, for a time, kept secret. She sought refuge with him at Dunbar Castle. He met her riding outside of Edinburgh and, leading a force of 800 spearsmen, escorted her —forcibly or otherwise—to Dunbar. Less than a month later Mary made Bothwell Duke of Orkney and Shetland.

Within a month after their marriage, Mary Queen of Scots and Bothwell were again seeking refuge, to be separated from then on. Both well's flight to Denmark was the last of his adventurous life. He was no longer in position to aid his Queen, and her downfall left him the prisoner of King Frederick II of Denmark, from whom, during Mary's reign, he had obtained safety by promising to restore to Denmark the Orkneys and Shetland. Eleven years after his marriage with Mary the Earl of Bothwell died at Zeeland.

Clubs Can Hire Planes

Airplanes will be leased to British light airplane clubs, according to the Department of Commerce. The planes at the disposal of the clubs will be Gipsy I Moths with wooden fuselages, and equipped with telephones, automatic slots and a compass. The planes will be fully insured by the De Havilland Company, the builders, against all ground and air risks, including third party risks. They may be hired for any period up to six months at $291 a month and for a period beyond six months at $243. All rentals are payable in advance. Planes must be maintained at the expense of the lessee in a correct airworthy condition, and must be operated in accordance with the provisions of the air navigation acts. In the event of accidents causing damage to the aircraft, the first $77.20 of damage must be met by the lessee.

The longest air route at present with a regular service of planes is from New York to Buenos Ayres, a distance of 5,880 miles.

If the boss' desk is clean it indicates that an assistant is doing the work. Often the boss takes the "in" out of indispensable when an employee begins to feel that way. How can there ever be true happiness in this world when all silver linings have a lot of little clouds about them? Eat slowly, friend. Haste makes waist.

Aspiration

Let me to-day do something that shall take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favored as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.

Let me not hurt by any selfish deed,
Or thoughtless word, the heart of foe or friend;
Nor would I pass, unseeing, worthy need,
Or sin by silence where I should defend.

However meagre be my worldly wealth,
Let me give something that shall aid my kind.
A word of courage, or a thought of health,
Dropped as I pass for troubled hearts to find.

Let me to-night look back across the span
'Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say:
"Because of some good act to beast or man
The world is better that I lived to-day."

Love is the only commodity needed to insure a happy marriage between meals. Beauty that used to be skin deep is now skin and knee deep. Dreams that come true would anyway. Called—"Certainly it will. I'll be very glad to have them."

Constipated Children

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and the child suffering from it positively cannot thrive. To keep the little one well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are pleasant to take and can be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety. Thousands of mothers use no other medicine for their little ones but Baby's Own Tablets. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Autos as Earthquake Refuges

Automobiles are cited as "admirable earthquake-proof buildings" by Dr. T. A. Jaggar, American volcano expert, as a result of personal experiences during the earthquake of September 25, 1921, in Hawaii.

In a recent announcement from the Hawaiian Volcano Research Association, Dr. Jaggar describes how he happened that day to be driving in his automobile to visit a friend. Then, says Dr. E. E. Free's Week's Science (New York):

"On arriving at the friend's house, Dr. Jaggar was astonished to find the inhabitants in great excitement, and the house partly ruined.

"A violent earthquake had happened while Dr. Jaggar was in his moving automobile.

"In spite of long experience as an earthquake observer, he had felt nothing. During the shocks which followed, Dr. Jaggar reports, many people left their houses and slept in their automobiles.

"Even when not in motion, Dr. Jaggar reports, 'a sedan on springs and rubber tires produced almost no sensation to the occupants, while adjacent homes were rattling and rocking with the aftershocks.'

"Houses usually act, he finds, as magnifiers of earth movements, so that what seems to be a violent earthquake to a person indoors may seem to a person on the ground in the open to be a single not very strong thud under his feet, or may pass altogether unnoticed.

"This may explain why it is that primitive men have few myths of earthquakes, but many of floods and fires. Having no houses to magnify them, primitive men probably felt only the very greatest earthquakes, but anybody is impressed by a forest fire or a flood."

Tests Show Lack of Vitamin Cause of Grey Hair

Premature gray hair may be due to lack of some vitamin-like material in the food, just as lack of one of the vitamins causes the disease called rickets. This is suggested by researches reported to the Academy of Sciences in Paris by Prof. Gabriel Bertrand. Says Dr. E. E. Free in his Week's Science (New York):

"In experiments planned for a different purpose, ordinary black and dark gray rats were fed on diets containing all vitamins known to be necessary, but made of purified or synthetic foods instead of natural materials like vegetables and grain.

"To the investigators' surprise, the black coats of the animals began to turn silver gray.

"This may happen, the experimenters knew, because of bad health, but the rats in this instance were perfectly healthy, as was confirmed by blood tests.

The new vicar was calling upon one of his parishioners. "I hear," he said, "that you have a son in the film business at Hollywood." "That I have," replied the woman, proudly. "How long has he been in America, Mrs. Smith?" "Five years, sir." "Indeed. And does he ever come back to England?" "Every summer regularly." "And brings his wife with him, I expect." "That is so, sir. And they've been five smart girls, too."

The Tin-Whistle Player

'Tis long since, long since, since I heard
A tin-whistle played,
And heard the tunes, the ha'penny tunes

The tunes that were before Cendfind
And Cid went Ireland's rounds—
That were before the surety
That strings have given sounds!
breath.
And now is standing in the mist,
And jigging backward there,
Shrilling with fingers and with
A tin-whistle player!

He has hare's eyes, a long face rimmed
Around with badger-gray;
Aimless like cries of mountain birds,
The tunes he has to play—

The tunes that are for stretcher hare,
And men whose lives are lone.
—Padraic Colum, in "Old Pastures."

If you believe that He is there.

How To Lose Fat and Get That Youthful Feeling

Over in Great Britain when a man is feeling "as fit as a fiddle" and looking the "picture of health" they say: "HE'S GOT THAT KRUSCHEN FEELING."

That means he takes his little dose of Kruschen Salts every morning.

It's the same in the U.S.A.—in Germany—in Holland—in Australia—in South Africa, for Kruschen Salts are now sold the world over.

Kruschen Salts is not one salt only—it is the combination of six salts necessary to healthy life.

Take half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning, modify your diet and exercise regularly.

But don't miss a morning, for Kruschen not only puts and keeps the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in a splendid healthy condition, but purifies your blood-stream, and sends new life and activity to every part of your body.

Noiseless Factory To Help Workers

Also to be Built Without Windows—Machines to be Painted Orange

A factory without windows, and having other features of an unusual, if not revolutionary, character, is to be constructed at Fitchburg, Mass. Conditions under which the employes work will be so controlled that they will be uniform, night and day, and everything possible will be done to make work easy. It is expected that efficiency will be increased by about 30 per cent. and the experiment is being watched by industry.

Noise-eliminating devices will make the factory quiet. The walls will be built to absorb sound, and machines will be mounted on cork. Noises from the manufacturing processes will be made to counteract each other.

The intensity of daylight changes constantly, thus putting a strain on eye muscles and bringing on fatigue. In this windowless factory, electric lamps, with special diffusing shades, will furnish illumination. A certain amount of ultra-violet light will be introduced.

The temperature in the factory will be kept constant, the air being washed on entering the building, heated in cold weather and cooled by a spray in warm weather. Drafts are to be eliminated.

As colors, according to psychology, either depress or raise the spirits of humans, they are the basis for the decorative scheme. The walls and ceiling will be white, blue and green. Machines will be painted a bright orange, to make them easily visible and thus to reduce the chance of accidents.

Caller (inquiring for son of the house)—"Whaur's young Angus, Mr. McFee?" Mr. McFee—"He's doon in the shed sharpening the gramophone needles. We're giving a wee party the nicht."

ACID causes Headaches

WHEN there's too much acid in your stomach, you must force yourself to work, and even pleasures are too great an effort. Appetite lags; the digestion is poor; the whole system suffers.

Laboratory tests show an acid condition is due to errors in our modern diet. But you need not wait to diet your way out of the trouble!

Take a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This will neutralize the excess acid instantly; make you feel like a new person in just a few moments.

Take a little whenever heartburn, sick headaches, nausea, flatulence, indigestion or biliousness show the digestive system is becoming too acid. Whenever you are taking cold or feel sluggish, weak, constipated, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action.

Delightful to take. Endorsed by physicians for 50 years and prescribed everywhere for men, women and children. The genuine is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. It always bears the name Phillips for your protection.

ANY CHILD

WE can never be sure just what makes a child restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as your child has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

Castoria made especially for CHILDREN

CHILDREN usually hate to take medicine but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And mothers like its action—so gentle, yet so prompt and effective.

Castoria is a never-failing comfort to children and mothers alike because it was formulated expressly for children—to correct their little ills and upsets.

The beauty of it is you can give Castoria to children of all ages with equally sure results. When baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed; and free from pain, he is asleep again in a jiffy.

In an older child when coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, a more liberal dose is usually all that is needed to cleanse and regulate the bowels.

Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your children are grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a child in his teens.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

THE SONGS WE USED TO SING

It was the 21st of January. It was drifting. The snowbanks on the Ninth Line were too high for cars. It was Mrs. Will. Cooke's turn to entertain the North Trafalgar Community Club.

Mrs. Sol. Cordingly wanted to go to the meeting, so did her mother, Mrs. Hustler, over 80 years of age, so did her son, John Douglas Cordingly, 2½ years of age. Therefore Sol, who still approves of the old fashioned way of transportation over snowbanks, prepared the big bob-sleigh with the big wagon box, and started for the place of meeting, gathering recruits from all the houses on the line, and by the time they arrived at the Cooke homestead there was a load large enough to make the old-time sleigh-load pleasure-seeker jealous. The old sun was dipping in the west, finishing its day's journey before the Club had finished another profitable and pleasant meeting, and the sleigh-load started on the return journey. Mrs. Hustler started to sing in a sweet musical voice a song her teacher taught the scholars to sing in the first school she attended. She remembered every word.

Home, dear home, we never can forget,
Friends, dear friends, we often there have met,
Pressed by care, or pressed by grief,
Home hath afforded us a sweet relief.

On the gilded page of earthly fame,
Some may pant to register their name,
Around our name no wreath may be,
Still we can read it on the old home tree.
Painted pleasure hold the flowing bowl,
Mirth and music lures the careless soul,
The dear old home the place we find,
Home joys that never leave a sting behind.

This old song has stirred up memorics about our old No. 10 White School—a song we have never heard anyone sing since Mr. Cummings, the teacher, taught it in the school in 1873. Another favorite song he loved to teach was this:

We are joyously voyaging over the main,
Bound for the ever-green shore,
Whose inhabitants never of sickness complain,
And never see death anymore.

Chorus
Then let the hurricane roar,
It will the sooner be o'er,
We will weather the blast,
And land at last,
Safe on the evergreen shore.

We have nothing to fear from the wind or the wave,
Under our Saviour's command,
For our hearts in the midst of all dangers are brave,
For Jesus can bring us to land.

Both the wind and the wave commander controls
Nothing can baffle His skill,
For the voyage of life when angry waves roll,
He can bid the loud tempest to still.

Mr. Cummings was awfully poor. He had a house rented in Streetsville. He had a wife and four children to support. His salary was $240.00 a year. I can remember him one day at the noon hour standing looking out the east window of the school. He was alone, and was singing in such a sad, sweet voice:

Do my friends despise, forsake me,
Do they pass me proudly by,
Yet I know though poor and lonely,
Jesus was as poor as I.
He was poor, nay He was poorer
In a manger He must lie.
And I wonderer there, as I have often wondered since, was it—
"Man's inhumanity to man that makes countless thousands mourn" that made this good man so often sad?

PEEL COUNTY COUNCIL

construction and maintenance $102,-904.66. Debentures for this amount were sold at $100.76, and small balance was left when the debt was discharged. Good roads expenditure for 1930 was $223,644.46, with an expenditure for bridges of $85,000. Debentures for the bridges brought $100,-317, leaving a balance of $607.12 when the debt was paid. Government subsidy for last year was $135,210.

Summing up the credit and debit balances for a number of years, the auditor finds a deficit of $7,316.38. Credit balances shown in different accounts at the present time are: Bank balance, $60,972.64; debenture moneys, $62,839.93; good roads moneys, $13,-055.54.

County assets at the present time are $360,038.52; liabilities — good roads, $225,000; public highways, 1930, $297,158.59; debenture moneys on hand, $62,839.93; capital assets and debentures liabilities, $79,354.21. The revenue account shows receipts of $128,990.68, with expenditures of $136,307.38. There was expended for schools, $56,609.66; Old Age Pensions, $10,768.31; Mothers' Allowance, $4,-842.50; hospitals, $5,736.33; grants, $7,129.50; Children's Shelter, $2,350. Ratepayers' investment account shows a balance of $169,532.42.

Total receipts for all purposes were $567,954.52; balance on hand, $60,-972.64.

A by-law to borrow $165,000 for good roads purposes at 5½ per cent. per annum was passed, also a by-law to borrow $100,000 for general purposes at the same rate was passed, the finance committee finding it impossible to secure a lower rate at the present time.

The Highways Department will be petitioned for a subsidy on an expenditure of $279,098.92 on good roads expenditure for 1930.

Good roads committee asked that the engineer prepare plans and estimates for laying a county paved road on the Brampton side road west to Huttonville and on the north line west, from Erindale to Streetsville, that section of the Brampton side road to be a continuation of the Woodbridge-Brampton provincial highway.

Reports on various claims received by council were given by the good roads committee. D. C. Mabee, Bolton, claiming damages of $50 on account of the cutting of the Bolton Hill, receiving the amount of the land actually taken in the process, at the regular rate, other sections of the claim being laid over. The claim of Bolton and Albion Agricultural Society for the price of 3-10 acres of land was granted, but the claim for $45 cash will be considered at a future meeting. Bill of claims from the Armstrong Construction Company for damages to their snowplow will be considered later. The county renewed the insurance on its county roads with the Globe Indemnity Company at $386.40.

It was decided on Saturday that the committee which passed on the hospital accounts each month shall form a delegation to ask Hon. G. W. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, to amend the statute so as to make it necessary hereafter for indigent patients to present at the hospital, an order of admission signed by the reeve of the municipality or the M.O.H. of that municipality.

Reeves J. H. Pinchin and W. J. Beatty were strong in their protests of the unfair advantage that appears to be taken of municipalities by such patients. It was shown that the treasurer, J. J. Jamieson, has the right to collect from people who can pay, but that law costs might amount to more than the amount of the bill.

The reeves were asked also to take up the matter of such a large percentage of Peel pupils attending schools outside the county.

Council strongly endorsed the resolution passed on from Elgin County to the effect that there be no change in the present constitution of county councils.

Representatives appointed to the High School Boards for 1931 were: Brampton, James Laidlaw; Streetsville, Arnold Stewart; Port Credit, H. A. Clarke.

Other appointments made during the session were: Commissioners for House of Refuge, John Willis, W. J. Beatty; Advisory Agricultural Board, Elgin Laughlin, George Downey, Martin Byrne; Board of Criminal Audit, Judge B. F. Justin, Reeve W. J. Beatty, Brampton, W. J. Beatty, accountant; representative on hospital board, E. W. McCulloch.

Rev. W. T. McCree, Streetsville has been elected Moderator of the Toronto Presbytery of Presbyterian Church, which includes Toronto and suburban area.

A nomination meeting will be held on Monday evening Feb. 16th, at half past seven, at the Town Hall to nominate a person to fill the vacancy on the Public School Board. If it is necessary, an election will be held on the following Monday.

A sedan car with license number B1925, was stolen in Toronto on Wednesday. It was reported last night at midnight to Constable E. J. Rutledge, who located the stolen machine at 8.30 this morning. Pretty quick work for the local Chief of Police. When there is anything stolen he is the man to find it.

The W.M.S. held a good meeting on Tuesday. Mrs. J. D. Steen gave a very able explanation on Social Life in Japan, from the Study Book, Mrs. Rev. Lnndy took the Devotional part. Miss Mabel Graydon then favored with a solo. Report of the Presbyterial Convention was given Mrs. Caslor and Mrs. Andrew.

The Village Council did not accept any of the tenders submitted at the meeting Monday night and are advertising again. They seem to want one man to fill all positions and keep him on the job steady. A new exciter, to cost $340.00, will be bought for the power house. Reeve Hope is now advocating that the C.P.R. water tank be raised 40 feet instead of 20, in order to secure sufficient pressure. The higher the tank is raised, the greater the cost. Raising it 40 feet, we are told, would cost nearly three times that of raising it 20 feet, because of the extra heavy supports necessary and it would also require a new pump.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara, in order to get the money to send her brother Martin, to Germany, to study medicine, agrees to Christopher Steynes' proposition. She is to act the part of Steynes' wife in order to discourage the attentions of a Russian countess and her daughter, Steynes being a bachelor. Mary tells her folks she is going on a business trip for her boss, Gordon Rountree. She gets off the train at Burlingame and meet Chris. The countess is discouraged. She is staying overnight at Steynes' house; a burglar breaks in; Chris shoots him; police take Mary's name and address. Mary returns home, only to find that she has fallen in love with Steynes.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Sunday was a long nightmare to Mary Kate. She went through the usual routine of rushing to early Mass, returning to leisurely breakfast, a minute inspection of the voluminous morning paper, and a comfortable, luxurious, formal toilet, like a woman under a spell.

In the first place, there was the horror of fear lest her name be connected with the story of the Steynes' burglary. The evening papers had had mere outlines of the story. This morning's, to her infinite relief, had little more. A young housebreaker had been shot, in the Bersinger hacienda at Burlingame, by Christopher Steynes, of New York, who had rented it for two months. Mr. Steynes was not held; the thief, one Tony Moody, was in the City and County Hospital, not expected to live. He was supposedly one of a gang that had been ravaging the Peninsula homes during the past three months. Steynes, whose original plan had been to sail on the Maru on the eleventh, might be delayed until a later steamer. That was all.

In another part of the paper Mary Kate found a social item. Countess Katya Yarnowska, and her daughter, Countess Marka, were leaving for New York and Paris today. The two Russian noblewomen, distant cousins of the late Tsar, had been much entertained during their short stay in San Francisco.

She asked Tom, when he came home from "ten," to bring her the other morning paper. In it she found practically the same account, and the sick fear in her heart abated a little. But in this second paper was a picture of Chris, in polo regalia, with a pony's head looking over his shoulder, and the agony of her feeling for him, her jealousy, her longing, her hunger to see him and hear him, rushed over her in a deluge. A trembling restlessness seized her, not to leave her for the entire day.

Cass came, and was wonderful and they walked in spring sunshine again, and again looked at empty apartments. Mary Kate heard and saw nothing, except the echoes in her own heart. The tones of a spoiled quick arrogant voice were ringing there, the memory of a sunburned face under fair hair, of a long brown hand with brisk aristocratic fingers, was always before her eyes.

Sometimes she wanted to hurry Cass along. They ought to get home; someone might telephone. At other times she lagged languidly beside him, hoping that every man whose figure came into view, up or down some quiet vista of Sunday streets, might be Chris. Oh, to meet him—

"Do you like it, darling?"

"It's lovely."

"And can you see yourself in a kitchen apron, giving your old man his coffee, in this little breakfast alcove?"

She looked, unseeing, from a window in the empty kitchen that smelled of pipes. The street below—persons walking there—an angle of the Marina, and the boy. And beyond the bay, the green outlines of the Sausalito hills, and the benign heights of Mount Tamalpais.

"Imagine looking out at a bay from your kitchen window!"

"You like this, then?"

Cass was eager, happy. Mary Kate thought that it was already four o'clock; they would surely be home at five. And when they arrived there Mother might say that someone had telephoned: "It was a man, Mary Kate." Or Chris would some tomorrow into Gordon Rountree's office, where they had first met.

Supper was a dream, the evening only vague shadows. But during another long night Mary Kate was wide awake, tossed and tortured by a pouring river of thoughts, half finished, half assimilated, crossing and recrossing each other like thoughts in delirium.

She could not touch her breakfast; the morning in the office was long expectation. Chris did not come in.

Gordon Rountree did, that afternoon at about two o'clock.

"Everything all right?" he asked, ignoring the senior Delaney, who was painstakingly making entries in a ledger.

"Oh, yes, thank you!" Mary Kate answered in a subdued voice. Her face had flushed a deep red.

"Mr. Steynes hasn't heard anything more of the affair," her employer said, significantly. "Won't probably. He sails next Sunday."

Next Sunday. Six days. The whole world went black. Her heart began to hammer painfully. Chris would be gone forever in six little days, and she was powerless to hold him.

She looked at the telephone. Where could she find him at half-past two o'clock on a sunshiny Monday afternoon? He might be playing polo or golf, or he might be driving somewhere in the spectacular Serano with the four-note horn. He was rich he was popular, filled with plans in which she had not, and never could have, any part.

When four o'clock came, and five o'clock Mary Kate thought she would die of sheer loneliness and heartsickness.

She dragged home. Dinner was ashes, plaster of Paris and sawdust again. Voices were vague in her ears. Her heart beat hard, her senses hummed, she was restless, impatient, wanting to break her cup frantically, instead of placing it gently in the saucer, wanting to get up and scream, instead of answering the family questions in her usual one. After dinner she stepped out into the backyard, and looked up at the early stars. Her two hands she pressed frantically against her heart.

"This is awful!" Mary Kate said panting. She thought of the telephone inside the house behind her. What number should she call, to get Christopher Steynes? The need of his voice tore at her, the hunger for his presence made her feel sick and weak.

She imagined herself at the telephone.

"Hello. Is Mr. Steynes there?"

"This is he speaking."

"Oh, Chris, this is Mary."

He called her "Mary." It sounded like a new name, different from any other name, as he said it, Mary. It was a beautiful name.

Then what would he say? What else could he say except, "Did you want to see me?"

And what else could she say but "No"? It would be dangerous to see him. Mother, Mart, Cass would all be puzzled by her following up any such friendship.

She quivered from head to foot. She put her hands over her face, and bowed her body backward and forward under the soft spring night sky, her breath whistling as it came and went. Her mouth was dry, and her hands cold.

"I can't stand this!" said Mary Kate. She had a longing to tell her big brother, to be "said by Mart," as the family always was.

But a telegram from Mart, received that day, had said, "Having fine time, home Wednesday or Thursday." No hope there.

And Chris would sail on Saturday.

Cass came out, laughing to find her among the empty barrels and clotheslines, and put his arm about her.

"Hello, sweet! Whatcha doing out here all alone?"

"L—l—looking up at the stars, Cass. It's so lovely out."

Her heart was suffocating her. Not being Chris, he was nothing, he was nobody. His kiss meant nothing; she was out of his arms restlessly, before she was fairly in them.

The huge bulk of the apartment houses behind the O'Hara home was marked into rising tiers of lighted windows now; little blocks and angles of gold rose fairy-castlewise in the young darkness. The air was sweet and languid and tired tonight; windows everywhere were open, and voices and snatches of laughter, and the whining of phonographs pierced the night.

Cass and Mary Kate followed the wooden path to the side fence, and hung there, staring at the side street. The great cigarette sign loomed and flashed and faded, off to the north, and the footsteps and the chatter of passers-by were sharp in the mottled glare and shadow. Some were hurrying to church, for Lenten services, and some moving even faster toward the skating rinks and dance pavilions of Sutter street. A movie theatre, a few blocks away, sent banners and darts of red light up into the dark, and at the drugstore corner a little serpent ran tirelessly about an illuminated pestle and mortar.

Mary Kate could remember leaning on this old fence ever since she could remember anything; tonight Cass put his arm about her. She stirred uneasily under his embrace.

"Something the matter tonight, dear?"

She was frantic. Suddenly everything fell to pieces; she could not help it, it had to come.

"Oh, Cass—I have to tell you. We can't—I don't want to be married, dear! Listen. I like you—terribly. But I don't want to get married—"

She spaced the last words, giving them emphasis. She had turned to face him now, and had put an imploring hand on his shoulder.

A Cat Pays Its Debt

By Adrian Anderson in "Our Dumb Animals".

The family of Luke H. Denton, of Birmingham, Ala., will have occasion to be eternally glad that they have long and consistently followed the practice of being kind to animals.

Three months ago a tiny kitten, thin and bedraggled, made its appearance at the Denton home and won its way into the hearts of the entire household. It was fed and tenderly cared for and given the name of "Fluff."

One night recently, Denton was awakened shortly after midnight by a thumping against the door that led to the kitchen, followed by cries of a creature in peril and fear. Groping his way through the darkness, he opened the kitchen door and was greeted with a blast of smoke and heat. The kitchen and breakfast room were ablaze.

Denton rushed his wife and two children out of doors and telephoned the fire department. Then he sought Fluff.

Just inside the flaming kitchen, he found the tiny pet, but, alas, it was dead. Suffocation had taken its toll.

Does Man Really Tame Jungle Cats?

Trainer Challenges Death When Tigers and Lions, Sworn Enemies, Are in Same Act

The trainer had turned his back on thirty-two assorted lions and tigers to receive his ovation from the public with the gallant comportment proper to a cat man.

For this was the grand finale, the triumphal climax of his act. Armed only with a whip, a light chair, and a pistol loaded with blanks, and armored less than a half-back or a baseball catcher, he had put his writhing, spitting, and snarling monsters through their paces—with many a by-play of hot rebellion—until now they had been driven into their tawny pyramid of flaming resentment.

For the man behind the bars it was the most critical moment of the whole performance. Facing the applauding audience with chivalric gestures, he could no longer see the big cats. But the "terrible, strained expression of horror on the face of a youngster, about ten years old, in the first row of reserved seats" served as a warning that something was wrong behind him.

The story is told in Field and Stream, by Paul Brown, under the title, "Working the Jungle Cats." Mr. Brown quotes the cat man, Clyde Beatty, as relating that the boy's expression inspired him to drop in his tracks and pull his revolver, and he added:

One of the tigresses had leaped for me, and shot past as I dropped.

I held the rest of the cats and drove her back. The crowd thought it was a splendid way to close the act—but of them all, only that boy perceived the danger sufficiently to transmit it to me by his features.

All my helpers outside the arena told me afterward that they had shouted to me when they saw the tigress crouching for her leap, but I failed to hear them.

Beatty, an American stripling not long out of college, is described as "a most personable young fellow," and Mr. Brown adds:

He works more lions and tigers than any other animal trainer in America at the present time—for the entertainment of the patrons of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus—and is an excellent example of the type of man in his hazardous profession.

Twice a day he enters the great steel arena in the circus tent with eight lions, six lionesses, nine tigers, and nine tigresses, all but a few of which had been captured when full grown and are really tamed wild beasts—"tamed" being a relative term, of course.

It is not generally known that lions and tigers entertain a perpetual and undying hatred for each other, which is far more intense than the animosity which exists between cats and dogs, but this is so.

To fill an arena with a mixture of them is probably the most dangerous element of the act.

With both sexes represented, the danger is greatly aggravated, yet this is rarely realized by the spectators.

Of the third weapon in the cat man's armament, we are told:

The chair, carried in his left hand, is intended to fend off a charging cat. If hard pressed by the feline fury, Beatty releases the chair; and as it is such a hollow, futile sort of thing, the animal generally loses its interest in it and does what it was expected to do at first—largely because it has done that thing so many times before. The whip carried in his right hand with the revolver, is a very real whip, a typical Australian bull-whip—but utterly useless as a defensive weapon.

The cat man confessed to his interrogator that "most of the cats come into the arena pretty lively," explaining further that "they are usually angry and resentful, for the handling they get when they are driven from their own cages (which place they have come to realize as a safe haven) is not always gentle. However:

Please understand me; neither is it brutal, but a reluctant cat must be made to obey and behave.

The act can not wait because Fatima gets sullen or because Rajah stops to snarl defiance at a rival.

Prodded every inch of the way, they move through the chute, sometimes struggling furiously to combat their fancied and elusive enemies behind them.

Fatima is nearly always difficult to handle. Twice she sulked briefly in the end of the chute, and finally made a terrific leap into the arena at me, crashing into the bars at the rear. The first time I didn't expect it, and escaped only because she hit a high hurdle at the very top of her flight. The second time I was ready.

Are the big cats trained to appear ferocious for the sake of the thrill? Beatty answered that question by telling a story.

One of the features of my act which always receives a tremendous burst of applause from the crowd is the apparent cowing of a big Nubian lion, after it has cornered and disarmed me, by the last resort of staring it into submission.

The lion suddenly charges, striking viciously. To be perfectly frank, I assist in the disarming process by deliberately releasing the chair when it is struck. The whip and pistol are sent flying from my grasp by another lunge.

I have backed against the bars—can retreat from the roaring fury no farther. Then I stop the lion's charge by suddenly taking a step toward him, leaning forward until my face is within a foot of his own, and staring him into submission.

I have yet to see the time when his eyes have not been baleful, but Nero stops; his roars drop to snarls, and finally cease entirely. He shakes his head in apparent baffled rage and discomfiture, slowly backs afay, and slinks to his pedestal.

While I am doing that there are from six to fifteen other cats prowling around the arena at perfect liberty to do as they please. I wouldn't dare take my attention from Nero, no matter what happened.

The Dogs of Great Britain

The Minister of Agriculture has issued an order, operative as from July 1, 1930, which is of great importance to dog owners.

It requires that every dog, while on a highway or in a place of public resort, shall wear a collar with the name and address of the owner inscribed on the collar or on a plate or badge attached thereto.

It seems probable that the order, which applies throughout Great Britain, will be more strictly enforced than the local regulations have been, and it behooves every dog-owner to comply with its provisions.—The Animals' Friend.

Two fellows who had been dining rather well were in the mood for a ridiculous wager. "I'll bet you," said one, solemnly, "that the first words my wife says when I get home tonight are 'My dear'." "And I'll bet you a fiver," said the other, promptly, "that she won't say 'My dear'." They proceeded towards the first man's home. He knocked at the door and a head appeared at the window above. "My dear——" began the man. His long-suffering wife interrupted with "'My dear' be hanged. Wait till you come inside."

Wireless programmes can now be enjoyed by the passengers on one express train between London and Leeds on payment of one shilling for the use of headphones.

102 million more cups of Salada tea were consumed in 1930 than in 1929 by the people of Canada.

Banker Claims Dominion Will Recover First

A. W. Austin Says Depression Has Affected Canada Least of All

Toronto—"Notwithstanding all adverse happenings, Canada has suffered less during the past 18 months than almost any other country and will recover more quickly," said A. W. Austin, president of the Dominion Bank of Canada, in the course of his address at the sixtieth annual meeting of the shareholders of the bank recently held here.

Mr. Austin referred to the soundness of the Canadian banking system and the adaptability of branch bank service to the Dominion's limited and scattered population. The president dealt exhaustively with agricultural conditions, especially in the prairie provinces, and urged the extension of mixed farming operations.

C. A. Bogert, vice-president and general manager, in his address dealt with the cause of shrinking grain prices and referred to the return of Russia as an exporter. The speaker pointed out that the shrinking of grain prices was largely due to the policy of European countries, formerly importers, in increasing their own output and placing prohibitive tariffs on foreign wheat.

Dealing with the question whether gold shortage is the root cause of the world's difficulties as many authorities assert, Mr. Bogert said: "Undoubtedly a shortage exists and the accumulation of over 50 per cent. of the insufficient total stock in the hands of two countries works to the detriment of others."

FARM PROBLEMS

Conducted by Prof. Henry G. Bell, Dept. of Chemistry, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph

The following are some questions and answers for our column:—

G.B.J.—Could you give me the average weights at three month periods of a growing calf off the beef breeds until it was thirty months old? Say one born the first of May and also one born the first of October. I have the figures for yearly periods but they don't give the information I want.

Ans.—Calves vary a great deal in their rate of growth, particularly as there are so many different ways of handling calves of the beef breeds. A great deal depends on how the calf is used during the summer, as most calves that are kept in the stable and fed well during the winter will lose considerable weight during the first few summer months. The first three months 'average daily gain would be around .93 pounds; the second three months' average gain would be around 1.4 pounds; the third three months' average gain would be around 1.45 pounds; the fourth three months' average daily gain 1.5 pounds; the fifth three months' average daily gain 1.7 pounds; the sixth thre months' average daily gain 1.75 pounds; the seventh three months' average daily gain 1.75 pounds; the eighth three months' average daily gain 1.6 pounds; the ninth three months' average daily gain 1.6 pounds; and the tenth three month's average daily gain 1.5 pounds. (Answered by J. C. Steckley, Prof. of Animal Husbandry).

J.W.D.—(1) Would you advise applying fertilizer on a potato crop before planting? In using 1000 lbs. per acre would it not be advisable to apply say 600 lbs. broadcast three or four days before planting and the remaining 400 lbs. with the planter?

Ans.—The Department of Chemistry is carrying on experiments regarding amounts and placing of fertilizers when applied to potato crops. The indication so far seems to be that fertilizers placed on the level to underneath the hill of potatoes gives best results. However, the experiment has not been conducted long enough to give definite answer under various conditions. If one could tell the type of weather that was likely to prevail the answer would be simpler. For instance, in a wet summer fertilizers placed from the level to above the hill give better results than those below, while the reverse is the case in a dry period.

Your contention does not seem to be borne out by experiments elsewhere as to the advisability of broad casting part of the fertilizer when an application of 1000 lbs. per acre or more is to be made. Maine Experiment Station and New Jersey Experiment Station both have long time experiments on this point and both have reached the same conclusion, that up to 1500 lbs. to the acre equally good results are obtained by applying all of the fertilizer with a good potato planter having fertilizer attachment, rather than broadcasting part of the fertilizer as you have suggested. However, when one looks at the question from the broader viewpoint as to the effect of the fertilizer on the following crops in the rotation, the answer is obvious. If all of the fertilizer is confined to rows the effect will certainly be a ridged grain crop following the potato crop. Investigations show that the lateral root growth of potatoes is very rapid and quite extensive. This too would point to the advisibility of handling the heavy application of fertilizer the way you have suggested.

(2) What advantage has an organic fertilizer over a chemical fertilizer?

Ans.—Fertilizers carrying nitrogen or any other ingredient in organic form are generally claimed to be superior in their physical effect upon the soil. That is to say they are supposed to act like humus from plant sources, adding to the water-holding capacity of the soil and improving its condition for bacterial growth. If the amount of organic matter in the fertilizer is considerable, this contention will have some weight. Much of the nitrogen supplied in organic carriers has to wait for bacterial action before it is liberated, hence the action of the organic carriers is prolonged beyond that of the purely mineral carriers. The nitrogen in each case is the same element that is supplied by both mineral and organic carriers, hence the rapidness with which it is available will determine the suitability of the carrier of nitrogen in the fertilizers for the crops on which they are to be used.

Success in Life

I believe success in life is within the reach of all who set before them an aim, and an ambition that is not beyond the talents and ability which God has bestowed upon them. We should all begin life with a determination to do well whatever we take in hand, and if that determination is adhered to with the pluck for which Englishmen are renowed, success, according to the nature and quality of our brain power, is, I think, a certainty. The first step on the ladder that leads to success is the firm determination to succeed; the next is the possession of that moral and physical courage which will enable one to mount up rung after rung, until the top is reached. —Lord Wolsey.

Danger of Curiosity

There is boundless danger in all inquiry which is merely curious. When a man brings a clear and practised intellect to try questions, by the answer to which he does not mean to rule his conduct, let him not marvel if he feels, as life goes on, a sense of desolation, existence a burden, and all uncertain. It is the law of his human nature which binds him; for truth is for the heart rather than the intellect.—Dr. Newman.

A GREAT THOUGHT

A solitary thought of a great thinker will dwell in the minds of men for centuries, until at length it works itself into their daily life and practice. It lives on through the ages, speaking as a voice from the dead, and influencing minds living thousands and honorably won.—Smiles.

RESPECT

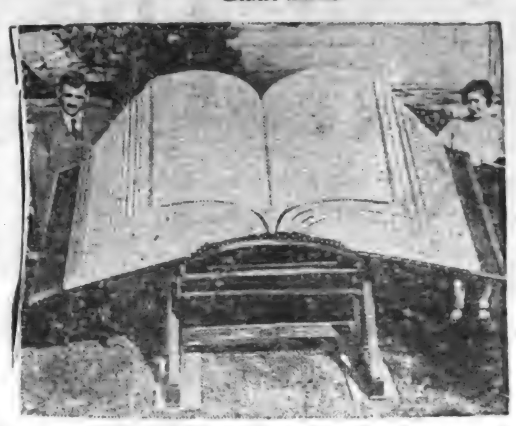
Respect is better procured by exacting than soliciting for it.—Greville.

"And you really believe that Helen's marriage was an affair of the heart?"

"Of course I do. She was led to believe that the rich old duffer she married had a weak heart."

A GOOD LEGACY.

Two or three things I commend to you:—Keep yourself in the full air of the world and play your part in the world's affairs.



Always study rather than be passive.

Do not be so unreasonable as to expect more from life in the world than life in the world is capable of giving.—John Stuart Mill's Legacy to Mr. John Morley, handed on to Edinburgh University.

A PRIZE.

The high prize of life, the crowning fortune of a man, is to be born to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness—whether it be to make baskets or broadswords, or canals, or statues, or songs.

Sunday School Lesson

February 8. Lesson VI—Jesus the World's Teacher—Luke 6: 27-42. Golden Text—As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.—Luke 6: 31.

ANALYSIS

I. THE ROYAL LAW, Luke 6: 27-34.
II. GOD'S EXAMPLE, Luke 6: 35, 36.
III. CHRISTIAN STANDARDS, Luke 6: 27-42.

I. THE ROYAL LAW, Luke 6: 27-34.

INTRODUCTION—Paul often contrasts Judaism and Christianity in this way: Judaism, he says, is a religion of law, Christianity of freedom. He regarded Jesus Christ as the great Liberator, in contrast with Moses, the law-giver. Yet here, and in other passages, we we have what is called "the royal law" of Christ. There is no real contradiction. The scribes and Pharisees sought to lay down a rule for every occasion of human life; their code was elaborate, fussy, impossible for many people to obey. Jesus, on the other hand, laid down great principles, sometimes in the form of general rules (such as "love your enemies"), sometimes in the form of particular illustrations (such as, "if your enemy smite you on the one cheek, turn to him the other also"). Whereas, then, the scribes and Pharisees sought to give men a map, indicating every detail of the way, Jesus gave men a compass, and bade them guide their steps by this compass and the stars.

We are not to apply these commands of Jesus, therefore, clumsily, and by rule of thumb; it is the spirit, not the letter, which is binding. For instance, under modern social conditions is may not be Christian to give to every beggar who coms to our door, without asking any questions. On the other hand, we must be careful not to water down the commands of Jesus till they become easy and insipid. In studying his teaching, our task is threefold; first, we must try to understand what his words meant to his hearers, then what principle underlies them, and third, what is their application to our own conditions and duties.

II. GOD'S EXAMPLE, Luke 6: 35, 36.

The fundamental principle underlyiny the teaching seems to be expressed in verse 35. It comes to this: we are to treat others as God has treated us. Jesus' thoughts of God and of duty are intimately associated. God is the Father who sends his sun and rain to bless the just and the unjust; he is as good to the thankless as to the thankful; he treats his children, then, not according to their need. We, therefore, are to treat our neighbors, not according to their deserts, but their needs, as God has treated us. This is the great principle of Christian justice. What our enemies need of us, what beggars need, what sinners need is our love, and we must be willing to do for them whatever love demands. Love implies that whatever may be the needs, or troubles, or sins of our neighbors, we treat them as brothers, and seek their highest good.

III. CHRISTIAN STANDARDS, Luke 6: 27-42.

V. 27. "Your enemies," to a Jew, would naturally mean "the Romans," though private enemies might be included. One reason why Jesus was rejected and repudiated by his people was that he would have nothing to do with their hatred of the Romans, and their longing to be at their enemies' throats. Loving our enemies must include loving our national enemies. Is loving our enemies consistent with a soldier's duties?

V. 28. Christians are to pray for their persecutors, for those who swindle them and tell false tales about them. They must treat people in the same spirit in which they pray for them.

V. 29. Amongst the Jews a contemptuous pat on the cheek was regarded as a deadly insult.

V. 30. Giving alms to beggars was, in Palestine, almost the only available means of "social service."

V. 32. The word translated "thank" implies that there should always be something "extra," something beyond what the world expects in the friendliness of Christians.

V. 34. "To receive again as much" means to get their capital back. Jews might not charge one another interest on loans.

V. 35. We must show kindness for love's sake, not to get a reward; but goodness is rewarded all the same.

Vs. 37, 38. Either others will treat you as you treat them, or God will treat you as you treat others.

Vs. 39, 40. You must learn before you can teach; even when you are teachers, you, like your Master, must not judge and condemn.

Vs. 41, 42. Jesus must have smiled when he said, "You must cast the great timber out of your eye before you can see to take the splinter out of your brother's"

Vs. 43, 44. The Christian life is not obeying rules, but having love in your heart, and letting love naturally express itself.

The Lure of the North

When once you have lived in the North Land,
The farther away you may roam,
The lure of the place becomes stronger,
Caressingly calling you home.

In the midst of a host of allurements,
You wistfully yearn for the land
Where the people are lovers of freedom
And the heart is as free as the land.

There the vastness so grandly unfolded,
In a blending of valley and hill,
Expandeth the mind that beholds it
And imparteth its strength to the will.

But when duty decrees the location
You have nothing to do but obey
The peremptory voice of vocation
Until wishing may hasten the day.

When you may once again see the North Land,
And once again breathe its clear air;
Companion again with its grandeur
And the folks who live happily there.

Principal, Columbian College,

Curtained Effect For the Coiffure

Hair Must Assume Task of Softening Face Now That the Skull-Cap is the Fashion

Hair and face are assuming a new character in the present-day style; theirs is the leading role in the drama of fashion, since hats that retreat to the back of the head leave them ruthlessly exposed to the spotlight. The mode forbids brims to cast a gracious shadow across the brow, or to dimly veil the eyes. The task of softening the face is left to the hair.

To meet the style in toques, berets and cloches, the hair should be parted in the middle or on the side and brought down to the ears in close waves that curtain the forehead. The manner is suggestive of that used by our grandmothers, only it has twentieth-century verve and seductiveness rather than mid-Victorian dignity and sedateness.

Gone are the vivid make-ups of yesterday. They have given way to a subtler form of maquillage. That gentle art lays a lighter touch on the face—because it is without protection from the uncompromising daylight—and works with, rather than against, the gifts of nature. The well-groomed woman buys powders that blend with her skin, and uses rouge and lipstick to accentuate, not exaggerate, the red of her cheeks and lips.

And—so "cosmeticians" tell us—increasing atention is being paid to enhancement of the eyes. There are a dozen or more shades of eye pencils that place tenuous shadows over the lids. They must be used with taste and discretion to bar detection, and must be suited to the color of the eyes as carefully as powder is to the complexion. It is even said that the eye shadow can be made to harmonize with the shade of the hat, as if the later cast the most delicate of reflections over the lid.

No Wonder!

It was the strong man's turn. He took a lemon and with a pencil pushed holes in it. He then squeezed out the juice.

"This lemon is now dry," he said, "and I will give twenty-five pounds to anyone who is able to get another drop out of it."

A small, meek man came forward, and taking a grip of the lemon squeezed a few drops out of it.

"You win," said the strong man; "but what do you work at?"

"I'm a clerk at the Income Tax Department."

Dog Burrows for Bone, Uncovers Whale Fossils

San Diego, Calif.—The attempts of a small dog to dig up a bone on the ocean sands have led natural scienists of the O'Rourke Zoological Institute here to uncover the fossilized remains of a whale they say they believe swam in the Pacific 500,000 years ago.

The scientists established a camp on the ocean front at Pacific Beach and completed excavation work begun when the dog exposed part of the skeleton.

Paraffin Guards Hens' Feet in Wet Weather

Edmonds, Wash.—Applying waterproofing to the feet of his chickens, a poultry and egg dealer here has experimented in making them immune to wet weather.

Each fowl's feet were dipped into paraffin, mixed with glycerine. Enough of the oil remained on the feet to ensure dry toes for two weeks. A careful check on the hens after feeding on wet and muddy fields showed there was no ill effect from the waxed preparation. They appeared not to be aware of the coating.

That observation which is called knowledge of the world will be found much more frequently to make men cunning than good.—Dr. Johnson.

Toronto and Ontario recently honored their Grand Old Man of railroading, William Fulton, assistant general passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Toronto, who had completed 40 years' service with the company. He was guest of honor at the Royal York Hotel at a banquet given in his honor by his fellow-officers of the company to celebrate the occasion.

Letters pour into the radio department of the Canadian Pacific Railway daily in connection with the "Melody Mike' feature every Monday night. One lady, writing from Vulcan, Alta., says in part :— "There were six in my house listening to the broadcast and I know of at least a dozen other radios that were tuned in. . . . I am writing to say how much we enjoyed your broadcast."

Postal history repeated itself February 2, when an air mail service between Winnipeg and Pembina, North Dakota, on the international boundary, was put into effect by the Canadian Postal Department. Pembina was linked up with Winnipeg, then Fort Garry, in 1857 through the United States mail service. The prairie airmail postal service will be extended by the Federal Government in the near future.

At the fifth corn show held recently under the auspices of the Saskatchewan Corn Growers' Association, one of the finest exhibits of corn in the history of Western Canada was on display. The show was held in preparation for the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference at Regina in 1932, and many entries in the corn classes of the latter may be expected from the farmers of Western Canada. A total of $19,000 is being offered in cash prizes in the different classes for corn.

Snowshoers from many parts of Canada and the United States gathered at Quebec City at the end of January to participate in the 18-mile Snowshoers Marathon and International Championship Races. The Mayor of Quebec held a reception for the ladies' clubs at the Chateau Frontenac where a Canadian supper was later served to the visitors. The Chateau Frontenac was also headquarters of the officials throughout the convention, which included ice canoe races on the St. Lawrence and exhibitions on Dufferin Terrace.

BUY EQUIPMENT TO CLEAR ROADS

County council accepted the unanimous recommendation from the Good Roads Committee to purchase equipment to keep the county roads clear of snow in the shape of a 35-h.p. tractor and a hydraulic snowplow. The total cost is $6,091, on which the county will turn in a used tractor, the actual cost to the county, with the Government grant reckoned off, being $2,040.

Various councillors stressed the necessity for keeping county roads open on account of the general use of trucks and automobiles, and J. H. Pinchin, chairman of the Good Roads Committee, declared that times are hard enough for the farmer without causing him to stand by the side of an unopened road with trucks carrying his milk and other produce with no prospect of getting that produce to market.

Messrs. Mellow and Harper, representing the Albion and Bolton Agricultural Society, asked for $45 refund on the change in the location of the entrance to the fair Grounds, caused by the grading of the new road into the village, and also for the price of one-third of an acre taken in the widening of the road, at $100 per acre.

Col. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, paid a visit to council, giving an outline of the work being undertaken by his department with a view to making it easier for the farmer to produce more on the same land, with less overhead.

HABITS

Our habits are important because they have much to do with making life easier or happier for us. Habits and actions which, because of frequent repetition, we perform without thinking of what we are doing.

Children acquire habits at a very early age. It is just as easy for them to establish right habits as wrong ones. The habits which a child acquires are the result of the training which he has received from his parents. The child who has bad habits is not to be blamed. He is what he is as a result of the training his parents have given him, and if anyone is at fault, it is the parents, not the child.

Training must begin at birth. The baby who is fed regularly by the clock develops the habit of taking his food at regular hours. The child who is picked up and fed every time he cries will soon become a crying baby, demanding attention at all hours. This habit which he has been allowed to develop is bad for the baby, hard on the parents and annoying to everyone else.

The child who kicks and screams does so because he has found out from past experience that when he indulges in one of his temper tantrums he gets what he wants. It is his method of gaining his own way. If he is ignored and not given his own way, the outbursts soon cease.

Comforts are most undesirable. They are a menace to health and are apt to deform the mouth and teeth. Suckling a comfort is simply a bad habit. There is no reason why a child should have something in his mouth all the time.

The child is not a small adult. We should not try to make "little men" and "little women" out of our children. and they should be encouraged to play.

We wish to point out to parents that they, without interfering with the child's life, can train him in proper habits which will help him to enjoy life and keep him strong and well.

During childhood, it is necessary that the child be prepared for the adult years which lie ahead of him. Children establish habits easily, and childhood is the best time for establishing good habits. The child who has good habits is healthier and happier than the child whose habits are faulty. Life for him and for his parents is easier and better.

It is not an easy matter to train a child, and parents should take time to prepare themselves for their difficult and important work of child training.

EBENEZER SHORT COURSE NEWS

Over 140 boys and girls braved the sleet storm on January 30th to attend the Closing Exercises of the Ebenezer Short Courses. The Castlemore Women's Institute served a dainty and wholesome luncheon in the Claireville Community Hall. A false ceiling of pink and green paper matched the menus and serviettes.

Presentation of prizes to the winners were made by Miss A. E. Wise, Home Demonstrator and R. S. Duncan, Director of Agricultural Representative in Ontario.

Boys' Winners—First in General Proficiency, Bert Jefferson; second in General Proficiency, Eldred Johnston; third in General Proficiency, Clarke Peters; best kept note book, George Fulford.

Girls' winners—first in General Proficiency, Ann Lindsay; first in Home Nursing, Elsie Elliott; first in Sewing, Reta Robinson; first in Domestic Science, Dorothy Farr; best kept note book, Pearl Kitchener.

The boys also presented Walter Dalziel with a cheque for looking after their comfort in the Toronto Gore Township Hall during January. Presentations were also made to each teacher by the students.

James C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative acted as toastmaster to a lengthy program. Toasts were made by the following: Nelson Lindsay, Fred McBride, Florence Elliott, Rankin Kellam, Miss Ina Onslow, Ken. Crews, Clara Kellam, Reta Robinson, Mrs. E. Dalziel.

The boys' and girls' class papers were read by Albert Barker and Dorothy Shaw. They summarized the subjects taken up and also supplied the local news and personals of the classes. Orchestra selections, class songs and yells filled in between toasts, to make the closing exercises a success.

R. S. Duncan, Toronto, responded to the toast to Agriculture proposed by Nelson Lindsay, Ex-reeve of Toronto Gore. Mr. Duncan stated for the first time Short Courses were being held in every county in Ontario this year. The Ebenezer Short Courses had the largest enrolment of boys and girls and also had a higher average attendance than any other county. He complimented the classes on the enthusiasm and interest shown. Hon. T. L. Kennedy sent his regrets at not being able to be present owing to an engagement in London.

"Hello mother — yes, I'm feeling fine — yes, we won . . . I scored two goals."

It has come to be a habit with Fred to call his mother by Long Distance after every game. For mother is all alone . . . and she worries about him . . . ever since Fred's chum had his leg broken in a game early in the season.

The cost is a mere trifle, for the low night rates are always in effect after the game — they begin at 8.30 p.m. And it makes a pleasant break in mother's quiet life . . . and gives her some news to tell her friends. Long Distance is now quick and dependable. In most cases the connection is established while you hold the line. Evening and night rates are particularly inexpensive. In fact night rates are little more than half of the day rates.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m.

Frank Leavens, proprietor of the Bolton Enterprise, was operated on for appendicitis at the Toronto General Hospital recently and is recovering nicely.

Mrs. Annie Curliss passed away at Bolton at the age of 90 years. She was the mother of Rev. T. O. Curliss, a former Rector of Trinity Church, Streetsville.

E. House of Dixie fell and broke a leg while playing at school and his sister, while shopping in Toronto Junction slipped on some ice and broke a blood vessel.

Mrs. William Wellwood, aged 64 years, who lived at Britannia for the past eight months, passed away last week. The funeral took place to Prospect Cemetery, Toronto.

The North Trafalgar Community club intend holding a dance on Friday, Feb. 13th, in Streetsville. Martin-Ramsay Orchestra. Present your invitation at the door.

Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon of Bloor St. United Church, Toronto was the special speaker at the United Church Banquet, Cooksville, Tuesday evening.

Cooksville has a few cases of Scarlet Fever.

P. Blackburn was fined $10 and costs and R. Merritt $15 and costs, for assaulting Acton hockey players at Georgetown, during a game held recently. Magistrate McIlveen of Oakville tried the case.

Mrs. Hustler, residing with her daughter, Mrs. S. Cordingley, 9th line, Trafalgar was taken to the Brampton Memorial Hospital on Saturday, suffering from appendicitis. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The Women's Association of the United Church, held their annual Valentine tea in the Sunday School Room of the church on Tuesday afternoon. A beautiful programme was given, followed by a dainty supper, it was well patronized and the proceeds were very gratifying.

Two hockey teams from Streetsville High School visited Milton and played fast and exciting games in the arena. In the first game the Milton boys defeated the visitors by 3 to 1, and in the second the Milton girls defeated the Streetsville girls sextette by 5 to 2.

At the annual meeting of the Streetsville high school board Arnold Stewart was re-elected chairman for the third time. E. King and I. Ardagh were appointed to interview the Toronto township agricultural society with a view to securing an option on three-acre site for the proposed new high school building.

Mr. John Waterhouse of Cooksville, delighted the members of River Park Masonic Lodge with an inspiring address on the teaching of Masonry. The address showed much preparation and a depth of thought which the brethren appreciated.

SWISS BELL RINGERS WILL PLAY IN STREETSVILLE

The musical Eckardts, Swiss Bell Ringers, musicians, vocalists and comedians will appear in the theatre on Sat., Feb. 14th. The Bell Ringers have just returned from a successful tour of the West and Mr. Eckardt has engaged some new performers, including the "Murray Sisters" international dancers and vocalists. Special scenery, a ton of musical novelties, spotlights and everything. Remember the price 25c for everybody.

BRAMPTON

The annual meeting of Peel County Orange Association was held in the Orange Hall at Brampton on Tuesday, February 3rd. The election of officers resulted as follows: R. M. Lavery, C. M.; T. Nixon, D.C.M.; W. K. Westlake, Chaplan; H. R. D. Woodall, Rec.-sec.; C. Doyle, Fin.-Sec.; W. Norris, Treasurer; J. B. Guthrie, Marshall; W. Embling, First Lecturer; R. Guthrie, Second Lecturer.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The last meeting of the North Trafalgar Community Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Beatty on Feb. 3rd, when there was a good attendance. The meeting opened with our song and roll call. The President finished picking out her committees for the dance which is to be held on Friday, Feb. 13th. The meeting closed with our song. The hostess served a hot lunch, assisted by her daughter. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. E. W. Steen, on Wednesday, Feb. 18th.

ERINDALE

A story of the long ago of Streetsville was delightfully recounted by Mrs. David Ross of that village, at the February meeting of the Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. C. Jones. Mrs. G. Bunt of Streetsville, recently elected to the school board, outlined the work and responsibilities of the woman trustee. Following a paper on vocational training. Mrs. A. Adamson gave an instrumental number, and Mrs. H. McGill won a contest on songs.

A delightful get-together of the congregations of the United and Anglican churches took the form of a sleigh ride, followed by supper in the community hall. Games and contests for the children and euchre and dancing for the older generation rounded out the evening.

He had been ill for about six months and had spent part of November and December with his sister in Streetsville. He is survived by his wife, one brother, two sisters and a step daughter. The Masons held a service at the home Friday evening and the funeral was held to Rose Hill Cemetery, Linden, on Saturday, January 31st.

BUMPS and BLOWS FROM RINK AND ALLEY

By Lou Swampe

INTER-HIGH-SCHOOL EXHIBITION GAME

On Monday of this week the High School boys motored down to Cooksville and played an exhibition game against the boys of Cooksville High School.

The rink at Cooksville is very different to our local arena. There are no blue-lines, no boards along the sides or ends no room to skate around the nets and poor ice. Our boys couldn't understand the Cooksville rink and as a result they got licked 3-1. This makes the second time that Cooksville has beaten Streetsville. Once at Streetsville and once at Cooksville. The score was 3-1 each time.

From this we conclude that the Cooksville team is better than the local team (temperature and pressure remaining the same).

In a hot game on the night of Wednesday, Feb. 4th, the Caviliers met the boys from the Streetsville Collegiate at the local ice palace. After a hand-shake all round, they began to play hockey. Oh boys! (girls too, if you like), that was a game. It was wonderful.

The collegiates were feeling and looking fine. (But aren't we always?) The Cavaliers did some real hot and fast playing but despite the fact that they put forth their best efforts, the collegiates skinned them 5-3 (that is in ratio of 10-6 or 20-12 as the case may be).

The fans were certainly very scarce. Why? At the ice palace there are many real hockey games at very reasonable prices. Come on and give the boys lots of support.

Inter-High-School Exhibition Game

On Friday of last week the local High School boys and girls went to Milton Arena and met the boys and girls of Milton High School. The boys were always getting lost on the big rink, but they managed to give the Milton boys a good game. Unitt Bailey spent a good deal of his time in the penalty box. Final score, Milton 3, Streetsville 1.

Our girls (who had never played hockey before, mind you) put up a fair fight but the Milton girls beat them 5-2. After the game they all journeyed to Milton High School, where a banquet was served in the auditorium. Milton folks certainly are hospitable.

CREDITVALE DEFEATS TOWN

Displaying a real brand of stick-handling the Vale boys sprang a big surprise, and put it over the strong town team. It was close, from bell to bell, but the winners had the punch around the nets. The locals were minus subs, which made the regular line work overtime. Final score 3-2.

Broom Polo is gaining in popularity, and it is hard to get the ice to fill all the fixtures. In a hot game, Town turns the tables on the Credit boys. It was played on keen ice and many a spill was seen. Final score 5 to 4.

OFFICIALS 3, TOWN 3

The Officials certainly came back to earth Monday night, when they held the speedy town bunch to a tie. It was the fastest and best played game to date.

Russell Langmaid of the Officials was the star of the evening and it took at least two men to watch him. Fred Moss for the Town was responsible for holding the speedy Officials from running up a score. Time and again he saved the game.

Feb. 16th is the date for our big hockey tourney. This event is going to be worth while. Ted Ellis has given a beautiful cup and several teams from Toronto and town have already entered. Don't miss the treat. A full night of thrilling hockey.

Feb. 19th, is the date of the big Community Carnival. This event is going to be bigger than ever. More attractions. For costumes see Wm. Arch. See posters. Don't forget the date.

THE BIG CARNIVAL

Businessmen of Streetsville together with the Streetsville Builders' Supply Co., tendered the residents of the village and the nearby countryside a fancy dress costume carnival at the Streetsville open air rink Thursday night, with the Milton brass band supplying music.

Over 1,000 participants and spectators turned out for the affair, which will be repeated at an early date. One of the features was a broom ball game between the washerwomen and the Streetsville scalawags, the former winning 4 to 3.

Winners of the various prizes which were provided by the businessmen were: Comic entertainer, Jack Speir boys' costume, Maynard Reddick; men's comic, Chas. Rundle; men's national costume, H. Graydon; boys' colored costume, W. Arch; ladies' homemade costume, Lois Rundle; girls' costume, Dorothy Graydon; ladies, national costume, Mrs. H. Couse, ladies' costume, Nellie Behoo; lucky mocassin dance, Edith Kidd, Lena Rutledge; lucky spot, M. G. Deckhart, Lillian Church; boys' race, Geo. Schnurr, Maynard Reddick and Geo. Trimble. A great many of the merrymakers donned Indian costume for the occasion. The judges of the carnival were C. P. McArthur, W. A. Hardy and Reeve H. W. Hope.

A SOCIAL EVENING

Under the auspices of St. Joseph's church, a very successful social evening was held last Monday in the Odd Fellows Hall, Streetsville. The evening was spent in playing progressive euchre and in dancing. A very fine lunch was provided by the ladies of the church. In the euchre, the prize winners were: Ladies, 1st prize, Miss Irene McCarron; 2nd prize was equally merited by the Misses Elva McClintock of Streetsville and Rose Donnelly of Brampton. In the draw, the former won. The ladies' Consolation prize was won by Mrs. Jas. Farrell. Gents' 1st prize, Mr. Frank Burton; 2nd prize, Mr. Philip Rundle and the gents' consolation, Mr. H. Chambers. Miss Dorothy Rundle won the lucky number dance prize. The music, which was much appreciated, was furnished by Brown's Orchestra of Dixie.

S. H. S. NOTES

We sit in school and chatter
Our studies never matter
Until we see,
By holy gee,
Exams this week and after.

We settle down to work
At things we used to shirk
No more talking
No more walking
For in our wake some dangers lurk.

There's algebra with surds
And chemistry with curds
We could hold on our toe,
Everthing that we know,
About Zoology and birds.

There's that fearful law by Boyle
And what temp. the waters boil
When four o'clock comes
We go to our homes
And at arithmetic question we toil.

And then there's French and Latin
Say, folks, stop your laughin',
It sure isn't funny
And not very sunny
Why, folks, we don't know noffin.

We gotta study history hard,
And learn about the Scottish bard
Oh my, oh me
I wish I could be
Smart enough to win an award.

But we'll try to do our very best
In studious garb you'll see us drest
If you want to watch us
Just start up your bus
And come down to the S. H. S.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The Young People's Society of the United Church held their regular meeting. Monday evening, February 9. The meeting took the form of a very successful Valentine Social, under the capable leadership of Miss Ross and Miss Jean Temple. Everyone was delighted with a piano number by John Houlgrave and a violin solo by Jim Steen. A newly formed kazoo band was an added attraction. Bashfull young gentlemen and coy young ladies expressed to each other Valentine greetings in the various contests.

The Young People's Society extend to all, who are young in spirit, a hearty invitation to be present at their meetings. They plan to have an illustrated address on the Passion Play at Oberammergau, at the next regular meeting, Monday February 23.

They would ask you to remember the evening of March 17, when they plan to reveal an entirely new "Family Disturbance," and other interesting features, in the Streetsville Theatre.

County Juniors Plan for Dramatics

DRAMATIC SERIES

February 24, 25, and 26 are the dates set for the preliminary contest of the Dramatic Series. Peel Juniors are showing a good deal of enthusiasm in the coming events. Six organizations have entered, Brampton, Cheltenham, Trinity, Streetsville, Bolton and Tullamore, and each group is working under the direction of their coach. The coaches are Mrs. J. M. Dolson, W. W. Wilkinson, Mrs. E. Bryans, Rev. McCree, Mae Harper and Chas. Hewson. These plays will be run off in groups of two and will be played at Cheltenham, Streetsville and Bolton. The local group will be responsible for obtaining permission to use the hall, advertising and tickets, and arranging for program between the plays. A suitable Challenge Trophy will be donated on which the name of the winning Club will be engraved. The three high Clubs will play in a final contest in March and the competing clubs will have the option of choosing a new play or using the first one.

The office of the Department of Agriculture is responsible for obtaining three qualified neutral judges free of charge. Constructive criticism will be given.

The Dramatic Series of 1931 is replacing the Debating Series of past years, and it is almost certain that this new series will prove of interest to all the Junior organizations in the County of Peel.

STREETSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Some items taken from the Inspector's Report: The accommodations are much the same as in previous years. The heating and ventilation are quite unsatisfactory, and the lighting is poor. The provision for teaching the courses is as satisfactory as possible with the present inadequate accommodations. The attendance is 31 boys and 36 girls. All of the teaching is satisfactory. All teachers are legally qualified. Bookkeeping is not being taught.

The principal is doing very satisfactory work. He is a zealous worker and through his personality is developing a good school spirit among the pupils, although he is seriously handicapped by very poor facilities in building and accommodations.

Both assistants are giving good service and appear to have the respect and confidence of the pupils.

It is hoped that the Board may soon see its way clear to provide a new building. The students of this school are being deprived of many of the advantages which those in modern schools enjoy. Their development is, consequently, seriously retarded. The lack of a gymnasium, of an assembly hall, and of suitable laboratory accommodation are among the most serious of these defects.

A. G. HOOPER, Inspector.

Mrs. Hustler, mother of Mrs. Sol Cordingly, was taken to the Brampton hospital last Saturday for medical treatment. Mrs. Hustler, about a year ago, was seriously ill but improved sufficiently to move about quite freely. It is to be hoped this lady, who is in her 82nd year, will survive this recent illness and enjoy the beautiful weather, which is only around the corner.

A large number of Young People of the United Church, gathered on Monday evening for the regular meeting of their Association, under the Literary and Social Department, of which Miss Ruth Ross and Miss Jean Temple are conveners respectively. The programme consisted of numbers for Valentine. The large gathering enjoyed every minute. The decorations were in keeping and even the lunch had touches which were unique and a reminder of the Valentine season.

COOKSVILLE

A successful euchre was put on in the town hall by the Women's Institute, 21 tables being played. Winners were: R. S. Whaley, Thos. Stewart, Cecil D. Yates, E. Smith, Miss Armstrong, Mrs. F. W. Thomas, Mrs. Braithwaite and Miss Gladys Stewart. Mrs. R. S. Whaley received the lucky prize. The ladies made $20 out of the affair.

YOU CAN'T FOOL GOD

You can fool the general public,
You can be a subtle fraud,
You can hide your little meanness,
But you can't fool God.

You can advertise your virtues,
You can self-achievement laud,
You can load yourself with riches,
But you can't fool God!

You can criticize the Bible,
You can be a selfish clod,
You can lie, swear, drink and gamble,
But you can't fool God!

You can magnify your talent,
You can hear the world applaud,
You can boast yourself somebody,
But you can't fool God!

PUBLIC LIBRARY

The annual meeting of the Public Library Board was held Tuesday, when officers were elected: Chairman, Rev. R. J. W. Perry; Sec.-Treas., Rev. G. H. Purchase; Property Committee, Messrs. Couse, Hope and Goodison; Book Committee, Revs. McCree, Perry, and Purchase. A new filing system will be installed. During the past year the Library has been well patronized by the reading public. The new books recently added have been well received.

POULTRY COURSE FOR PEEL

A special poultry course is being put on by the Agricultural office in the Township Hall, Snelgrove, on Feb. 26th and 27th. Farmers who have small flocks, and their wives, are especially invited as poultry raising is gaining in popularity every year. In 1929 there were 327,000 hens in Peel, and last year this number increased 383,000. This increase of 56,000 hens indicates that the mixed farmers are adding to their flocks as well as the small lot owners in the south end of the County who are taking up poultry raising as a sideline.

Experts from the Poultry Dept. O. A.C. will take up diseases and their control or prevention, breeding, feeding and management, fattening and baby chick rearing. A killing and plucking demonstration will be put on also.

The Chinguacousy Township Council has kindly donated the hall in Snelgrove for the classes. James C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative will be in charge. The lectures and demonstration carry on from 9.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Everyone interested in poultry is welcome both days.

PORT CREDIT

The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Port Credit was given a pleasant surprise Sunday morning when the minister, Rev. S. Lundie, announced from the pulpit that a cheque had been received from an anonymous donor for $3,000, which would wipe out the debt remaining on the new edifice, built three years ago at an outlay of $78,000. The congregation takes pride in the achievement that the building has been paid for in that short space of time without the aid of a mortgage. At the close of Mr. Lundie's announcement the congregation rose and joined in singing the Doxology.

The firemen here held their annual ball at Clarke Hall, which was widely attended. Several novelty dances were arranged. Euchre prizes were won by Mrs. W. Cooper and R. Giddings.

And chemistry with curds
We could hold on our toe,
Everthing that we know,
About Zoology and birds.

There's that fearful law by Boyle
And what temp. the waters boil
When four o'clock comes
We go to our homes
And at arithmetic question we toil.

And then there's French and Latin
Say, folks, stop your laughin',
It sure isn't funny
And not very sunny
Why, folks, we don't know noffin.

We gotta study history hard,
And learn about the Scottish bard
Oh my, oh me
I wish I could be
Smart enough to win an award.

But we'll try to do our very best
In studious garb you'll see us drest
If you want to watch us
Just start up your bus
And come down to the S. H. S.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The Young People's Society of the United Church held their regular meeting. Monday evening, February 9. The meeting took the form of a very successful Valentine Social, under the capable leadership of Miss Ross and Miss Jean Temple. Everyone was delighted with a piano number by John Houlgrave and a violin solo by Jim Steen. A newly formed kazoo band was an added attraction. Bashfull young gentlemen and coy young ladies expressed to each other Valentine greetings in the various contests.

The Young People's Society extend to all, who are young in spirit, a hearty invitation to be present at their meetings. They plan to have an illustrated address on the Passion Play at Oberammergau, at the next regular meeting, Monday February 23.

They would ask you to remember the evening of March 17, when they plan to reveal an entirely new "Family Disturbance," and other interesting features, in the Streetsville Theatre.

County Juniors Plan for Dramatics

DRAMATIC SERIES

February 24, 25, and 26 are the dates set for the preliminary contest of the Dramatic Series. Peel Juniors are showing a good deal of enthusiasm in the coming events. Six organizations have entered, Brampton, Cheltenham, Trinity, Streetsville, Bolton and Tullamore, and each group is working under the direction of their coach. The coaches are Mrs. J. M. Dolson, W. W. Wilkinson, Mrs. E. Bryans, Rev. McCree, Mae Harper and Chas. Hewson. These plays will be run off in groups of two and will be played at Cheltenham, Streetsville and Bolton. The local group will be responsible for obtaining permission to use the hall, advertising and tickets, and arranging for program between the plays. A suitable Challenge Trophy will be donated on which the name of the winning Club will be engraved. The three high Clubs will play in a final contest in March and the competing clubs will have the option of choosing a new play or using the first one.

The office of the Department of Agriculture is responsible for obtaining three qualified neutral judges free of charge. Constructive criticism will be given.

The Dramatic Series of 1931 is replacing the Debating Series of past years, and it is almost certain that this new series will prove of interest to all the Junior organizations in the County of Peel.

STREETSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Some items taken from the Inspector's Report: The accommodations are much the same as in previous years. The heating and ventilation are quite unsatisfactory, and the lighting is poor. The provision for teaching the courses is as satisfactory as possible with the present inadequate accommodations. The attendance is 31 boys and 86 girls. All of the teaching is satisfactory. All teachers are legally qualified. Bookkeeping is not being taught.

The principal is doing very satisfactory work. He is a zealous worker and through his personality is developing a good school spirit among the pupils, although he is seriously handicapped by very poor facilities in building and accommodations.

Both assistants are giving good service and appear to have the respect and confidence of the pupils.

It is hoped that the Board may soon see its way clear to provide a new building. The students of this school are being deprived of many of the advantages which those in modern schools enjoy. Their development is, consequently, seriously retarded. The lack of a gymnasium, of an assembly hall, and of suitable laboratory accommodation are among the most serious of these defects.

A. G. HOOPER, Inspector.

Mrs. Hustler, mother of Mrs. Sol Cordingly, was taken to the Brampton hospital last Saturday for medical treatment. Mrs. Hustler, about a year ago, was seriously ill but improved sufficiently to move about quite freely. It is to be hoped this lady, who is in her 82nd year, will survive this recent illness and enjoy the beautiful weather, which is only around the corner.

A large number of Young People of the United Church, gathered on Monday evening for the regular meeting of their Association, under the Literary and Social Department, of which Miss Ruth Ross and Miss Jean Temple are conveners respectively. The programme consisted of numbers for Valentine. The large gathering enjoyed every minute. The decorations were in keeping and even the lunch had touches which were unique and a reminder of the Valentine season.

COOKSVILLE

A successful euchre was put on in the town hall by the Women's Institute, 21 tables being played. Winners were: R. S. Whaley, Thos. Stewart, Cecil D. Yates, E. Smith, Miss Armstrong, Mrs. F. W. Thomas, Mrs. Braithwaite and Miss Gladys Stewart. Mrs. R. S. Whaley received the lucky prize. The ladies made $20 out of the affair.

YOU CAN'T FOOL GOD

You can fool the general public,
You can be a subtle fraud,
You can hide your little meanness,
But you can't fool God.

You can advertise your virtues,
You can self-achievement laud,
You can load yourself with riches,
But you can't fool God!

You can criticize the Bible,
You can be a selfish clod,
You can lie, swear, drink and gamble,
But you can't fool God!

You can magnify your talent,
You can hear the world applaud,
You can boast yourself somebody,
But you can't fool God!

PUBLIC LIBRARY

The annual meeting of the Public Library Board was held Tuesday, when officers were elected: Chairman, Rev. R. J. W. Perry; Sec.-Treas., Rev. G. H. Purchase; Property Committee, Messrs. Couse, Hope and Goodison; Book Committee, Revs. McCree, Perry, and Purchase. A new filing system will be installed. During the past year the Library has been well patronized by the reading public. The new books recently added have been well received.

POULTRY COURSE FOR PEEL

A special poultry course is being put on by the Agricultural office in the Township Hall, Snelgrove, on Feb. 26th and 27th. Farmers who have small flocks, and their wives, are especially invited as poultry raising is gaining in popularity every year. In 1929 there were 327,000 hens in Peel, and last year this number increased 383,000. This increase of 56,000 hens indicates that the mixed farmers are adding to their flocks as well as the small lot owners in the south end of the County who are taking up poultry raising as a sideline.

Experts from the Poultry Dept. O. A.C. will take up diseases and their control or prevention, breeding, feeding and management, fattening and baby chick rearing. A killing and plucking demonstration will be put on also.

The Chinguacousy Township Council has kindly donated the hall in Snelgrove for the classes. James C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative will be in charge. The lectures and demonstration carry on from 9.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Everyone interested in poultry is welcome both days.

PORT CREDIT

The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Port Credit was given a pleasant surprise Sunday morning when the minister, Rev. S. Lundie, announced from the pulpit that a cheque had been received from an anonymous donor for $3,000, which would wipe out the debt remaining on the new edifice, built three years ago at an outlay of $78,000. The congregation takes pride in the achievement that the building has been paid for in that short space of time without the aid of a mortgage. At the close of Mr. Lundie's announcement the congregation rose and joined in singing the Doxology.

The firemen here held their annual ball at Clarke Hall, which was widely attended. Several novelty dances were arranged. Euchre prizes were won by Mrs. W. Cooper and R. Giddings.

APRIL ESCAPADE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara, in order to get the money with which to send her brother, Martin, to Germany to study medicine, accepts the offer of Christopher Steynes. She is to act the part of Steynes' wife in order to discourage a Russian countess and her daughter who have been embarrassing Steynes with their attentions. Mary Kate tells her mother she is going to San Francisco on a business trip. Steynes meets her at the station at Burlingame and takes her to his house. Mary Kate meets the countess at a dinner supper and the countess is discouraged. Later that night she and Steynes return to Steynes' house and Mary goes to bed. A burglar breaks in and is shot by Steynes. The police take Mary's name and address and she is terrified for fear her mother will find out. She returns home and realizes that she has fallen in love with Steynes. The following night she tries to tell Cass Keating, her beau, that she cannot marry him.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

They could not see each other's faces; they stood so for perhaps a full minute. Then Cass said:

"Well, that's all right, dear. You don't have to marry me."

Mary Kate laughed excitedly.

"You do understand, don't you?"

"Why, of course I understand," Cass's kind, big-brotherly voice said. "I kind of rushed you, last week. And I knew that what you had wasn't ptomaine; I knew something was worrying you!"

"And you understand?" she repeated feverishly, in the pause.

"Of course I understand. You don't want to be rushed."

"No; that's it. I don't want to be rushed. And you see—" Her voice dwindled away inconsequently. She fingered his coat lapel. "I like this suit—" she began again, swallowing tears.

"It's my old brown suit."

"I know." Her words gathered perilous momentum. "But I like it—I think I like it better than the blue!"

"Mary Kate!" he said. "Ah, darling, don't!"

For she was crying bitterly, in his arms.

"I d-d-don't know why I'm boo-hoo-oo-ooing this way, like a ba-ba-baby!"

"You're all upset," Cass murmured, kissing the top of her head, that smelled deliciously of youth and freshness and the odd delightful fragrance that always clung to Mary Kate's blazing hair.

"I don't know why—" she gulped, trying to laugh, clinging to him.

She never had done this before. Cass tightened his arms.

"Maybe you missed your good-for-nothing beau, while you were away?"

"Yes, I did." She withdrew from his arms and fumbled for her handkerchief, straightening herself up, shaking herself into composure and order. "I'm crazy!" she confessed on a wet, shaken note.

"You're tired. Let's not go anywhere tonight, Mary Kate? Let's go into the front room and talk."

This would keep Tom out of his bed in the adjoining dining room. But she was so tired! And with the children doing homework, and Mother setting raisin rolls, they could not sit in the kitchen.

They slipped quietly through the dining room and Mary Kate lighted a head of gas in the front room. It smelled very close in there, and Cass opened the windows. The room was revealed as shabby and small, with an upright piano backed against one wall, and a parlor furniture set, consisting of a deep davenport, two old arms chairs, and a table, almost completing the furniture. A photograph of the late Thomas O'Hara was on a mock-mantel, a great bunch of limp purple ribbons decorating one corner of the frame.

On the piano were scores of carelessly massed sheets of song music. Sometimes a guest slept on the davenport, but there was no sign of its night use now; it was shut up, and embellished with two silk pillows.

"Cass, have you got two quarters for four bits?" Mrs. O'Hara called from the kitchen.

"I think so!" the boy shouted back, his hand in his pocket.

"I'm going to run upstairs, Cass, and wash my face!" Mary Kate went by him in the dimness, and Cass went into the kitchen.

She came back to the dim parlor fifteen minutes later, cool and refreshed. But she was still very quiet. She had changed to a soft old house dress, and had assumed comfortable slippers; her hair was damp, brushed childishy off her face, which was quite free of artifice.

They sat down close together on the davenport, and Cass pulled her head to his shoulder, and they both rested far back, their feet touching, stretched out before them on the rug. The gas-head burned low; occasional rays and angles of light crossed the room from passing motor cars in the street. The somewhat dingy curtains moved slowly in and out over the sills of the opened window. From the kitchen came the occasional murmur of the children's voices, Mrs. O'Hara's grave motherly tones in reply, and the clatter of pans and oven door.

"Now, let's talk it over," Cass said comfortably. "How about not marrying me?"

Suddenly she was in rebellion again. Her tears, and the application of fresh cold water and soap to her hot face, had rested her. But once again the fever seized her.

"It can wait—" she said deliberately, a tiny edge to her voice.

There was an alarmed note in his, a hurt reproachful note.

"How do you mean it can wait?"

"Oh, I only think I'm tired," Mary Kate breathed wearily, closing her eyes, tightening her fingers on his.

"But honey, don't you want me when you're tired? Seems to me——"

"It's only," she interrupted, "that I don't like to think of myself as engaged."

"Well, as long as you'll marry me next month—" he conceded, in good-natured daring.

She was still for a while. Then the tears began to run rapidly down her face, and she whispered without stirring.

"Oh, Cass, I'm so unhappy!"

"Ah, deary, I'm sorry. I've never seen you like this before."

"I've never been like this before."

Their heads were flung back against the top of the davenport, their eyes closed in the comforting dark. Cass hardly moved as he said, soothingly:

"Well, never you mind. You just sit here with me and cry, if you want to!"

The telephone in the dining room rang, and she was alert, tense.

"Who is it, Regina?" She was halfway to her feet.

"It's a wrong number, Sis!"

Mary Kate subsided again, and again there was peace in the stuffy little parlor.

"Like to get on the beach trolley car, and go all the way 'round?"

A long sigh.

"Cass, I'm too tired!"

"All right then, darling, we'll just sit here."

He was so kind, so gentle. She recognized in herself the unworthiness of her own impulse to hurt him.

"Who'd you think was telephoning, Mary Kate?"

"What?" Anything for time——

"Who'd you think was at the 'phone then?"

"Oh? Oh, I was kind of drowsy, I think."

Smells of dust, upholstery, and shabbiness came out of the furniture, and the sweet night breezes through the open windows moved about them, and blew them away.

"Cass——" the girl said suddenly. "I have to tell you. I may get over it, but—something's the matter with me. It's making me almost crazy, I haven't ever felt like this. I think—" she resumed, with a desperate little laugh, after a moment's pause, "that I'm in love."

"What are you talking about?"

Cass's arm jumbled and shook her alarmedly. "You're engaged to me," he said good-naturedly.

"It may pass," she said stubbornly. "But—but I tell you it's terrible.

"I met a man," Mary Kate went on steadily, "who is leaving town in a few days. I'll never see him again. But—but it wouldn't be fair to you—"

"Oh, yes, it would," Cass murmured contentedly, tightening his arm.

"Listen, Cass—"

"Oh, listen yourself, darling! Don't be a fool. Who was it, Locke Lorimer?"

Mary Kate was very still. After a while she said, in a chilled voice:

"I wasn't trying to tell you that I had a crush on a movie star!"

"Well—it was probably just as bad," Cass said. But as the girl resumed her hurt silence, he added, in a slightly more concerned and sympathetic tone, "Tell me about it."

"It makes everything wonderful—the streets and the bakeries and the fog, and going to bed and getting up," Mary Kate presently said, in a dreaming voice. "It makes me want to think—over and over again, of everything he ever said to me, or I to him. Everything—trembles, Cass. Everything shines. It makes me sick with misery, and yet I wouldn't give it up—"

"What are you talking about?" he asked her again. But without the confident note now, and in a rougher tone.

"I'm trying to tell you!"

A pause. Then Cass said in a puzzled tone.

"Who is he?"

"Who is he?"

"He's a New York man" Mary Kate answered unhesitatingly. The joy of speaking of him flowed through her fevered heart and soul like the waters of a cool river.

"Say, listen, are you kidding me, Mary Kate?"

"Kidding you!" she echoed, in patient scorn. She was silent a moment. "No, I'm not kidding you," she said simply.

Cass twisted about to try and see the expression on her face, but the room was too dark.

"Where'd you meet him?"

"In Mr. Rountree's office."

"Who is he?"

"His name is Steynes. Christopher Steynes."

"The polo player who shot the burglar the other day?"

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

A perfect dream of a dress with all the cachet of Paris in this lightweight woolen in yellow and black mixture. It reveals the unquestionable smartness of the sports mode. The becoming rolled collar and turned cuffs show a tiny bit of lingerie in white pique. The buttons from neck to hem are decidedly chic and slimming.

Style No. 2952 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Wool jersey, tweed, plain and patterned crepy woolens and plain and printed flat crepe silk are nice for this interesting sports type.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Happy Year

Beckoning lights now shown to us,
Well-reckoned heights now known to us,
Eager hopes heart-blown of us—
Oh, high ambitious dreams are spun
For all of Nineteen Thirty One!

All is well! Fields to be plowed by us,
A finer chance allowed to us,
With better work avowed by us—
May we have cause to think: "Well done!"
Through all of Nineteen Thirty One!

When You OVER—INDULGE

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for indigestion, nausea, heartburn, gas, sour stomach and headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips' is always on bottle and wrapper.

Education Needed In Fighting V. D.

Back to "Simple Life" Public Health Official Urges

Ottawa—While decided progress has been made in the struggle against Venereal Diseases in Canada, "what we need today is education and more education," Dr. A. H. Desloges, Montreal, Director of the Venereal Disease Section of the Quebec Bureau of Health, stated in an address before the Ottawa Social Hygiene Council in Annual Meeting here recently.

Quebec province is no better or no worse than any part of the Dominion in so far as these diseases are concerned, Dr. Desloges stated. There are, he said 71 government clinics, which in 1929 treated 38,000 cases with a total of 209,000 treatments and at a cost of $72,000. Had private doctors treated these cases the cost would have exceeded $1,112,000. Dr. Desloges paid particular tribute to the five thousand Catholic clergy of his province and to the 130 physicians who gave their time gratis at the dispensaries in fighting the diseases.

"There is not home life today as in the old days," said Dr. Desloges. "We've been too rich, we must go back to the simple life, that is the only way the situation will adjust itself."

Dr. J. J. Heagerty, Assitant to the Chief Executive, Dominion Department of Health, stated that in his opinion medical examination before marriage is very important since it informs those planning matrimony as to their fitness for parenthood.

Italy Honors Dominion Poultry Husbandman

F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman and Past President of the World's Poultry Science Association, under whose auspices the World's Poultry Congresses are held, has been signally honored by the government of Italy who appointed him a member of the executive for the Fifth World's Poultry Congress which meets in Rome in 1933. Mr. Elford has also been asked to take charge of organization of the Canadian delegation to Rome. From present indications the next Congress will fully equal the success of last year at London.

Help yourself to PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

Try this Recipe

1 cup scalded milk	1 saltspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter	½ Royal Yeast Cake dissolved in
1 tablespoon sugar	¼ cup lukewerm water

To the scalded milk add the butter, sugar and salt. Allow it to cool until lukewarm and then add dissolved yeast and 1½ cups flour. Stir well and let stand in moderately warm place overnight. In the morning, add enough flour to knead, and let rise until about double in bulk, then roll out ¾ inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter and brush each piece with melted butter, crease through the center and fold over. Let rise again until double in bulk and bake for about 25 minutes in moderate oven. Above is sufficient for about ten rolls.

Happiness

Can happiness be bought? To the cold and hungry it seems there is no question about it. Of course it can. Yes, and also to the everyday ordinary individual it seems happiness is always waiting just around the corner if we only had this or that. And yet if we look closely at those who have material things, pressed down and running over, we find their faces certainly do not mirror happiness any oftener than it is mirrored in the face of the man or woman who is without worldly goods. Granted then that happiness does not come from owning things, how is one to go about it to obtain this elusive but very desirable characteristic.

Since happiness cannot be bought is it possible for it to be taught? Maybe not, as one would teach the three r's, but isn't there an opportunity of teaching happiness if the child, right from the cradle, is first taught to control himself. It is readily seen that the child who has learned to get up and laugh when he bumps his nose and not to cry for things is receiving better training than the child who is allowed to be peevish and fretful and who takes real pleasure in pitying himself for every little scratch which comes his way. The little plastic mind is forming the foundation for being miserable instead of happy.

Sickness, disappointment, work and worry come to us all as we grow older and happiness comes to only those who have learned to pick themselves up after each misfortune, continue on and begin over with a determined cheerfulness instead of being crushed by it. There is nothing can make people happy who have grown up along with self pity.

So it seems very important to teach children to cultivate a cheerful outlook on life. You can either teach your child how to find real joy in doing things successfully even if it is accompanied by repeated failures, or you can teach him to envy those better off than himself so that all he can do is to brood dismally about how badly he is treated.

Then the world is so full of the simple, everyday things that are always with us. Real happiness comes to those who can see the beauty in the sunset, who feel the quiet of the woods, who know animals, who read wisely, who worship trustingly.

So we can be happy or miserable just as we choose and the world goes on just the same. It is for us to learn to be humble and thankful and to enjoy what blessings we have. Why borrow trouble or be afraid of the future or worry over the endless little things that go wrong continually. The way to forget them is to keep busy, so busy that your mind must concentrate on your work to the exclusion of every other thought.

Then, finally, the only way one can be truly happy is to make other people happy. You cannot be selfish or self centred or mean and be sincerely happy. These things do harmonize with happiness. "So give the world the best you have and the best will come back to you."

It's a Poor Joke

"When a little child is brought to tears."

"When something sacred is made to appear com on."

Twilight Hour Story

Chapter 10

What They Did With the Big Box

You will remember Mama Lady sent Billy down cellar to get the big box for the chicks and when he found it he hurled upstairs with it. It got a little dusty down there so it was made all clean, inside and out. Billy was having lots of fun for he wondered what his mother was going to do next to make the little chicks comfortable. After it was all clean she told him to go out to the barn and get a whole lot of real fine straw and chaff that sifted down through the big pile of straw in the mow. When she had put a thick layer of it in the bottom it was as soft as soft could be. Then Mama Lady remembered she had an old warm black shawl up in the attic, so Billy brought it down, wondering what she wanted it for. But she just laughed when he asked her and said, "Wait, son, and you'll see very soon." And this is what she did:

She put the little chicks in the box which had the fine straw in the bottom and you would have laughed if you had seen them playing with the straw and scratching it up with their little feet. Then in one corner she put the old black shawl so that it made a tiny room in behind there just big enough for four little chicks. This was their small bedroom. It did seem as though that would be warm enough for them, but Mama Lady knew it wasn't snug enough when they were sleeping. So she thought a long time about what to do and was a little afraid she couldn't keep them warm enough. Suddenly she remembered she had used the last of the coffee that very morning out of its tin can and that tin can was the very thing she wanted. She filled it with a lot of nice, warm water, then put the lid on tight and set it behind in their little bedroom. It was just like a cosy stove, wasn't it? Now everything was ready, so she picked each little chick up, held it against her cheek a minute and against Billy's cheek too, and then set Jimmie and the others behind the shawl, close beside the little hot water furnace. The black shawl was closed down closer around them and this time I do believe they did think it was their Mama Hen, for they were so very warm and comfortable. And do you know they went sound asleep right away. Mama Lady covered them in with more covers so they wouldn't get cold before the long night was over. Then she and Billy said "Good night little chicks, till morning." Next it was Billy's turn for bed and it didn't take him long to get there, he was so sleepy, and he too went off into slumberland right away.

Unknown Elements Traced By X-Ray

Washington. — Confirmatory evidence of the existence and identity of "rhenium," one of the missing elements, has been discovered and checked at the Bureau of Standards.

Dr. W. F. Meggers, a government specialist in optical work, has brought out proof of the presence of the substance by application of the X-ray and the analysis of the spectral light it reflects.

The substance, provisionally set down as "rhenium 75" on the list of 90 or more basic elements making up the physical universe, is one of those whose existence has been hitherto predicted rather than discovered by natural science.

At present, rhenium is rarer than radium in the earth's stock of commodities, and is too young to have any known usefulness. However, like many another of the elements purposefully sought since the structural plan was laid down indicating their existence, rhenium may attain value and be put into service after natural science has more fully established its character.

Sunday School Lesson

February 15. Lesson VII—Jesus the Friend of Sinners—Luke 7: 36-50. Golden Text—This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1: 15.

ANALYSIS

I. THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS, Luke 7: 36.

II. THE PHARISEES AND SINNERS, Luke, chap. 7.

III. JESUS AND THE SINFUL, Luke, chap. 7.

I. THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS, Luke 7: 36.

It is often supposed that the penitent woman in this story is Mary Magdalene; but that is not stated, nor implied. Mary of Magdala is referred to a few verses later (8: 2) as the woman out of whom Jesus had cast seven devils; this probably refers to an acute condition of hysteria or demon-possession, whereas the woman in this story was apparently a woman "off the streets."

Much in the story is left to our imagination, and doubtless it had been told many times in different contexts before ever it was written down; hence at first sight it is not quite clear whether the woman is forgiven because she loves much, or loves much because she has been forgiven. The parable of the debtor implies that she loves much, because she has been forgiven much, and this seems to be the meaning of the story as a whole. If this is so, we should perhaps regard the words, "because she loved much," in v. 47, as somebody's mistaken marginal comment which was no part of the original story, or perhaps the meaning is, "she is forgiven, and you can see that she is forgiven and has repented because she loves much," or possibly sayings of Jesus at another time have been tacked on to the story of the woman. The matter is perplexing, but not of any great importance. Jesus clearly indicates, in the parable of the debtor, that those who have been forgiven much will love much, but he may well have taught, on some other occasion, that love covers a multitude of sins. Christians tend to be fierce in their condemnation of what are called "sins of passion," and to be lenient towards lack of charity and human sympathy, and towards sins of cold selfishness. The judgment of Jesus seems to have been different.

II. THE PHARISEES AND SINNERS, Luke, chap. 7.

The incident will probably have occurred early in the ministry, for after Jesus' breach with the Pharisees it is not very likely that one of them would have invited him in a friendly way to dine at his house. His host, it is true, treats him with some courtesy; perhaps he thinks that the peasant-prophet will not expect the sort of treatment Simon would offer an equal, vs. 44-46. The party was reclining at the meal; each would be on a couch, with his feet stretched away from the table, and his left elbow resting on it. The sequel, as has been said, is a history rather to be wept over than commented upon. The woman must have entered the courtyard, come up the verandah step, and perhaps passed through an ante-room before entering the dining chamber. How she gained admittance we do not know. We can imagine the hush and awkwardness that would fall upon the party as she entered. In silence, as we may perhaps suppose, she knelt and her tears fell on Jesus' feet. Then, though no Jewish women would willingly do this in public, she let down her hair, and wiped his feet. Then Simon protests. What may have preceded this scene we can only imagine. We do not know what Jesus may have said to her, if indeed he had said anything, but what he had done for her is obvious.

III. JESUS AND THE SINFUL, Luke, chap. 7.

Much of the teaching of Jesus was akin to the nobler teaching of the rabbis of his day; perhaps the most striking difference between him and them is to be found in his attitude to sinners. They would gather up their skirts to avoid the contaminating touch of such a woman as this; he came to seek out and to save sinners. Jesus never condoned sin or suggested for a moment that it did not matter; he showed at once an utter abhorrence of sin, and an invincible love for the sinner. Therefore, this woman, who might be brazen-faced before the world, was broken-hearted, repentant, transfigured and renewed when she met with Jesus. Today, do such women regard church members as she regarded Christ, or as she regarded the Pharisees?

V. 48. Jesus said, "thy sins are forgiven," more probably than "thy sins be forgiven," but neither translation is legitimate. This may well be a repetition of what he had said to her before, for the parable of the debtor suggests that she already knew she was forgiven. In any case Jesus does not seem directly to forgive sins himself, but to declare that God has forgiven. Similarly God "hath given power and commandment to his ministers to declare and pronounce to his people being penitent the absolution and remission of their sins. The divinity of Jesus is shown, not in a mysterious divine prerogative to forgive sins on his own responsibility, but in his attitude to the sinner; for his attitude is God's.

British Films

H. S. Oakley in the Fortnightly Review (London): For the first twenty years of its brief life, this industry has been controlled from the United States. . . . Today all this is in process of change. The Legislature took the first step when it passed the Films Act (1927). Science completed the process when it invented the "talkie". The British audience stood the American picture, much as it laughed at times over the grotesque mistakes that were made, but it cannot stand the American voice. It wants English as it is spoken in England, and slowly but surely it is getting it. A great industry is in process of being born. British-made films are already finding their way into every corner of the English spoken world, and the are being welcomed.

Women pause to reflect—when they see a mirror.

"Well, old man, what are you doing these days?" "I'm selling furniture." "Are you selling much?" "Only my own, so far."

"Clothes give a man a lot of confidence." "I should think they do. I go to heaps of places with them that I wouldn't dream of going to without."

Doctor Says Movies Do Not Injure Eyes

New York.—It is not the fault of the stars or of the projection machines if motion pictures hurt the patrons' eyes. The blame falls squarely on the eyes of the patrons in the opinion of Dr. William M. Richards, of the Better Vision Institute, who in his recent address before the National Board of Review Pictures here asserted that an insidious rumor that the films were bad for the eyes was keeping thousands daily from the motion picture box office.

'If motion pictures hurt your eyes don't blame the picture but blame your eyes and have them examined," he declared. "For if your eyes are normal, either with or without glasses, you can look at films without any discomfort whatever. It is a common complaint among persons generally to say that their eyes have been ruined by motion pictures. Normal eyes never give symptoms when looking at the pictures and are never in any way harmed by them."

Mr. Richards suggested that patrons should equip themselves with a special type of eyeglass in their pilgrimages to the theatre.

There are many things that can be done to bring this important subject to the attention of motion picture audiences," he pointed out. "I suggest that there be incorporated, for the time, at least, in all picture releases the suggestion that if the films inconvenience the eyes one must not blame them, but rather the eyes."

Hard Sense

She kept a little moon
Yellow as butter;
Hoarded a little tune
Too sad to utter;

Cherished a windy sky
Secret and holy;
Treasured the way birds fly,
Solemnly, slowly.

Parson at last is glad,
Old wives are grinning;
Wed to her neighbor's lad,
Set her to spinning . . .

Flax on the busy loom,
Children to cherish,
So in one narrow room
Folly will perish.

Here is a silver spoon,
Here a copper kettle,
For her who thought the moon
Made the dearer metal.

—Elspeth, in The Forum.

Fashion Gleanings

As a trimming or accessory for pastel and white costumes, brown is most important. Brown fur trims the short sleeve in many of the suits and ensembles for dressy afternoon and spectatular sports. Evening gowns with removable jackets have also adopted the fur idea.

Crepe-shangtung — a soft pure-dye silk with a dull finish—is styled in sports and spectator sports frocks. Its popularity is assured on account of its tubbing qualities.

Pajamas are considered a definite part of the wardrobe, not only for sleeping, lounging and beach wear, but for dinner and evening as well. The latter models follow the lines in vogue for dresses for like occasions, showing the same draped necklines, bolero jackets, jeweled belts, and elaborate sleeve treatments, as outstanding features.

Angora, in the daintiest of shades, has edged its way into wraps for formal evening wear. They are usually hip-length, with flowing sleeves and scarf. They are wonderfully light in weight, still giving the needed warmth and the silklike appearance of the brush gives a misty air to its wearer.

One's hat, gown and shoes should be of matching tone, the color contrast being augmented by scarf, belt or tie. The bag also should carry the combination color.

"Girls are now taking an interest in agriculture," we read. Especially husbandry.

"Fish That Bark!" reads a headline. What most anglers want is one that bites.

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

A most attractive model for youth and the youthful type of woman.

The jumper effect of the bodice gives it a jaunty air.

Carried out in dark brown wool crepe with cuffs, vestee and collar of turquoise-blue, the tie brown with blue dots, is delightfully gay and smart.

A similar scheme in dark green wool jersey with lighter green is snappy. The belt may be of self-fabric or of leather.

Style No. 2921 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Other interesting suitable fabrics are flat crepe silk, canton crepe and tweed mixtures.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

The Call of the Bush

Day is smiling approval at earth's new spring apparel. It is good to be out of doors, free and away. Already in the moonlight dawn the warbling magpies had heralded such an awakening, and the call of the bush is loud and insistent. So off to the hills for young hearts eager to revel in nature's glory.

Up hill and down dale, through wooded vales blue-vaulted by the floor of heaven; by the crystal lake shaded on every side by thickets green; to the distant purple hills where grows the bracken fern or hoots the owl; where music in the waterfall makes harmony with singing birds; where cries the curlew plaintively; or where the kookaburra lifts his laughter on the air; such places lend themselves where thought may dwell in simplest luxury.

Leschanaultia, blue, yellow, white and red, splashes the landscape like a painter's palette. Buttercups fringe the roadside's edge. Sarsaparilla hangs her purple tresses from tree to tree. The tall gums stand majestic; low blackboy clumps send up new, soft, green spears.

At last a wattle grove is reached. The silence in the woods is very sound, the sound that breathes in stillness thanks to God for such a paradise. In the trees' cool shade luncheon is spread. Rest, talk and day-dreams while away the afternoon's sunshine. Homeward toward the city, as the golden sunset says, Amen!

Soothes restless, wakeful CHILD

THERE are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria! A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when Baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Give good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; when there's any sign of sluggishness, just give them a more liberal dose. Castoria is so pleasant-tasting; all children love to take it.

D. McCaugherty made a business trip to the city last Saturday.

A son was born one day last week to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lepofsky.

Elmer Waite, master of River Park Masonic Lodge, found it necessary to take to his bed for a few days owing to a threatened attack of the flu. He can be about again, but has to be very careful.

There will be a big hockey tournament at Streetsville Community Rink on Monday night, Feb. 16th. Riverdale, Lakeview, Creditvale and local rinks will compete for a silver cup. Come and see it.

Mrs. Fred Ward received word that her youngest brother's wife had passed away in England on Jan. 4th, and that her youngest sister had also joined the great majority on the 21st of last month, in the old land.

Jack Houlgarne played a very fine piano selection at the Young People's Valentine Social on Monday evening. Jim Steen received applause when he played a couple of numbers on his violin; he was accompanied by his sister Mary.

TORONTO TP. COUNCIL

Toronto Township will have a water system covering at least much of the southern portion of the township before next fall if the earnestness of the petitioners can be accounted anything. Two deputations waited on council on Saturday in the preliminary step of the undertaking, one from Lakeview, led by Archie McCraw, and the other from the Mississauga Road, headed by E. Bruce Munro. The council received their advances most favorably, and directed the petitioners to draw up definitions of the areas which they would form, and secure the signatures of the other residents of their districts. A special meeting will be held on Friday for further consideration of the petitions, and for the purpose of passing the by-law which will be placed before the ratepayers concerning the introduction into the Township of service by the Consumers Gas Co. of Toronto, which company, under the terms of the proposed by-law, would have the right to service as much of the township as they deemed fit. At the same time, the Consumers Gas Co. would not receive, by the by-law any right of exclusion of competitors.

Frank Oliver, who lives on the Lake Shore Road, a back line in the Clarkson district, told council that the property on which his house is situated, once twenty acres in extent, has shrunk, through erosion into the lake, to a tenth of an acre. Mr. Oliver approached council in search of aid to clear the title to his home there, which is six feet on the road allowance of the Lake Shore Road. The house has been in its present location for nearly thirty years, but not until recently has Mr. Oliver sought to transfer the property. Since Mr. Oliver maintains, at his own expense, a system of cribbing along the front of his property, the council advised him that they would favor his application, and assist him in passing a sale or lease of the required footage of the road allowance through the proper channels, the cost being born by him. J. H. Pinchin mentioned, in passing that a mile of the same road had been engulfed by the lake within the last few years. Mr. Pinchin also suggested, in joking reference to the condition of the road that Mr. Oliver should have a life membership of the Lake Shore Country Club. Chief users of the road, as, were it not for Mr. Oliver's protection on the lake front, the road into the southern part of the country club grounds would have been washed out long since.

In reference to the employment of a tax collector for the township, Gordon B. Jackson presented an interesting report on the history of tax collection in the township, and pointed out the advantage of having an all year round collector in sole charge, under the treasurer's direction of that branch of the township's finances. Such a collector would have a bailiff's powers, but would be expected to be exceedingly discreet in his use thereof. His chief aim would be to come to amicable agreement with delinquent ratepayers, in order to expedite payment of arrears, even though the payments were made in small proportion to the assessment of the property in question. In this way, with each ratepayer contributing according to his ability, Mr. Jackson felt that a great deal of the deficit in collections would be wiped out, and further development of arrears would be checked. In reviewing the situation, Mr. Jackson told council that of the $125,000 arrears, $12,000 is above the levy, being comprised of penalties and interest. The liability on this $12,000 is approximately $8,000, representing law costs, interest, etc., leaving $4,000 without liability. Mr. Jackson felt that this sum, or a portion of it might well be expended in the reclamation of the principal.

Mrs. Wm. Faulkner has returned home from Hamilton after visiting with her daughter, Mrs W. Reese

About 18 wild geese flew north over the village Saturday morning about 8.30. This is a sure sign that spring is not far distant.

Arthur McCarston, a Mono Twp Farmer, left an estate valued at $134,000. At one time he farmed at Barberton, now Creditvale, near Streetsville.

Two boys, 13 & 15 years, escaped from Mimico Industrial School this week. Fair complexion. Anyone seeing them should notify Constable E. J. Rutledge

Mr. W.Leslie will have an auction sale of farm stock and implements at Lot 12, 4th line west, Toronto Twp. on Wednesday, Feb. 18th at one o'clock. See advt.

Rev. Frank Vipond of Toronto is spending a few days here this week and enjoying the nice fresh air of our beautiful village. They all like to come back to their old haunts sometime if it is only for a day or two.

The Village Council accepted the tender of Mr. E. J. Rutledge as Constable and General Utility Man at a salary of $720.00 per year. He will give his whole time to the town and will do all the work he did last year and any extra work which the Council may ask him to do. He is to collect garbage and supply his own conveyance.

Miss Pope, Deaconess, Upper Canada Tract Society, Mission to Sailors, Soldiers etc. is in the village soliciting funds for this benevolent work. The Tract Society is doing wonderful work in many ways and deserves your assistance. When this lady calls on you be sure to assist her. Remember, it is more blessed to give than to receive.

Mr. and Mrs Fred Ward attended the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Loundes, West Toronto on Wednesday, Feb. 4th, when about forty guests were present.. Mr and Mrs. Loundes were made the recipients of numerous beautiful presents. A very enjoyable time was spent and all wished Mr. and Mrs. Loundes many more happy years of married life.

The Ratepayers Association held their first meeting last night with President James Dandie in the chair. Resolutions dealing with the inadequacy of our High School, the failure of our water pressure and opposition to supplying water to outsiders will be forwarded on to the Village Council. Business that will make our Town Fathers sit up and take notice. The Association expects to hatch out enough problems to make the Council's hair turn grey before their term of office expires.

Botanists Plan Study Of Deadly Wheat Rust

Toronto.—Rust—the mortal foe of Canadian wheat—is among the things to be investigated in a program of research into plant physiology that has just been initiated in the Botany Department of the University of Toronto.

Under bulbs that use 25,000 watts, and take the place of the sun, in order that wheat may be grown in the dead of Toronto's winter, the growth-breathing, food metabolic change and other aspects of plant life will be studied by Professor G. H. Duff, Professor D. L. Bailey and Miss Dorothy Forward, acting under the leadership of Professor R. B. Thomson, head of the University of Toronto Department of Botany.

While all the work is being done in the name of pure science, and those doing it are making no promises as to the results, the fact that an investigation of the cause and cure of wheat rust is on the agenda may mean that experiments will ultimately result in the eradication of one of the worst enemies of Canadian agriculture.

Prince Is Charming Says Dance Partner

Panama Girl Finds British Royalty Kindly and Unassuming

Panama City.—Miss Eleanor Nichols, the American girl who, danced with the Prince of Wales at a function given in his honor at the Union Club, thinks his Royal Highness 'is one of the most charming men I have ever met," but considers Prince George a better dancer.

Miss Nichols, who is the daughter of Commander Newton Lord Nichols, in charge of the Balboa naval radio station, and Mrs. Nichols, has become the centre of interest in Panama City and Balboa, for the Prince of Wales gave her his undivided attention as they danced beneath a tropic moon shining over the Bay of Panama.

She had hardly returned home from the dance with her father and mother, when the telephone bell and door bell began to ring—and they have been ringing ever since.

Photos in Demand

Droves of press photographers went out to the home, and London newspapers even cabled for photographs. She had to have new photographs made, for the only one at the Nichols home was a simple portrait made five years ago.

Although Miss Nichols appeared as much at ease dancing with the Prince as did he, the attentions showered upon her were slightly bewildering.

"It's so silly," she exclaimed. "Why, the Prince of Wales has danced with hundreds of girls before.

"But I think that he's one of the most charming men I ever met. He isn't a bit offish, he talks slang, and one never would think, just by meeting and talking with him ,that he is anything but just one of the nicest young men imaginable."

During his conversation with Miss Nichols the Prince practiced some of the Spanish he learned in preparation for his South American trip.

"He speaks Spanish rather slowly," the girl continued, "but I can understand him much better than the people here who rattle it off so fast."

Brother Talks Less

Then as to the dancing:

"And he's an awfully nice dancer," she went on, "but I believe Prince George is the better of the two. He doesn't have so much to say, though."

Miss Nichols was seated with her parents when one of the Royal equerries came over and invited her to sit at the table occupied by the Princes. She was presented to Prince George, who danced with her.

Hardly had she sat down again when the Prince of Wales walked over and asked for the next dance—"without sending a messenger or anything," was the way the delighted girl put it.

Equally charmed with his Royal Highness were Miss Nichols's parents. When Commander Nichols was presented, the Prince of Wales acknowledged the introduction with "I am delighted to know you, sir."

New Quakes Felt In New Zealand

Inhabitants Flee as Heavy Waves Sweep Coastline

Wellington, New Zealand., Feb. 8.—Heavy earthquake shocks again rocked the Napier and Hastings section of the Hawkes Bay district, which was the scene of last Tuesday's disastrous quake in which many persons were killed.

The face of a bluff overlooking Napier was sheared by further landslides. Heavy breakers swept the beaches and forced the terrified inhabitants, encamped about the town, to flee from the shore line to higher ground.

Dislocation of communication has made it difficult to obtain full details of the disturbances.

Three persons were killed when a plane of the Dominion Air Line crashed at Wairoa. The plane was carrying passengers and mail from Gisborne to Hastings.

Those killed were Pilot Knight and W. F. Baker and W. S. Strand, passengers.

Fire at Hornepayne Razes Five Stores

Business Section of Northern Town is Swept by Fire

$80,000 Damage

Hornepayne.—Five business houses were burned to the ground and two others badly damaged in a fire which broke out here at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, and which raged for some hours before being brought under control. Total loss is estimated at more than $80,000, with little insurance. Hornepayne is a Canadian National Railways divisional point, 316 miles northwest of Sudbury.

Townsfolk were aroused from their slumbers by shrill blasts from locomotive whistles and from the C.N.R. shops. They awoke to find half a business block in flames. The alarm was first given by J. McEwan, a C.N.R. inspector in the Hornepayne yards. The path of the fire cut through F. Menzie's butcher and bake shop, the New Ontario Cafe, C. Barnes' billiard parlor, A. McNeill's millinery shop, J. Leggatt's poolroom, and the comparatively new store of H. T. Cockburn. T. Palmer's jewelry store was heavily damaged, as was also the Gibson butcher shop.

It is presumed that the fire started in the Menzie's bakery. All the goods in the store were removed by volunteer workers. The flames, aided by a strong wind, spread rapidly, but the stubborn blaze was stopped in one direction by a party headed by William Schmidt, who were successful in their endeavor to save the remaining part of the block. Then the C.N.R. tank car used for fighting forest fires was put into action, and here the costly blaze was effectively checked.

The blaze was similar to the fires which swept the business sections of Foleyet and Gogama within the past two weeks.

55,961 Passengers Carried Last Year

Ottawa.—A total of 55 961 passengers were carried by airplane in Canada during the year 1530, according to the quarterly liaison letter of the civil aviation branch of the Department of National Defence, issued recently. At the same time aircraft in Canada carried 1,449,337 lbs. of freight, covering a distance of 4,250,970 miles and flying 52,621 hours

Those figures take account only of the activities of 19 commercial operations, three mining companies and the Ontario Government Air Service

Additional to these there were 115 commercial operators who, it is estimated, flew 20,000 hours. Twenty-three light aeroplane clubs flew 14,832 hours, making an estimated grand total of 87,453 hours flown in civil aviation during 1930. This compares with 79,786 hours flown during 1929.

Seven companies in Canada operate 19 air mail services under contract with the Post Office Department.

Oldest Ontario Physician Celebrates 100th Birthday

Toronto.—Ontario's oldest physician and one of the oldest residents of Sutton West, Dr. Charles Thompson Noble, celebrated his 100th birthday on Feb. 5th. He was born in Markham Township, Feb. 5, 1931. He was a graduate of Victoria University, obtaining his M.D. degree in 1856. He was registered as a practitioner in the Ontario Medical register on June 13, 1866. He has been a resident of Sutton West for considerably more than 60 years and was widely known throughout the district. In the early days he frequently had to ride for miles on horseback to visit patients and was in a very real sense family physician and counsellor.

He has not practiced for several years, leaving that to his son, Charles, with whom he lives. The villagers of Sutton extended feilcitations and good wishes for many happy returns, and all joined in the celebration.

$500,000 in Cattle Exported in 1930

Cattle Breeders Hold 48th Annual Meeting in Toronto

Toronto.—From all parts of Canada, Holstein - Friesian cattle breeders, gathered here at the Royal York Hotel for the 48th annual meeting. President P. H. Moore, of Essondale, B.C., commented on the substantial growth of the association. The extension service report submitted by R. B. Faith showed that shipments of 3,038 head of cattle to Jamaica, China, British Guiana and the United States had returned over $500,000.

In 38 sales during the year the turnover was 889 head, at an average price of $135. The highest price was $1,765 for a two-year-old bull. Appropriation for extension work this year will be $5,000 less than last year.

Reports showed that milk prices are down to the farmer without compensating reduction to the consumers.

The financial statement shows receipts of $93,188, of which $78,816 are registration and stock transfer fees, etc., and a balance carried forward from last year of $6,800. The chief items in the list of expenditures are $28,000 for extension services, $15,953 grants to fairs and dairy tests, and $17,918 wages and salaries. There is a balance left of $6,603.

The assets total $100,299. The surplus over all liabilities is $9[illegible]47. The total membership is 4,248, of whom 2,801 are in Ontario.

The secretary-treasurer shows the registration of 5,600 bulls and 16,300 cows, with a total transfer of 18,682. Only twice before have the registrations in any year been over twenty thousand.

Flu Still Taking Its Toll in Britain

London.—Deaths from influenza are still increasing in England, although the outbreak has not assumed the proportions of a major epidemic. Last week's death toll in London and the large towns of England and Wales was 309. In the week before it was 242.

The War Debts

By Right Hon. Sir Thomas White, K.C.M.G.

(Minister of Finance of Canada, (1911-19)

Oh, war debts and reparations,
You're a blight on all the nations,
You embitter their relations,
You're the chief of all causations
Of their woes and tribulations,
Of the problems that perplex them,
Of the ills that grieve and vex them,
Of the burdens that oppress them.
And the sufferings that distress them,
The anxieties that fret them,
And the dangers that beset them!

You have caused world-wide privation,
Unemployment, want, starvation,
Trade and industry stagnation;
You have caused humiliation,
Anger and denunciation,
Hatred and recrimination,
Vehement expostulation,
Armament, war preparation!

Let us with sincere intention
Call forthwith a world convention,
With no national abstention,
For the sake of war-prevention,
To remove this grave contention
And save future intervention;
For the sake of world salvation,
Welfare and conciliation,
Peace and rehabilitation,
By a great renunciation,
Sacrifice and abnegation,
With profound commiseration
Bring about emancipation,
Touching mens imagination,
Make an end of reparations,
Debt release and cancellation,
Like the yoke that bows the nations!

Cereal Research Grows

The report of the Dominion Cerealist, L. H. Newman, B.S.A., for 1929, provides a graphic illustration of the steady increase in cereal research by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. In 1916 the total of plots used in investigational work numbered 2,017. In 1921 this had dropped to only 756. Since 1927, however, there has been a consistent steady expansion in this important work, the total number of plots for 1930 being 15,950. This report, which is now available for distribution, contains a wealth of useful information for those interested in cereal grains.

Banting Explains Research at O.A.C.

Guleph—In an informal talk to the members of the Ontario Agricultural College faculty here recently, Dr. F. G. Banting of Toronto outlined interesting facts in connection with research operations now going on in Ontario.

Dr. Banting confined the greater part of his address to discoveries brought about through experiments in connection with animal life. He stressed the fact that fundamental research might or might not be of practical value and that many of the important developments came about in a most unexpected way. He cited one instance—the fact that it had been proven that the chicken death rate, while hatching, increased unless the temperature was kept constant. This information was now proving valuable in maternity wards of hospitals throughout the country. Brief reference was also made to research work on calves, from which valuable results had been achieved.

Dr. Banting reviewed what led up to his discovery of insulin, and pointed out that contrary to general brief, the whole cost of such research was very little. Large expenditure was not always essential in research, he said. It was the spirit behind the work rather than the funds which brought about success.

Canadian Onions

Canadian Onion Week, January 25 to 31, did a lot to increase the popularity of Canadian onions. It also brought to light some interesting facts about this rapidly growing industry. Per capita consumption of onions in Canada in 1930 was about 10 pounds. In other words, this means that a total of 100,000,000 pounds—50,000 tons or some 2,000 carloads—of onions were eaten by Canadian people. This huge quantity come principally from two sources. Canadian growers produced 19,976 tons, and something over 20,000 tons were imported from he United States. Over $750,000 was spent by Canadians on United States grown onions. Canadian production is increasing rapidly and is of exceptional quality.—Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

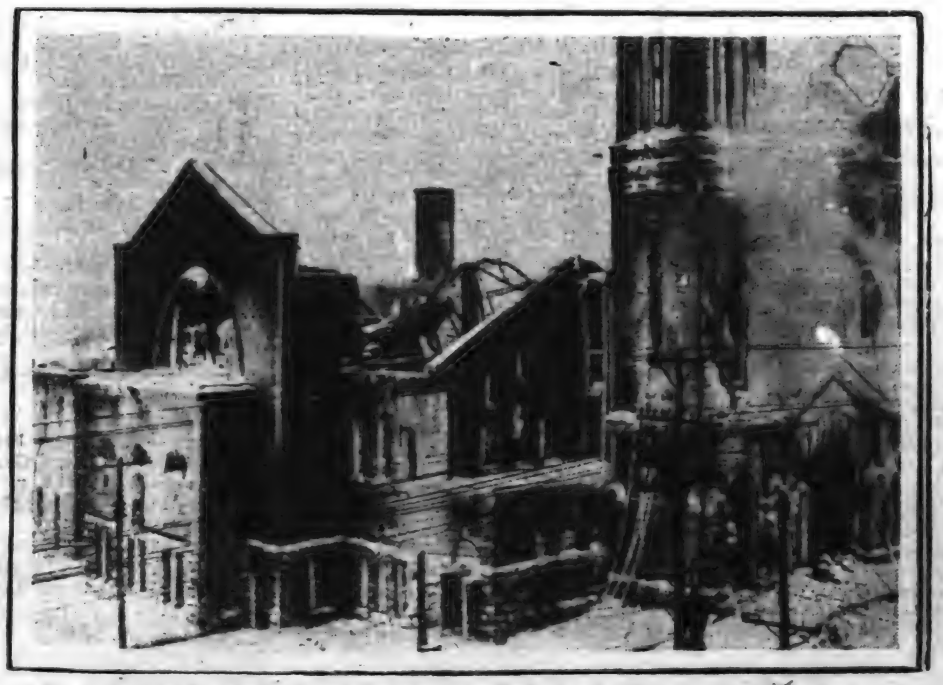
Empire Marketing



Calgary Herald (Ind. Cons.): For several years British dealers and officials of the Empire Marketing Board have been pointing out that the chief cause for the declining sale of Canadian butter and bacon in the Old Land is the irregularity of supplies. The Marketing Board has performed an invaluable service in urging British consumers to patronize Canadian products, but its work has been nullified by the failure of Canadian exporters to take full advantage of the friendly sentiment. It is estimated that Canada does not ship enough bacon and butter to Great Britain to supply the needs of more than a few weeks in the year. It is obvious that if this condition continues Canadians have only themselves to blame. Here is one field in which a market for Canadian products is available, and an opportunity provided for sustained co-operative effort on the part of Canadians.

Vaccination Triumphs

Kingston. — Opposition to vaccination of school children proved fruitless in this city when the Board of Health refused the request of the Board of Education, Separate School Board, and Trades and Labor Council to rescind the emergency order for the vaccination of all school children.

Declaring that the regulation providing for this undertaking was a provincial one, Dr. S. J. Keyes stated that opposition to vaccination is fast disappearing in Kingston, and estimated that all pupils would soon be made immune to smallpox as a result of the campaign now being undertaken.

A GREAT SOUL

A distinguished characteristic of a great soul is that it hungers for something about it; it aspires, never grovels, because it has gotten a glimpse of the real glory of life.

In Berlin a motorist drove into a group of 27 people, injuring 17 of them. He is convinced that he could improve on these figures if he used a bigger car.

REGULAR PAINS?

SOME women suffer more than others. Often, when there isn't any need! The pains peculiar to women may be relieved as readily as other pains for which Aspirin is intended. These tablets are always a big help at such times, and never the least bit harmful. (Aspirin does not depress the heart.)

Of course, you are familiar with the use of Aspirin for headache. It brings such prompt relief that sudden headaches needn't upset your plans. It will check a cold, or ease the sorest throat; and comfort the worst sufferer from neuritis and neuralgia.

When your head aches—from any cause—when a cold has settled in your joints or you feel those deep-down pains of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, take Aspirin and you can count on real relief.

Owl Laffs

The week's most embarrassing moment occurred when a literary minded fellow looked up his favorite big word in the dictionary just to prove that he was spelling it correctly and at the last report hadn't been able to even find the word.

To succeed in the future, you must break with the past.

There are many ways a woman can catch a husband but being a widow is the surest. We never waste any sympathy on a woman who complains that her husband is no longer tender, when she knows he is hard boiled because she keeps him in hot water most of the time. The boob is usually a fellow who doesn't see things the same way you do.

Nothing looks so much like wasted energy as a couple of pretty girls kissing each other.

"Daddy, I know how to do everything," said the little boy of five.

"What I don't know isn't worth knowing,' said the young man of twenty.

"Well, anyway, I do know my own a short lifetime," said the man of sixty-five.

"There are very few matters, I am sorry to say, that I am really quite sure about,' said the man of fifty.

"I have learned a bit, but not much, since I was born; but knowledge is so vast that one cannot become wise in a short lifetime," sai dthe man of sixty-five.

Customer (indignantly) — "Surely you are not wiping that plate with your handkerchief, waiter?"

Waiter—"That's all right, sir; it's only a dirty handkerchief."

A tooth paste that removes the film from the teeth may be all right, but what we need more is a hair oil that will remove fog from the brain.

It was summer time and a farmer was showing his new laborer around the farm, at the same time explaining to him all the duties he would have to do. When the farmer had given a list of the numerous duties required, the laborer paused a little and said:

Laborer—"What about cleaning all that snow from around the house?"

Farmer—"What are you talking about? There's no snow at this time of the yea.

Laborer—"No, but by the time I've done all the jobs you have laid out for me to do, there will be."

Harold, so we are told, got a wrong number the other evening.

Anxious Young Man (at Salvation Army Headquarters)—"Do you save young girls?"

Salvation Nell (kindly) — "Why, yes."

Anxious Young Man—"Well, save me a couple of red-heads for to-night—will you?"

The average woman grows old just about as gracefully as he climbs a fence.

Jimmy, four, small but wise, had been in the company of visitors the day before. At one period, when his mother had left the room for a minute or two—just long enough to get the iced tea iced—one of the guests had asked him where he was born. He was telling the story, next day, to a playmate, about what he had said when asked that question. "I knew I was born in the Woman's Hospital. But I thought that sounded sort of sappy, so I said the Cubs' Baseball park."

The ice man says Mrs. Jones isn't as friendly as she used to be. She wears such a Frigidaire.

A man said the other day: "You can find anything you want to know about in a World Almanac—if you know where to find it."

If we believed what their opponents say, we would conclude that all candidates are unfit to hold office.

One way to avoid the income tax is to earn less than $1,000 a year.

Rainy Night

By Daniel Whitehead Hicky

This is a night for long rememberings.
Light up the fire and watch each ripening spark
Drift like a firefly where the chimney sings
With all the purple mystery of the dark.
This is a night for books. Turn to a page
That throbs with Aprils that were lost; go deep
In folded letters yellowing with age;
A night of rain is not a night for sleep.
Pile up the hearth with cedar boughs and listen
To silver music flashing on the pane;
Speak long-forgotten words, and they will glisten
Wrapped in their vanished glory once again.
Turn back the clock, and till the break of dawn
Your heart will beat with hours that are gone.

The brave man carves out his fortune, and every man is the son of his own works.—Cervantes.

40 Years Service

William Fulton, assistant general passenger agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, stationed at Toronto, was guest of honor at a dinner given him by brother officials at the Royal York Hotel, January 24, in honor of his forty years service with the railway completed on that day. Joining the railway January 24, 1891, Mr. Fulton, at one time or another, met most of the C.P.R. men who have made Canadian history in the colorful years of the railway's growth.

Profits from Comfort

Comfortable working conditions make for efficient service.

This was not the opinion of our fathers, who believed that "pampering" the workers would encourage them to take their ease.

Opinion about this has notably changed. The Industrial Bulletin of Arthur D. Little, Inc. (Cambridge, Mass.), notes the significance of a changed attitude of industrial executives as shown in their recent adoption of scientific methods in improving the physical condition of employees. It goes on:

"Miners are treated with short-wave light to supply sunlight deficiency, with reported improved health, fewer accidents and, incidentally, reduced net operating costs.

"An English firm has found that special spectacles have increased the efficiency of textile inspectors an average of 20 per cent.—the spectacles are supplied even to girls with normal eye-sight, a corresponding correction being made for others. The end of the working day no longer finds them exhausted by long-continued eye-strain.

"Humidity control in a blade factory reduced accidents from cut fingers to an almost negligible number. The dryness of the inspectors' fingers was found to be the major factor."

There is not a moment without some day.—Cicero.

There Should Be No Ugly Women!

There are 2 classes of women.
(1) The beautiful, healthy and attractive creatures.
(2) Those pitiful ones who don't know how to make themselves beautiful—rather those who don't know the vital importance of Kruschen Salts to physical perfection and attraction!

Kruschen Salts are a perfect blend of the six vital minerals which Nature ordained, glands, blood, nerves and body organs should daily receive from food if they're to function correctly—and which are impossible to obtain in this age of modern cooking.

Get a bottle of Kruschen—and before the bottle is half empty your complexion should be gloriously smooth and clear. Kruschen clears blood of harmful acids and poisonous waste matter which cause blemishes, blackheads and pimples. Your wonderful new energy will surprise you—mind feels so keen and alert—no more washed-out feeling getting up in the mornings.

If baby has COLIC

A CRY in the night. Colic! No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy. This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never harm. It is the sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it safe for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than strong medicine meant only for adult use.

MOTHER OF TWINS HELPED

Restored to Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ont.—"I had little twin babies and for quite a while after I was so weak I could not do my work because of pains all the way up my legs at the back. I also had headaches and got very little sleep. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and soon I was able to get up and do my work. I have taken three bottles and I am fine, do my work without trouble and am gaining in weight and strength. I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to anyone."—MRS. F. The Nova Scotia fish catch for December last was 12,161,600 lbs., having a landed value of $266,111, as compared with a catch of 10,480,700 lbs. with a value of $329,562, for the corresponding month of the previous year.

Total amount of capital invested in Canada from other countries as at the end of 1930 was $6,375,533,000, an increase of $229,000,000 as compared with the total at the end of 1929. Of this outside investment, 61 per cent. is said to be from the United States; 35 per cent. British; and 4 per cent. from other countries.

The yield of potatoes in Canada in 1930 totalled 81,933,333 bushels, from 574,500 acres, an average yield of about 142 bushels per acre. In 1929 the yield was 66,550,000 bushels from 543,727 acres, or an average yield of 122 bushels per acre. Potatoes are grown successfully in commercial quantities in every province of the Dominion.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has announced placing of orders with the Algoma Steel Company of Sault Ste Marie for 20,000 tons of 130 lbs steel rail for spring delivery, representing a value of approximately $1,500,000. This unusually heavy rail will be laid on 150 miles of the company's main line in the Mountain Division of British Columbia.

Prescott, Ont., Canada's newest national port, is rapidly approaching completion. The $5,500,000 terminal which the Canadian Government is building there as a turning point for the Upper Great Lakes grain boats when they come down through the Welland Canal in the spring of this year will be ready for traffic in advance.

Canoeing history was made at Quebec recently when the seven Lavoie brothers piloted their craft over the ice-dotted waters of the St. Lawrence between Quebec and Levis in the remarkable time of 9 minutes, 43 seconds, and took first place in the canoe race which was one of the features of the Quebec Winter sports season with headquarters at the Chateau Frontenac.

"Melody Mike", Canadian Pacific Railway radio feature given every Monday night, is not only attracting wide popularity in Canada; the United States also like it and the railway's radio department recently had a letter from a school teacher in Angola, New York state, asking for 55 copies of Melody Mike's Favorite Irish songs, for distribution among her pupils.

In 1930 the Dominion's gold production was valued at $43,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000 over 1929. The capital investment in the mining industry in Canada at the end of 1929, the last year for which complete industrial statistics are as yet available, amounted to $350,000,000. In that year the industry gave employment to 96,000 men and paid out in salaries and wages $125,000,000.

The establishment of a $75,000 marine leg for handling grain at the Ocean Terminals is one part of the programme for the development of the Port of Halifax recommended to the Federal Government recently by the Halifax Board of Harbor Commissioners. This addition, in the opinion of the chairman of the Commission, would attract more shippers and vessels to the port, and would save in one year an amount equal to the cost of the equipment.

The Only Home She Knows

Little blue-eyed, auburn-haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

For work such as this, your subscription is asked. Will you please send as much as you can to Mr. A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto.

Mother Restored to Family

If you asked the average happy and comfortable Ontario housewife what a gain of 49¾ pounds would mean to her, she would probably look aghast at the very suggestion. Suppose, however, she were in the position of Mrs. Roberts, a woman with a family of young children in a small Ontario town where there was "little to earn and many to keep," growing weaker and weaker from overwork and poverty, finally obliged to leave her little ones to friends and neighbors and betake herself to the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives.

Then began the long, long fight to put back the precious pounds, which to Mrs. Roberts and so many like her, mean milestones on the road to health. Thanks to ten months of good care, rest, nourishing food and experienced medical attention, Mrs. Roberts one day saw the scales register 149 — a happy gain from the 99¾ pounds she registered on entering the hospital.

Where is she now? Back at home, joyously taking up the care of her family, and grateful for her restoration to health. A great work assuredly, which needs much assistance from friends because poverty and tuberculosis so often go hand in hand. Will you help, please? A subscription sent to Mr. A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto, will be greatly appreciated.

GRANT FLEMING, M.D. — ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

WHY SHOULD BIRTHS BE REGISTERED

When the baby is born, the law requires that the event be properly and formally recorded through registration of the birth. The law should be obeyed, not simply because it is the law but because it is in the interest of the new baby that he have a birth certificate.

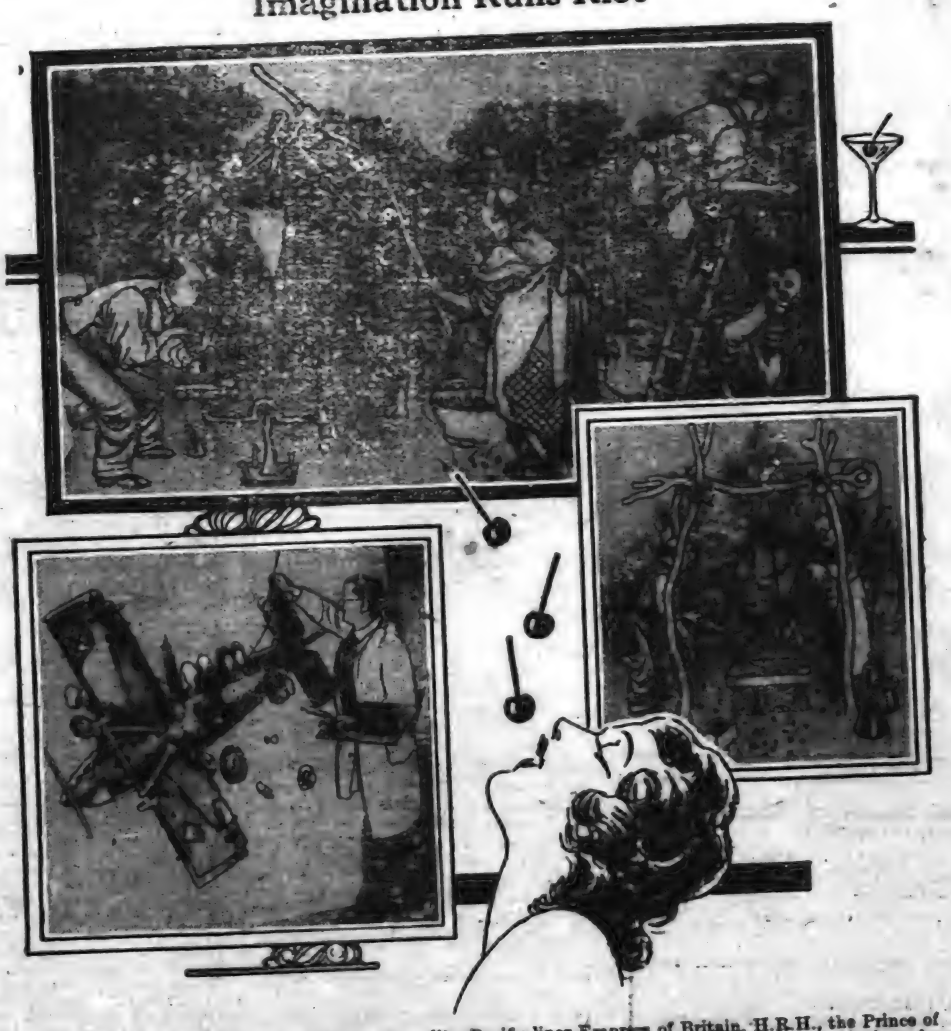
Failure to register the child's birth may cause him considerable inconvenience later on. The child may, in future years, require his birth certificate for any of the following reasons: Proof that he was born in Canada, that he has a right to a passport, as a Canadian citizen, for travelling outside the country.

Proof of age as a right to enter and leave school, as evidence that he is old enough to go to work, or to have the right to vote, to prove his age for marriage, or for enlistment in the army. Most insurance companies require proof of age before claims can be settled.

To establish identity, to prove that he is the son of his parents and that, as such, he has the right to inherit.

There are many more reasons, such as proof of age before securing a motor-vehicle driver's license, to establish eligibility for old age pensions. Enough have been mentioned, however, to prove conclusively that it is most desirable for the baby that his birth be registered. A moral and legal obligation rests upon parents to see that the birth of their child is properly registered.

The country is also anxious to have all births registered. It is through the prompt and complete registration of births and deaths that it is possible to keep a check on health conditions.



The public health departments which are organized and maintained by the public to safeguard the health of the people must have the necessary information to guide them if their work is to be well done. The most valuable and useful information that a health department has, and which shows what work is needed and as to whether or not good results are being secured from what is being done, is information concerning the babies.

In order to know what is happening to the babies, there must be a record of their births, otherwise the health department does not even know that these children have been born. Each parent should try to help the health departments to do their part in safeguarding the lives of all children by having the birth of his child registered.

We have taken this space to stress the importance of birth registration because there is carelessnes with regard to this subject in many places. Such carelessness interferes with health work, and causes trouble and inconvenience in adult life to those whose births were not registered.

Imagination Runs Riot

When he launched the 42,500 ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, H.R.H., the Prince of Wales, referring to the Knickerbocker Bar—as the cocktail bar of that magnificent new ship is to be known—said that its frequenters "can let their imagination run riot in a rosy haze amid the fantastic humour of Mr. Heath Robinson."

The Prince referred to the announcement that Britain's foremost humourous artist has been given a free hand to decorate that room on the new liner which is to make its bow to Canada June 22nd next.

Developing a humourous legend of the cocktail of his own invention, W. Heath Robinson, who is shown above at work on some of the panels, has prepared a decorative scheme that extolls the virtues of the cocktail and depicts ingenious machinery employed in its manufacture.

Heath Robinson's ideas of the latest labour-saving machinery in connection with the selection and preparation of cherries for cocktail embellishment are shown together with the Foolproof Safety Aeroplane, a direct descendant of the mythical cocktail bird. This ceiling decoration depicts the uplifting powers of an appetizer. These, and other drawings will appear on the walls and ceiling of the room

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

THANKFUL

By Edna Jacques

Naught to be thankful for, did you say,
As you sat by the old garage today.
The crops are poor and the cattle thin,
And the spuds are not what they might have been.
And there isn't much you can sell this year,
You're going to be very hard up you fear.

Well, what if you are, why man alive,
If you have to struggle and skrimp and strive,
And pinch a dollar until it hurts,
For winter woolens and shoes and shirts.
We've all been over the trail before,
And poverty's often knocked at the door.

It won't hurt you a bit, old man you know,
If you have to put the gears in low.
When the crops were good and the prices high,
Say, didn't we soar and spend and fly,
The sky was the limit, we took the air,
And blew our crops like a millionaire.

But there's always a time when we have to pay,
And the bills pile up for a rainy day.
And you start to think where you might have stood,
If you'd kept your head when the crops were good,
But cars cost money, and trips, Oh say,
The dough has a habit of melting away.

And what crops we had in our countryside,
When the wheat threshed out like a golden tide.
And the gods of harvest with lavish hand,
Scattered his riches across the land.
When the wheat poured out on the grainery floor,
And there wasn't room for a bushel more.

But let's forget what we might have done,
There'll be more harvests and rain and sun.
And let's be decent and take the blame,
And be sports enough to play the game.
And let's come down to earth and stay.
And get a grip on the things that pay.

COLLEGIATE BOYS DEFEAT TIGERS AFTER 20 MINUTES

On Wednesday, Feb. 11th, in the second game of a grand double fixture, the High-School Buccaneers stepped on the tails of the Tigers and kept them howling all night long.

After three periods of fast and exciting hockey, it was discovered that the score was two all. Now, when an incident of this nature occurs, it becomes necessary to play 10 minutes overtime. Well, the boys played the 10 minutes overtime, but, sad to state, neither team scored during this time. However, during an extra 10 minutes of overtime the High-School boys pushed through and scored. Thus, the game ended with a score of 3-2 in favour of the boys from the Collegiate.

The second fixture of the evening was in the town league and was a bang up affair. It meant much to each team, as far as the cup is concerned, and every boy was out there doing his best.

It was a real game and was in doubt till the whistle blew. Clean and fast. It would be difficult to pick a star as every player was up to par.

Inter-High-School Exhibition Games

When the hockey players from Milton High School visited the Streetsville students on Tuesday, Feb. 10th, the Streetsville boys reaped revenge by defeating the visitors by a score of 3-2. The Milton boys have been used to playing on a larger rink and could not do their best playing on the Streetsville rink which is slightly smaller than the Milton Arena.

In the girls' fixture, the visitors defeated the local "femines" 3-0. These games between the teams of the "weaker" sex are very interesting so don't miss the next one.

After the games all the players removed themselves to the High School, where a banquet was held in honour of our visitors.

Milton Line-up:

Boys—Defense, Gastle and London; centre, Clements; wings, Gilbert and Elsley; goal, C. Gilbert; subs, K. Clements, M. Beatty, H. McCann, M. Gowland (sub. goal).

Girls—Goal, Molly McDuffee; defence, K. London and M. Mackenzie; wing, M. Turner and M. Fasken; centre, Catherine Robertson; subs, M. Hamilton, L. Campbell, K. Symons.

Credit Vale 3, Town 3

Oh, boy! what a game it proved to be and after over-time of about an hour they could not break the lock. It was one of the best Broom Polo contests up to date. Every player was willing to call it off for another night. Any old time these teams come together you can depend on a real battle.

The weather has certainly put a crimp in doing around the arena. No ice, no fun. It forced our big hockey tourney off the map, till later on in the week. "Watch for Posters."

Friday night will see our town-league nearly finished. Here is hoping for ice.

Toronto 4, Thistles 3

In a fast exhibition game last Thursday, between Ossington Avenue Baptist Church and the Streetsville Thistles, the visitors carried off the laurels by a score of 4-3. The ice was a little soft and the game was not what it might have been but the spectators got their money's worth.

Miss A. Pope, representative of the Upper Canada Tract Society, spent several days in the village collecting for the Society. She was pleased with the response. The Society supports colporteurs among sailors in several important ports of the country. Bibles, Testaments and tracts are distributed among miners railroad construction men, lumber men and others, who need the help the Society can bring through its representations.

NOTES

Mr. A. Leece has been re-appointed Truant Officer for the Public School.

Mr. M. C. Deckert, attended the funeral of his brother at the family home at Linwood, near Kitchener, on Saturday.

Mr. F. G. Reid was re-elected as a member of the Public School Board by acclamation at the nomination meeting Monday evening.

Rev. J. A. Ferguson, aged 60, a former Presbyterian minister at Norval, passed away in Toronto. He entered the United Church at the time of union.

Mr. H. W. Cavell of Toronto, Past Worthy Patron, assisted by his wife, a Past Worthy Matron, installed the latter's brother, Mr. Sam Cordingly, as Associate Patron of Peel Chapter, No. 96, Order Eastern Star, Streetsville, Monday evening.

Tuesday morning, Mrs. Bert Fullerton, Tenth Line, Trafalgar, used coal oil to start the fire in the kitchen stove and was badly burned by the explosion which set the house on fire. Everything in the room was burnt, and Mr. Fullerton and their son, Elmer, were also badly scorched fighting the fire. Mrs. Fullerton had her clothes burnt off her, but is recovering now.

OBITUARY

Charles R. Watson

Charles R. Watson, aged 73, one of Dixie's oldest inhabitants, and well-known fruit grower, died at his home at Dixie as the result of a stroke suffered a few days ago.

Mr. Watson was born in Hamilton in 1857. At the age of three he moved with his family to Dixie, remaining in the neighborhood until his death. For the past 47 years he had lived on and cultivated his fruit farm on the outskirts of the town.

The late Mr. Watson was a member of Dixie Presbyterian Church and a Liberal in politics. He is survived by his wife, one son, Kenneth, of Dixie, and one daughter, Mr. W. Rands, Cooksville. Four brothers, George W., of Dixie; Fred, of Waterford; Jesse, of Seattle, and Harvey, of Vancouver, also survive.

Roy Pallett

Following a lengthy illness, Roy Pallett, aged 43, choirmaster and organist of Bethesda United Church, died at his home in Dixie. A nephew of Charles R. Watson, who also passed away Thursday night, he was a member of Lambton Masonic Lodge. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Donald and Edward, and three daughters, Laura, Alice and June. All are at home.

S.H.S. NOTES

Our news last week might give the impression that we are not making the most of our time at school. We wish to assure our readers that the chatter takes place at recess and that work, by all means, comes first.

Last week our senior boys' hockey team brought honour to the school by defeating both Milton H.S. team and town team, though they didn't fare so well at Cooksville. The Milton students and their teachers were entertained with a lunch at the school, after the games.

The Literary Society will hold their monthly meeting on Friday afternoon. The chief feature will be an interform debate, and address from the Honorary President, Mr. Purchase.

The Annual Oratorical Contest will likely be held on Friday night, Feb. 27th. There are at least eight contestants for the honours and the best boy and the best girl will represent S.H.S. in the Toronto District meet in March.

Term exams started on Friday last. Lower school writing Grammar and Composition and Middle School Geometry and Composition.

In spite of colds our attendance keeps up wonderfully well. Only one was out sick last week.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

The following officers and committees were appointed for 1931: Chairman, J. H. A. Atkinson; Sec.-Treas., E. E. King; Supply Committee, Mrs. Bunt, F. G. Reid; Repair Com., C. G. Quennell, J. C. Rutledge, H. W. Couse; Visiting Com., Mrs. Bunt, J. H. Atkinson, H. W. Couse; Board will meet second Monday of each month. I. J. Ardagh was appointed member of High School Board for 1931.

Peel Juniors Ready for Dramatics

Musical Festival

A meeting was held at the Department of Agriculture, on Monday evening, February 16th, in order to discuss the advisability of holding a Peel County Musical Festival in 1931. 26 people were present, representing Brampton, Streetsville, Cooksville, Ebenezer, Port Credit and Toronto. It was decided that this Festival should be held, and Mr. W. J. Fleury was appointed President of the organization. Mr. A. G. Lynd, of Port Credit, Vice-President, Miss A. E. Wise, Home Demonstrator, Secretary-Treasurer. The Executive: Miss E. Miller, Mr. Russell, Mr. Barrett, Miss Goldthorpe, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Capps, Mrs. Fulton and Mr. Appleton. The Committee to draw up the Syllabus: Mr. Capps, Mr. Russell, Mrs. McFadden, Miss Goldthorpe, Mrs. Fulton and the adjudicator.

The finals for this festival will be held at Port Credit and the elimination contest will be decided on by the Committee in charge. The Program Committee are meeting on Saturday afternoon, February 21st, in the Department of Agriculture, and the Executive on Monday evening, March 2. It is hoped that the enthusiasm shown at this meeting will survive the year and that this competition which is to be run off the first week in May will be a record-breaker.

DRAMATIC SERIES

Peel County's first Dramatic Series is about to be run off. Six Junior groups have entered—Brampton and Cheltenham play at Cheltenham Hall, Feb. 24th. Trinity and Streetsville, at Princess Theatre, Streetsville, Feb. 25th and Bolton and Tullamore at Bolton Hall, Feb. 26th. This will be the Preliminary Contest and the three winning groups will compete early in March for the trophy donated by Gordon Graydon of Brampton. Mr. Graydon is showing considerable interest in Junior work and the Peel boys and girls are putting up a keen competition for first place in the series. Each group is working under the direction of a coach who is giving their services free of charge. In competing for the trophy the same play may be used or a new one chosen.

Three neutral judges are being supplied by the local Dept. of Agriculture Constructive criticism will be given. The plays will be judged by the following score: Staging of play, 20 points; acting, 50 points; delivery, 30 points. It is expected that the halls will be filled with eager spectators on these evenings. Program to be put on between plays is being supplied by the local organization. The proceeds will be divided between the groups making the presentation.

LET US SMILE

Two elderly ladies were sitting listening to a band concert in Hyde Park, London. A dispute arose between them regarding the selection being played.

Said one: "I think they're playing 'William Tell'."

"No," contradicted the other. "I think it's 'Poet and Peasant'."

Thereupon one of the ladies wandered over to what she thought was the program board, and returned with a smile, saying: "No, my dear, we're both wrong; it's a refrain from Spitting."

"Can you act?" asked the movie director.

"Act? Why on the stage last week I died so naturally that a man in the audience fainted. He was my life insurance agent."

Victoria Masonic Lodge, Toronto, was inspected on Tuesday night by H. Gerhart, D.D.G.M., he has 29 lodges in the district to inspect; about one quarter of these have received his official visit. He is assisted by his District Secretary, E. E. King, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

A Marketing Board

Organization of a Provincial Marketing Board to assist farmers in disposing of their products is a probability of the near future, according to Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. This Board would advise the producers when and how to market their various commodities. Agents would be distributed throughout Canada, chiefly in the large centres of population. From time to time they would report upon the needs of the district in which they resided, and that information would be passed on to the farmers and their organizations. The system would extend to Great Britain, where representatives of the Marketing Board wuold keep an eye on conditions and advise as to the most favorable times in which to dispose of Ontario's exportable surplus of farm products.

Beekeepers Convened

The Ontario Beekeeeprs' Association and the Ontario Honey Producers' Association were hosts last week in Toronto to apiarists from all parts of Canada and the United States to the number of about six hundred. The program was of a very practical nature, each item being handled by an expert of international reputation. A great volume of valuable information on up-to-date methods of beekeeping and the marketing of honey was forthcoming. In common with other branches of agriculture, beekeepers are seeking wider and more stable markets for their product and at this convention many avenues of research which have been explored during the past few years were explained.

New Methods Urged

Overhauling of farm methods in Ontario, the application of scientific principles of farming, the spreading of agricultural vocational training, the cutting down of overhead, elimination of waste and improvement in marketing methods, are some of the proposals contained in the report of the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, to the Government, which are likely to be embodied in the form of legislation at the session now in progress. One of the chief difficulties confronting the Department has been the conversion of farmers to the need of improving their marketing methods and generally departing from practices in vogue before the era of competitive progress. The Minister hopes to put agriculture on a basis where it will produce higher quality products at less cost. For instance Ontario farmers have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars through parasites in hogs. Hogs thus affected take considerable more feeding than do healthy dogs, a matter of several months, and the farmer's profit is considerably lessened as a result.

Keen Interest in Train

At stops already made, great interest has been shown by farmers of Southwestern Ontario in the Soils and Crops train now on tour of the counties in this rich, specialized farming area. The two demonstration cars are attracting much attention. In the Soils car one of the features is a graphic lesson on the importance of correct fertilizer applications. Opportunities for lowering costs of production are suggested in charts. In the Crops car, types particularly suited to the district are represented by actual specimen, together with samples of high-class seed. Cereals, legumes, root, corn and tobacco crops are among those illustrated. Altogether the train offers a splendid opportunity to farmers for seeing what is being done in soil and crop improvement work. Special arrangements have been made to interest rural school classes and lectures will be given to them where the train makes a full day's stop. The train is operated by the Department's Crops and Market Branch, equipped by the O. A. C. Department of Extension and is in charge of Mr. A. R. G. Smith.

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara accepts the proposition of Christopher Steynes that she act as his wife in order to discourage a Russian countess who desires him to marry her daughter. While in Steynes' home a burglar enters and Christopher shoots him. Police take Mary Kate's name and address and she is terrified that her mother may find out. She returns home, only to find that she has fallen in love with Steynes. She tells this to Jas Keating, her regular beau. "Not the Chris Steynes who shot a burglar the other night?" asks Cass.

CHAPTER XXIX.

She had forgotten that. She had forgotten everything but Chris. Her heart leaped with instinctive fear but she answered carelessly enough:

"That's the man."

"And you met him in the office?"

Mary Kate's head jerked an assent against his shoulder.

"What'd he do? Try to make love to you?"

"No; he never touched me. He never said a word—like that, I mean."

"O-h-h?" Cass said, in a different, a lighter tone. Whatever dawning suspicions he had entertained were allayed. "How often did you see him?" he asked.

"Three times," Mary Kate answered, after a moment's consideration. "Twice in the office," she thought, "and once more to cover all that other time."

Cass laughed.

"You saw him three times, and he never said a word about love," he summarized it.

"Well, yes—he did say something about love," she remembered. "He even said something about—well, falling in love with me. But it was not serious. It was sort of—about how funny it would be—something like that—"

The man ruminated upon this for some moments, and Mary Kate closed her eyes again. She heard Christopher's voice saying that her gown was grand, that she was a swell—

"Mary, Mary, Mary." It was a beautiful name; it had a hundred times the dignity of "Mary Kate."

He might come into the office tomorrow; he might stand there, looking at her, smiling at her. They might have five minutes' talk. It was all she wanted, all she needed—

"And you got a sort of crush on him?" Cass asked, amusedly.

"I suppose that's it."

"But you don't know one thing about him, Mary Kate!"

"I know."

"Look. You might hate him."

"I might." There had been moments, she remembered, when she had thought that she already hated him.

"But then what makes you think you have a crush on him?"

"The—the way I feel, Cass," Mary Kate said earnestly. She had to tell somebody, she couldn't tell anyone else. "If I hadn't met him, I'd think I was sick," she resumed, with a shamed laugh. "Because most of it is just feeling sick—hot and dry and cold and shaky and—well, just mad with restlessness, all the time. I'd not think it had anything to do with—with him, excet that it's worse when I think of him—the way his voice sounds—the way he looks—"

Cass had squared about to face her in the dark. Now he said, in an altered voice, a speculative, deliberate voice:

"Say, you have got it!"

"I've got—something," Mary Kate confessed, with an unhappy laugh.

"You've felt like that before?" the man questioned.

A silence. Then she said simply: "Never in my life before."

Cass fell silent now, too. He got up from the davenport and went to the light, and turned it higher. A flickering half-hearted illumination wavered on the ugly walls, shabby chairs and curtains. The man lighted a cigarette.

He came back to the davenport, but sat apart from her now, twisted about so that he faced her, the cigarette in his fingers.

"Listen here," he said. "You must have had crushes like that before in high school."

"I never did," she persisted steadily.

"Mary Kate," Cass said, in what, considering his young confidence in his masculine power to handle all her problems as well as his own, was a new strangely uncertain voice, "you didn't—I mean when we were so happy last week—when I was so crazy about you—as God knows I am now—you didn't feel that sort of feeling then?"

Her passive hand lay in his; she raised her troubled eyes, spoke apathetically.

"I think that's what I'm trying to tell you, Cass."

"That's the way I felt about you," he said humbly.

"I know," Mary Kate's voice was almost inaudible.

"Every telephone means you, to me," the man went on.

"Oh, I know!" Oh, voice of Chris, somewhere out in the spring night, where were you now? Her heart began to hammer again. He must not sail next Sunday until she had a chance to talk to him, once—only.

Cass was speaking. She could hear his voice, but not the words.

"Where's he staying, Mr. Steynes?"

"I didn't hear you."

"Is this Mr. Steynes, or whatever his name is, staying in San Mateo?"

"Burlingame."

Then there was a long silence. Mary Kate had closed her eyes again, and was leaning back, looking spent and limp. But there was a sudden narrowing, a sudden speculative light, in Cass's eyes.

"Did you go to Sacramento?" he asked suddenly in a level voice.

Her eyes flashed open; color rushed into her face.

"No—" she whispered fearfully, slightly shaking her head. She was sitting erect now, and as Cass did not speak, but continued to regard her, with a sort of horrified astonishment in his look, she put her two hands to her head, and disordered her brilliant crushed hair with frantic fingers.

"My God—" Cass breathed, whispering in return, his unmoving eyes glued upon her face.

Silence. Silence. It spread and rose and deepened between them like the noiseless waters of a swollen river.

"Oh, not the way you think!" Mary Kate recently said, impatiently, indifferently. "I didn't do anything—wrong. I'm not a kid, to be led astray. I know the Commandments. I went down there on business for Mr. Rountree."

"But why didn't you tell me?"

She spoke apathetically.

"I knew Mother'd raise the roof."

"Why should she?"

"I thought she might."

"But if there was nothing wrong?"

Mary Kate shrugged, sighed, and made no answer. There was infinite indifference, infinite weariness in her averted eyes.

"When I went into the kitchen, a while back, to give your mother a quarter for the gas meter," Cass said, "I didn't have a quarter. So I picked up your purse, and took it from that. And I saw a return ticket from Burlingame there."

She remembered now. Chris had bought her a return ticket on Saturday afternoon, not knowing that she already had such a ticket in her purse. It hadn't seemed to matter, then—

"It kind of surprised me, because in all the months I've known you you've never been to Burlingame that I knew of," Cass pursued.

"They wanted me to go to a dinner, and pretend to be somebody, that was all there was to it!" Mary Kate presently volunteered.

"I see. Well, your mother would not have minded that!"

"She might have."

"Where'd you stay?"

"Oh, at one of their houses."

"Other people there?"

A second's pause. Then she said: "Yes."

"Did Mr. Rountree ask you to do it, Mary Kate?"

"Oh, yes, as a favor to him." It was all beginning to seem natural and simple. Her nerves steadied.

"I don't see why you shouldn't do that," Cass mused. "Was Steynes staying with him?"

"No, he's taken a Spanish house, a little way off. The Bersinger place, I think they called it."

The name stirred Cass's memory.

"Were they talking about the burglar—no, it was before the burglar," he thought aloud. "When were you—let's see—"

"It was that night, it was when I was there," she confessed, fearfully, yet with sudden relief in her voice, too.

"My God!" Cass said, not irreverently, as he glanced at this slender, crushed, anxious girl with the deep blue eyes, who was one day to be his wife. "You might have let yourself in for something!"

"I did," Mary Kate admitted, raising her steady look to his.

"You weren't in Steynes' house!"

"I was—as it happened."

"How'd that happen?"

"The arrangement was made that way."

"He had a house party, eh? Mart would skin you, Mary Kate," Cass said, off on a tack.

"I know it. And Mother, too."

"But why did you do it?"

"They wanted to pay me for it, Cass. And you know how I wanted to help Mart."

"To go to Germany, you mean?"

"With Doctor van Antwerp."

"H'm!" Cass mused. "Why, but look," he said, brightening, after a moment's thought, "that's what's been the matter with you, you poor little thing! You've gotten yourself all wrought up over nothing, and you think it's a crush on Mr. Steynes. Don't you see? It was the excitement and the risk—how much did you see of the man?"

"Of Chris—topher Steynes?" She had to add the last three syllables to the name as an afterthought.

"No. The burglar."

"Oh, I heard voices—and the gun—" She covered her face with her hands, shuddered.

"Gosh!" Cass ejaculated youthfully. "They got the police, huh?"

"Immediately."

"Didn't get your name?" He was agitated. The fears of the boy who has worked his way up, through newspaper deliveries, street gangs, messenger service, were in his voice.

"They got everyone's name—the servants, everyone." Mary Kate had thought this answer out before.

It caused Cass to fall into long thought, his lips pursed, the cigarette dead in his hand.

"Rotten break," he finally commented. "But you don't have to tell me," he went on, patting her hand, "that you didn't do anything wrong."

"No, I didn't do anything wrong."

He went on absently patting her hand; phases of the affair were occurring to him.

"Lucky thing for you Mart was away!"

"Oh, wasn't it!" she breathed fervently.

Canada's Future

London Daily Express (Ind. Cons.): Canada is passing through a depression, but it is from no inherent cause. The dumping of Russian grain and the general international dislocation of trade have exacted their heavy toll. But the glory of Canada's future shines like the sun through the mists. Favored among all the nations in the wealth of her soil and the virility of her people, the years ahead are laden with treasure.

Garden Talks

Article 1

One need not wait until the winter is over to commence gardening. Before a cosy fire there is a good deal of satisfaction in planning the transformation of that bit of ground surrounding the house, some evening this week. It is, of course, quite possible to put in a garden without a plan, but the results will not be nearly as satisfactory as when one has plotted everything out on paper. These plans should be roughly drawn to scale so that there will be less difficulty in putting them into execution next month or the month after. With the flower garden there are a number of factors to take into consideration. If one owns the property something permanent should be worked out, the development to take place over a period of years. Close up against the house and screening the rigid lines and corners will be shrubbery and perhaps an odd tree or two. In front of this will be the taller flowers, perennials or annuals, and maybe some spring flowering bulbs to go in next Fall. There will be paths to lay out, disfiguring but highly necessary telephone and power poles, water and sewer connections, straight driveways and similar affairs to screen. The time of flowering, the color of bloom and the height of the various plants must be especially noted. Along the front of the beds dwarf edging material will be used, leading up gradually to the taller flowers, depending on the width of the bed. In this planning it is essential to have a good seed catalogue handy and perhaps a government bulletin or two. Both these references are easily procured and, of course, are free. In the catalogues will be found all the necessary information, such as the height of the various plants, the time and color of flowering, and any special uses to which the particular flower may be put, such as its position with reference to light and soil conditions. Plan to have something in bloom from the very earliest time in the Spring until Fall frosts reduce everything to a common level. The bulbs, of course, such as the tulip and hyacinth, will come out first, and these, where a proper selection is made, will be followed by a continuous bloom supplied by annuals and perennials until late in September. In the warmer sections of the province it is quite within the range of possibility to have some hardy flowers until early November. For those people who wish to have something just a little out of the ordinary, something they can show their gardening friends with a little pride, there are plenty of opportunities in this delightful pastime. A pool may be installed where water flowers will bloom. Perhaps along a terrace or behind the shrubbery a rock garden with alpine plants may be developed. Away at the back among the trees wild flowers and rare shade-loving plants may be introduced. Rose gardens can be provided and, here again, one can depart from the ordinary by training these beautiful bushes to a single stem to represent a flowering tree, or over quainty built arches and trellises. Indeed, the more one looks into gardening the more it is realized that some things like hilly locations, unsightly garages and high fences which, regarded at first as obstacles, are really opportunities for developing special skill.

Have Plenty of Vegetables

In the vegetable garden straight rows are essential. A full years' supply of vegetables can be easily produced where the garden is fairly large and this usually applies to all places in the country, the villages or the smaller towns. If there is room enough, full sized rows of from thirty inches to four feet are advisable, so that full advantage can be taken of horse or garden tractor cultivation. Such vegetables as carrots, beets, lettuce and spinach can be grown in the narrower rows while potatoes, tomatoes, cucumbers, squash and corn require from three to four feet. In the larger garden, it will not be necessary to worry about conserving space by alternate rows of quickly maturing stuff such as lettuce and spinach, which are taken off before the latter sorts require the full room. But this does not mean that tomatoes, for instance, should be allowed to sprawl over the ground. Staking of these plants is always advisable as the fruit matures earlier and is cleaner, and a neater appearance is given to the whole garden. Run the rows north and south so that the sunshine will be evenly distributed. After the early crops are harvested, and the first of them, like the radish, will be ready in from three weeks to a month, sow a cover crop of Clover or oats which will cover the ground, keep down weeds and add fertilizer when plowed under. By planting this seed at intervals of a week rather than a whole packet at once and by the use of a late, medium and early variety, we can extend our vegetable season very materially.

Ideal Life

The ideal life—what is it but the realization of our own oneness with the Infinite and the helping others to realize theirs, showing what can be done through our own living and loving, and by our words bearing witness to the eternal varities?

An Indoor Message

Green is my room—and white,
Calm, cool and peaceful.
Green for the countryside
Joyous and hopeful.
White for its purity—
Shining, beautiful.
Green is my room—and white,
Welcoming, restful.

I made it green and white
Just to remember
Glad days of long ago.
Searching for snowdrops;
Snowdrops of purest white,
Sheaths of the tenderest green
Green and white symphonies,
Rising through snowdrifts.

So my room, white and green,
Always is whispering:
"Glad days are ever here,
Hope's promises fulfilled.
Under the sternest skies,
Under the deepest drifts,
Snowdrops, the bravest flowers,
Are steadfastly growing."

Dear room of green and white,
Always your message is Gracious, comforting.

Parasite Control

The Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Departments of Agriculture of Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are co-operating in making available to sheep raisers in Eastern Canada a booklet, "Common Animal Parasites Injurious to Sheep in Eastern Canada." The manuscript, prepared by Dr. Lionel Stevenson of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, deals in a practical way with a wide range of parasites, their appearance, and the symptoms which indicate their presence; and also prescribes effective treatment. A limited supply of the booklet is available for free distribution through the Publications Branch of the Dominion Department at Ottawa.

Driver's Quick Thinking Saves Four Other Lives

Gives Car Spurt Ahead as It Stops on Track, But Engine Hits Fender

Toronto—Presence of mind on the ragged edge of the last split-second of impending disaster, and lightning application of desperate resort in the last hair's breadth separating safety from calamity, saved four lives on Saturday night—though a fifth was lost—when a speeding passenger-train grazed a Toronto bound automobile at the Summerville level crossing west of the city. Ross Wilson, 18, of 312 Queen's Avenue, London, Ont., one of five young men driving to Toronto in a roadster piloted by George Sinclair, 350 Ashland Ave., London, suffered injuries from which he died at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Sinclair, whose quick thinking saved his own and the three other lives, ironically enough now faces a charge of reckless driving.

The five young men, part of a Y.M.C.A. party, turned off the Dundas Highway at Brown's Lane, heading for the Lake Shore Highway. A westbound non-stop passenger train was approaching the crossing near Summerville station. Sinclair saw it. In what seemed plenty of time to his companions, he applied the brakes.

The car skidded on the icy surface of the road; Sinclair worked with all his skill to bring it under control again; the skid continued; the car slid onward. Then it stopped, its engine still running—but the auto came to its halt in the very path of the approaching locomotive, with the glare of the engine headlight pouring down upon it a stream of blinding light.

Rear Fender Caught

Sinclair did the only thing possible—stepped on the gas in a last-minute effort to beat the engine across the crossing. He did beat it across—but for his rear fender and spare tire. Young Wilson had, apparently, risen in fright in the rumble seat; he was hurled from the car into a ditch and sustained the injuries from which he died three hours later in St. Joseph's Hospital. His companion in the rumble seat—who was on the side of the approaching train—was unhurt.

The spare tire of the car was torn off, to be found later nearly 200 feet from the crossing.

Two Airmen Killed In Borden Crash

Believed to Have Been Flying Blind—Fall in Swamp

Barrie—"Blind" flying is believed to have been cause of the crash of an airplane at Camp Borden Friday noon that cost the lives of two newcomers to the R.C.A.F., when their Moth two-seater plane fell more than 1,000 feet in the swamp adjoining the camp. The men were Pilot Officer Carl Alan Kaspner Gill, aged 32, of Trail, B.C., and Napoleon Albert Duval, aged 21, of Contrecoeur, Que.

When officers at the camp reached the swamp they found the plane a twisted mass of wreckage. One man was dead, his neck broken, while the other was still breathing, although he died before being pulled out of the machine. The bodies were brought to a local undertaking establishment to await funeral arrangements.

Both men were in civilian garb, having arrived at the camp only recently for a short course in advanced flying. It is understood they took off shortly before noon to do some "blind" flying. It was explained that during blind flying, which is to train an aviator to handle his machine in fog, the pilot has his head covered and is unable to see. Whether this had any bearing on the mishap is unknown, but a court of inquiry has been convened to determine, if possible, its cause.

Gill leaves a wife and two children, while his companion was unmarried.

New Governor-General and Bennett Talk Over Transatlantic Phone

Ottawa.—Premier R. B. Bennett was in transatlantic telephone communication on Feb. 11th with the Earl of Bessborough, Canada's new Governor-General. The new incumbent of Rideau Hall is making expeditious arrangements respecting the affairs of his two large estates in the British Isles prior to his departure for the Dominion.

Tentative arrangements call for the sailing of the Earl of Bessborough from Liverpool on March 27 on board the Duchess of Bedford. It is understood that the official ceremony of reception will take place in the Legislative Buildings at Halifax on the landing of the successor to Earl Willingdon on April 4 or 5.

In arriving at Halifax this Dominion's fourteenth Governor-General will trace the footsteps of two former Governors-General—Earl Grey and the Duke of Devonshire, who landed at this port. Practically all other Governors-General disembarked at Quebec, now closed for the winter months.

Arrangements now made mean that the ceremony of the opening of Parliament on March 12 will be performed by the Administrator, Mr. Justice Duff. The drawing room—the initiation of social events in the capital for the parliamentary season—and the state dinner will consequently be postponed until the arrival of the new Governor-General.

Canadian Apple Shipments

Vernon, B.C. — Apple shipments from the Okanagan in 1930 amounted to 2,095,546 boxes, compared with 1,965,557 boxes in 1929. The figure includes bulk shipments of apples which doubled last year from 4,873 tons to 9,620 tons in 1930, but are exclusive of sales in the interior of British Columbia or export shipments. It is noted that 145,704 boxes were sold in British Columbia; 385,564 in Alberta; 368,975 in Saskatchewan; 209,511 in Manitoba and 239,874 in Eastern Canada, or a total of 1,349,628. In addition 108,205 boxes of crab apples were packed.

South Offers Big Field For Trade

Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce Tells of Favorable Conditions

Montreal.—"Canada supplies South America with only $31,000,000 or $32,000,000 worth of goods out of South America's $1,915,000,000 of imports. The United States supplies goods to the value of $581,524,000, Great Britain supplies $364,000,000, Germany $225,000,000, and France $127,000,000. This is hardly a good showing for Canada when one considers that in the total volume of her trade Canada is the fifth largest trading nation in the world."

This statement was made by F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, in a recent address here.

Until recent years South America has been more or less an unknown land to Canadians, Mr. O'Hara said, but of late the possibilities of trade and the marked increase in Canada's exports to certain countries there have awakened a lively interest, as evidenced especially by Canada's participation in the Buenos Aires exhibition, which is to be opened on the fourteenth of March.

Foreign Trade Progress

"If a nation is to progress, its foreign trade cannot stand still," he said. "We must therefore be ever ready to go out to the four quarters of the world, either personally from the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, or through the mediumship of our Trade Commissioners, to seek opportunities to extend Canadian trade."

Much interest has been aroused in South America throughout Canada as a result of Canada's participation in the British Empire Trade Fair at Buenos Aires. Through the Department of Trade and Commerce, Canada will be represented by a handsome pavilion in which all Canadian exhibits will be housed, Mr. O'Hara said. "I am glad to be able to report that practically our whole pavilion has been rented to Canadian manufacturers, save that portion reserved for the general Canadian products exhibition, which our Exhibition Branch will install, in addition to a handsome collection of paintings which will be sent from the National Art Gallery in Ottawa to form a representative exhibition of Canadian art. It will be the largest exhibition of Canadian manufactures ever assembled outside of Canada.

Mr. O'Hara summarized the benefits resulting from his visit in 1927 to Latin-American countries as follows:

1. A steamship service from Atlantic ports to Brazilian and Argentine ports was established, and has proved eminently successful.

2. An arrangement was made for the distribution of the motion picture produced by the Department of Trade and Commerce in the principal countries of South America.

3. A weekly news service was arranged by which columns of Canadian news are now appearing in the press of Latin America.

4. One of the largest of Canadian chartered banks established branches at Panama and Colon, in the Republic of Panama.

5. The negotiations for a trade arrangement with Cuba, which had been dragging for some months, were concluded.

6. A Canadian Trade Commissioners' office was established in Peru.

Ont. Government to Aid Blind Workers

Toronto.—The Toronto Globe says: "Blind workmen of the province will be materially assisted in gaining and holding positions in industry as a result of the Ontario Governments intention, it is declared, of bringing down legislation during the approaching session of the House to include such persons within the scope of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

"Special provisions will be made, it is stated, to make the new amendment equitable to both employer and employee. The method proposed last year was that accidents to blind men involving a sum under $50 would be paid out of premiums. Sums in excess of this amount would be paid by the Government under a system of underwriting. The Government would also undertake to see that blind workmen were given adequate protection from dangerous machinery and other risks."

Canadian Furs in the Argentine

Victoria, British Columbia.—A fine collection of fox furs have been sent to the Argentine by the British Columbia Government to form part of the Canadian display at the British Empire Trade Fair at Buenos Aires. There will be twelve pelts in all, comprising silver fox, first and second crosses, Peace River and Alaskan, taken from animals ranging from 9 to 18 months old, being stock raised on farms on Vancouver Island.

Crop Inspection

Vernon, B.C.—More than 80 farmers of the North Okanagan district have made application to the Provincial Department of Agriculture for inspection of their crops, believing that such inspection will be of great assistance to them in making a selection of their exhibits for the World's Grain Show at Regina in 1932.

HOMESTEAD GRANTS

Edmonton, Alberta.—During December a total of 510 homestead entries was made in Alberta with a resultant increase in the population of 1,254 persons, according to an announcement by Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Minister of Lands and Mines. As was the case, both with October and November entries, homesteaders already resident in Canada led the way with 184 entries representing 365 persons.

Quick Service

Saskatoon, Sask.—A shipment of fish, caught between dawn and 10.30 a.m. at Lac La Ronge the other day, reached the T. Eaton store in Saskatoon shortly before 1 o'clock and was served in the company's dining room at luncheon, having been brought down from Lac La Ronge—250 miles distant—by airplane in a little over two hours.

Northern Lights

When snow lies white on mountain height
And winter stalks by hill and glen,
The merry dancers of the night
Are at their joyous jigs again;
Above Ben Mhor their rancing floor
In silver radiance is spread,
With sound of waters on the shore
And star-shine winking overhead.

In green and blue of rainbow hue,
And red and yellow, clear as flame,
Their footsteps fall as light as dew,
These merry sprites without a name!
And to and fro they whirling go,
And tread their measures, gay and free;
But whence they come shall no man know,
And whence they vanish no man see!

—Elizabeth Fleming.

Invisible Mending

A tear in heavy material, such as men's suits and thick coats, may be mended in the following way so as to be practically invisible. It takes time and a little patience, but the result is well worth while.

Cut a square of the material left over when the garment was made, or, if that is not available, cut away a piece from a under-side where it will not be noticed.

Frap out the four edges with a needle to a depth of an inch all round. Then apply the patch to the torn part and tack into position.

Now work every thread of the frayed fringe into the garment. Do this by putting a darning-needle into the garment close beside the patch and running through the material with invisible stitches.

Insert the thread into the eye and draw the needle through the garment. Do this with every thread, then trim neatly with sharp scissors, and it will be impossible to tell where the patch is.

New Grain Markets

Moose Jaw, Sask.—The present low prices of grains will open many new markets in Europe for the Canadian wheat farmer, in the opinion of J. A. Mooney, managing director of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, to be held in Regina in 1932, speaking before a service club in Moose Jaw recently.

Saskatchewan's output of butter in December was unusually large, at 692,811 pounds, as compared with 403,078 pounds in December, 1929, an increase of 289,733 pounds or 71.8 per cent. This large increase at the year's close reduced the year's loss (as compared with 1929), to 865,644 pounds or 5.8 per cent.—the 1930 production being 14,786,205 pounds.

Grain shipments through the Port of Vancouver for the season, to January 23rd, total 36,545,443 bushels, compared with 18,679,810 bushels for the same period of the previous year.

Crawl to Edge of Roof To Leap From Flames

Long Branch Merchant Sees Life's Savings Lost in Roaring Blaze

Toronto—Blinded by smoke, flames licking at them as they crawled through a window and crept across a roof from which they dropped to the street, a mother and three small children early Saturday night narrowly escaped death only to stand and watch a life's savings vanish as fire razed the store of Thompson and Smith at Long Branch.

Trapped in the upper storey of the frame building, seven persons in all, Mrs. Smith and her three children, her sister-in-law, a maid and Mr. Thompson, were unaware that fire had broken out in the store below their apartment until escape was cut off down the narrow stairs. The women and children crawled to safety. Mr. Thompson ran the gamut of flames down the stairs and was severely burned.

Coolly and quietly leading her three children, Mrs. Smith crawled across the roof of the store which roared and crackled below her. At the edge of the roof she thrust her children, Desmond and Gwendolyn, five-year-old twins, and Bernard four years old, over the edge. Crowds gathering in the street saw her plight and willing passersby rushed to the store, daring the flames which licked through the broken window.

Jump to Safety

Pluckily the twins leaped to safety. Bernard followed his brother and sister. Then Mrs. Smith, Miss Smith and Miss Louise Bartlett, a maid, jumped into the waiting arms. Mr. Thompson who essayed the gamut of flames down the stairway in the centre of the store, was badly scorched and burned. He was given emergency treatment in a nearby drug store.

Workers From U.S. Are Returned

Border Check-up Inaugurated by Immigration Authorities

Windsor—That the Canadian immigration department does not propose to "lie down" when it comes to displacing U. S. citizens employed on this side was made evident when three residents of Detroit found working in Walkerville factories were escorted across the river by immigration officers and ordered not to return to Canada even to visit without special permission from the Minister of Immigration.

The deportations were the initial steps in a campaign to uncover cases of illegal entry made to this country to secure employment. The three men are Thomas Eichstadt, Detroit, a native of Germany, and Fred Eaves, a native American who were found employed as polishers at the plant of the Dominion Specialties Co.

All three agreed voluntarily to deportation. Several other cases of the kind are being investigated.

Dominion Chick Hatchery Policy Saving to Farmers

Ottawa. — A saving to Canadian farmers this year of $300,000 is forecast for the hatchery approval policy of the Department of Agriculture, it was declared recently by Hon. Robert Weir. Under the scheme, 134 hatcheries are operated, producing about 5,000,000 baby chicks a year. These are available to farmers at low prices and records show they have a much lower mortality rate than the usual product.

ISLINGTON

The Islington volunteer fire brigade held a stag euchre Tuesday evening in the fire hall with about fifty present which included a number of business and professional men. The prizes were won by Gilbert Bell and Jack McAvoy. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a medal to Ross Patterson, who, two months ago, moved to Toronto. The brigade have a happy custom by which they appreciate the services of ex-members in this way. Brief speeches were made by Reeve Marshall, the fire trustees and others, all commending, in the highest terms, the fine work being done by our firemen.

At the close a wonderful luncheon was served consisting of sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice-cream galore, and to top everything two large cakes with a great many lighted candles to commemorate the birthdays of two of the brigade, Messrs. Semple and Creech. Certain areas adjoining our fire area which, during the past year have had water mains put in, have been enjoying fire protection without paying for it. Hence, at the present session of the Legislature our Township Council are introducing a private bill whereby such water areas may be annexed to the fire area by the Council without a vote of those concerned. This is only fair.

In March, the fire trustees and business men will tender the firemen a complimentary supper dance and euchre. The best is none too good for these men who freely give their services, and risk their lives if need be.

Last Tuesday evening a full meeting of the members of the men's and ladies' Conservative Associations was held at the home of Ex-alderman Sam Ryding President Harrison presided and plans were pretty well completed for the third annual banquet to be held March 20th.

Owing to an epidemic of flu, whooping cough and odd cases of scarlet fever and 5 teachers on the sick list, our public school was closed last week. This was done as a precaution as none of the cases are serious.

"Select Your Partners Promenade All"

Was Quite in Order at the Community Club Ball

Together sometimes Friday, and the 13th of the month will come,
And that often sends a superstitious feeling to some,
But Mrs. Fullerton, the president of the Community Club this year,
Says, the day or the date don't put their plans out of gear.
The thirteenth came on Friday, but no one seemed to mind it,
Because the Trafalgar Community Club were behind it.
The probs said that night; cold, blowing, and snowing,

And the cold was enough to keep people from going,
For this winter so many motorists in snow banks were learning
You could get to a place, but had trouble returning.
It took Will Cooke, and Cliff May, all night from a quarter to nine,
From John Cooke's gate in the snow- banks to reach the town line.

Some wise heads predicted, the crowd would be small,
And it would be lonesome that night, in the Oddfellows' Hall.
It was this Club's entertainment, and no person wondered
To see that swell gathering, of over three hundred,
Of course a few couldn't come, they are getting too old,
If they sat up at night, they would be sure to catch cold.

At the euchre tables, the applications were plenty,
But there was only room at the tables, for a hundred and twenty.
The players were excited, right from the beginning,
For the prizes the club give, are always worth winning.
When the scores were counted, and the judges debating,
It was certainly an anxious crowd that were waiting.

The supper is always perfect, you will not find a mistake,
Of good things and plenty this club always bake.
The coffee was great, and we heard so many mention
To every one the waiters gave such good attention.
This is part of their life, in which these ladies believe,
It is far more blessed to give than to receive.

In what part of this program were these ladies?
Now I saw a whole bunch about eight or ten,
They looked as if all were doing their best
To conceal lots of victuals under their vest.
Then it looked to me for a day or perhaps two,
This great act in their life they needn't pursue.

But it is down in the hall, where we get the romance
Where they are enjoying the modern and old fashioned dance,
You would think every one had no trouble or care,
And I thought all the girls had such beautiful hair.
And now they went through the Circassion circle and reels,
And I wondered how they could with the high, new fangled heels.

What a pleasure to hear Mr. Mason, the floor manager, call,
Select your partners and promenade all,
Some boys were proud of their partner's beautiful tresses
And some were proud of their partner's new fashioned dresses.
Our girls are more beautiful, if we go into details,
Than the girls who danced with the Prince of Wales.

The Martin-Ramsay Orchestra from Brampton weren't out of employment,
They played from nine until two without losing a minute.
For the waltz or the square dance this music has such a charm in it.
To get time for refreshments was a most serious riddle,
Then Mr. Hillier solved this problem —he played on the fiddle.

Mr. Mason then called for order to announce the prize winners,
Mrs. Fullerton, the president of the club, presenting the prizes.
Euchre prizes, ladies' first prize, Mrs. T. A. Leslie;
Second prize, Mrs. Dr. Smith; gentlemen first prize, Frank Burton;
Second prize, George Mason;
Lucky chair, Mrs. Edgar Adamson, lucky dance.
Mr. Emerson Letty, Meadowvale, and Miss Florence O'Brien, Erindale.

The club didn't have one minute of leisure,
But they found great enjoyment, giving other ones pleasure.
These faithful workers use every cent that is made
To help poor unfortunate ones in need of some aid.
But they will hear when they embark on the unknown sea,
Well done, good and faithful, that was all done for me.

SANDY.

OUR SHORT STORY

Foreword: My acquaintance with the Godelin family has been one of the pleasantest of my friendships, and, that the benefit of having known them may be passed on to the public at large, I present a little fable that Grandpop told to the Tribe, Jimmie, Johnny and Jane.

The Tribe came skidding around the corner of the big house to a fanfare of squeals from Jane, who was in the van, with Jimmie close behind, and Johnny a bad third. Jimmie had a fine large caterpillar which he evidently intended to place on the handiest portion of Jane's anatomy. Accompanying the Tribe were assorted dogs, the pig, Clarence, and General Pest, the big rooster.

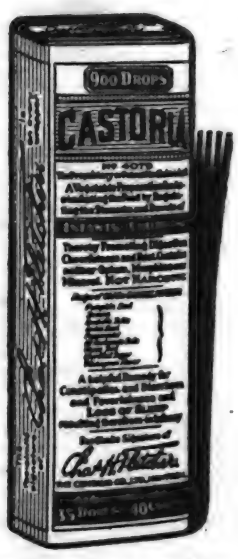
Grandpop was seated in a chair tilted against the side of the house, and at the advent of the Tribe and Co., gave no sign of their existence. The Tribe, however, swarmed upon him, with grubby fingers and sticky faces, and insisted, in no uncertain voice, on a story. This is the one the old man told, after he had reduced them to silence by a few careless shoves, and smack or two, and a few suggestions on the use of soap and water.

"Jim Welch, the blacksmith down at the Corners, used to have the smartest little dog I ever did see. He wasn't no particular breed, and he warn't so big, but he knew a lot, that dog. He could catch more rats than all the dogone cats there ever was, and he could carry a dinner basket, and fetch cows, and slippers, an' catch rabbits, an' all sorts of things.

But one day, when he was awful hungry, some idjit put out a dish of b'ilin' hot soup for him, and before the little son of a gun knew how hot it was, he scalded the inside of his throat, and dagone near burnt his tummy to bits.

Well, Jim was near heart-broke to see the little feller suffer so. He took him to the vet, but the vet. said he wouldn't live if he took his tummy out, and Jim was near flabbergasted. But they hit on a plan between them. They took the dog to a tin-smith, and let me tell you, they was good tinsmiths in them days, and the vet. took out the little dog's throat and tummy, and the tinsmith made a copper throat and a copper tummy for him, and the vet. put them in in place of his old ones.

Well sir, after that dog got his health back, he was the proudest dog you ever seen. He had the loudest bark in the county, and he could play the fife on that copper throat of his'n as good as any Twelfth of July Orangeman. And eat! He couldn't eat so much, but he could eat a little of anything. He used to eat coal oil, an' tacks, an' old leather, an' chewin' gum, an' sawdust, an' any amount of funny things.



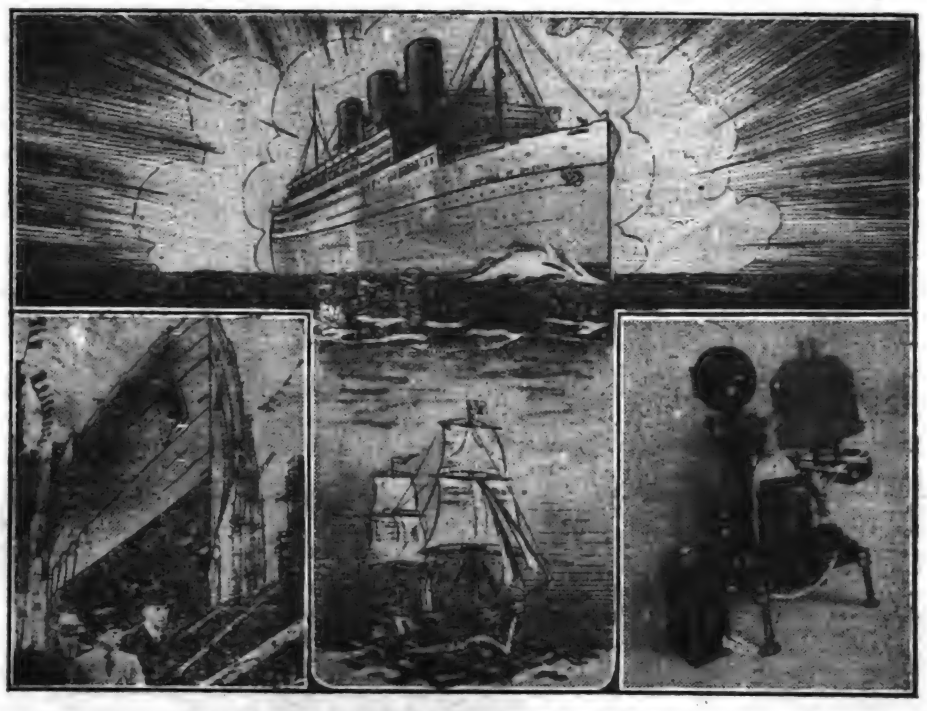
But the best part of it all was what he did to a great big hound called Tige. Tige used to lay for the little feller, and try to maul him, and o' course, the little feller couldn't fight so good as the big dog.

Well, one Twenty-Fourth of May, when all the boys had their firecrackers a poppin', the little feller went down to the Corners to bring back the mail. And Tige sees him, and starts for him. The little feller run a ways, but Tige gained on him easy, so what does the little feller do but pick up a big cannon cracker, an' swaller it down into his copper tummy, an' then pick up a pebble an' put it in his copper throat. An' then, by gosh, he just turned around, and shot that big Tige dog dead!"

And with a sly smile, old Godelin got up and went into the house, leaving the Tribe "flabbergasted."

Ye Scribe.

Castoria corrects CHILDREN'S ailments



WHAT a relief and satisfaction it is for mothers to know that there is always Castoria to depend on when babies get fretful and uncomfortable! Whether it's teething, colic or other little upset, Castoria always brings quick comfort; and, with relief from pain, restful sleep.

And when older, fast-growing children get out of sorts and out of condition, you have only to give a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation to right the disturbed condition quickly.

Because Castoria is made expressly for children, it has just the needed mildness of action. Yet you can always depend on it to be effective. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment and cannot possibly do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue, is fretful and out of sorts. Be sure to get the genuine; with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Canada's Challenger To Have Canadian Talkies

What romance lurks in the contrast between the Royal William, the floating kettle which first puffed across the Atlantic by steam—from Quebec to London in 1837; and Canada's greatest floating palace, the Empress of Britain, now being rushed to completion on the Clydebank, which will number Sound and Talking Pictures among her many attractions. The equipment, which has been specially designed to meet the requirements of a life of Marine Globe trotting, and manufactured in the Montreal plant of the Northern Electric Company, Ltd., is being shipped via S.S. Minnedosa, from Saint John, to Liverpool, where English sound engineers will install it in the Concert Hall. An unique feature of this, Canada's first Marine installation of Sound Pictures, is that at whatever port the "Empress" is likely to call in fifty-five countries of the world special sound engineers will be available in case of any emergency accident to the equipment. Passengers will sit at ease in the beautiful Concert Hall on an upperdeck while the latest London, Paris, or Broadway hit, or an illustrated lecture on some foreign port, which they are approaching, will entertain them from the silver screen.

Above is an artist's conception of the "Empress" leaving Quebec in the wake of the "William" ninety-four years after. Below the Royal William on the high seas. Left, the Prince of Wales and E. W. Beatty on their way to launch the great liner last year. Right, one of the Talking Picture equipments being installed on the new vessel.

Thursday, Feb. 19, 1931

Miss Reba Weylie is visiting with Toronto friends.

Mrs. R. Williamson of Tottenham and Mrs. Philip Dunn of Weston spent Sunday with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ward.

The Village Council has arranged with Constable Rutledge to use the dump on his property for another year at $20. The First collection of garbage will be made about March First Word comes from Newmarket of the death of Audrey Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Dugan, who kept store in Streetsville, a few years ago. She was in her 20th year.

Mr. E.J. Ellis, Manager of the Streetsville Community Rink, says the big Hockey Tournament will be run off this Friday night, Feb. 20th. The ice on Monday night was too soft for playing.

Messrs. S. S. Rice and A. E. Pope visited Imperial Lodge, Independent Oddfellows, Toronto, Tuesday night when Mayor W.J. Stewart, Aldermen Leslie, Holdsworth and Duckworth School Trustee C. M. Carrie and Thos. Bell MPP, were initiated into the Order. H.J.M. Lockart, Grand Master, and many other prominent members of the Order, were present. About 400 were present at the big banquet which followed.

The Swiss Bell Ringers visited the village Saturday night and put on a show. Those present got the worth of their money and a few candies thrown in. The boys say they got their eyes full—whatever that means we don't know. Those people can certainly handle the bells and perform in many other ways. The young ladies are wonderful exponents of the terpischorean art and were generous with their appearances. As the evening air was very sultry an extra supply of stage dress was not necessary. The manager is a musical wizard and can handle a violin from almost any angle. He also gave an exhibition of sleight-of-hand work that had never been seen here before. The attendance was not large and those present hope to see the Bell Ringers back here again soon—because they give a good clean show, and one that don't need to be censored.—Con.

Marguerites — What Are They?

Some people never call the meat left-overs "hash," but think up some fancy good sounding name. The result is it is hailed with acclaim by the family. In fact it is often found the left-overs are more tasty than the first appearance of the roast if you are a good cook. It is said that the proof of a good cook is judged by the goodness of the hashes she can make.

Often they must be made out of her head for of course she has to do with what she finds in the house and many a recipe is completely changed because, well, it calls for celery but I don't happen to have any to-day, so I will use celery salt instead. Then I do believe it will taste better if I add this bit of green pepper, etc., etc. So that by the time the dish is ready for the table it is stamped with your own name and a new ragout is concocted waiting for a new title.

Then, best of all, do not the properly treated left overs reduce the meat bills most acceptably, while at the same time it makes us feel we are imitating the great French chef himself, for the French—and the thrifty Canadian housewife—never throw away anything, not even a teaspoonful of vegetables. Everything is saved and transformed into something good and topped off with a fancy name. Here is one right now:

Marguerites

Mince any cold meat left over and add to it finely cut celery which has already been cooked until tender. Make a sauce of some of the stock and tomato, thickening it with a heaping teaspoonful of butter and one of flour rubbed to a smooth paste. When cooked to a consistency of thick cream add celery and meat. Season well.

To three cups cold mashed potato add sufficient flour to make rather stiff dough. Turn out on a board and roll an inch thick. Then with round cutter three inches or so in diameter, cut into rounds. With another smaller cutter cut the centres out of the rounds about three-quarters of the way through. Take out the centre with a fork and bake the cakes until golden brown. Then heap the cakes with the very hot meat and serve with sprigs of parsley.

The Twilight Hour Story

Chapter 10

The Next Morning

In the morning, I can tell you, the chicks were good and hungry. It was the first time they ever felt hungry because you may remember they had the yellow of the egg to eat for three days in their little tummies. It was a good thing they had that, wasn't it? Especially when Mama Hen was so bad to them and didn't care if they had any breakfast or not. Mama Lady knew they would be hungry, so in the morning she and Billy opened the box and took off all the warm covers very early. And because the box was in the sun it streamed all over them so that when they came out they were delighted and started playing in the straw and sunbeams until Mama Lady had something to eat for them. Do you know what she gave them? Well, she got some chick starter at the store that looks something like flour and added a little bit of water until it looked like fine cake crumbs, so they could pick it up with their little bills easily. Then she put down about a quarter of a piece of newspaper on the straw for a table cloth and sprinkled some crumbs on the paper. At first the little chicks were afraid of it and ran off behind the black shawl, but they peeked out, watching her all the time, and soon couldn't help coming out and seeing what it was. Then they even walked on the paper when she sprinkled some more crumbs on it.

At first the little shavers didn't know what to do with it, but after the first mouthful they did, and I can tell you it was all gone in no time. They ate every little scrap and hunted all over for more. Billy said, "Mama, give them some more, they are still hungry." But Mama Lady said, "No, Billy, that wouldn't be good for them. They can just have a little so their wee tummies can get used to eating. But instead of three meals they may have six. Won't that be fun for them?" Yes, every two hours Mama Lady brought a nice clean paper, and set it down among them. It didn't take long for them to know what was coming the minute she put down the paper. Then after they ate up all the crumbs she took the paper away so they could scratch and play in the straw. Sometimes they would scratch so hard and fast that the straw would get into the little water dish in one corner and then they would look all around for their water and wonder where it was, for they liked long drinks. Billy always saw that there was plenty of water for them.

They were full of fun, these little chickies, and now that they belonged to Billy and Mama Lady they wanted to give them each a name, but they couldn't. Do you know why? They looked so much alike no one could tell them apart. So we must wait until later on. It is a good thing we know Jimmy. We won't forget that, be one anyway, isn't it, and that one is cause he was bigger.

These little chicks wer so cute. Do you know what they did every little while? They worked so hard digging away in the straw that they would get just awfully tired. Of course Mama Lady knew this, and often she came over to them and put them all in their little bedroom on the can of warm water to have an afternoon nap. They liked it, too, and would go right to sleep back in there, just like you do in the afternoon.

A Poisonous Fish

On the Queensland coast a fish greatly feared by fishermen and bathers is the stone fish, a kind of distant relation of the Australian red rock cod. It is a poisonous fish, which is likely to inflict an extremely painful and dangerous wound.

"The bullrout, which is very unfavorably known in the higher fresh water parts of the estuaries of New South Wales, also causes a very painful wound. On one occasion a fisherman, who had trodden on one of these fish, was in such suffering that his mates, not realizing the harm they were doing, placed his foot in a bucket of boiling water. The pain was so severe that he was unable to feel the heat of the water, and in the end his foot had to be amputated.

"The little Fortescue of Pork Jackson, which is a kind of first cousin to the bullrout, also causes a painful and dangerous wound.

"The catfish, both fresh water and estuary, is widely known and feared for the bad wound it is able to cause with the pectoral and dorsal spine.

"Australia has only two kinds of poisonous fish, that is, poisonous to eat, and these are not looked upon as edible. These are the various species of toad fish and the heavily-armored porcupine fish.

There is a little fish with poisonous spines that rests on the bottom of Sydney Harbor. It is known as the frog fish. One would think that the habitat of this fish would protect it from interference from anything above water, yet the great black cormorants are able to dive to a depth of as much as twenty-six feet of water, and bring this frog fish to the surface. I have ascertained during the last few years that where the cormorants are able to get this fish they seem to prefer it to any other.—"Animal Life."

Sunday School Lesson

February 22. Lesson VIII—Jesus Bearing the Good Tidings—Luke 8: 1-15. Golden Text—He went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God.—Luke 8: 1.

ANALYSIS.

I. MINISTERING WOMEN, Luke 8: 1-3.
II. PARABLES, Luke 8: 4-9.
III. SOWER AND SOILS, Luke 8: 11-15.

I. MINISTERING WOMEN, Luke 8: 1-3.

Vs. 1-3. We know little of these ministering women; no doubt their names were familiar in the Early Church. Magdala seems to have been on the south-west coast of the Sea of Galilee. The "seven" devils might refer to a particularly bad case of demon-possession, or to a number of relapses. It has been suggested that Chuza may possibly be the nobleman referred to in John 4: 46.

Jesus command t the rich man, to sell all his goods and give to the poor, was a particular, not a universal, command. He warned men of the dangers and snares of riches, but he was not the enemy of private property. He taught men to make a spiritual use of money, but he preached no economic doctrine, and we cannot quote his authority for Capitalism, or Socialism, or Communism, but only for the doctrine of stewardship. If you are rich, use your money unselfishly; if you are poor, do not envy the rich. Jesus did not seek hardship and discomfort for their own sakes; there was nothing "ascetic" about him, as if people had no right to enjoy themselves in this wicked world. He did not refuse invitations to dinner, or to marriage festivals. He allowed these women to use their wealth to enable him and his disciples to do their work; but when the way of duty pointed to the Cross, no lure of comfort, ease or pleasure, could turn him from the way.

II. PARABLES, Luke 8: 4-9.

Vs. 4-15. Still, today, if an Oriental teacher is asked a religious question, it is likely that he will answer with a parable; for the parable is, as it was in Jesus' time, a familiar method of conveying truth. It is a device for teaching, not for concealing truth. It is contrary to all historical and moral probability that Jesus used parables in order to hide his meaning from the majority of his audience, v. 10. Even this passage from Isaiah should not really be understood in this way. The prophet meant that the result rather than the intention of his preaching was the hardening of men's hearts, Isa. 6: 9, 10.

But the parabolic method of teaching which was customary in the Orient was not familiar in Europe and in the early Gentile churches. Here the simple parables of Jesus were taken as dark and mysterious allegories which required skillful and learned interpretation. But if the disciples themselves could not understand the parables of Jesus, much less could the common people; then what would have been the use of preaching which nobody understood? We are bound to assume, therefore, that the parables of Jesus represent the simplest form into which he could put his teaching, and that its meaning would be plain at least to the more spiritually minded of those who heard him. But every preacher who bases his sermon upon a parable of Jesus explains the parable, and says, in effect, "Jesus meant so and so." The Early Church did not draw any very clear line of distinction between "Jesus said" and "Jesus meant."

III. SOWER AND SOILS, Luke 8: 11-15.

If the church interpretation of the parable is substantially right, Jesus must have spoken the parable some time after the beginning of his ministry, for he seems to be looking back upon the effect of his preaching, and perhaps comforting himself and his disciples with the reflection that, if much of the preaching seemed to be in vain, yet, here and there, the word was falling on good soil.

V. 10. By "the mysteries of the kingdom" we are not to understand abstruse theological doctrines, or some special, mysterious teaching accessible only to apostles and ministers, but rather the deep things of the kingdom of God. The mysteries in Christianity are all open mysteries to those who have pure eyes and Christian hearts.

Vs. 11-1v. In these verses we have an adaptation of the parable to the conditions of those who hear Christian preaching in all ages and places; but, whereas, of course, the soil is not responsible for its fertility, hearers are largely responsible for the answer they make to the preaching. In v. 13 the words, "temptation" and "fall away" are almost technical terms. "Temptation" means "persecution" and "fall away" means "become apostate," or "deny Christianity." In v. 15 "patience" means "endurance." Even those who are of an honest and good heart will have a hard time, but they will hold on and bring forth a plentiful harvest at last.

Great West Life Had Excellent Year

Directors' Report to Shareholders a Message of Encouragement to General Public

The splendid progress of the Company and its position of safety were revealed in the report of the Directors and addresses of the President and General Manager; but perhaps the most significant outcome of the year's work, from the point of view of the general public, is the convincing demonstration of Canada's fundamental soundness as a field of operation for well-directed and well-managed large-scale business.

statement shows business in force of

Analysis of the Company's financial $614,405,447.00, Assets of $129,147,632.- not yet due, of $10,559,742.00, and Un- 05, Accrued Profits to Policyholders, assigned Profits and Contingency Reserve of $1,413,907.37. The Gross Surplus Earnings for 1930 of $6,075,327.57 were the largest in the Company's history. The total net surplus of the Company, after providing for all profit and dividend requirements and er writing down assets is now increased to $3,413,907.37 exclusive of the balance in shareholders 'account.

The standing of The Great-West Life as one of the best profit-paying companies of this continent will be maintained in 1931 by the continuance of profits to policyholders on the same liberal scale as in the previous year, according to the announcement of the General Manager.

During the year the assets of the Company and all investments were subjected to the test of a rigid revaluation under present depressed conditions. The assets of the company show an interesting diversity, viz.: Bonds and Debentures 34%, City Mortgages and Properties 25%, Farm Mortgages and Properties 21%, Policy Loans 19%, Miscellaneous 1%. Western Farm Mortgages have been restricted, but by no means discontinued. Applications for loans are carefully scrutinized, loans are restricted to moderate amounts and those applicants who have done something towards engaging in mixed farming methods are favored.

The business in force increased by over twenty-two millions in 1930, in spite of the financial depression which caused a number of policyholders to let some portion of their insurance lapse.

A note of well based confidence in the future of Canada was sounded in the address of the President, Mr. G. W. Allan, K.C. Dealing particularly with the agricultural future he pointed out that the present conditions where agricultural products do not bring reasonable prices cannot last. The law of supply and demand was now functioning to the distress of our people; it will in due time bring to them a return of prosperity. Canada can produce food at low cost and therefore will probably be one of the first countries to recover from the present world-wide depression as conditions return to normal.

There are 182,240 sheep in Manitoba, 207,551 in Saskatchewan, 520,000 in Alberta and 204,342 in British Columbia, according to the latest statistics.

One of life's finest things, as it is one of its most pathetic, is the continual reassertion of Soul. It may be trodden down, but it cannot be trodden out. It may be degraded, but it cannot be destroyed.—G. Beesley Austin.

According to figures compiled by the Toronto Convention and Tourist Association, nearly 6,000,000 tourists have visited the "Queen City" since the organization opened its bureau in 1926. The figure does not include about 550,000 convention delegates who are not tourists in the strict sense of the world.

FARM PROBLEMS

Conducted by Prof. Henry G. Bell, Dept. of Chemistry, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph

The following are this week's questions and answers:

L.G.—There is a fertilizer on the market and is making its first appearance in this district this year, called Tennessee Rock Phosphate, 33% total phosphoric acid. Is it a safe fertilizer to use, as some people give it a bad name, or have you had any experience with it? Would you think it as good buying it at $30.00 a ton as a 2-12-6 mixed fertilizer at the same price? I farm 100 acres of land and sow fertilizer on everything I sow. Even at that I don't know everything about fertilizer yet and I am ready and willing to learn all I can.

Answer.—Raw rock phosphate is found in Tennessee and Florida. The grade you mention contains 33% tri-calcic-phosphate. Grades containing a higher percentage of tri-calcic-phosphate are used in the manufacture of superphosphate. The manufacture of superphosphate usually involves the grinding of this rock to a definite fineness and treatment of it with sulphuric acid. This treatment produces soluble forms of phosphoric acid which constitute available phosphate under the regulations of the Dominion Fertilizer Act. The 33% tri-calcic-phosphate is ground much more finely than the ordinary rock phosphate used for the manufacture of superphosphate. The object of the superfine grinding of the 33% raw rock phosphate is to increase its availability.

When subjected to tests provided by regulations of the Dominion Fertilizer Act, the 33% raw rock phosphate shows an availability of 1.3 to 1.8%. Superphosphate, which has a total content varying between 17 and 18% phosphoric acid (P205) shows an availability of 16% under the authorized tests. Therefore the comparison of availability between these two materials is as 1.8 to 16.

It is difficult to compare raw rock phosphate with a mixed fertilizer such as 2-12-6, first, because less than 2% in the 33% total phosphoric acid of raw rock phosphate is available while, in a 2-12-6 fertilizer, 2% of nitrogen, 12% phosphoric acid and 6% potash is available; second, because raw rock phosphate carries phosphoric acid (very largely insoluble) and a percentage of lime, while 2-12-6 carries nitrogen and potash in addition to 12% available phosphoric acid. This is how the three materials compare:

Percentage Amount of Available Plantfood

Rock Phosphate—Nitrogen, 0; Phosphoric Acid, 1.8; Potash, 0; or in 1 ton, 36 lbs. Superphosphate—Nitrogen, 0; Phosphoric Acid, 16; Potash, 0; or in 1 ton 320 lbs. 2-12-6—Nitrogen, 2; Phosphoric Acid, 12; Potash, 6; or in 1 ton, 40 lbs. Nit., 240 lbs. Phos. Ac., 120 lbs. Potash.

Thus a ton of 2-12-6 fertilizer contains 240—36 or 6¾ times as much available phosphoric acid as rock phosphate and has, in addition, 40 lbs. of nitrogen and 120 lbs. of potash.

33% raw rock phosphate has been tested in many sections of the province during the past summer. Quantities were sent for test purposes to several counties. We have on file letters from 12 farmers who reported on their tests. Out of the twelve, demonstration tests conducted in several counties we have reports on 16 tests on oats where 33% raw rock phosphate was compared with check or no fertilizer, with acid phosphate and with 2-12-6. The average yields are as follows: No fertilizer, 49.1 bus. per acre; raw rock phosphate, 44.1 bus.; acid phosphate 49.9 bus.; and 2-12-6, 54.5 bus. per acre. In 7 out of the 16 tests raw rock phosphate made a slight increase over no fertilizer. In 11 out of the 16 tests acid phosphate made substantial gains over raw rock phosphate. In all but 4 of the tests 2-12-6 was a materially heavier yielder thn raw rock phosphate.

6 tests on barley showed an average yield for unfertilized of 36.9 bus. per acre; raw rock phosphate 34.7; acid phosphate 35.6 and 2-12-6 38.9 bus. per acre.

7 tests on fall wheat in various parts of the province showed an average yield for no fertilizer of 32.8 bus. per acre; raw rock phdsphate 31; acid phosphate 40.7; 2-12-6 45.2 bus. per acre.

6 tests distributed over several potato growing sections in New Ontario showed an average yield for check or no fertilizer of 342 bus. per acre; raw rock phosphate 372 bus.; acid phosphate 414.3 bus. Certain of the soils on which these potato tests were conducted showed a strong degree of acidity. Evidently the lime content of the raw rock phosphate has functioned to some extent under such conditions. It is the opinion of this station, based on work previously conducted with more coarsely ground raw rock phosphate, that increases may be looked for in succeeding years due to the unused portion of the rock phosphate becoming available as time goes on.

From the work alreay conducted by this station up to date and at the price you indicate per ton we cannot recommend the purchase and use of 33% raw rock phosphate as a source of available phosphoric acid, in view of prevailing prices quoted for superphosphate. As to a comparison of 2-12-6 with raw rock phosphate, the former carries so much more available plant food than the latter—two valuable plant foods in addition to the phosphoric acid carried by raw rock phosphate and 2-12-6 alike—the comparison is impossible.

Warning to Hunters In Rabbit Season

New Disease — Tularaenia Contracted Through the Handling of Wild Game

According to recent reports received by the U.S. Public Health Service, an unusually large number of cases of Tularaemia are occurring this winter in a special article issued by this service. We read

Tularaemia is a disease caused by a germ which is found in nature, principally in certain infected rodents. Tularaemia was discovered by Dr. Edward Francis of the Public Health Service. Wild rabbits are the main source of infection of this disease. Among wild rabbits tularaemia is a very fatal disease. Men sometimes contract this disease from handling rabbits. Hunters who dress rabbits, or cooks who prepare them for the table, are very frequently infected wiht tularaemia if the rabbit has this disease. A few cases have been contracted from such unusual sources as the skinning or dressing of woodchucks, muskrats, opossums, skunks, coyotes and tree squirrels.

The three chief sources of infection with tularaemia are tick bite, fly bite and the dressing of wild rabbits. Cases of the disease have occurred in the United States in every month of the year. The great reservoir of infection, and the greatest source of human infection, is the wild rabbit—jack, cottontail, and snowshoe varieties—but, owing to the agency of blood-sucking insects common to rabbits and man, we also find cases resulting from tick bite and fly bite.

Although a new disease of man, tularaemia has now been recognized in forty-three States of the United States, in the District of Columbia, Canada, Japan, Russia and Norway.

November, December and January have been the months of onset for the majority of the cases occurring east of the Mississippi River, resulting from the dressing of wild cottontail rabbits for food. These months embrace the "open season" when, owing to the relaxation of the game laws, the hunting of cottontail rabbits is generally permitted, and, consequently, these rabbits are then offered for sale in great numbers in the markets.

As a rule, when the infection has come from a rabbit some injury has been inflicted on the hand, although a manifest injury is not necessary for infection to occur. Usually an ulcer develops at the site of infection, accompanied by enlargement of the lymp glands which drain the ulcer. Fever is always present and continues for two to three weeks. The primary lesion may be located on the eyelid or on parts of the body other than the skin of the hands, if due to tick bite or fly bite. The diagnosis is confirmed by a blood test. One attack of the disease confers immunity in man from further attacks.

There is no special treatment for this disease. Rest in bed is the most important measure. No preventive vaccine or curative serum has been perfected, nor has any special drug been found effective against tularaemia.

Rabbit, meat, thoroughly cooked, is harmless for food; and it has been found that a temperature of 56 deg. Centigrade, or 133 deg. Fahrenheit, kills the germ of tularaemia. The ordinary disinfectants are effective. Rubber gloves should be worn by those who must dress wild rabbits. Immune persons should be employed to dress them where possible. Infected rabbits kept in cold storage at a temperature just above freezing may retain their infection for three months, but not for four months. Market inspection of rabbits is impracticable, because only about 10 per cent. of the rabbits found in the market still have the liver in place.

Finally, beware of the wild rabbit which the dog or cat has caught, or which a boy has killed with a club—it is probably a sick rabbit.

Fallen

I love these woods; but here and there a tree
Sprawls like a broken wrestler where it fell;
And I go softly, even fearfully,
As one who looks on death. It may be well

That these unprofitable, ragged, strong
Free things should perish. Yonder, line by line,
The squat, green orchard trees advance along
The hillside, making it demure and fine.

The vagabound must go, in man and tree,
Whose being is not building; and his place
Shall be for one who serves prosperity,
Saith the busy world with sober face;

But barefoot dreamers have been known to bless,
And cities have been lost in wilderness.

When Food SOURS

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid—it is never made in tablet form. So look for the name Phillips on wrapper and bottle.

One Hundred and Fifty Years of Service

The retirement recently of Mr. K. J. Dunstan, Vice-President of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, after fifty-three years' service, recalls some outstanding figures in the telephone world in Canada who met during the last visit of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell to Brantford, the birthplace of the telephone.

In the group above appear, left to right: Lewis B. McFarlane, ex-President of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada; Dr. Alexander Graham Bell; K. J. Dunstan, ex-Vice-President, and A. T. Smith, former Division Manager, who retired in 1929 after fifty years of service.

As will be seen, the combined service of the three Canadians totalled over 150 years. Dr. Bell, a Scotchman by birth, maintained his interest in the telephone until his death in 1922.

At the gathering at Brantford referred to above, Dr. Bell confirmed beyond possibility of contradiction the claim of the city of Brantford to be the birthplace of the telephone.

Sometimes the father gives the bride away; in other cases the bridegroom has to find her out for himself.

The Old Un—"Pluck, my boy, pluck; that is the one essential to success in business."

The Young Un—"Yes, of course, I know that. The trouble is finding some one to pluck."

Your Talent

We all are not blessed
With a gift to be great
In music, in science, or play;
Few are possessed
Of a talent or gift
To make them outstanding today.

But God gave us all
One talent at birth,
It's used, oh, so rarely by few;
It's a talent the poorest
Or richest can have—
Be honest, straight-forward, and true.

Friend—"But you dont' mean to tell me that you bought this just to satisfy a whim of your wife's?"

The Other (sadly)—"Ah, you don't know her, old man. She's got a whim of iron."

Mentioning an old flame has caused more than one flare-up.

Woman (in crowd)—"Stop pushing."

Hefty Man—"I wasn't pushing; I only sighed."

The young mistress of the house entered the kitchen, carrying herself with great dignity. She had come to call the cook to account.

Young Mistress—"Jane, I must insist that you have less company in the kitchen. Last night I was kept awake by the uproarious laughter of one of your young women friends."

Jane (cheerfully)—"Yes, mum, I know, but she couldn't help it, mum. I was telling her how you tried to make a cake yesterday morning."

Signs over a drug store fountain:

"Our chocolate is so good we eat it ourselves."

"We don't know where ma is but pop is on ice."

"Not eating here for seven days makes one weak."

When a fellow talks about himself vocally, we walk out on him. Then he starts writing it in a signed column and we eat it up.

When a girl tells how much she pays for her millinery—she may be high-hatting you.

Visitor (to merchant) — "How's business?"

Merchant (thoughtfully) — "Well, the last I had was pretty good."

The knocker, just like the growler,
Fault finders, large and small,
'What do they need for each days' deed?
No brains, no sense—just Gall.

The Expert—"He had just stolen a kiss."

The Girl (indignantly)—"Don't you know any better than that?"

The Expert—"Sure. But they take more time."

The minister called on Mrs. MacShoddie.

Minister (after a while)—By the way, I was sorry to see your husband leave the church last Sunday right in the middle of my sermon. I trust nothing was seriously the matter with him."

Mrs. MacShoddie—"h, no, sir. It was nothing very serious, but you see, the poor man does have a terrible habit of walkin' in his sleep."

Those Good Old Days

London Free Press (Cons.): Anyone who knows anything of politics is well aware of the fact that several decades ago in every riding were to be found hundreds of men who were willing to assist in elections and political campaigns for the loyalty to their party, affection to a leader or love of the political game. They would scorn being paid. To-day such men in the average constituency can be counted on the fingers of ones hand. The average political worker expects to be reimbursed. The cost of elections today is not corruption—the day of buying votes is largely a thing of the past—but the expense of paying the workers. The scrutineers, the canvassers, the drivers of automobiles, all have to be paid. Followership is a forgotten art. There is nothing wrong with the leaders of to-day. The trouble is with the utter indifference of the average voter.

Ocean's Floor Outweighs Continent's Rocky Base

Cambridge, Mass.—Rocks in the surface layer of the earth are heavier and more elastic under the sea than beneath the land, says Professor K. F. Mather, geologist of Harvard.

This causes earthquake vibrations that travel through this outer shell to move at different rates. Vibrations of a California earthquake, for example, travel faster to the west through the floor of the Pacific Ocean than they do to the east through the rocks of the North American continent.

Greyfriar's Bobby

A Story of a Dog's Unfailing Loyalty

More than sixty years ago a poor old shepherd died, and was buried in a graveyard at Edinburgh, Scotland, his only mourner being a little Skye terrier. On the two succeeding mornings the sexton found the dog lying on his master's grave, and drove him away with hard words, dogs being against the rules of the cemetery.

The third morning was cold and wet, and when the sexton found him shivering on the new-made grave, he hadn't the heart to drive him away, and gave him something to eat.

From that time the dog made the churchyard his home, every night for eleven years and three months. No matter how cold or wet or stormy the night, he could not be induced to stay away from the beloved spot, and if shut up, would howl dismally.

Every day, when the castle gun was fired at ten o'clock, he went punctually to a restaurant near by, where the proprietor fed him. At one time Bobby was in great danger of being seized and done away with by the dog-catcher because his tax had not been paid. Whereupon the boys and girls of the neighborhood collected the amount and tendered it to the Lord Provost. This official was so moved by what the children had done that he promised to stand good for Hobby and so exempted him from the dog tax, and to mark his admiration of his fidelity, presented him with a hand-some collar inscribed "Greyfrairs' Bobby, presented by the Lord Provost of Edinburgh."

Bobby had many friends and visitors, and many, besides the men employed about the yard, tried to win his affections; but he refused to attach himself to any one person. For more than eleven years he kept watch over his master's humble grave, and then died quietly, of old age, and was buried in a flower plot nearby. The master's grave is unmarked by any stone, but a marble fountain was erected to the memory of the homeless dog, and a bronze statue of Bobby stands on top of it. It was the gift of a kind and wealthy woman, Baroness Burdett Coutts, and may be seen to this day just outside the gate of the churchyard where Bobby's beloved master was buried—the spot that was watched and guarded by the faithful little dog to his lying day. Lady Coutts said she built the monument to Greyfriars' Bobby to teach the boys and girls of Edinburgh the meaning of that single word—"Loyalty."—This synopsis is taken from "Our Dumb Animals," but the book, "Greyfrairs' Bobby," is a delightful addition to one book shelf.

AGONY OF INDIGESTION

Shuddered at Food—Now Eats Anything

Don't say that indigestion can't be relieved until you have read this letter. The man who wrote it had tried all kinds of remedies. All kinds except one kind. That one kind was Kruschen. Eventually he took to Kruschen—half-heartedly, as you will note, he admits.

" I first started taking Kruschen Salts three or four years ago. For years previously I had suffered agony with indigestion. Night after night, for weeks on end, I had very little sleep and I was becoming a wreck of my old self for want of rest. I got so run down that I was advised to cut out my evening meal, and was recommended to take all kinds of remedies, but none of them did me any good. About Christmas-time, three or four years ago, I saw one of your adverts 'Take Kruschen Salts and enjoy your Christmas dinner,' or words to that effect. I started taking them, half-heartedly, I will admit, but after the first few doses my attacks got less and less. I kept on, and they completely disappeared, and I have been a regular 'Kruschenite' ever since. I am now 50 years of age, and I can eat anything at any time without any ill effects, and I sleep like a top—thanks to Kruschen."—J.H.C.

Indigestion is caused by a failure in the flow of the gastric or digestive juices. As a result, your food, instead of being assimilated by your system, simply collects and ferments inside you, producing harmful acid poisons. The immediate effect of the six mineral salts in Kruschen is to promote the healthy flow of the vital juices of the body. Your system begins working again like a perfect machine. And that means a blessed end to indigestion, and a renewed and whole-hearted enjoyment of your food without the slightest fear of having to pay the old painful penalty.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

FREE TRIAL OFFER OF KRUSCHEN

Try Kruschen now at our expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to prove our claims for yourself. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. package. This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle—sufficient for about one week. Open the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle is still as good as new. Take it back. Your druggist is authorised to return your 75c. immediately and without question. You have tried Kruschen free at our expense. What could be fairer?

K. G. MacKay senior dairy produce grader for Western Canada, states that Manitoba's creamery butter production in 1930 showed an increase of 84.6 per cent. over 1921.

About 10,000,000 pounds of fish are caught annually in the large and small lakes of the province of Saskatchewan and approximately [illegible] employed in the industry.

Aggregate value of field crops grown in Canada in 1930 is officially estimated at $631,592,000 and total area sown to crops was 62,214,670 acres, an increase over 1929 of about 1,000,000 acres.

In a final estimate of the wheat production of Canada in 1930, the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics places the total yield at 397,872,000 bushels, an increase of over 2,000,000 bushels compared with the previous estimate.

From end of September 1930 to January 15, 1931, over 26,000,000 pounds of sugar was produced at the beet sugar factory at Raymond, Alberta. The industry has grown to substantial proportions in that province of late years.

From Winnipeg a radio fan writes:—"'Melody Mike' is talked around the offices and warehouses in Winnipeg as though he were a real Canadian Pacific official." The reference is to the Canadian Pacific radio offering on Monday nights across the Dominion.

Vancouver will have a team of fine golfing calibre on the fairways of the Oak Bay course where the third annual mid-winter Empress golf tournament for the E. W. Beatty trophy will be staged February 23-28. Entries are in from Victoria, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma and cities of the prairie provinces.

Grain marketed along the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway from August 1 to January 31 amounted to 165,793,000 bushels of which 140,928,000 bushels were wheat. The total marketings of grain along Canadian Pacific lines represent 54 per cent. of the total grain marketed in western Canada to that date.

Canada now has more than forty bird sanctuaries specially reserved for bird protection purposes. These are scattered across the country from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. Some of the provincial governments also maintain similar reserved areas for the benefit of native bird life. A census of ten such sanctuaries, not including young birds hatched in 1930, was 100,236 of 16 different species.

Over 97 per cent of the assets of the Canadian Pacific Railway are in Canada, and in drawing attention to this fact some months ago, Mr. E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Company, went on to say that he would be glad to see an increase in the Company's shareholders in this country. Since that time the increase has been most marked, as is shown by the following statement of Canadian Pacific common shares held in Canada now and at the end of the two previous years:—

Dec. 31, 1928.....	69,719
Dec. 31, 1929.....	77,542
Dec. 31, 1930.....	91,239
Increase in two years....	35,221

The Only Home She Knows

Little blue-eyed, auburn-haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 123 College Street, Toronto 2.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

For work such as this your subscription is asked. Will you please send as much as you can to Mr. A. E. Ames, 123 College Street, Toronto.

WATER

Water is usually so readily obtained that we do not think much about it. It is only when we are thirsty and there is no water available that we begin to appreciate what water means to us.

About seventy per cent of the weight of our bodies is water. It is not possible to state just how much water we should use, but it is evident that we require a considerable amount. The amount required varies depending upon the temperature and humidity of the air and upon the type of work which each person is engaged. On a hot summer day, a man working out of doors gets rid of a considerable amount of water because he perspires freely and the water is evaporated from his skin. Such a man needs to drink water freely and frequently in order to replace what is lost. On the other hand, little water is required by the person who sits quietly in a moderately-heated room, and who does not perspire.

Most people do not drink water in sufficient quantities. It is likely true that many persons would feel better and would actually be healthier if they were to increase the amount of water used. This can be done by developing the habit of drinking a glass or two of water before breakfast and between each meal.

It is not sufficient to rely upon a sense of thirst. Thirst should be quenched. If, however, as is the case with most of us, we have not attended to the natural demand for water unless it was so pressing as to make us uncomfortable, our sense of thirst becomes so blunted as not to be a safe guide with regard to our needs for water.

There is no objection to a moderate use of water with meals, providing that a drink is not taken while there is food in the mouth. Water or other beverages must never be used to wash down food.

Excess is never desirable, and if six glasses of water are good, it does not follow that twelve are twice as good. There are certain conditions when the excessive use of water may be definitely harmful.

Our bodies require water for the regulation of their heat through perspiration. Water is also needed to secure regular and complete elimination of body wastes.

A daily water drinking routine should be established—a glass or two before breakfast and between each meal. There is no reason why this routine could not be followed. It is one of the simple rules of healthy living, the practice of which entails no expenditure of money.

Mother and Anne had always been very close to one another. When Anne married and moved to another city, each missed the other greatly.

But one thing more than any other has helped to keep them close — the telephone. Every Friday evening Anne calls her mother by Long Distance . . . after 8.30 p.m. when the low night rates are in effect. During the week they both keep memos of topics they wish to discuss. Then there is no time lost . . . and nothing forgotten.

What if they are 120 miles apart! The telephone connection is made in about a minute — nearly always while Anne holds the line. Their voices are just as clear as on local, and the cost, after 8.30 p.m., is only 40 cents.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m.

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation, and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

COOKSVILLE

Mrs. W. Prissick, past mistress of Cooksville L.O.B.A. No. 566, was presented with a past mistress' jewel at the annual banquet of the lodge held in the Orange Hall. Sister G. Ward, worshipful mistress, presided, and made the presentation. Among the guests of honor at the head table were Bro. Erwin, W.M. of Cooksville L.O.L. No. 1181; the master of the local O.Y. B. Lodge, and several L.O.L. past masters. Following the supper a social evening was enjoyed.

Cooksville United Church players made a big success of their play "Who Wouldn't Be Crazy," when they gave it the second time. They have been invited to give it several places in the surrounding country, also in Toronto.

Gabrial Ellingham of Cooksville is celebrating fifty years in the butcher business and claims to be the oldest butcher in Peel County.

A young daughter came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCord, Cooksville, recently.

Cooksville L.O.L. No. 1181 held a very successful euchre party last Friday evening, when thirty tables played.

Miss Ella Pardy of Cooksville, was severly injured when she fell from a C.P.R. train one day last week.

At the special meeting of Toronto township council, attended by a large number of ratepayers, council approved the formation of water areas in Lakeview and the Mississauga areas.

Council was also in receipt of a written offer from Port Credit for the sale of water to the municipality at 38.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, which would mean the sale of water to householders in Toronto township at 38 cents.

Wm. Storrie, of Gore, Nasmith and Storrie, presented a report dealing with the installation in the Cooksville-Centre Rd. area. The total estimated cost will be $70,000 with $23,400 of this amount for hydrants, pumping station, stand-pipe, chargeable to the area. The amount chargeable on a frontage basis will be $45,600. The estimated annual cost will be $8,800 with a yearly revenue of $8,865. The general mill rate spread over the area will be 4.75 with a frontage tax of seven cents.

The proposed Lakeview area will be approximately bounded by the Etobicoke river on the east, the Middle Rd. on the north, the easterly limits of Port Credit on the west and the lake on the south. In this area there are 1,700 residents with an assessment of $800,000. The Mississauga area would take in both sides of the Mississauga Rd.. and the district between the Credit river and the Pinchin Rd. north of the Middle Rd.

ERINDALE

Baxter Davis, 107 Yonge St., Kitchener, sustained a fractured collarbone when, in trying to pass a truck on the Dundas highway, two miles west of Erindale, his car collided head-on with that of T. Walker McIntosh, of 125 Vaughan road, Toronto.

The truck was driven by R. Eaton, of Hespeler, who sustained head injury. E. Keffer, Hespeler, a passenger on the truck, was uninjured. McIntosh escaped with facial lacerations.

Traffic Officer R. Lemon, Cooksville, investigated the accident. Davis was attended by Dr. Harold Sutton, of Cooksville.

LET US SMILE

He was interviewing his future father-in-law.

"Young man," said the proud parent, "remember that in giving you my daughter I have entrusted you with the dearest possession of my life—I treasure that girl."

"Of course," agreed the young man, very much impressed.

Later, when he rose to go, he noticed that it was raining.

"Oh, daddy will lend you his umbrella," said the girl, and made for the hallstand. Her father stopped her.

"Pardon me," he said, "but I wouldn't trust anybody on earth with my umbrella."

OLD DAYS RECALLED AS INSTITUTE MEETS

Early history of the village was recalled at the regular monthly meeting of the local Women's Institute, held at the home of Miss Nellie Rutledge, when J. Caslor and George McClintock, two of the old-timers, delighted the 40 members and visitors present with their talk on the early industrial activity. They told of the old flax mill and of the princely salary of 20 cents a day they received as young men.

Mrs. J. Caslor brought along an interesting photograph taken in 1865, when the Credit river was dotted with manufacturing plants, which have now disappeared. A historical paper dealing with the district from Erindale to Streetsville was given by Mrs. David Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. George McClintock made a big hit with their duet

Roll-call was answered by reminiscenes. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. J. Caslor, president, and Mrs. D. Lindsay, convener of the research committee.

DRUMQUIN SPARKS

At time of writing we are enjoying quite a mild spell of weather. There should not be any complaints about the weather this winter as we have had all kinds of weather and not too many of each variety at a time.

Miss Viola Lima is at present confined to her bed. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. McCurdy has commenced sawing the custom logs on the mill yard on Mr. Tallent's farm.

Mr. Goodwin has installed a radio. Cheer up everybody, water has began to come. All good things comes to those who wait.

Mr. Geo. Featherstone and Sister Liela of Postville were Sunday visitors at Mrs. Cliftons.

There is to be a debate between Bethel Y.P. and folks from Ballinifad on Friday 27th. The subject is, "Resolved that organized labor is better for the state than organized Capital.

The Trafalgar Municipal Association held that last meeting at Postville. We hope their number and also their influence, will increase and grow as the grain of mustard seed.

One matter we can boast of, there are no vacant houses or jobless people in our burg. The mayor stated at the last meeting of the Aldermen that he thought it advisable not to have the sewer system installed until the depression is over.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The last meeting of the North Trafalgar Community Club was held at the home of Mrs. W. E. W. Steen, Town Line on Wednesday. There was a good attendance in spite of the bad roads. The meeting opened with our song and roll call. All members of the club sent their deepest sympathy to one of the members, Mrs. Bert Fullerton, who was badly burnt, and all hope for a speedy recovery. Mrs. John Bonham passed around some verses, which were read and enjoyed by all.

The meeting closed with our song. The hostess served a hot lunch, assisted by her daughter.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Campbell 8th line.

THE IDEAL GUEST

His wife, who was formerly a Miss Patterson, predeceased him a few years ago. He is survived by three sons, Albert, Ollie and John, all living in Toronto Township.

Mr. Wolfe lived all his life on the farm where he was born.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon to St. Peter's Anglican church, Erindale, and was conducted by Rev. H. V. Thompson, assisted by Rev. R. J. W. Perry. Interment took place in the cemetery beside the church. Many were present to pay their last respects.

The pallbearers were: W. J. Cooper, Sam Wolfe, Harry Wolfe, J. H. Beamish, Adam Beamish and G. W. Gordon.

INSTALLATION OF NEW SOUND EQUIPMENT AT CAPITOL THEATRE BRAMPTON

The Capitol Theatre is now equipped with a Northern Electric Sound System to give its patrons the best reproduction of the world's best Sound and Talking Pictures including the new Noiseless Recording process—another development of the Bell System Laboratories where Sound Pictures originated.

To such an extent has the Northern Electric Sound System become recognized as essential to the good presentation of Sound and Talking Pictures that over 350 theatres throughout Canada have already installed this system and other installations are proceeding at a rapid pace keeping a large staff of engineers and a great number of service men busy from coast to coast—every installation is regularly inspected to insure its constant first class operation. In addition to those in this country some 7,500 theatres in 55 other countries of the world have also installed the same equipment manufactured either in Europe or the U.S.A., where 5,000 theatres are using this system.

Opening Attraction Wed., Feb. 25th

An accurate replica of Oxford University was constructed on the Christie lot during the filming of "Charley's Aunt," the talking picture version of Brandon Thomas' play. The film is a farce based on the ever increasing topic of mistaken identity and is coming to the Capitol Theatre, Brampton, on Wed., 25th for a three days' run. It is a Columbia picture, produced by Christie.

In assembling the cast, nothing was spared in an effort to bring together a perfect group of artistic performers. Charlie Ruggles, that inimitable comedian, plays the title role. He is supported by June Collyer, Flora Sheffield, Doris Lloyd, Halliwell Hobbes, Rodney McLennon, Hugh Williams and Flora Le Breton. Al Christie directed.

Dr. Margaret MacKellar at the United Church

Dr. Margaret MacKeller, who for 40 years was a missionary in the city of Indore, India, spoke to a large congregation at the United Church last Sunday morning on the Missionary developments in the Indian States. Dr. MacKellar graduated in medicine from Queen's University, Kingston, over 40 years ago, Shortly after graduation she sailed for India as a medical missionary, where she established a number of schools and hospitals. Her medical skill brought her in close touch with the physical needs of the Hindoos, hence she could get next to them and preach the Gospel of Christ.

Dr. MacKeller bears her years well. She informed the congregation that she will be seventy years old on her next birthday. She possesses a fertile mind and ability to inspire her listeners. The Doctor spoke in the interests of the Women's Missionary Society, the President and members of the society are to be congratulated on being able to secure such an outstanding missionary leader. Queen's University honoured itself and Dr. MacKellar by conferring upon her a little time back the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Isabella Cordingley

Mrs. Isabella E. Cordingley, widow of William Cordingley of Oakville, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh J. Porter, after a long illness. Mrs. Cordingley was born on Dundas Street, in Halton County, the daughter of Joseph and Margaret Orr, and was a lifetime resident of Halton and Peel Counties. For many years she lived in Oakville, where her husband died in 1927. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Porter and Miss Margaret Cordingley, Toronto; also one brother, Edward A. Orr of Oakville. The funeral took place from her residence in Oakville on Wednesday.

John A. Crozier

Very sudden, indeed, was the passing of Mr. John Archibald Crozier, Streetsville, at the Toronto Western Hospital on Feb. 20th, where he went for an operation for appendicitis. He was the younger son of the late George C. Crozier and lived on his farm, two miles south of Streetsville. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss May Parker, two daughters, Dorothy and Brenda; a brother, George, on the homestead, and two sisters, Mrs. G. W. Miller, of London, and Mrs. Bert Doerr, Erindale.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon to St. Peter's Anglican Church, Erindale, and was conducted by Rev. H. V. Thompson. Interment took place in the cemetery, beside the church.

Deceased was only in his 40th year, and his wife and children have the sincere symnathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

AGRICULTURE PROMINENT

Plans for improving agriculture throughout the Province occupied a prominent place in the speech from the Throne at the Ontario Legislature opening last week. Legislation was forecast to implement many of the recommendations, including creation of a Provincial Marketing Board, which appear in the Somerset inquiry report. Notice of plans for the improvement of herds in regard to milk production was given. There was the suggestion of early introduction of remedies to protect livestock against the ravages of parasites, and finally intimation that Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, will sponsor this coming summer an exhaustive inspection of Ontario's agricultural pursuits by all the institutional heads within his jurisdiction. Special attention will be paid to farming possibilities in Northern Ontario and a scheme devised to utilize the many homesteads which have stood idle for several years in good farm country of the north.

Oratorical Contest

The Annual High School contest in oratory will take place next week. This is an event keenly looked forward to, and this year promises to be better than ever. The stage is set for Monday, March 2nd at 8 p.m. at the Prince of Wales Theatre. Medals will be awarded to the best girl and boy of both middle and lower school. The winners will represent Streetsville in the Toronto District meet next month. Last year Una Adamson tried for first place, and the standard of High School oratory is of quite a high order. The large attendance, last year showed its enthusiastic appreciation. The speeches, this year are each shorter—eight minutes is the maximum time. There will be nine or ten contestants and as the subject suggest, these addresses should be highly educational, and entertaining. Between each address there will be musical numbers by first class talent, not confined to the school. There are no tickets out. The committee invite you to see the posters, bring a quarter admission and spend the best evening, this winter, hearing these well-prepared orators, where rivalry inspires eloquence. The following are the topics submitted by the Federation and most of these will feature the titles of the addresses of the evening.

(1) Some causes of the present Industrial Depression.
(2) The St. Lawrence Waterway Project.
(3) The conquest of the air; Aviation;
(4) The conquest of the air; Radio.
(5) The mission of Poetry.
(6) The Romance of Discovery.—Science.
(7) The Romance of Discovery.—Travel.
(8) Canadian Journalism.

Remember Monday next at eight o'clock at the Prince of Wales Theatre.

C.P.R. SIGNAL MAN KILLED

Earl Reese Dies Beneath C.N.R. Train At Hamilton, Feb. 21st

Struck by C.N.R. passenger train No. 21 at Hamilton Jct., Saturday, Earl Reese, 22 years, a C.P.R. signal man, was instantly killed. The Canadian National train, in charge of Engineer Jones and Conductor Totten, both of Toronto, was crossing the C.P.R. right-of-way at the signal tower when the workman was killed.

Deceased was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reese, Hamilton. He was born in Streetsville, and lived here until a few years ago. He leaves a wife and two small children.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon. Service was conducted in Trinity Church, Streetsville, by Rev. R. J. W. Perry, assisted by Rev. W. T. McCree, M.A., who preached the sermon. A large number of people turned out to show their sympathy to the bereaved and as a mark of respect for the deceased, whose young life was so suddenly snuffed out. Interment took place in Streetsville cemetery.

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR FRUIT & VEGETABLE INDUSTRY

Establishment of a fruit and vegtable growers' market council for the province and drastic changes in general marketing conditions are recommended in the report of Commissioner W. B. Somerset to Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, following extensive inquiry into marketing problems of the fruit and vegetable industries. It is suggested that this market council should have a permanent paid secretary with a local secretary for each district and an executive committee, with power to appoint committees to study and deal with problems. Registration of all commercial fruit and vegetable growers is suggested so that they must place their registered number on all packages they market. Licensing and bonding of all shippers, truckers and commission men is recommended, as well as the establishment of sales promotion offices in eWstern Canada and in Quebec and the Maritimes during the selling season. Other recommendations are as follows: That surveys be made each season of crop conditions and the sales possibilities of the markets; that Government assistance be given in establish central packing plants and cold storage or precooling facilities; that by-product research be made into the commercial possibilities of the disposal of low grade fruits and vegetables; that steps be taken to prevent the marketing of immature fruit and vegetables; that the collective purchase of fertilizers and other supplies be fully canvassed; and that as a means of improving the quality of grade and pack for all markets the question of establishing an Ontario brand be considered.

PEEL GIRLS CHAMPIONS

Essays are featured this time. Two hundred and sixty farm girls representing fifty-six Counties of Ontario attended the Royal Winter Fair as guests of the Government. Five were from Peel County and won their trip through Judging Competition work. Each girl on returning to her own little spot in the Province was asked to write an essay regarding the trip. These essays were sent to the Women's Intitute Branch at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, to be judged. Miss Florence Elliott, of Malton No. 1 wrote an outstanding article which was published in the Farmers' Advocate. For this splendid work Miss Elliott will attend a two week Short Course at Macdonald Institute, Guelph. Another prize was awarded to Miss Wilma Hunter of Terra Cotta and her prize will be books. These girls are to be congratulated on their splendid work which brings honour not only to themselves but to the County. It is hoped that next year the girls who are fortunate enough to win a trip to the Royal will keep up the high standard set by the girls who attended the party in December, 1930.

O.A.C. Professor speaks to Dairymen

Dairy rations, cow testing results and the advisability of carload buying of feed were presented to the members of the Royal County Cow Testing Association and other dairymen at a well attended dairy meeting in the Agricultural office Brampton, on Wednesday, Feb. 18th.

Professor Geo. Raithby, Professor of Animal Husbandry, O.A.C. Guelph, discussed the most suitable rations according to the present grain situation. It has been estimated that 12% more coarse grains were grown in Peel County in 1930 than in an average year. Practically all this grain will be converted into milk, eggs, pork or other forms of livestock. Owing to the low market price of wheat, Prof. Raithby advocated the dairymen to either to roll or chop their wheat and use it in the dairy rations.

J. Y. Kellough, the Ontario Representative of the Canadian Wheat Pool, advocated the replacing of imported corn and its products by the use of Canadian barley. Experiments in Canada and U.S.A. have proven that a pound of barley is equal to a pound of corn for dairy cattle or hens. A few Peel farmers are using barley to the extent of 25% of the dairy rations with good results at the present time.

James C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative acted as Chairman for the meeting of the dairymen. Interesting results of the Peel Cow Testing Association for 1930 were cited. The 20 best cows averaged 12,557 lbs. of milk and 445 lbs. butterfat for the year. The 20 poorest cows only averaged 5,267 lbs milk and 210 lbs. butterfat. The difference between a high producer and a low producer computed at market prices of milk and butterfat shows the value of milk testing as a guide to call out the boarder cows.

Special attention will be paid to farming possibilities in Northern Ontario and a scheme devised to utilize the many homesteads which have stood idle for several years in good farm country of the north.

Oratorical Contest

The Annual High School contest in oratory will take place next week. This is an event keenly looked forward to, and this year promises to be better than ever. The stage is set for Monday, March 2nd at 8 p.m. at the Prince of Wales Theatre. Medals will be awarded to the best girl and boy of both middle and lower school. The winners will represent Streetsville in the Toronto District meet next month. Last year Una Adamson tried for first place, and the standard of High School oratory is of quite a high order. The large attendance, last year showed its enthusiastic appreciation. The speeches, this year are each shorter—eight minutes is the maximum time. There will be nine or ten contestants and as the subject suggest, these addresses should be highly educational, and entertaining. Between each address there will be musical numbers by first class talent, not confined to the school. There are no tickets out. The committee invite you to see the posters, bring a quarter admission and spend the best evening, this winter, hearing these well-prepared orators, where rivalry inspires eloquence. The following are the topics submitted by the Federation and most of these will feature the titles of the addresses of the evening.

(1) Some causes of the present Industrial Depression.
(2) The St. Lawrence Waterway Project.
(3) The conquest of the air; Aviation;
(4) The conquest of the air; Radio.
(5) The mission of Poetry.
(6) The Romance of Discovery.—Science.
(7) The Romance of Discovery.—Travel.
(8) Canadian Journalism.

Remember Monday next at eight o'clock at the Prince of Wales Theatre.

C.P.R. SIGNAL MAN KILLED

Earl Reese Dies Beneath C.N.R. Train At Hamilton, Feb. 21st

Struck by C.N.R. passenger train No. 21 at Hamilton Jct., Saturday, Earl Reese, 22 years, a C.P.R. signal man, was instantly killed. The Canadian National train, in charge of Engineer Jones and Conductor Totten, both of Toronto, was crossing the C.P.R. right-of-way at the signal tower when the workman was killed.

Deceased was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reese, Hamilton. He was born in Streetsville, and lived here until a few years ago. He leaves a wife and two small children.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon. Service was conducted in Trinity Church, Streetsville, by Rev. R. J. W. Perry, assisted by Rev. W. T. McCree, M.A., who preached the sermon. A large number of people turned out to show their sympathy to the bereaved and as a mark of respect for the deceased, whose young life was so suddenly snuffed out. Interment took place in Streetsville cemetery.

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR FRUIT & VEGETABLE INDUSTRY

Establishment of a fruit and vegetable growers' market council for the province and drastic changes in general marketing conditions are recommended in the report of Commissioner W. B. Somerset to Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, following extensive inquiry into marketing problems of the fruit and vegetable industries. It is suggested that this market council should have a permanent paid secretary with a local secretary for each district and an executive committee, with power to appoint committees to study and deal with problems. Registration of all commercial fruit and vegetable growers is suggested so that they must place their registered number on all packages they market. Licensing and bonding of all shippers, truckers and commission men is recommended, as well as the establishment of sales promotion offices in eWstern Canada and in Quebec and the Maritimes during the selling season. Other recommendations are as follows: That surveys be made each season of crop conditions and the sales possibilities of the markets; that Government assistance be given in establishing central packing plants and cold storage or precooling facilities; that by-product research be made into the commercial possibilities of the disposal of low grade fruits and vegetables; that steps be taken to prevent the marketing of immature fruit and vegetables; that the collective purchase of fertilizers and other supplies be fully canvassed; and that as a means of improving the quality of grade and pack for all markets the question of establishing an Ontario brand be considered.

PEEL GIRLS CHAMPIONS

Essays are featured this time. Two hundred and sixty farm girls representing fifty-six Counties of Ontario attended the Royal Winter Fair as guests of the Government. Five were from Peel County and won their trip through Judging Competition work. Each girl on returning to her own little spot in the Province was asked to write an essay regarding the trip. These essays were sent to the Women's Intitute Branch at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, to be judged. Miss Florence Elliott, of Malton No. 1 wrote an outstanding article which was published in the Farmers' Advocate. For this splendid work Miss Elliott will attend a two week Short Course at Macdonald Institute, Guelph. Another prize was awarded to Miss Wilma Hunter of Terra Cotta and her prize will be books. These girls are to be congratulated on their splendid work which brings honour not only to themselves but to the County. It is hoped that next year the girls who are fortunate enough to win a trip to the Royal will keep up the high standard set by the girls who attended the party in December, 1930.

O.A.C. Professor speaks to Dairymen

Dairy rations, cow testing results and the advisability of carload buying of feed were presented to the members of the Royal County Cow Testing Association and other dairymen at a well attended dairy meeting in the Agricultural office Brampton, on Wednesday, Feb. 18th.

Professor Geo. Raithby, Professor of Animal Husbandry, O.A.C. Guelph, discussed the most suitable rations according to the present grain situation. It has been estimated that 12% more coarse grains were grown in Peel County in 1930 than in an average year. Practically all this grain will be converted into milk, eggs, pork or other forms of livestock. Owing to the low market price of wheat, Prof. Raithby advocated the dairymen to either to roll or chop their wheat and use it in the dairy rations.

J. Y. Kellough, the Ontario Representative of the Canadian Wheat Pool, advocated the replacing of imported corn and its products by the use of Canadian barley. Experiments in Canada and U.S.A. have proven that a pound of barley is equal to a pound of corn for dairy cattle or hens. A few Peel farmers are using barley to the extent of 25% of the dairy rations with good results at the present time.

James C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative acted as Chairman for the meeting of the dairymen. Interesting results of the Peel Cow Testing Association for 1930 were cited. The 20 best cows averaged 12,557 lbs. of milk and 445 lbs. butterfat for the year. The 20 poorest cows only averaged 5,267 lbs milk and 210 lbs. butterfat. The difference between a high producer and a low producer computed at market prices of milk and butterfat shows the value of milk testing as a guide to call out the boarder cows.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara works for Gordon Rountree. A friend of Rountree's, Chris Steynes, proposes to Mary Kate that she play the part of his wife for a day in order to discourage the advances of a Russian countess and her daughter. He offers her a sum of money, and Mary Kate accepts, hoping to help her brother Mart go to Germany to study medicine. Mary Kate meets Steynes in Burlingame. That night she stays at Steynes' house; a burglar enters; Steynes shoots the burglar; the police enter and take Mary's name and address. She is terrified for fear her mother will find out, as she told her mother she was going on a business trip for Rountree. Mary returns home and finds she is in love with Steynes. She tells Cass Keating to whom she is engaged to be married.

CHAPTER XXX.

"None of the names got into the paper," Cass said, visualizing a large house-party. "Were the women crazy?" he asked.

"What women?"

"The women in the house?"

"Oh—? Well, the butler's wife, a nice sort of middle-aged woman called Peters, came and slept the rest of the night with me. Everyone was pretty well wrought up."

"I should think so! What did—you didn't tell me—what did Mr. Rountree want you to do? I mean who were you supposed to be?"

"Oh? Oh, yes! Well, you see, an unscrupulous sort of Russian countess was rather—taking it for granted, do you see?—that he was engaged to her daughter," Mary Kate began, feeling the ice crackle under her, trying to keep her thoughts policing her words in ten directions at once.

"She was probably in with a gang of thieves," Cass opined, with some recent thrilling movies in mind. "Most of those titled Russian women seem to be."

"Oh, no—she was a countess, she was probably genuine enough," Mary Kate defended her. "I mean, she had jewels, she looked like all those ugly women with dog-collars and crowns on," she explained. "In the Sunday pictorials, you know?"

"But he didn't want to marry her daughter?"

"No. He hates the daughter!" Mary Kate answered, with satisfaction.

"And so he was supposed to be engaged to you?"

Even now she dared not be quite truthful.

"That was it."

"Yes, but where did Steynes come in?"

"Oh, it was to Mr. Steynes. He was the one."

"Oh—?" Cass said, on a long-drawn note. "I see!"

For an interval there was silence. Then suddenly the man said, in a definite voice:

"Now, I'll tell you, dear. That was an awful experience, and of course it shook you all up. Your nerves are shot to pieces, and no wonder. He goes away on Sunday, doesn't he?—and that will end it. And next week, very quietly, you and I'll be married. Then you can tell your mother, and everything will be all cleared up."

"Cass, nobody'd believe that I was down there, and yet that nothing wrong went on—nothing wrong was even thought of!"

"But you know who does believe you, don't you, Baby?"

"If you do—" she said, wistfully, with an affectionate and grateful smile.

"If I do!" He was close to her again, he had his arm about her.

Mary Kate nudged her fragrant, soft young face, and the tossed cloud of her silky hair, child-fashion, against his cheek.

"And what—what good will our getting married right away do?"

"Now is that a nice question?" he asked tenderly.

The girl laughed a little guilty laugh, but made no other answer.

"Why, in the first place," he said, holding her firmly, "in the first place, dear, it'll mean that you have someone to look after you. You can't get into this sort of scrape, if I'm running you. And then, your mother, and Mart, if they ever hear the story, will look at it as just—just nonsense. And then—I hope, anyway, you'll be so happy, and so busy, taking care of your boy, that you won't know there's anyone else in the world."

She was suffocating again. She sat quietly, resting against his shoulder, rubbing his hand with the firm little thumb of the hand he held in his, and made no reply.

They were silent for a while, and to Cass at least it was the silence of absolute content. The curtains continued to move fitfully to and fro across the windowsill, and from the street came angles and slits of light, and the occasional sweeping brilliance of a motor-car's lamps, as it turned the corner.

"Want to take a little walk, now?"

"Want to go to bed. I'm dead, Cass. You'll have to go."

They got up, and while Cass emptied the ash-tray into the airtight stove, Mary Kate shoved and dragged at the couch, with knees and hands, and straightened out the bedding that was always strapped in place inside it, for Tom. She plumped a soggy pillow, and left a light burning behind her, when she and Cass went into the kitchen.

The place was deserted now. The children had finished their homework, and vanished; Mrs. O'Hara was nowhere to be seen. The kitchen windows were open, and a cool draught of air was blowing through the room; into a speckless sink a faucet dripped a few occasional drops that stood like gray pearls against the carefully wiped zinc. From the stove came a wheaten smell; tomorrow's cracked wheat was already steaming in the double boiler.

The linoleum on the floor was worn in circles, down to its ugly brown warp, at stove and sink, but under the table and in the corners its pattern of red and white and egg-yellow discs and squares were still visible. On the sill of the open window was a tumbler with a score of long-stemmed sweet dark violets in it, and a dozen varnished buttercups on jointed stems.

"Kiss me—" Cass said, holding her slender shoulders in one strong arm, as in a vise, tipping back her chin with his free hand. Her tumble of soft hair fell back; she shut her eyes.

"Don't you like me to kiss you, you little darling, you?"

"I don't." She was breathing hard. "I don't like to have the breath squeezed out of me!"

"Ah, you're such a darling!" His lips were tight and hard against hers again. "Are you a darling?" he asked.

"I don't know."

"Are you a little idiot that can't mind her own business?"

"Maybe I am."

"Baby," he breathed. "Baby, I love you!"

"Mary Kate!" her mother called, from the bedroom that adjoined the kitchen. "Did Cass go?"

"Going, Mother!"

He was gone, and Mrs. O'Hara came to the kitchen door, brushing her thick, curly, black hair, that was silvering at the temples, with a disreputable old wire brush. She wore a worn old gray wrapper; her feet were in black felt slippers.

"He's the salt, that one," she said simply, of Cass.

"I'm awfully glad you like him," Mary Kate said, feeling that she would fly into pieces.

"The girls did the kitchen for me—Tess is worth as much to me as any woman ever would be!" the mother said, regarding the ordered room with pride.

Mary Kate was standing still in the open doorway, her back turned toward the room, but her eyes looking out at the backyard, and the bulk of the great apartment houses, checkered with little rising tiers of gold squares, in the spring night. The light of the cigarette advertisement flashed on her coppery hair, sank, wheeled and flashed again, aureoling her head with gold.

"I simply cannot bear it," she said to herself. "I'll die. I simply cannot bear it!"

There was a frenzy upon her. She wanted to beat her hands together, beat her head against the wall. She wanted to get away from all this familiar setting; get away into silence, and darkness, and strangeness, where she could forget.

"Tom took a bath," her mother said mildly, rubbing some homemade compound of mutton fat and lemon juice upon her hands.

"Mother, would you think I was crazy if I went out for a walk?"

"At fifteen minutes after ten o'clock at night?"

The telephone tingled, and as both women turned fearfully in its direction, Mrs. O'Hara said breathlessly.

"That's Mart! Oh, blessed Queen of the angels—"

Mary Kate was in the passage, had snatched the receiver from the hook.

"Hello!" her mother heard her say. Then her voice changed. "Oh, yes?" she said, in the very essence—the very distillation, of her usual tones. "It isn't Mart, it's business," she said, in a reassuring aside, to her mother, "Yes, Chris," the new voice resumed. "No. It's all right. I was up—my mother and I were talking. Go on—"

After a moment she put the receiver back, and laughed.

"It was some business, Mother," she explained, in a voice that sang. She went to the sink and took a long drink of cold water; filled a second glass full, eyeing her mother innocently over it, as she turned about. "It was a man Mr. Rountree know—" she explained.

"Well, it's a nice hour to get people out of their beds, not knowing but what it's a death message!" Mrs. O'Hara commented, scathingly.

"He said he'd put the call in an hour ago, but they kept telling him it was busy."

"Your Aunt Julia called up. Maybe that was it."

"Maybe. Shall I close up here, Mother?"

"No; you go to bed, dear. I'll do this!"

Oh, life! Wonderful and thrilling and satisfying. Oh, youth and beauty and hope, drawing off silk stockings, hanging up the shabby dress, stepping quietly to and from in the stuffy bedroom gloom, kneeling at last to pray—and unable to find words!

Yet what Chris had said to her would have struck frozen terror and fear to her heart a few short days ago.

"We aren't out of the woods, yet, Mary," he had told her anxiously. "There have been some new developments in this damn thing. Can you lunch with me tomorrow—in fact, you've got to. We're in trouble!"

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

2970

Peplums are tremendously smart vogue and are featured at all the Paris showings particularly for day wear.

Today's little sports type is a crepy patterned woolen with the pleasingly youthful pique collar and cuffs.

The centre-front button trim gives it a lengthened line, which makes it equally apropriate for miss or matron. The sleeves show interesting detail.

To kee the hipline slim, the skirt fits very snugly below the peplum flounce which is circular to match the skirt.

Style No. 2970 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It may also be carried out effectively in the thinner woolens in jersey, tweed and crepy textures.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Sheep

By Sophia Tunnell

"What ails your sister, Ben?" the fiddler asked
As they were washing at the pump one night.
"Pa killed her sheep today. Two years ago
Dogs killed a ewe and Lissy took the lamb
And kept it in a box behind the stove
And fed it milk all winter through. It growed
Up big; she called it her. Today when Pa
Was makin' fence, it muzzled him, like it
Does Lissy. When he chased it off, it come Right back. He hit it with a club—it's dead."
"I'll get my violin and play tonight,"
Was all the fiddler said. He played gay tunes
And dancing tunes and sprightly lilting songs;
He told of how he rode a circus mule,
How he cut lumber up in Michigan,
And floated down the Mississippi once,
And how he lived with hoboes on the road.
And then he took his violin again
To kind of fool with strains of "Money Musk."
It was a tune to which a lamb could dance,
And Lissy, hearing, wondered if there were Far-off green meadows where a lamb would dance
And maybe hills with tender weeds to crop,
Or if there was a leader with a bell
To lead lambs home at dusk to some old barn.
(The sound of sheep bells tinkled through her dreams
That night.) And all the while the fiddler watched
Her dark blur at the window sill above.
"I would not have knowed you had it in you;
I thought you was a long-faced cuss," said Jake.
"Laughter and tears were second cousins once,"
The fiddler said and started for the barn.

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

Well, boys and girls, so many queer things have happened to us while flying about the world during the last few months, that we just have to tell you the story of our adventures. Some day, perhaps you'll fly over strange countries, too; countries filled with savage tribes and wild animals, and a thousand interesting things one never dreams of while sitting at home.

Perhaps you'll fly above the clouds at times and look down on them billowing and rolling beneath the wings of your plane, just like a big sea of gold and silver in the sunrise; and away down below you'll see great fleets of warships in their harbors, so far down that they look like toy boats floating on the rim of a bathtub

At other times you'll fly over black tropical forests and follow the white track of unknown rivers under the light of a huge bright moon—wonderful, dangerous forests where crocodiles lurk in the swamps and tigers and bears hunt through the livelong night, while blue faced monkeys swing and jabber in the trees.

You'll see these things, and a thousand more, and of course you'll want to tell the boys and girls you know all about your adventures, just like I am going to tell you mine.

Most of the boys and girls I know call me Captain Jimmy. While my real name is Captain James Harworth Newberry, only the grown-ups call me that. We fly a Vickers plane. By we, I mean Scottie and myself. Scottie is one of those plain whiskery dogs known as Scotch Terriers. He looks like an animated bath brush, and he has never won a blue ribbon or a prize; yet, for sheer personality, he's a dog show all by himself.

Scottie is the first mate and the crew—and what a crew he makes. Anyway, I found Scottie when he was only just about six weeks old, and he and I just took to each other. You know how it is. Sometimes a dog just adopts you. You don't buy him; he picks you. Scottie just got used to riding around with me so I couldn't keep him out of the plane. From the day of my first ride he has gone everywhere with me—all over Canada, Europe and even Africa.

It was a fine bright morning when we pulled the old Vickers out of her hangar, at the Calgary flying field, and headed her out into the wind. Perhaps if we had known all the adventures we were going to meet we would never have made the trip at all. For you know, while it's lots of fun to read of adventures, actually having them sometimes is not all its' cracked up to be—and you often—yes, very often—wish that you were in some nice safe place instead.

Once in the air, a plane is not hard to drive. In front of the pilot's seat is the chief control lever known as the "stick." It is not a very hard name to remember, but it is a sure enough important piece of the plane. When I pull the stick toward me, it lifts the horizontal fins on the tail of the plane, and causes the nose to push up into the air. When I push the stick from me, it pulls the fins down, and of course pulls the plane down too. The foot levers work the rudders at the extreme tail of the plane. When I push the one to the right, the plane turns to the right—when I push to the left, the plane goes to the left. It's exatly like steering a car, only you do it with your feet instead. A round clock on the instrument board tells me how fast I am going—another tells me how high up I am in the air. So you see it's all easy enough when you get used to it—like lots of things that look hard at first.

As we flew over the foothills, the scenery became more beautiful. Wooded slopes, cool ravines, and here and there an open valley where the lonely cabin of some homesteader or prospector showed half in the cover of the woods. Then shadows began to make patches on the sunlit country below—the shadows of gathering clouds. Scottie seemed to sense something wrong and pawed at my flying suit—as dogs do when trying to draw your attention. Then suddenly "puff" a gust of wind struck us—then another and another. Then a rain squall hit us—and in a moment we were in the center of the meanest storm you ever saw, the old ship rocking and tossing like a boat in an angry sea—the sky growing darker every minute—and the rain coming down in sheets amid the blinding stab of blue lightning. Then the right wing dipped crazily and the plane began to slip sideways. . .

The Whaling Trade Of Modern Days

Whalers in the Antarctic are Anticipating a Record Season—Modern Methods Have Come to Their Aid in Reviving This Age-old Industry

By Captain David Bernard

Never in the history of deep-sea fishing has there assembled such a great fleet as that engaged in the Antarctic to-day. Just north of the ice-barrier and covering thousands of miles, over 11,000 men are employed on board 325 ships harvesting the golden oil rom the mammals of the sea.

Few of the millions who eat margarine realize that the best qualities come from the creamy-white oil of the sperm whale. The whole production of the South Seas was sold last year at $10 per ton, and it realized $5,000,000.

This year the whaling fleet has been increased by a hundred ships. During the first week of the present season one company alone produced oil to the value of $240,000. Last year the same company, the largest British unit employed in the whaling industry, produced 202,650 barrels of whale oil, valued at $4,180,045, during nineteen weeks' whaling.

Seaplanes Join In

Prominent among the sixty-eight factory ships is the newly converted Athenic, formerly owned by the White Star Line; this vessel, which has been renamed Pelagos, has been so altered that she is scarcely recognizable.

After removing the passenger accommodation, a trunk-way was built in her stern opening to the edge of the sea. Steel trapdoors open out, a great drawbridge is lowered, chains and heavy steel wires revolve round electric capstans, and whales weighing anything from 50 to over 100 tons are hauled bodily up the slipway to the "flensing" deck.

Then huge saws rip off "blankets" of blubber, which is sliced up again in convenient chunks before it passes to batteries of boilers which are capable of producing oil at 120 tons an hour. After the blubber is removed the carcass of the whale is hauled along the fore-deck and sown up by revolving bone-cutters, the small pieces of flesh and bone passing into other boilers so that all oil is extracted.

Formerly the residue was thrown overboard, but this year it has been generally agreed that it shall be converted into bone-meal, which makes excellent food for cattle, poultry, etc.

In the actual hunting of the whale wonderful changes have also taken place. Fast cruisers armed with harpoon-guns and fitted with wireless are now used, and work in combination with scouting seaplanes carrying bombs and quick-firing guns.

Killing by Electricity

The modern method of killing by electricity has been brought into almost general use. As soon as the harpoon strikes the whale the current is switched on, and the great mammal is electrocuted by the high voltage which passes through the copper core of the harpoon line.

The use of seaplanes in whale hunting is not yet general; weather difficulty in the South Seas has proved a great set-back. On the other hand, they have their advantages in that whales can be seen from the air long before the look-out in the crow's nest can stop them. Moreover, planes are useful in keeping track of "flagged" fish.

The system employed now is to inflate the whales killed by pumping air into them; they then rise from the sea like balloons when air-filled; the hole is plugged up, and a flag inserted so that they may be recovered after the catcher returns from the killing of other fish. Often as many as four great monsters are taken in "the chase" and towed back to the factory ship.

Modern whaling has given employment to large numbers of men in the English shipyards, practically all the ships being built, or converted, in England. A whole fleet was built last year on the north-east coast of England.

One of the greatest whaling ships, a 32,000-tonner, is now being built at Belfast. She and a fleet of nine new vessels will be employed to fish in the vicinity of Bouvet Island.

It has been found necessary to employ oil transports with the new fleets. Nearly a dozen great tankers have been distributed among the ships. This will allow them to market their oil before the close of the whaling season, and refill their tanks before returning home.

Whaling by present-day methods is perhaps the hardest and most adventurous employment the sea offers; it appears to be the most profitable, judging from the prolific dividends paid. But it is hard work for the youths and men who are being trained. Frequently during the summer months of the South whaling crews work sixteen hours per day.

When Whales Hit Back

And there's danger to be faced. A harpoon fired from bow-guns on rolling ships may miss the target, or, alternatively, may inflict flesh wounds which cause the big fish to become furious and even attempt to ram the "chaser."

The thresher whale is the worst customer to deal with; he will attack on the slightest provocation. There is one authentic account of this sea-tiger ramming the whaler Thetis and forcing the crew to abandon her.

By a strange coincidence two ships of the same name have been in collision with whales. On her maiden voyage from Liverpool, in July, 1875, a whale rushed at the Cunard liner Scythia with full force. The ship appeared to have hit a submerged rock. The impact was so terrific that she had to return to port and go into dry-dock.

In 1924 a later Scythia had a weird experience. After leaving Boston the ship appeared to have struck a huge log of timber. What had happened was that in its mad rush a whale had misjudged the speed of the ship, and the great monster became impaled on the bow. Only by going full speed astern could it be freed.

A few months later the Cunarder Samaria was attacked. Passengers were startled to see a fifty-foot whale alongside. It dived under the vessel before turning to ram; then it struck the stern, and the sea became red with blood.—Answers.

Toronto Hotel Design Win Institute Medal

Toronto—The Royal York Hotel, Toronto, said to be the largest hotel in the British Empire, has won for its architects the 1930 gold medal of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada for the outstanding achievement in the last three years.

Sixteen architects from various parts of Canada submitted photographs of buildings, within the terms of the competition, to the fifty-second annual exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy, held in Toronto.

Formal presentation will be made shortly to the successful competitors George A. Ross and Robert H. MacDonald, of Montreal; Henry Sproatt and Ernest R. Rolph, of Toronto, at the next annual meeting of the institute, to be held in Lucerne in Quebec.

"Readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic" are taught on travelling school trains in regions of northern Ontario, north of Lake Superior, where school-houses do not exist. Pupils for most part, are children of trappers and section hands.

Sunday School Lesson

March 1. Lesson IX—Jesus Sending Forth Missionaries—Luke 10: 1-11, 17, 21, 22. Golden Text—The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.—Luke 10: 2.

ANALYSIS.

I. SENDING OUT MISSIONARIES, 10: 1, 2.
II. INSTRUCTIONS TO MISSIONARIES, 10: 3-11.
III. A PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING, 10: 21, 22.

INTRODUCTION—We must not suppose that Jesus is here laying down precise rules which shall cover the conduct of Christian missionaries throughout the ages. He is contemplating a particular missionary tour which for certain obscure reasons has to be undertaken in a very great hurry; for there is to be no time for pastoral work, no time to persuade people gradually; if the message is not quickly accepted, the disciple must hurry on to the next place, vs. 10, 11. Why, we ask, the great haste? Some have supposed that Jesus, at this time, expected the speedy coming of the end of the world with the dawn of the future kingdom of God. This does not seem a very satisfactory explanation. It is more probable that temporary religious and political conditions made the haste needful. The ministry in Galilee, as we may reasonably suppose, was near an end. We are given grounds for inferring that the Pharisees and the Herodians, that is, the religious leaders and the court-party in Galilee, or, in modern terms, the clergy and the police, had appealed to Herod who ruled Galilee, and that Jesus was threatened with the fate of John the Baptist if he remained in that territory. It seems that before his great assault on Jerusalem and the Temple, Jesus retired across the lake into Philip's country. It seems likely, therefore, that this mission was a hasty rush through the towns and villages of Galilee to prepare the minds and hearts of the people for what was to follow. We cannot, however, be certain of this.

I. SENDING OUT MISSIONARIES, 10: 1, 2.

V. 2. Jesus indeed recognized the world's sin, but he was far from being a pessimist. He seems to feel sure that there must be a great response to the good news, if only there are messengers to bring it. This is the only occasion when Jesus is said to have bidden his disciples pray for a particular object. It is significant that this object should be an increase in the number of missionaries.

II. INSTRUCTIONS TO MISSIONARIES, 10: 3-11.

V. 3. While Jesus was no pessimist, he was never an easy optimist. It goes hard with sheep in the midst of wolves. According to the hearer the Christian message awakens great joy or great hatred. Some love the light and turn eagerly to it; others hate the light and love darkness.

V. 4. The missionaries are to travel without baggage and encumbrances; they will find hospitality by the way; that is all they need. They are not to linger gossiping on the road, nor even to spend time on individual conversions.

Vs. 5, 6. We speak of "mere words" and "empty words"; we think it superstitious to be afraid of curses, and therefore we think of a blessing or benediction as simply a convenient formula for closing a service. But to the ancients words seemed powerful things, like winged creatures, going forth from the speaker with some power to accomplish their purpose. So here, enter a house with a blessing on your lips; if the master of the house is a truly religious man, a "son of peace," your words will bring him a real blessing; if not, you will at least have tried to bless him.

V. 7. The support of home and foreign missions is an obligation upon all Christians.

V. 8. The principle of eating what is set before you became very important in later year and in the Gentile world. We learn from Paul's letters how distressed were some Christians if they were uncertain whether the meat set before them had been properly killed or whether the beast had not first been sacrificed in a heathen temple.

V. 21. The success of the mission showed that Satan's throne was tottering (v. 18).

III. A PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING, 10: 21, 22.

V. 22. This verse may be taken in either of two ways: by "the son" we may understand Jesus himself; in this case he is claiming a unique knowledge of God and a unique mediatorship. Or "the son" may be taken in its Old Testament sense of "Israel," meaning here the true spiritual Israel. It is difficult to decide between these two interpretations, for both cover a spiritual truth.

Phone Expense $100,000 For British Fair Exchange

Buenos Ayres.—More than $100,000 has been spent by telephone and cable companies in installation of lines and booths at the British Empire Trade Fair grounds in Palermo, providing for direct service from the exposition to twenty-five nations.

The International Telegraph and Telephone Company has placed its entire system, national and international, at the disposition of the Prince of Wales's party. The Union Telephone Company has established a complete automatic exchange at the fair grounds with a capacity of 400 subscribers.

What New York Is Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

The jumper she'll love. Who wouldn't when all the chic little Parisiennes are wearing this very model. And it's so charming and so practical.

Mother will love it too for it has a number of good qualities.

It's especially desirable with the main part of the dress made of wool jersey in delightful pilot blue shade with deep blue binding as sketched. The jumper is made of white cotton broadcloth with a soft lustrous finish.

It can also be carried out in sports-weight linen and is fetching in coral ink shade. White handkerchief linen with matching coral-pink dot will fashion the jumper.

Style No. 2965 is designed for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Tweed-like cottons, wool challis prints and pique also smart.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Skating by Moonlight

I like pond skating best by moonlight. The hollow among the hills will always have a bit of mist hanging about it, let the sky be as clear as it may. The moonlight which seems so lucid and brilliant as you look up, is all pearl and smoke round the pond and the hills. The shore which is like iron under your heel as you come down to the ice, is as vague when you look at it from the center of the pond as the memory of a dream. The motion is like flying in a dream; you float free and the world floats under you; your velocity is without effort and without accomplishment, for speed as you may you leave nothing behind and approach nothing. You look upward. The mist is overhead now; you see the moon in a "hollow halo" at the bottom of "an icy crystal cup," and you yourself are in just such another. The mist, palely opalescent, drives past her out of nothing into nowhere. . . . If by moonlight the mist plays upon the consciousness like faint, bewitching music, in sunlight it is scarcely less. More often than not when I go for my skating to our cosy little river, a winding mile from the millidam to the railroad trestle, the hills are clothed in silver mist, which frames them in vignettes with blurred edges like Japanese paintings on white silk. Such color as they have shows soft and dull through the frost-powder with which the air is filled. . . The silver powder has fallen on the ice, just enough to cover earlier tracings and leave me a fresh plate to etch with grapevines and arabesques. The stream winds ahead like an unbroken road, barred across with soft-edged shadows of violet, indigo and lavender.—Robert Palfrey Utter, in "Pearls and Peppers."

1,000 Frozen to Death In Manchurian Streets

Harbin, Manchuria. — With the mercury falling as low as 45 degrees below zero, more than 1,000 persons have been picked up off the streets of this city frozen to death. Few persons venture out of doors. A walk of two blocks is sufficient to freeze a man's nose or cheeks.

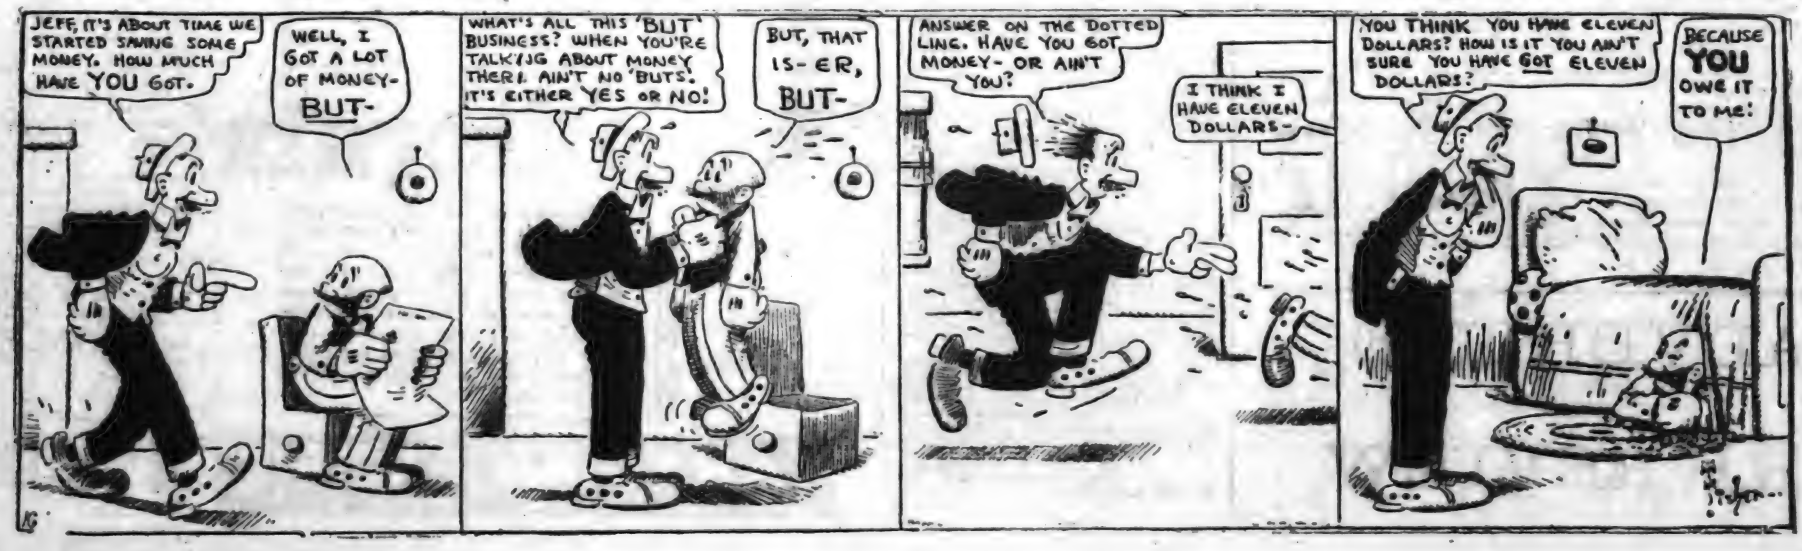
The intense cold has caused trains on most lines to run two and three days behind time. The Trans-Siberian Railroad was two days behind schedule throughout December and January. One train on the Chinese Eastern Railway left the tracks when the locomotive wheels cracked from the cold.

9,000 Earth Tremors Estimated Daily Record

Cambridge, Mass.—Dr. L. Don Leet of the Harvard Seismograph station has estimated that about 9,000 earth tremors, most of them slight, are recorded in the world daily.

No section of the earth is immune from quakes, according to Dr. Leet. He said an average of one shock a day is recorded on Harvard's seismograph, while in Japan the average is four daily.

Dr. Leet predicted that a severe shock would occur in New England soon. "Earthquakes come in cycles," he said, "and since a great one has not taken place hereabouts for more than two centuries, we can be definitely certain that one is about due."



Cub Reporter: "Had your diamond stolen lately? Engaged to any dukes?"

Stage Favorite: "Kindly omit banalities. Actresses don't talk that kind of stuff nowadays. If I am to be interviewed I shall discuss ethical questions only."

Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

THIS WEEK'S SHORT STORY

Only yesterday, it was, that we put the mortal remains of good old Charlie Keller in a hole in the cemetery, and threw earth on his coffin. A finer fellow never lived than good old Charlie. Born in our town, he passed through the toils of learning, and eventually clove his way through the University. Putting all this nonsense behind him, he came back to the town, and settled to the serious business of making a living. A good living he made, and marrying on it, was reasonably content, even as you and I. He was not illiterate, but could take his books and facts, or leave them alone, again, even as you and I.

But a viper crept into this Eden of his. Glancing at a magazine one day, he chanced to rest his eye on an intelligence test, a questionaire. With a smile on his lips, he set out to answer the questions; but little did he know, alas, little did he know. University career and all, he could not think of answers to those questions, he did not think of answers to those questions, he did not know what this was, what that should be, nor who such and such a great man is. The rating, as supplied by the scale of answers clearly told him that he was a moron, a half-wit, a fool.

In the next issue of this nefarious journal, he found an entirely different set of questions, which, again, he could not answer. The thing preyed upon him, choked back his sprightly repartee, throttled his better nature. In succeeding editions, in other sheets, he sought to prove his mind. But no matter how he racked his failing brain, he still did not know what this was, what that should be, nor who such a great man is.

At last the end came, he sank lower and lower, and finally in a fit of abysmal despondency, took his own life.

Now back of all this dismal screed, is a fiend unloosed. Why should any reasonable man unchain on a trusting suffering public such questions as daily haunt the pages of our magazines, our journals, our newspaper. And anyway, who in h—l cares what this was, what that should be, and who such and such a great man is? These questioanires are the purest balderdash, bunk of the first water, and tripe of the truest breed.

Some day, I will corner one of these maudlin devils, who think up these questions, and I will say to him: "Tell me, sirrah, what is a theorbo; what, you do no know? Arroint thee wretch. Give me then, the trade name of hydroxylamine trisulphonate of soda. Ha! you pale, you mutter to yourself! You do not know! You do not know! Ill was the day you were born. I'll have your life."

Had such a pest as these persecutors of the faithful lived in an olden day, the rack, the gibbet, the thumb screw would have had him and speedily. He who went into the marketplace and cried aloud "Mighty am I. I know whereof no man can tell!" got action, plenty of it, and right smartly. But now, they flourish.

Be reasonable, I say. Now here are questions a few such as may charm the heart of the multitude, restore a lost harmony, and make a man speak kindly to his wife: How many times two is four; name a four legged animal that barks; spell cat. Lives there a man who cannot find pleasure in the solving of such innocent, naive little puzzles? Try them. Feel that warm glow of superiority? Well, that is as it should be. Such things were made for the pleasure of the many, not for the unholy pride of the few. Away with the questionaire, the intelligence test. But you have probably guessed it. I have been trying them too.

Mother Restored to Family

If you asked the average happy and comfortable Ontario housewife what a gain of 49½ pounds would mean to her, she would probably look aghast at the very suggestion. Suppose, however, she were in the position of Mrs. Roberts, a woman with a family of young children in a small Ontario town where there was "little to earn and many to keep," growing weaker and weaker from overwork and poverty, finally obliged to leave her little ones to friends and neighbors and betake herself to the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives.

Then began the long, long fight to put back the precious pounds, which to Mrs. Roberts and so many like her, mean milestones on the road to health. Thanks to ten months of good care, rest, nourishing food and experienced medical attention, Mrs. Roberts one day saw the scales register 149 — a happy gain from the 99½ pounds she registered on entering the hospital.

Where is she now? Back at home, joyously taking up the care of her family, and grateful for her restoration to health. A great work assuredly, which needs much assistance from friends because poverty and tuberculosis so often go hand in hand. Will you help, please? A subscription sent to Mr. A. E. Ames, 348 College, Street, Toronto, will be greatly appreciated.

S.H.S. NOTES

Last Friday the monthly meeting of the Literary Society was held. It was opened by singing O Canada. Then the chorus Alluette was sung. The minutes were read and adopted. The business of the society was disgussed. Then John Schnurr favored us with a solo on his ukelin. This was a new instrument to all those present and John was heartily applauded.

Then came a debate.

The subject was "Resolved that the city depends on the country to a greater extent than the country depends on the city". This was an interform debate between Harry Johnson and John Houlgrave of fourth form who upheld the affirmative side and Mary Steen and Roy Hollingshead of third form, who upheld the negative side.

After a hard fight the affirmative won by a very narrow margin.

An address was then given by our Honorary president, Mr. Purchase.

Song sheets were passed round and a few of the good old songs were sung.

After giving one of our high school yells, the meeting was closed by singing, "God Save the King."

The annual High School sleigh drive was held on Tuesday evening, followed by a lunch at the school.

Favorite Chick Starter

This is the time of year when poultrymen are deciding what kind of chick starter is the best for them to use. We are frank in admitting that we use the same formula as that used at Guelph College. WHAT CAN BE BETTER? We have the best ingredients thot money can buy,and an up-to-the minute system of thorough mixing.

Favorite Chick Starter
will start your flock right and grow them up to eight weeks with less mortality than ordinary starters. After that, use FAVORITE DEVELOPING MASH. We have a full line of ingredients for those wishing to mix their own feeds.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Tossed Over Station Parapet To Cement Driveway 20 Feet Below

Toronto Manhole Explosion Causes Death of Goderich Man

Toronto. — Stepping on a Front Street manhole cover at the precise instant when sewer gas exploded in the pit directly underneath him, Norman Lewis, aged about 45, of Goderich, at 9.25 Sunday night, was hurled bodily into the air, over the Union Station parapet, and dropped 20 feet to the cab driveway below. He died 10 minutes after reaching St. Michael's Hospital in a police ambulance.

With a thunderous detonation that shook the Union Station and nearby buildings, the blast shattered the cold silence of Front Street, folding up large sections of sidewalk like so much breadcrust, breaking the heavy iron lid into a dozen jagged fragments and scattering stones, cinders and chunks of concrete for yards around. Large chips were knocked out of the granite parapet by flying cement. A dark cloud of dust floated away in the breeze. Lewis lay sprawling in the roadway below and a great jagged hole gaped where he had just been walking.

Lying near death in the Allan Court apartments, Carlton Street, Judge E. N. Lewis, Huron County court judge, father of Norman Lewis, was spared the knowledge of his son's death. Mrs. Lewis, a frail, old lady, who helps two nurses care for her rapidly declining, husband, immediately collapsed on learning that her boy had been hurt."

Cars Hurriedly Leave

Cars which had been parked at the curb on the south side of Front Street not far from the spot scurried away expecting a second blast, and although the street had been comparatively idle, bystanders and pedestrians, redcaps and postal employees from the station, hurried out and crowded around the hole.

Leo Barbeau, station redcap, who was standing near the entrance to Postal Terminal "A," looked around quickly at the sound of the explosion, and saw Lewis sail up five feet above the edge of the stone rail, which is four feet high. There was a pronounced odor of marsh or sewer gas hanging about for some time afterwards, and newspaper photographers were warned to use no open flashes.

The twisted ends of one small telephone cable hung into the concrete-walled pit, the only "works" of any kind. Bell telephone employees who examined the manhole said they were not sure that even that cable had been in use, as no reports of disrupted service had been received up until their inspection was made an hour after the explosion.

Dame Melba Dies Of Rare Disease

Australian Diva Succumbs Few Weeks After Return Home

Melbourne, Australia.—Dame Nellie Melba, famous Australian soprano, died here early Monday after an illness of several weeks.

Her illness took the form of a strange skin disease which baffled physicians. She was 65 years old.

Somewhere around 70 years ago a small farmer from Forfarshire Scotland, named David Mitchell, had a homestead known as Coombe Cottage, 70 miles from Melbourne, Australia. Here it was that Nellie Mitchell, afterwards to be known the world over as "Melba, the Queen of Song," was born and spent her early life.

To jump for a moment from the beginning of Melba's story to the close of it—Melba used often to declare that she rejoiced in her warm friendship with Lord Mountstephen because he reminded her so much of her father. They both began life penniless, she said, and attained positions of prominence.

Melba was taken when still a girl in her 'teens to Queensland. Here she married a sugar planted named Armstrong, and it was here, too, that her only child, a son, was born. For more than one reason Melba evidently found life impossible in Queensland, and she soon returned to her father near Melbourne. In 1886, with little but her passage money, she came to London determined to learn more of her art. Sir Arthur Sullivan, with rather a bored air, listened to her singing—and then suggested it was just possible she was fitted for a small part in "The Mikado," which was shortly to be produced. It was only when she pushed on to Paris and sang to Madame Marchesi that Melba found a judge of sufficient discrenment to truly appreciate her latent powers. Melba always attributed much of her success to Marchesi's enthusiastic support and devoted tuition.

Melba's operatic debut was made in Brussels, as Gilda in "Rigoletto." Two years later, in 1888, she made her first appearance at Covent Garden. In May, 1913, Melba celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of her association with Covent Garden. In June, 1926, she appeared for the last time here in opera, and the same month held a memorable concert of farewell in the Albert Hall.

Melba was created a Dame of the Order of the British Empire in 1918 in recognition of her efforts for war charities, and was accorded the Grand Cross of the Order in 1927.

77,199 Radio Licenses Issued In Toronto

Ottawa.—More radio licenses have been issued in Toronto for the first ten months of the present fiscal year than were issued in any other city in Canada, according to a report for the fiscal year 1930-31 up to the end of January, given out by C. P. Edwards, director of radio service.

There have been 69,030 more licenses issued in Canada for the 10 months of this year than there were for the full 12 months of last year, the figures being as follows:

1930-31 (ten months)	493,176
1929-30	424,146

For Toronto it is:

1930-31 (ten months)	77,194
1929-30	61,863

Says France Leads In Reducing Army

Deputy Presents Figures in Introducing $258,000,000 War Budget

Paris — Introducing a $258,000,000 Ministry of War budget in Parliament on Friday, Deputy Bouilloux Lafonte offered a report tending to establish, he said, that France has gone farther along the road to disarmament than any other nation.

Metropolitan troops are allocated $190,000,000 and overseas colonial troops $68,000,000 in the 1931 budget. The total is about $3,000,000 over last year's.

In spending the amount requested on the maintenance of her army, Lafonte said, France is devoting 16 per cent. less to that purpose than in 1913, and, in comparison with other nations and in proportion to defence needs, 14 to 48 per cent. less than in pre-war times.

His report said the French metropolitan army numbered 522,000, with 36,000 gendarmes, in addition. Great Britain, he said, has 510,000 regulars and 277,000 militia; Italy, 303,000 regulars and 110,000 caribiniers; the United States, 157,000 regulars and 395,000 national guards.

Although the budget increase is $3,000,000 over 1930, said Lafonte, the United States army expenditures showed an 86 per cent. increase, the Japanese 48 per cent. over pre-war figures.

His report said Germany was spending $120,000,000 to maintain the "treaty army" of 100,000 men, plus 150,000 gendarmes and 30,000 frontier guards and customs officers.

Boy Awakens After Ten-Day Sleep

Physicians Are Confident That He Will Recover

Montreal.—On February 13th fifteen-year-old Rodalph Robinet, of this city, was brought to the Notre Dame Hospital. He was sound asleep and had been sleeping for seven days. Physicans had worked over the boy at his home, but the mysterious illness failed to respond to treatment. Forced feeding was necessary to keep life within the sleeping youth, but even then he was gradually weakening.

In a last despairing effort to save his life he was taken to the hospital. Injections were given every few hours and all the science and skill of one of Montreal's largest hospitals converged to the bed of the sleeping boy.

Science won. Gradually he started to improve and on February 16th the boy awakened, and although still feeling the effects of the unknown malady appeared to be stronger. Medical men are confident that he will live.

Capt. Campbell Created Knight

Cherbourg, France.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, who recently set a new world's automobile speed record at Daytona Beach, received a knighthood on Feb. 19th.

The British vice-consul communicated the King's desires to Capt. Campbell while the speed-driver was still aboard the S.S. Mauretania in the roads off Cherbourg.

Capt. Campbell answered the communication from the vice-consul, expressing his appreciation for the honor. He set a record of 245 miles an hour at Daytona.

Navigation Start May Set a Record

Open Winter Leaves Many Harbors Clear in Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—The earliest opening of navigation in years is being predicted as a result of the almost unprecedented open Winter which has left some Lake Superior harbors practically without ice.

The earliest opening of navigation on record is April 1, 1902. Last year navigation on the St. Marys River opened on April 21.

Grand Marais, Michigan and Minnesota report no ice and open water as far as visible. Eagle Harbor has no ice, and Marquette Harbor and Lake Superior are free from ice.

Most of the bays and rivers along the shore of Lake Superior are frozen over, but with less than the usual thickness of ice. The St. Marys River is frozen over, but there is not the thickness there has been in previous years.

Spotted Fever Hits British Services

All Military and Naval Formations Cancelled Owing to Outbreak

Portsmouth, England.—All military and naval formations among the British forces here have been cancelled as a precaution in view of the outbreak of spotted fever in the services last week.

Already eight soldiers have died from the disease, which otherwise is known as cerebro-spinal meningitis, at Aldersot, a suspected case has been discovered aboard H.M.S. Repulse at Gibraltar, and 272 cases have been recorded among English civilians in the past 11 weeks.

Avalanches in Alps Take Fifteen Lives

Family of Seven Murled to Their Deaths—In Landslide

London.—Avalanches in the Alps were reported on Feb. 20th to have taken 15 lives including nine children at two separate places.

Advices from Berne, Switzerland, said that a family of seven including two children were thought to have perished in an avalanche that hurtled down the mountain side, crushing and partly carrying away the Post Hotel in Lukmanier Pass in the Canton of Grisons.

The building was inhabited by an aged couple named Wenzig and their family. Two of the bodies were recovered and there was small hope of finding the missing persons alive.

From Vienna came news that a peasant named Mair and seven children were killed when their house was destroyed by a huge avalanche which swept down upon the valley of Villgraaten in the eastern Tyrol, Austria. Three mills also were swept away. Villgraaten mountain is near Innsbruck.

Mauretania Sets Ocean Travel Record

London.—The Cunard liner Mauretania is not content to rest on past laurels, for by crossing the Atlantic four times within 31 days she has established a record. Sailing from Southampton on Dec. 10 she was back there on Dec. 22. Sailing again two days after Christmas she arrived in New York on Jan. 2 and reached Plymouth on her return journey on Jan. 9th.

The Mauretania thus steamed some 13,000 miles in 31 days, which averages, including the time spent in port, more than 400 miles per day. Five and a half weeks is the time usually allowed by the big liners for these four crossing.

Record Year's Trade For Port of London

London.—In spite of the general depression in trade and the reduction in shipbuilding, the Port of London has been able to report a record-year for 1930. Provisional figures show that 58,083,575 tons net of shipping used the port. This is an increase of over 500,000 tons over the total for 1929 and is a record for any calendar year in the history of the port.

Air Mail Crash Takes Two Lives

Dr. R. E. Alleyn, Winnipeg, and G. Lewis, Regina, Die Near 'Peg.

Winnipeg.—The second fatal air crash in the history of the Western Canada Air Mail Service on Feb. 20th claimed two lives. Caught in a sudden fog about 75 miles west of Winnipeg the Moose Jaw bound mail-carrier broke up in landing and burst into flames. The dead:

Dr. Richard E. Alleyn, 33, Winnipeg.
George E. Lewis, 22, Regina.

Pilot N. G. Forrester, of Western Canada Airways, who was at the controls, was injured, but will recover. He is being treated at hospital at Portage La Prairie, 15 miles east of where the plane crashed. Dr. Alleyn and Lewis were killed instantly, it was stated.

Dr. Alleyn, who is medical officer for Western Canada Airways, has been termed Winnipeg's "flying doctor.' He' was en route westward to examine pilots for the company. Lewis was bound for Regina, Sask. The mail was recovered, it was announced here.

Sault Starts 1931 Drive For Tourists

Opening of $650,000 Hotel Is Initial Step

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. — Algoma's capital commenced its 1931 drive for tourists Monday night with the opening of what is claimed to be the finest hotel between Toronto and Winnipeg.

The New Windsor, built at a cost of $650,000 and offering the most modern accommodation for tourists, was officially opened at a banquet.

The Windsor is a community enterprise and a direct result of the news stories which have spread abroad Algoma's fame as a hunting and fishing paradise.

The idea started with John Miller, president of the company, and his partner, Paul Everett, but the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Algoma Steel Company and the Algoma Central Railway are large shareholders. Many private citizens subscribed.

The Windsor is Sault Ste. Marie's first skyscraper.

Leads the World

Laying 357 eggs in 365 days in the British Columbia Egg Laying Contest conducted at the Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Africulture at Agassiz, B.C., "No. Drone 5H," a White Leghorn owned by Wm. Whiting, of Port Kells, B.C., qualified as a real champion egg layed. This bird, a beautiful specimen of the breed, weighs just 5.2 pounds. From November 1, 1929, to October 30, 1930, she laid 29.9 dozen eggs which weighed 52 pounds, or just ten times her own weight. Her record is official in the fullest sense of the term. During the entrie period of the contest she was entirely out of the hands of her owner and under the competent neutral supervision of the federal egg-laying contest. This hen shows conclusively the possibilities of Canada's national poultry-breeding policy.

Sense of Time Becomes Less In Old Age

Disturbances of the senses of time and space in persons with mental disease and in very old people were described recently to the Physiological Institute of Vienna, Austria, by Dr. Eugene Minkowski. Ordinary healthy people, Dr. Minkowski stated, have time and space senses which are more or less automatic. Both may be slightly inaccurate, as when time seems to pass rapidly when one is bored. It is admitted, too, that the accuracy of both the time sense and the space sense differ greatly in different people, there being individuals whose automatic space sense fails and confuses them if they are merely led at random around the corners of a few adjacent city blocks. Victims of distinct mental diseases like general paralysis of the insane are said to show, however, much more complete disturbances and inaccuracies of both these senses. One patient studied by Dr. Minkowski experienced, for example, the hallucination of a trip to the United States, a journey around the country and many detailed experiences, all within a single day. Such time and space illusions imply, Dr. Minkowski believes, that these two senses are not ancient or deep-seated in the animal mind, but have been acquired recently in human evolution, perhaps even since savage times. Similar incompetence of the time sense may be found, he also reported, in very young children and in very old people. The latter often confuse, for example, the time of events, remembering things that happened in childhood as simultaneous with things that happened yesterday.

London Gives Chaplin Enthusiastic Welcome

London.—Charlie Chaplin arrived in London on Feb. 19th. A tremendous welcome had been prepared for him and at the station his automobile was surrounded by a surging crowd trying to shake his hand. Waving his hat and cane, he climbed on the roof of the car and as it moved away he squatted there.

Canadian Oranges

Regina. — Tyvan district boasts a farmer who, besides growing wheat, has a crop of oranges, small though it be. The man is Donald W. Houston, three miles north of town. Mr. Houston, no matter how hard the year, always has had, for the past six years, oranges from his own tree for Christmas, except the Christmas of 1930. In 1930 the tree had a lazy fit, and did not produce the oranges that could be eaten until after Christmas. The tree bears from five to nine oranges each year.

A good plant for the conservatory is the Streptocarpus. If the seeds are sown in January or February, they will bloom freely the following summer, and if the flowers are cut back the latter par of September the plants will give a mass of bloom in the early spring. They may be had in six or eight shades.

Mothers Allowances are paid, mostly, to young widows with dependent children. Ontario spends over two and a quarter million dollars a year in thus relieving the distress of widows and orphans—whose husbands and fathers, in a very large number of cases, were killed by preventable diseases.

Garden Talks

Getting Off Early

It will soon be time to start thinking of getting seed sown indoors. Not only can one get the garden off to a much earlier start in this way but one can also grow those tender plants for which our season normally is too short. Supplies for the window box or hanging basket are also produced from seed planted indoors. Such flowers as Cosmos, Marigolds, Zinnias, Petunias, Foliage Plants and in fact practically every thing except Poppies, which do not replant very readily, may be started under glass in March or April and will actually benefit from being moved around a few times before they are placed in their location. Tomatoes, Cabbage, Head Lettuce, Cucumbers, Melons and even a few of the earlier Beets, Carrots and Corn can be started indoors from two to six weeks ahead of the time they would be planted outside. Select a box a couple of inches deep with holes bored in the bottom for drainage, and fill with sand and loam. If such material is not on hand often the nearest greenhouse man will supply some. Moisten the earth and then mark off the rows for the seed about an inch apart. Sow and then cover the box with a piece of sacking or burlap which hastens germination and will also prevent the seeds from being washed out when watered. Get the plants started in a warm, dark cellar and after they have pushed up through the soil remove covering and place in full sunlight about a foot away from the window if it is single or closer if a double sash has been provided. Make sure that your plants are protected on nights when the temperature threatens to drop to zero. If a large quantity of plants are desired it will be necessary to provide a hot bed. This is simply a glass protected bed placed on a pile of fresh horse manure at least eighteen inches deep. The manure should be allowed to heat up and cool down again before planting. Have the bed face the south with the glass sloping a few inches in the same direction so that rain will run off and the sun's rays may be caught more fully. Water very sparingly in cold weather and then only on bright days. Ventilate a little by raising the sash and keep this open longer as the weather gets warm. Transplant at least once to a cold frame, that is a glass protected bed without horse manure, before the plants are set in their permanent location outside.

Planning the Flower GaGrden

When we come to planning the flower garden, we must adopt a different attitude entirely with regard to the rows than was the case with the vegetables. In very few cases is anything but clump planting advisable. A much better show can be produced where groups of ten plants of one variety are placed together with the smaller sorts, such as Alyssum, Calendulas and similar things at the front, with Hollyhocks, Dahlias, Cosmos, Marigolds and the large Zinnias at the rear. One must guard against clashing colors and also against blind spots. That is, there should be something blooming at all times. In the catalogues will be found listed the different colors, the heights of the plants, and the season of blooming, so that there will be no trouble in laying out our garden well in advance of planting and if we take a little time with our pencil and paper we should have continuous and pleasing bloom from late Spring until frost..

Seed

Although the cost of flower or vegetable seed is of minor importance and is the smallest item taken into consideration by the gardener, one's whole season's work depends absolutely on the quality of the seed used. Generally speaking, there is but one opportunity to plant during the season and if poor seed is used results are certain to be disappointing. The cost of the land, labor, equipment and fertilizer will be lost, as well as the pleasure of growing beautiful flowers and the satisfaction of producing high quality fresh vegetables if good seed which is the foundation of all this, is lacking. It is essential to use good seed and suited to Ontario conditions. A certain rose or a very fine Corn, for instance, may give wonderful results down in Virginia where the climate is much milder or in England where there is little trouble with frost but the same variety, if used here, will not do well. Because of this unalterable condition the gardener is well advised to obtain his supply of seed and plants from those sources which cater to Ontario gardens. Naturally, the seedsmen in the province select their supplies to suit our climate and conditions, and the fact that most of our seed houses have been in business for a generation or more is ample testimony of the suitability of their selections.

"Was it in the night?"

"What do you mean?"

"I thought it might be a nightmare."

A man named Dodgin was recently appointed foreman, but his name was not known to all the men under him. One day he ran across two men smoking in a corner. "Who are you?" asked one of them. "I'm Dodgin, the new foreman," he replied. "So are we. Sit down and have a smoke."

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

A SINGLE SIP PROVES IT

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headaches, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

World Wheat King Off On Trip

Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, world wheat king who won five prizes at Chicago and Toronto last Fall, is here shown with Mrs. Trelle aboard Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France just before sailing from New York, February 3, on a 73-day Mediterranean cruise. At the International Livestock Show at Chicago he took two grand championships and one first prize and third prize for hard winter wheat, demonstrating thereby that he has moved the winter wheat line 700 miles to the north. At the Royal Canadian Winter Show at Toronto he also took a first, making five in all. The trip was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Trelle by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in appreciation of his great work for Canadian agriculture, and for his demonstration that the Peace River country is one of the finest grain-growing regions on the continent. When he reaches Egypt, Mr. Trelle will try out the possibilities of causing wheat grains of the time of King Tut-Ankh-Amen to sprout and will return the compliment by planting some of his choice seeds in Egypt for experimental purposes.

Mr. Pennington—That's Mrs. Illington. She's a very remarkable woman, and they say she commands a very large salary.

Mrs. Perkinson—How does she earn it?

Mr. Pennington—She doesn't earn it. Her husband earns it, and she commands it.

THE WAY IT USUALLY HAPPENS

He fell for her, a charming miss,

And, since he fell, we've noticed this—
He can't get on his feet.

How unfortunate that the only people who know how to run the world become authors instead of statesmen. —Richmond News-Leader.

Rhythm

They tell me new methods now govern the Muses,
The modes of expression have changed with the times;
That low is the rank of the poet who uses
The old-fashioned verse with intentional rhymes.
And quite out of date is rhythmical metre;
The critics declare it an insult to art.
But oh! the sweet swing of it, oh! the clear ring of it,
Oh! the great pulse of it, right from the heart,
Art or no art.

I sat by the side of that old poet, Ocean,
And counted the billows that broke on the rocks;
The tide lilted in with a rhythmical motion;
The sea gulls dipped downward in time-keeping flocks.
I watched while a giant wave gathered its forces,
And then on the gray granite precipice burst;
And I knew as I counted, while other waves mounted,
I knew the tenth billow would rhyme with the first.

Below in the village a church-bell was chiming,
And back in the woodland a little bird sang;
And, doubt it who will, yet those two sounds were rhyming,
As out o'er the hill-tops they echoed and rang.
The Winds and the Trees fell to talking together;
And nothing they said was didactic or terse;
But everything spoken was told in unbroken
And beautiful rhyming and rhythmical verse.
So rhythm I hail it, though critics assail it,
And hold melting rhymes as an insult to art,
For oh! the sweet swing of it, oh! the dear ring of it,
Oh! the strong pulse of it, right from the heart,
Art or no art.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox. Originally printed in Lippincott's Magazine.

Man Has Bigger Brain Than Woman

Face is Gradually Receding While Mind is Expanding

Toronto—The brain of man is increasing in size and power, his cranium is becoming larger, and his face is gradually becoming less prominent, showing a marked tendency to recede backwards beneath the brain case, stated Prof. J. C. B. Grant of the department of anatomy of the University of Toronto during a recent address at an open meeting of the Royal Canadian Institute here.

Over a period of hundreds of centuries, as the brain of man increased in power and capacity, it became larger, stated Prof. Grant. This tendency may be proven by a comparison of the size of the cranial cases of skulls of different stages of man's development.

Professor Grant pointed out that the brain of a man is larger than that of a woman. He did not consider, however, that this could altogether be taken as proof that the mental capacity of the male was just that much greater than that of the female. Brain sizes, he considered, were to a certain extent proportional to the size of the person to which they belonged. He pointed out that the brain of the elephant and of the whale were larger than that of a man, but that this could scarcely be taken as proof that they had greater mental capacity.

The unmistakable tendency of the jaw and of the facial portion of the skull to recede under the brain pan was, in Professor Grant's estimation, a result of the fact that the human face has been relieved of many of its duties by the hands. Lower animals, he explained, must use their jaws to accomplish clumsily many things which a human now does easily with his fingers.

Discussing the ridges, depressions and other phenomena of a skull, Prof. Grant pointed out that the only connection between the face and the backbone is through the medium of the brain case and that the muscles which work the jaws are attached not to the face bones but to the walls of the brain. In consequence, he said, by examining the extent of the areas to which the muscles are attached—and these are usually marked by fairly sharp lines—one can discern accurately the muscular capacity of the skull's late owner. It is by the use of such methods as this, he stated, that deductions as to the nature of primitive man were formed by scientists.

DAY-TO-DAY REPORT OF POTATO MARKET

In order to keep potato growers and shippers more closely in touch with market conditions the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has instituted a day-to-day radio market report service. Staff inspectors of the Department at Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto wire the salient features of their local market to the Branch at Ottawa at 10.30 each morning. At Ottawa these reports are consolidated and telegraphed to Moncton, N.B., where they are sent out through the courtesy of radio station CNRA during the noon hour broadcast.

WHY SUFFER FROM YOUR LIVER?

Why be handicapped with unsightly blotches on the face, eyes with yellow tinge and that tired and languid feeling? This indicates a torpid liver.

Headache, Dizziness and Biliousness surely follow. You must stimulate your lazy liver, start the bile flowing with Carter's Little Liver Pills.

They also act as a mild laxative, purely vegetable, free from calomel and poisonous drugs, small, easy to swallow, and not habit forming. They are not a purgative that cramps or pains, unpleasant after effect following, on the contrary a good tonic. All druggists 25¢ and 75¢ red pkgs.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drugstore; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Here and There

Production of newsprint paper in Canada in 1930 totalled about 2,500,000 tons, a production considerably greater than that of any other country.

Canada will have a large and attractive exhibit at the Buenos Aires Exhibition, March 14 to April 27. Canadian manufacturers will also be exhibiting their products in the Canadian section.

Hotel accommodation in the Prairie Provinces, according to the latest computation, is arrived at as follows:—In Manitoba, 285 hotels; in Saskatchewan, 400; and in Alberta, 419.

Portugal is the latest recruit to the forthcoming World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in Regina in the summer of 1932. Eleven other countries have so far notified their intention to show.

Oil production in Alberta is decidedly on the upgrade, according to provincial government figures recently compiled. Total output in 1930 was 3,433,844 barrels compared with 999,152 in 1929.

Placement of 1,600,000 salmon fry and 1,000,000 trout has been made throughout different sections of Nova Scotia, a generous percentage of which went to the brooks and streams of Annapolis Valley.

Life, fire, accident and other insurance companies collected a total of $10,366,636 in annual premiums on policies in force in Nova Scotia during the past fiscal year. This represents an increase of nearly $1,000,000 over the previous year.

A combination of high speed at sea, special rail facilities at Quebec—including a tunnel under the famous battlefields—and special trains to New York and Chicago will shorten the time between London and most Canadian and United States cities by from one and a half to two days.

Freight transportation requirements of the United States are equivalent to hauling 400 billion tons one mile every year and there is no other instrumentality that can handle more than 20 per cent. of these requirements, it was stated recently in an address in New York City.

C. B. Andrews, of Winnipeg, has been appointed district passenger agent at Saint John, N.B., in succession to George S. Beer. Mr. Andrews joined Canadian Pacific service in 1910 and has worked his way up from a clerkship in the superintendent's office at Souris, Manitoba.

Co-operative associations in Canada numbered 1,095 in 1930 with a total membership of 690,685. In 1929 there were 936 of these organizations which reported 512,835 members. They include grain growers, dairy farmers and fruit and vegetable growers in the eastern provinces.

Enrollment in the Saskatchewan Government's correspondence school has now passed the 5,000 mark, according to information received from the office of Premier J. T. M. Anderson, Minister of Education. Applications are still coming in, as many as 43 being received in one day, and up to the present the department has been able to handle all applications.

The Only Home She Knows

Little blue-eyed, auburn-haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 238 College Street, Toronto 2.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

For work such as this, your subscription is asked. Will you please send as much as you can to Mr. A. E. Ames, 238 College Street, Toronto.

THE STITCH IN TIME

Although remarkable progress has been made in the campaign against tuberculosis, this disease still remains one of the most powerful foes with which the human family has to contend.

The progress which has been made is encouraging, particularly because it has been realized in spite of the fact that no specific means of either preventing or curing tuberculosis has as yet been discovered.

The majority of persons take into their bodies, fairly early in life, the germs which cause tuberculosis. In most persons, the germs lie dormant because the powers of resistance of the human body are kept at a sufficiently high level to hold the germs in check.

It is when the body resistance is lowered that the dormant germs have their chance, and they then become active, causing the disease which we know as tuberculosis.

Body resistance may be lowered by many causes, among which are worry, over-fatigue, bad working or living-conditions, poor diet, or the occurrence of some debilitating disease. These conditions are not the direct cause of tuberculosis, but they act as contributory causes by lowering body resistance and giving the germs which cause the disease an opportunity to become active.

If tuberculosis does occur, the question of cure and the time required for cure become most important considerations.

We should never lose sight of the fact that when the disease is diagnosed early, there is every chance of cure, providing that proper treatment is started without delay and continued for as long as it is necessary. The chance for cure decreases proportionately with the delay in beginning treatment. The longer treatment is postponed, the more time will be required to obtain results.

Any person who has been exposed to tuberculosis—and this generally means anyone who has lived in a home where there has been an active case—should be regularly examined by a physician. The reason why such examinations are recommended is that if diseases does occur, it will be detected in its earliest stages and treatment secured without delay. The person who, for any reason, suspects that he may have tuberculosis, should go immediately to his doctor for an examination.

Early diagnosis is the key which unlocks the door to cure. Early treatment is the stitch in time which prevents the serious and sometimes complete destruction of body tissues which the germ of tuberculosis causes if allowed to go unchecked.

WAITING FOR 8.30

Mother and Anne had always been very close to one another. When Anne married and moved to another city, each missed the other greatly.

But one thing more than any other has helped to keep them close — the telephone. Every Friday evening Anne calls her mother by Long Distance . . . after 8.30 p.m. when the low night rates are in effect. During the week they both keep memos of topics they wish to discuss. Then there is no time lost . . . and nothing forgotten.

What if they are 120 miles apart! The telephone connection is made in about a minute — nearly always while Anne holds the line. Their voices are just as clear as on local, and the cost, after 8.30 p.m., is only 40 cents.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m.

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation, and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Maas and Mrs. Adamson visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Alice McLeod, who is a Patient in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto. Mrs. McLeod expects to leave the Hospital within a few days.

Mrs. H. Gerhart is a Patient in Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, her recent operation proved successful and she is doing as well as can be expected.

On Sunday morning a unique ceremony took place in the United Church. A generous donor made it possible to procure six beautiful and serviceable offering plates. These, on behalf of the donor, were consecrated by the Rev. S. H. Purchase and passed over by him to Mr. C. H. Falconer, Treasurer of the Church, who rereived them on behalf of the Session and members of the Board of Stewards.

The Rev. W. T. McCree attended a meeting of the Home Missions Committee of the Presbyterian Church the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Waite spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Johnston of Islington.

Miss Lawson returned from her trip to Newark, where she went to attend the funeral of her brother Louis who died in that city about three weeks ago.

Peter Stephens of this village underwent a minor operation a week ago. He is steadily improving.

Mrs. John Wagner has been confined to her bed for several days and according to recent reports she is gradually improving.

Mr. Sam Wolfe is critically ill with Pneumonia. He is reported to be holding his own.

A brother of D. H. McCaugherty visited him over the week end.

Rev. Mr. Perry of the local anglican Church occupied the Pulpit of the Long Branch Parish last Sunday evening.

The Rev. R. A. Spencer of Clarkson visited his daughter, Mrs. Len. Pope, one day last week.

Victor Johnston visited with his parents at Shelburne over Sunday.

Mr. J. Workman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee and T. Gould attended the funeral on Saturday of Mr. Joel Turney, who died at Niagara-on-the-Lake. He was staying with his granddaughter, Mrs. Drinkwater.

ENGAGEMENTS

The engagement is announced of Mary Wanda Curtis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Thompson and the late John Henry Curtis, Cooksville, to William Page, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Page, Cooksville. The wedding to take place quietly the latter part of March.

PORT CREDIT

What is conceded to be a remarkable feat for a woman driver stands to the credit of Mrs. F. J. Moore, wife of the President of the Moore Motors Limited of Port Credit. Proceeding to Miami, Florida; to bring back her invalid husband, Mrs. Moore did the journey back to Toronto, a distance of 1,735 miles, in 46½ hours. During the entire trip the only mishap was a single puncture. She left Miami on Monday at 7 a.m. and arrived home at Port Credit at 3 a.m. on Thursday. On the last day of the Journey she was twenty hours at the wheel without a break, and is none the worse for the adventure.

A FAMILY DISTURBANCE

Harry Harrison, a henpecked husband—Laurence Dalby.

Mrs. Dorothea Harrison, Who does the pecking—Bessie Steen.

June, Their charming daughter—Margaret Cook.

Nellie Harrison, Mr. Harrison's cousin—Bertha Cliff.

Joshua Judson, Mr. Harrison's Uncle from the country—Harry Johnston.

Nora McBride, The Irish Cook—Mrs. McArthur.

Pat O'Donnely, In love with the cook—Norman Rutledge.

Elmer Simray, June's sweetheart—Jim Steen.

Count Vallencia, An imported product—Jim Hisey.

The above is a cast of the play to be held in the Theatre, Tuesday, March 17th, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the United Church. There will be many other interesting features appropriate for St. Patrick's Day.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER

Winnipeg, Feb. 25th, 1931

Dear Editor:

I really must give you some of my impressions of Winnipeg. In the first place, lately it has been the dirtiest city I have ever seen—mud, mud and water everywhere—and no cold weather yet. Everywhere you go is—Hello, do you think we are having spring already? and then the answer—Looks like it, or Wait awhile, you cannot trust the weather. It simply has been beautiful weather; quite a lot of foggy weather sometimes. Last Friday was the thickest fog I ever felt; seemed thick like smoke and seemed to hurt to breathe it. I expect you have all read of the terrible accident to the mail plane, in that same fog—at Bagot, Manitoba, not far from Portage La Prairie. One Dr. Alleyn of Winnipeg, one of the most popular men in Winnipeg. Every body seems greatly grieved over his sad death.

So far we have been able to enjoy the city. It is surely very wonderful what a person can enjoy if one is only the least interested.

We went to Wesley College one evening, and listened to a lecture on Iceland, given by Mr. Major. He had taken pictures of different parts of the country, while he was over there last summer, as a delegate from Manitoba to the 1,000th anniversary of Iceland's parliament. It surely was wonderful, the boiling springs, the rough and rugged mountains, the place where the first parliament was held.

Mr. Major took over as a gift to Iceland, a bronze tablet of Hon. T. Johnson, who was a member of Manitoba for many years.

The 27th January, we went to see the opening of Manitoba's parliament, having never attended the opening before; was something new, but the building was so crowded, we had to stand, and it was so very warm. Parliament was just opened, then dismissed. Went the next day, heard Mr. Griffith and Mr. Langchuk make a speech, on reply to the speech from the throne; pretty quiet.

Went to see the wonderful painting, "The ever open Door," on view in Eaton's store, lent to them by the gallery of paintings in Toronto. It surely is a great picture. Eaton's had it so arranged to get the best effect. "The Open Door is the door of death, showing death in all its terrors; death was visible on every figure, all had to leave everything behind—the King his crown, the child its toys, the strong, the weak, the old, the young. All had to pass through the door of death, ahead of them looked very dark; above you could see a spot of light. So many were naked, showing they brought nothing into the world, neither could they take anything out of the world. All looked so sad or fearful. Not my idea of death at all, painted by an Englishman. Now I have been telling you all about the most wonderful painting, and probably you have seen it for yourselves. But I never would be tired looking at it myself.

Feb. 5th. Winnipeg started its winter frolic; went across to Hudson Bay to stand and see it pass. Mayor Webb headed the procession; then big moving vans, then torch light procession; then some more trucks, some more torch lights, dressed fantasticaly, cow bells, string bells, and anything that made a noise; small horns in their mouths. It was a long parade, the fire chief bringing up the rear, the dogs and snow shoers did not join the parade, they had to keep to the river at Hudson Bay. The paraders were hustled into vans and trucks and conveyed to River Park, where all kinds of winter games were joined in by anyone who wished to.

One night two men came into the house and would not go out. Mr. Gould called for help—but they would not budge for ayone. Mr. Gould went for the police; they followed him out, calling after him, "get your friend, get your friends," but no police were in sight. However, they kept on going. Mr. Gould has three little Pomeranian dogs,. and say, didn't they kick up a fuss. One man said, "Your dogs have saved you this time, but wait for the next time." I expected them to say—"stick 'em up," which at present is the most popular words in Winnipeg.

Feb. 18th went across to Hudson Bay, to see the handicraft of fourteen nationalities. It was sure worth going to see. Each booth had their native dress, wearing it at their work, beautiful embroidery, spinning, weaving, carding, making lace. The first Bible to be taken to Iceland was on show. Beautiful quilts, woven and patched. I think the Indian work was the most beautiful—beads and porcupine quills, embroidery work on tanned caribou skin and the blending of the colors, were so very natural.

Last night, we attended the Peel old timers banquet, at the Fort Garry Hotel; also our son and his wife. We met folks from Peel we once knew, and did enjoy the talk of old times and bygone days. We enjoyed the dinner very much. Mr. Craven was chairman. After dinner there was community singing, readings, solos, instrumental music. Mr. R. J. Spears is secretary. He spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be there, and read a number of letters from parties, who were not able to be with them, but regretted it very much. Dr. Bowles, spoke, and, to him, all clever folk come from Peel, especially Brampton. Rev. Taylor, of Kildonan, gave the address of the evening. His parents came from Peel in the very early days of Manitoba. He gave a lot of good advice to the young people, and said, he did not blame the young people, as he did the parents, so many going wrong; parents made it too easy for them, and thought more of having a good time, than training their children. Once he was making a speech at Neepawa. There was an Englishman, Scotchman and Irishman on the platform.

The English, held up the Englishman, the Scotch, the Scotchman, the Irish, the Irishman. They asked Mr. Taylor, what he was. He said, "I am a Canadian." They said, "What was a Canadian?" "Well," he said, "a Canadian is the best of the English, Scotch and Irish mixed, and they made the best Canadians, and Canada was the best country in the world, and don't forget it."

Met Col Taylor, leader of the Conservative party in the Manitoba house, also his wife. Some one introduced him to me, (I really don't know who), as a woman who had been out here forty-one years and never been home. I said—yes, that is so—don't you think I deserve a free trip home. He decidedly said, "You do."

The measurements of the Nipawin bridge is 1,800 yards in length. It took a year and a half to build it, and cost $1,500,000. It is supported by five piers. 90 feet above water level.

PRAIRIE ROSE

VILLAGE COUNCIL

Council held regular meeting Monday night. Reeve presiding. All members present.

The following motions were passed:

Hardy—Bailey—That the following accounts be paid: Municipal World, $4.65; Review, $43.10; Cap and Regalia Co., $5.76; E. J. Rutledge, $13.-05

Johnston—Hardy—That we change the pulley for main drive at power house for the sum of about $15.00, with N. Smith & Son.

Drennan — Johnston — That this council purchase a uniform cap for our Chief.

Drennan — Johnston — That this Council have cards printed advising the ratepayers when garbage collections will take place.

J. W. Drennan gives notice that he will at next meteing ask leave to introduce a bill to appoint a High School Trustee.

V. C. Johnston gives notice that he will at next meeting ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the Dog By-Law.

Your Council has revised the Electric rates within the Village limits as follows: 1st 50 K.W., at 5 cts; 2nd 50 K.W. at 3 cts.; All over 100 K.W. at ½ ct. plus service and meter charge.

The idea of doing this is to create a day light consumption for stoves, etc., when the plant is practically running idle.

Try and co-operate with your council by using power for cooking, etc., in day light this summer and help to put your plant on a paying basis.

JOHN T. O'NEIL

We were sitting in St. Peter's Anglican Church to-day,
Before Mr. O'Neil was laid away,
When the choir sang, "Nearer My God, to Thee,"
That land of rest we could almost see.
Then Rev. Mr. Thompson said, our loved friend John O'Neil,
His Christian life was so true and so real,
There was no malice or guile in his heart,
And in every good work he had always a part,
Then those comforting words he said to the living,
Think of the greeting to him in Heaven they are giving,
In his home on earth they will meet him no more,
But he will wait for them on the other shore.
When the Masons in a circle stood around his bier,
Their love and sorrow for him was sincere;
What joy from earth a departure like this
Then to go to a home of eternal bliss.

Streetsville Juniors in Final Plays

DRAMATICS WELL RECEIVED

Finals Arranged

Cheltenham, Streetsville and Tullamore competing for Gordon Graydon trophy in St. Paul's Auditorium, March 13th.

Peel county was much alive during the past week when the plays for the dramatic series were run off. Tuesday evneing, Feb. 24th, Cheltenham and Brampton competed. February 25th, Streetsville and Trinity, and Feb. 25th, Bolton and Tullamore, with Cheltenham, Streetsville and Tullamore coming out victorious. These three groups will compete for the Gordon Graydon trophy on Wednesday evening, March 13th, at St. Paul's Sunday School Auditorium. All the plays presented have been of a very high order and competition on the final evening will be very keen. Three neutral judges are being secured by the Department of Agriculture and program will be supplied for between acts.

Representatives of the three winning teams met with the Home Demonstrator on Saturday and all plans are made for the finals. Presentations will commence at 8.00 p.m. sharp on the stated date with Trinity playing first, Streetsville second and then Cheltenham following. It is expected that the Auditorium will be filled to capacity. This will no doubt be an outstanding evening for not only Peel Juniors but for all residents of the County and other interested parties. This is the first series of its kind to be held in the County and judging from the success, it is almost certain that dramatics will be continued next year, replacing the debating series.

STREETSVILLE WON

Streetsville Junior Groups won the honors in the dramatic contest held Wednesday night, when in the county series being run off they presented their play, "Dear Departed," in competition with Trinity Juniors. The latter presented "Sauce for the Goslings."

Streetsville players, directed by Rev. W. T. McCree, were: Dorothy Graydon, William McCaugherty, Beatrice Quinnell, Jack Drennan, Arthur Arch and Miss May Munro.

The Trinity players, acting under the direction of Mrs. Elgin Bryans were: Howard Hooper, Miss C. Wilkinson, Miss K. Lewis, Russell Grafton, H. Parkinson, Miss I. Martin and Miss F. Parkinson.

The chair was taken by J. C. Shearer, Miss Alma Wise explaining the scope and marking used in the ajudication, Judges were: Gordon Graydon, Professor Needham and Professor Garnet, of the O.A.C. During intermission, a program was given by Miss R. Ross, Miss Edith Irvine and the Trinity orchestra.

Mr. Edgar Crozier, Harris Corners, has returned home from Peel Memorial Hospital after his operation and is recovering very nicely.

Roy, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dowling, who was badly scalded by a kettle of boiling water, recently, is improving.

Erindale U.F.O.

The annual meeting of the club was held in Streetsville last Saturday, when the following officers were elected for 1931: President, Ken. McIlwrick; Vice-pres., Frank Steen; 2nd Vice, W. H. McCauley, Sec., O. Turney; Treas., Ken. Featherstone.

The club will have a banquet the end of March, and will put on a drive for new members. Forty members are enrolled for this year already. The club reports total receipts of $7513, with expenditures of $7004, leaving a balance on hand of $509.00.

Mr. W. H. McCauley, who has been the successful business manager of the Club for several years, feels that he cannot carry on any longer. He is to be congratulated on the splendid manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of his office, and it is with regret that the club receives his resignation.

Another meeting was held on Monday evening to make arrangements for the coming banquet.

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation, and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

Collective Fertilizer Buying

In connection with the recommendation of collective purchase of fertilizers as contained in the Somerset report, steps have already been taken by this Department towards this end. Mr. George Patterson who has had considerable experience with one of the fertilizer companies, has been appointed to go into this work. According to an estimate by Mr. J. A. Carroll of the Crops and Markets Branch, at least 25 per cent can be saved by farmers in the purchase of fertilizer where they can get together, buy by the carload and pay cash. Mr. Patterson's duties will consist in arranging with growers for this service.

WILL AID GRAPE GROWERS

Following a conference of the Legislative Agricultural Committee with Niagara and Essex grape-growers, announcement has been made by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy that as an aid to the grape-growing industry, his Department will take immediate steps to "go after and get" satisfactory markets for Ontario grapes in Eastern and Western Canada. It is the plan to have representatives located at strategic points, who would maintain close contact with the grape growers here in matters of prices, sales, shipments, etc. The growers felt that they could sell four times more grapes in Ontario than at present, by means of newspaper and radio advertising and general co-operation by the Department.

HEAVY LOSSES RECORDED

In his campaign to find some way in which losses to sheep breeders through the activities of dogs might be curtailed, the Honourable T. L. Keneedy, Minister of Agriculture, has unearthed some interesting facts regarding the money paid to farmers by municipalities last year as a direct result of sheep-killing. With the report 75 per cent. complete, it was shown that Ontario municipalities have paid $110,000 to farmers who have lost sheep. Simcoe county led with an expenditure of $6,902 and Kent was second with $4,435. Other counties heard from are as follows:

Bruce $3,408; Dufferin $4,067; Durham $2,141; Elgin $1,745; Essex $4,-253; Glengarry $2,169; Norfolk $1,838; Northumberland $1,945; Renfrew $2,-018; Stormont $2,725; Welland $2,392; Grey $3,127; Hastings $3,286; Lambton $2,598; Leeds, $2,079; Wellington $3,518; York $4,259; Middlesex $4,311.

Of the northern municipalities, neither Kenora nor Thunder Bay had anything to pay last year. Cockrane paid $36.65 and Manitoulin, once a great sheep-raising centre until the wolves got the better of the industry, expended $95.85.

TO MR. WM. COUSE

Do you know, Mr. Couse, there is something about you,
That makes Streetsville seem so lonesome without you;
And remember this, wherever you roam,
You are missed every day at your dear old home;
May your journey abroad soon come to an end,
And you'll return safe and sound is the wish of your friend.

SANDY

LET US SMILE

Herbert had just come in before school time with a rip in his overcoat, but mamma kept him home long enough to mend it. At noon he went back to school, but returned quickly with a note from his teacher which read: "I've sent Herbert home because of his throat."

"Why, Herbie, nothing was wrong with your throat, I hope," his mother exclaimed. "Tell mamma what you said to your teacher." To which Herbie replied: "I told her my tote was tore."

Pay Up

While a great many have responded to our request and renewed their subscription, there are still a large number owing us and we need the money. Our list has been corrected up to date. Look at the date on your label and if there is any mistake kindly notify us and we shall be pleased to correct same as we require a considerable amount of money to meet our obligations we must again request those in arrears to settle same.

Barrie Prisoners Beat Jail Governor Caught After Two-Hour Chase

Governor, Wife, Turnkey, Cruelly Beaten in Fight When Spectacular Getaway Made From County Jail—Trio Recaptured in Breakneck Race Along Highway

Barrie.—Three convicted criminals, after allegedly attacking and beating the Governor, J.J. D. Banting, and the turnkey, John Weymouth, of Barrie Jail, made a desperate break for liberty shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night, departed in Governor Banting's car, and were recaptured, near Thornhill, by Provincial Constable Samuel Irwin of Bradford and Police Chief Sydney Barraclough of Richmond Hill after a thrilling chase which lasted more than two hours. A gravel-stuffed leather mitten was employed in the attack on the Governor.

The three are Alex Manson, 19; Leslie McLeod, 21, and William Moore, 24.

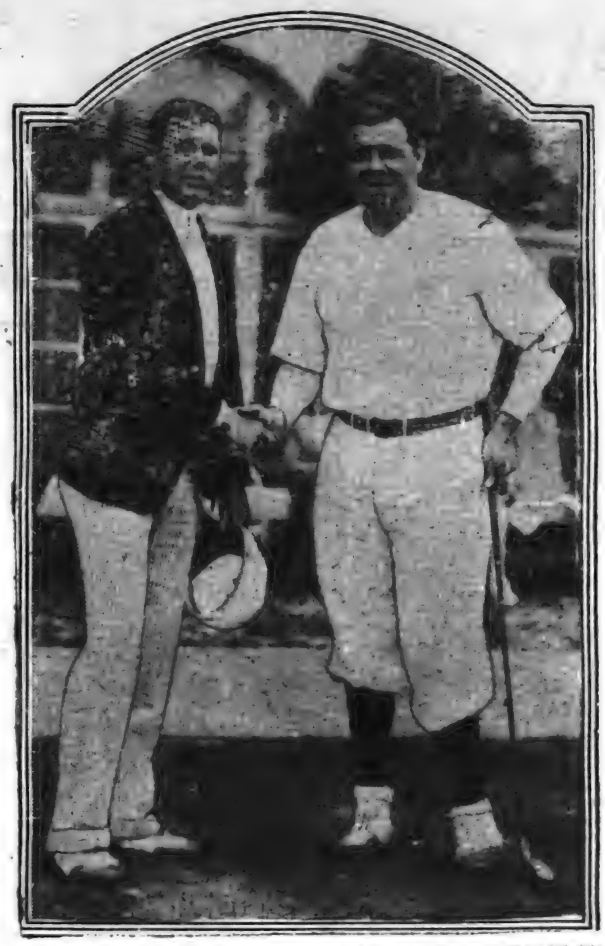
Though the break was as craftily planned and as coolly and ruthlessly executed as any in the history of the province, the three youthful desperadoes, who had it in their power to liberate all their fellow-prisoners, were in custody again in less than two hours. The work of Chief Constable Stewart of Barrie was a prime factor in the recapture.

Speedometers frequently hovered around the 70 mark in the police chase south on Yonge Street, which ended in their capture at 10.15 o'clock on Highway No. 7, two miles west of Thornhill.

Turning on the radio in the home of Jail Governor J. J. Banting, the trio changed from prison to civilian clothes and ransacked the house, stealing Mrs. Banting's purse, all to the lilting melodies of red-hot jazz.

Meanwhile the 70-year-old Banting, who is related to the discoverer of insulin, lay semi-conscious in the jail visitors' room, locked in with his white-haired wife, whom the escaping men had threatened to kill. Turnkey Jack Meaymouth, aged 56, was equally helpless in a bolted cell, where he had been thrown after being heavily beaten with a broomstick handle.

Governor Puts Up Fight



Beaten over the head with a chair, his own billy and heavy key, a milk bottle and a mitt loaded with gravel, Governor Banting put up a fight which well might be th boast of a man half his years. For 15 long minutes, up and down corridors and through his own house, which forms part of the jail building, he took all the brute punishment his much younger assailants could give and still fought back, unconquered.

He was bleeding pitifully and all but unconscious when they finally overcame him and dragged him into the visitors' room, where his wife was already imprisoned. Yet such is the vigor of this able septuagenarian that a quarter of an hour later he had pulled the wooden door of the room out of its lock and was running across the street to give the alarm.

The youngest of the jail-breakers, Manson, is named as the leader by the statement made on Sunday by Governor Banting and Turnkey Weaymouth. Manson, born and brought up in Barrie, where his mother still resides, was serving a term running up to two years. He had been out of Burwash Reformatory only four days when he was arrested and convicted on a charge of shopbreaking. As he was sentenced, he is reported to have told Magistrate Jeffs of Barrie that he wanted to go to Kingston and would go there "next time."

With his two companions, McLeod and Moore, he will appear on Monday before the same magistrate, charged this time with breaking custody, assault and theft of a motor car. Like Manson, McLeod was serving a term running up to two years for shopbreaking. Moore was "in" for from three months to a year for stealing a child's bank on the farm on which he was working near Barrie.

Canada Refuses to Trade With Soviet Russia

Definite Embargo List Includes Coal, Pulp, Timber, Asbestos and Furs

Ottawa.—Feb. 27.—That it is not in the public interests of Canada that products of Soviet Russia should be allowed to enter Canada is the decision of the Bennett Government. On Friday last, by order-in-council, the decision was made prohibiting the importation from Russia of coal, wood-pulp, lumber and timber of all kind, asbestos and furs.

By the steps taken, Canada severs trade relations with Soviet Russia.

The Bennett ministry frankly declares, in a statement issued by Hon E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, announcing the order, that its action is in opposition to communism.

It is convinced that forced labor is employed in timber operations and coal mining, that political prisoners are exploited that the standard of living is below that in Canada, and that all employment in Russia is under control of the Communist government.

"This is communism," says the Ryckman statement, "its creed and its fruits, which we as a country oppose and must refuse to support by interchange of trade."

Text of Statement

The full text of the statement follows:

"Under section 2, chapter 3, of an act to amend the customs tariff, assented to on the 22nd of September, 1930, the governor-in-council was given authority from time to time to prohibit the importation into Canada of any goods exported directly or indirectly party to the treaty of Versailles.

"Having regard to the documentary and other evidence that has been received by various departments of the public service in Canada, it has been deemed to be in the public interest that the importation into Canada from the Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics (Russia) of coal wood-pulp, pulpwood, lumber and timber of all kinds, asbestos and furs, should be prohibited. The Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics is not a contracting party to the treaty of Versailles and an order-in-council has been passed directing such prohibition. This order will be published in the next issue of hte Canada Gazette.

"The Government is convinced that there is forced labor in the cutting and transport of timber and in the mining of coal; that political prisoners are exploited; that the standard of living is below any level conceived of in Canada, and that, broadly speaking, all employment is in control of the Communist government which regulates all conditions of work and seeks to impose its will upon the whole world.

"This is communism, its creed and its fruits, which we as a country oppose and must refuse to support by interchange of trade."

Taschereau Urges Embargo

Quebec — In a statement issued, Premier Taschereau, speaking for the Government of the Province of Quebec, urged a strict embargo against Russian offer to trade with Canada.

"The offer made by Russia as regards trade with Canada should not be considered, for negotiating and trading with the Soviets we should be helping to spread the detestable principles and methods which are theirs, and from which we are already suffering to a considerable degree," said the Premier.

Mr. Taschereau fully endorsed the stand against Russia taken by Sir Herbert Holt, Montreal financier, and expressed himself as in agreement with a speech the Provincial Secretary, Hon. L. A. David, made in the Legislative Assembly presenting a motion urging the Dominion Government to ban Russian goods and exclude Soviet propaganda.

"The speech made by Hon. L. D. David on Russian imports is the faithful echo of the sentiments not only of the Government and the members of the Legislature, but also of the population of Quebec," he said.

Menace to Industry

Montreal—Quebec's industries and trade will suffer great losses if an embargo on Russian goods is not ordered by the Canadian and United States Governments, Hon. J. E. Perreault, Provincial Minister of Roads said at provincial offices here.

The present situation is extremely complex and necessitates an immediate solution. Hon. Mr. Perreault stated. Quebec is witnessing a reduction in the production of lumber, newsprint and wood pulp mills while stagnation in the asbestos mines is eminent. In other parts of Canada there is an immense decrease in the sale of wheat and coal while general forecasts indicate that the world will soon be flooded with raw furs. This dperession is the result of Russian exportation into Canada and United States. Quebec will be the province which will suffer the most of this super-production in Russian territory.

"Not only is the situation complex," Hon. Mr. Perreault continued, "but present prompt authorities to enact necessary measures to protect Canadian industries and trade. Official statistics will prove that asbestos production has been considerably reduced in the Province of Quebec due to exportation of this product from Russia into United States."

The minister explained that Russian asbestos could be obtained at a cheaper price in United States than the Canadian product due to lower rates of production and transportation.

Canadian Exhibit Proves Effective

Many Orders to Canada as Result of British Fair

London — Orders for $50,000,000 worth of goods have been placed at the British Industries Fair and Canada is participating in the gratifying results.

It is officially stated that several British manufacturers are actively negotiating for the purchase of industrial sites in Canada.

Substantial orders have resulted through the London section of the fair for Canadian rubber boots, rubber hot water bottle and rubber making appliances, while as a result of the display of Canadian made papers, several publications printed here will in future go to press on Canadian paper.

A large number of firms intend using Canadian bond papers for correspondence purposes. Sales of Canadian honey were correspondingly good.

Heavy Industries

At the Birmingham section of the fair, which deals with heavy industries, orders have been received for tools and pumps, while a large volume of business has been done in building materials such as gypsum, pulp, fibre building boards, asbestos roofing, and insulating boards.

Meanwhile, inquiries received degarding Canadian-made coil-bed springs are expected to lead to substantial orders.

New Gold Strike Made in Yukon

Quartz Ledge Above Timber Line Assays From $80 to $360 Per Ton

Vancouver.—What promises to be an important gold strike is reported from White Horse, according to news received by E. J. Farr, agent for White Pass and Yukon route here. Rush for claims, the report states, is similar to an old-time stampede, although the country is still held in the grip of Winter.

The report, originating from Carmacks, is to the effect that Fred Guder, a prospector, has discovered a gold quartz ledge on a mountain above the timber line, between Stoddard and Seymour Creeks. These streams are tributaries of Kitchener Creek, which flows into Big Creek, 45 miles from Carmacks.

The ore brought out by Guder assays $80 to $360 per ton, free milling, and carries considerable values in silver. As yet the extent of the ore is not proved, but the discoverer claims to have followed the ledge for 200 feet. There are various outcroppings over a considerable area.

Young Norwegians To Brave Arctic

Will Soon Start 1,000-Mile Trip Across Greenland in Interests of Science

Oslo, Norway. — Braving certain hardships and possible death, Martin Mehren and Arne Hoygard, two young students, will start soon on a 1,000-mile journey on skis across the vast snowy wastes of Greenland in the interests of science.

The young men also hope to find some trace of the expedition led by the famous German explorer, Alfred Wegener, from which nothing has been heard for some time. The expedition set out last Spring to conduct meteorological and geological observations from the high Greenland icecaps.

The expedition of Mehren and Hoygard will be financed by the Government and will consist solely of the two youths with two dog-drawn sleds. The meteorological institute has lent them valuable instruments and observations will be made over the entire route.

British Industries Fair Closed After Big Success

London — The British Industries Fair has closed after a highly successful exhibition. Buyers numbered 164,185, an increase of 10 per cent. over last year. Overseas orders increased by five per cent. One firm dealing in phonographs took an order for £250,000 worth of business and altogether 5,000 new accounts were opened.

Trans-Canada Air Travel in 3 Years

Three-day Service When Route Organized, General MacBrien's Prediction

Montreal.—It will be three years yet before Canada is ready for trans-Canada passenger airplane service, predicted Major-General J. H. MacBrien here recently.

"I expect in three years we shall be able to cross the continent in three days," said the general.

"First of all, big airports are needed every 500 or 600 miles. If you make the ports less far apart than that the train will be able to compete on fairly even terms, and if you make them much farther than that you will be carrying fuel instead of passengers.

"The United States, which leads the world to-day in organized flying routes, has 15,000 miles lined up for flying. They have emergency landing grounds every 40 miles. I believe Canada could do with such fields about every 60 miles.

"The economical distance to fly a plane is just about 600 miles. More means gasoline as opposed to a paying load, while less means train competition. We have found out that planes can cross the ocean, but all the load is taken up in gasoline.

World Gold Supply Rests With Canada

Ottawa.—"Canada, in the field of present increasing production and future prospects, is the land of promise to stem the tide of dwindling gold supply," Major J. MacKintosh Bell, internationally known geologist and mining engineer, told the Ottawa branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada here recently. Canada produced nearly $40,000,000 of gold in 1929, Major Bell said, with $32,445,340 of this total coming from Ontario.

"Bearing in mind the wide distribution of the Keewatin rock with gold-bearing quartz veins within the precambrian shield, one can scarcely believe that the rich deposits of Porcupine and Kirkland Lake are unique and that none other of equal merit will be found," Major Bell said. "Pessimistic depression concerning new gold discoveries in Canada is entirely unwarranted by the history of past results; actually in the investigation of the gold possibilities of Canada there exists a golden opportunity, for no other section of the earth's surface would appear more likely to provide discoveries of far-reaching importance."

Ottawa Public Schools Cost $153,90 Per Pupil

Ottawa.—It cost $153.90 per pupil to operate the Ottawa public schools during 1930. This figure is given in the annual school board report, released recently. There were 10,325 children registered at the city's schools

Modern Machines Aid Work of Blind

L. M. Wood, President of the National Institute for the Blind, addressed the annual meeting of the Toronto Women's Auxiliary, held recently.

Dealing with some departments of the work which are not so well known as those covered by the regular reports, Mr. Wood spoke of the Placement Department and the assistance which the new Blind Workmen's Compensation Act would be in securing jobs for the sightless. Modern machines and present factory systems are making it easier for blind workers, who, in cases of repetitive machines, can operate to produce as much as a sighted man.

May Broadcast From North Pole

Explorers in Submarine May Tell Experiences Over Air

Pittsburg, Pa.—Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, who is planning a trip to the North Pole by submarine, conferred with officials here recently regarding the possibility of a continent-wide broadcast of the radio signals from the undersea craft when it is beneath the ice at the Pole.

Representatives of station KDKA said that an announcement might be forthcoming shortly.

Three broadcasts are under consideration, one when the submarine, the Nautilus, arrives at the Arctic ice, one when it is under the North Pole, and one when it reaches the Bering Sea.

World Convention Comes to Toronto

Geneva, Switzerland. — The third world assembly of the Young Men's Christian Association workers with boys, and the first world assembly of young men and young men's workers of the Y.M.C.A., will be held at Toronto from July 27 to Aug. 2, the executive committee of the World Alliance of the Y.M.C.A. announced in a schedule made public at a meeting which concluded here recently. The 20th world conference of the association will be held at Cleveland, from Aug. 4 to Aug. 9.

In view of the present world economic situation some requests were made that the conferences be abandoned but the committee, which was presided over by John R. Mott, decided that despite all difficulties they should take place.

The hardest cross word puzzle is why one should want to use cross words. Money slips away from the young folks as quickly as time does from the older folks. There will probably never be a low cost of high living. And, as you have probably suspected yourself, a good many of the chaps who long loudly for the good old days are actually longing inwardly for the bad old nights.

The Friend Who Just Stands By

When trouble comes your soul to try,
You love the friend who just stands by.
Perhaps theres nothing he can do,
The thing is strictly up to you;
For there are troubles all your own,
And paths the soul must tread alone;
Times when love can't smooth the road,
Nor friendship lift the heavy load.
But just to feel you have a friend
Who will stand by until the end.
Whose sympathy through all endures,
Whose warm handclasp is always yours,
It helps somehow to pull you through,
Although there's nothing he can do;
And so with fervent heart we cry
"God bless the friend who just stands by."

The two happiest moments of a woman's life are when a man asks her to marry him and when her doctor tells her she's got to have an operation. Trying to get even with people is what keeps up from getting ahead of them. There are insulting looks as well as insulting words. If you tackle the hard job first, the rest will be a cinch.

A service that others regards as a nuisance may be the basis of a profitable business if properly handled.

A young lady social worker was visiting a poor family in a New York tenement house and the mother was doing the washing and the baby was sitting on the floor chewing a very green banana.

Social Worker—"Oh, you shouldn't let that baby eat a green banana."

The Mother (looking up from the wash tub)—"Have you ever had a baby?"

Social Worker (blushing)—"Certainly not. I've never been married."

The Mother—"Well, then don't tell me how to raise babies, I've buried seven of them."

GAS relieved

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your dotor would advise.
The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.
One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.
Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.
Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All drug-stores sell it—50c.

Sunless Window Made Sunny

Every little while someone discovers a new and delightful way to curtain some north or poorly lighted window, so that the effect of light and sunniness is brought into the room. A very successful window curtain and drapery, which brought an appearance of sunshine and a suggestion of a flowery garden into a dim and cheerless north room, is here described.

The single window, which was about two feet from the corner of the room, was covered with a glass curtain of cream net, reaching to the window sill. It hung moderately full, its width being once and a half the width of the window. On this curtain, at one side, were appliqued gay-colored flowers with leaves and long stems, all made of silk that permitted the light to shine through brightly, as through stained glass. On the opposite side, that nearest the corner of the room, a drapery of deep daffodil yellow was arranged in an unusual and strikingly decorative manner.

This drapery was not silk but it had a silky luster. It covered the entire width of the window, and two widths were used to get the right fullness, the seam being concealed between the folds. It was cut long enough to reach to the bottom of the window casing. The entire width of this drapery was drawn back to the casing at the side, half way between the top of the window and the middle, from which point it hung in graceful folds down over the casing, covered but a few inches of the glass, hence cutting off almost none of the light.

Flowers Like Stained Glass.

The flowers, leaves, and stems were cut out and finished before they were put on the net curtain. Three flowers, two wide leaves, and three long, slender leaves, were used, besides the stems. Thin plain silk was selected for all of them, in order that the effect might be airy and dainty and so their color would show up perfectly. Very thin satin would be equally satisfactory. Heavier material should not be used, as the desired effect is not that of ordinary heavy-looking applique.

The colors for the flowers were pink, yellow, orange, and a light, rosy lavender. Another charming combination, with the yellow drapery, would be light blue, dark blue, yellow, and deep, reddish orange.

The top flower, which reached to just below the middle of the window, was made in this way: A circular piece of yellow silk was cut out, five inches in diameter, but very irregular in outline, suggesting the shape of a flower. The edge was turned under one-quarter of an inch and buttonholed with yellow silk thread. This is easier to do if the silk is first basted on a piece of newspaper, which after ward can be torn away. An irregular circle, 3½ inches in diameter, was cut out of the pink silk and basted over the middle of the yellow silk. The edge of the upper half of this pink inch, and was buttonholed onto the piece was turned under one-quarter yellow silk, using pink silk thread. A piece of the lavender silk, somewhat in the shape of an irregular half moon, was basted over all the lower half of the pink piece and all its edges turned under and buttonholed onto the pink above it and onto the yellow below it, using lavender thread. Then all the extra thickness of silk underneath were cut away so as to leave only one thickness of silk throughout the flower.

The next lower flower was made in a similar way, starting with a large, irregular circle of lavender, and using pink for its upper centre and orange below. The third flower started with pink and had yellow for its upper centre and lavender blow.

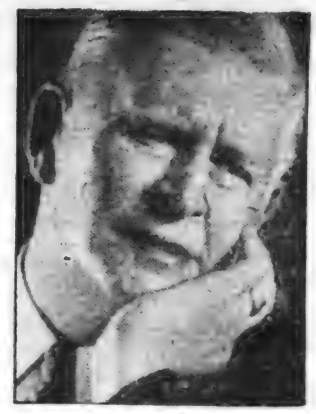
Stems and Leaves.

The stems, which were not cut in a straight line, but on a slight curve, to make them look more graceful, were of a light but rather vivid green. The material for them was cut one inch wide, and one quarter inch was turned under on each side, leaving the finished stem one-half inch wide. Both edges were buttonholed with silk thread of the same shade of green. The long thin leaves were a little wider throughout their middle portion than the stems, but tapered to points above, and were buttonholed in the same way. One of the two wide leaves was of green silk, the other of orange. They were two and one-half inches wide by three and one-half inches long, when finished and buttonholed. These were much curved, with a few interesting jags along their underside. Along the middle of each ran a "vein" made with silk thread of the color of the leaf, in a simple stitch.

When the flowers, leaves, and stems the lower left half of the net curtain were finished the, were pinned on at the window and adjusted until their position seemed right, then lightly basted in place. This makes it easy to remove them whenever the net requires laundering. The bottom of the stem and long leaves started from the very bottom of the curtain and extended almost to the sash.

This glass curtain and accompanying drapery were copied for a larger, wider window in another home. But there was added to the glass curtain, straight across the bottom of the net, a strip of yellow silk, four inches wide, the same width as a third of lavender, another just below of pink silk, of and a bottom one of green, the same thin, semi-transparent silk being used as was chosen for the flowers and leaves. The bottom strip reached just to the window sill. This, of course, meant raising the net part so that the top flower came a few inches above flowers and leaves were made slightly the middle of the window. The smaller than in the original curtain to avoid any possibility of the curtain looking crowded. The effect was indescribably gay.

The Two Green Places



In fields and deep among the friendly trees
And on the solemn hills, man knows his heart:
He is accompanied by ancestries.
His sires loved green, in it they had their part.
But when he moves alone in city ways,
With mutabilities along the street,
He has no kinship with historic days
No acorns crack beneath his alien feet.
Eternity informs the lightest rain,
And truthfulness the everlasting hills;
Be sure there is no end to any pain
Save in the womb that nurtures daffodils,
Loving the things your father looked upon,
You have the eyes of Jesus, Dante, Solomon.

LOSE FAT THIS WAY
No matter how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles—
If you will take half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 30 days—
You will feel so good—so energetic, and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.
Why will Kruschen Salts make this great change for the better in me—it is natural for you to ask.
Because Kruschen is a blend of the six vitalizing salts Nature says your body must have to keep every organ, gland and nerve in the body buoyantly healthy.
While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer, and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings. The old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat, and probably live years longer.
FREE TRIAL OFFER
If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to prove our claim for yourself. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. package.
This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle—sufficient for about one week. Open the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle is still as good as new. Take it back. Your druggist is authorized to return your 75c. immediately and without question. You have tried Kruschen free, at our expense. What could be fairer? Manufactured by E. Toronto.—The importance of Toronto as a livestock show centre is further illustrated in the announcement made the other day of the signing of a three-party agreement between the Dominion, the Province and the City of Toronto for the erection of new stables at the exhibition grounds. The new stables are expected to cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 and are to be used for the livestock displays at the exhibition and the Royal Winter Fair.

She Couldn't Be Hoodwinked.
Miss E. Thomson, of Clapham, writes:—"I find that Carter's Little Liver Pills will do more to keep the complexion clear, and the skin free from blemishes, than all the face creams I have used. For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Orchestra in Attendance

S.H.S. LITERARY NOTES

Last Monday night the annual Oratorical Contest was held and was attended by a large crowd of interested spectators.

The following were the contestants for Lower School honours, Magaret Falconer, John McGill, Hazel Ross, Lucy Shied and Alex Dick. All did exceptionally well, but the judges, after consultation, gave Alex. Dick first place for the boys and Hazel Ross for the girls. Margaret Falconer, however who came a close second, will receive the Society medal, as Hazel Ross received it last year.

In the Middle School, Dorothy Atkinson, Bernice Temple, Helen Turner, John Ross and Bill Lines were the contestants. Here, also, the orations were of high order. By close decision the judges chose John Ross as winner of the boy's medals, and Bernice Temple of the girls.

In the Toronto District meet the school will in all probability be represented by Bernice Temple and John Ross.

The hearty applause was an evidence of the excellent numbers offered between the speeches. John Houlgrave delighted all with a piano solo. Hilda Haddon sang two beautiful solos, while Mary Steen and Jimmie Steen rendered a pleasing instrumental duet. The society is indebted to two ex-pupils for their fine assistance. Norman Rutledge gave a solo, while Roy Elderfield, assisted by Mrs. Wright and Jack Dingwall, delighted everyone with popular numbers on the saxaphone, piano and drum.

Our vaudeville artists, Harry Johnson and Roy Hollingshead, drew rounds of applause with their clever acting. A girls' chorus very effectively opened the program with "O Canada."

The judges were: Mrs. R. A. Lundy, Miss Reba Wylie and Rev. Mr. Perry. Mr. Perry reported for the judges and commented very favourably on the work of the teachers and pupils in making the annual Oratorical such a success.

In Memoriam

Feeke—In loving memory of my dear mother, Elizabeth Feeke, who died March 9th, 1930.

What is home without a mother
What are all the joys we meet
Where her smile no longer greets
The coming of our feet ?
She was true and very patient
Through those years she travelled on,
And those dear hands now resting
Made a home that now is gone.
To those that have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
There will never be another,
To fill her vacant chair.

Son, Will.

A new day dawned--

for the housewives of this district when this laundry was planned, built and equipped for the sole purpose of doing family wash. Since that day more and more homes are sending their family bundles regularly each week. These bundles may include anything washable, such as body clothes, flatware, curtains, rag rugs, dusters, men's shirts, etc. According to your particular needs you may select any one of our six services. Each takes the wash one step nearer completion. The charges are graded as to the amount of work done and are lower than it costs to have the same work done at home. Give yourself a day a week free from wash-worries by phoning—or stop any one of our courteous driver-salesmen.

OUR PRICES

1. Damp Wash—20 lbs. for $1.00—
5c. per pound
Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in ten changes of water. Excess water removed and the bundles returned damp, sweet and clean, ready to be ironed.
2. Damp Wash, Flat Work Ironed,

Favorite Chick Starter

This is the time of year when poultrymen are deciding what kind of chick starter is the best for them to use. We are frank in admitting that we use the same formula as that used at Guelph College. WHAT CAN BE BETTER? We have the best ingredients that money can buy, and an up-to-the minute system of thorough mixing.

Favorite Chick Starter
will start your flock right and grow them up to eight weeks with less mortality than ordinary starters. After that, use FAVORITE DEVELOPING MASH. We have a full line of ingredients for those wishing to mix their own feeds.

"SALADA" GREEN TEA

'Fresh from the gardens'

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS

In order that her brother, Martin, may be enabled to go to Germany and study medicine, Mary Kate O'Hara agrees to act as the wife of Christopher Steynes at a house party given by her boss, Gordon Rountree. A Russian countess and her daughter have been chasing Steynes with a view to marriage. When The countess meets Mary Kate she is discouraged. Mary Kate goes back to Steynes' house and stays there for the night. A burglar breaks in; Steynes shoots him; police take Mary Kate's name and address. The next day she returns home, only to find that she has fallen in love with Steynes. She tells this to Cass Keating to whom she is engaged to be married. Cass laughs. All week Mary Kate is in a feverish excitement; she wants to see Steynes again. At last he phones her and says he must see her—things are in a bad state.

CHAPTER XXXI.

A light sweet spring rain was falling, next morning, but for Mary Kate the sun of no remembered April had ever shone so bright. The sun was behind the rain anyway, burning and sparkling through it; the acacia trees in people's gardens, and the lilacs at the florist's all sent sweetness into the warm air, and the streets flashed and shone, and were full of good-natured persons in new mackintoshes.

It was a pretty rain; not a deluge with a wind sweeping it about, and gutters running coffee, and umbrellas crashing against each other, but just a sifting of drops not much heavier than mist, through the air, making the green grass spectacularly green, and beading the first of the year's flowers with thousands of trembling little pearls.

Mary Kate had a blue and green plaid raincoat, and a cap to match; Mart had given them to her for Christmas. So she did not even have to carry an umbrella, and reached the office with her face washed rosily and her copper-wire hair curled all about her brow and ears, in a hundred little rebel tendrils.

The office seemed attractive, somehow, as she hung up her things, and settled down to her morning's work. The place was in speckless order, radiator clanking, telephones and typewriters in perfect array, brightness of oak wood and flashing nickel and brass on all sides. And the big windows that looked out over all the city were beaded with rain.

She stood at a window, loving it all; the hotels at the top of California Street hill, and the cable cars gonging and rattling, and the little creeping beetles that were motor-cars, slipping and passing each other, in the streets. The traffic in Chinatown was in a hopeless jumble, as usual. Ferryboats under a low gray sky, cut long gray wakes in a level gray bay. The smoke from a coffee roasting establishment rose while in the air, and sank again, and clung to the roofs of the buildings.

This was at nine. At ten o'clock she could hardly breathe, and before eleven she felt fairly ill with expectation and suspense. Her hands were cold, her cheeks burning, and she kept swallowing with a dry mouth. With her utmost effort she could not keep her mind upon what she was supposedly doing.

The younger Delaney was talking to her seriously about the insurance on a new garage on the Bakersfield place. He thought there should be some insurance on it, and would take it up with Mr. Rountree. Insurance was very heavy on a garage, and at the same time—

"Will you incorporate that in a memoranda, and give it to me before twelve o'clock?"

What on earth was the man talking about? Ten minutes past eleven. Her mouth was salty; her heart beat as if it would tear her to pieces.

Sitting at her typewriter, with her back to the room she heard his quiet voice behind her, and the whole world split into pieces, and shook, and wheeled.

"Will you do that then, Gordy? You're awfully decent—"

Chris's voice. She had to turn. But he was not looking her way. He stood, very tall and broad, only a few feet away from her, wearing an old tan raincoat that was spattered with just as much rain as would fall on a man who had hurried from a taxi to a building's street door.

"Good morning," he said, coming around to face her. Their eyes did not meet.

"Oh, good morning."

"All set?"

"Oh, is it already—" Hypocritically, she looked at the office clock. "It's after twelve!" she exclaimed.

"How 'bout it?"

"Two minutes." And suddenly, quite sobered and restored to reason, she was putting on her hat and raincoat. The agonies of expectation were over; here was reality, the perfectly simple reality of going out to lunch with a certain young man. The dream come true was somehow much, much less than the dream had been.

Out in the street, his umbrella over her, and the bright drizzle still falling, he paused at a florist's window.

"Flowers?"

They went in. And the richly scented damp atmosphere that to Mary Kate was associated only with funerals, met them with a rush.

"What do you want? Let us see the orchids—"

"Oh, no, the violets! I like them a thousand times better—"

Chris paid for a great shaggy bunch, dripping with sweetness.

"Shall we go up to the Fairmont Hotel? We've got to talk."

The intimation of affairs in common thrilled her; her face was radiant.

"But we don't need a taxi!" she protested, at the curb. "The California Street car goes right to the corner."

"Oh, for heaven's sake—" he said patiently. And the magic began to work again, and her senses to swim.

They went up the hill in the taxi with only monosyllabic comments on the weather and the traffic, and were presently in the great wide acacia-scented foyer of the hotel. Walking straight through the building to the big dining room at the back, they were placed at a little table by a window that looked down across wet shining roofs, and the long line of the ferry buildings and the piers, to the gray waters of the bay.

The magic—the magic—the magic. Musicians began to play an old-fashioned German waltz; Mary Kate knew it, played it indeed. She told Chris it was The Jolly Fellow's Waltz. Her violets diffused their exquisite, sharp, pure note of perfume into the fresh, warmed air. The bright rain sifted down softly, incessantly, over the world below the windows; the Berkeley hills were completely blotted out, the little naval training island of Yerba Buena was only a deeper gray block in a study of paler grays.

Chris brushed aside the dollar table d'hote; he wanted a special clam broth, "that Mr. Rountree had ordered one day," and sand dabs, and alligator pear salad, and coffee. He asked Mary Kate if she wanted any dessert, and she answered surprisedly that yes, she wanted Nesselrose pudding, if they had it, and if not, meringue glace. She looked at him, surprised in her turn when he laughed.

"You seem such a kid, in that blue jacket's hat effect, with your hair all fuzzed up, and your ice cream!" he said.

"But goodness knows," he added presently, "that we haven't got anything to laugh at. This thing has become darned serious. I don't know what we're going to do about it—I don't know whether I can sail on Sunday or not."

"That doesn't make me mad!" Mary Kate assured him serenely.

He paid no attention to the little pleasantry, and she felt snubbed.

"Here's the situation," he said, while the girl asked herself dreamily if she were really looking at that long, brown, clever, sunburned hand again, if she were really seeing his gray eyes contract and frown, as he spoke, if the voice she was hearing were really Chris Steyne's voice.

"I don't want to bring charges against this feller—" Chris began again, discontentedly, and stopped.

"Bring charges?"

"Against Moody."

"The burglar? Oh, yes! Oh, no!" stammered Mary Kate.

"I want to get away," Chris said. "I certainly don't propose to hang around here indefinitely waiting for him to get well, so that I can send him to jail."

"He's going to get well?"

"Oh, yes. It was only a flesh wound; the bullet went right through him, under his arm, and grazed a rib. They've got him all packed; he'll have to wear a sling for a while, but that's all."

"Chris, what a blessing!"

"Yes, that part of it is. But here's the catch. You see, I'm willing not to press charges, and Gordy could frame it all up that he was a friend of ours—he really is a decent sort of fellow—and that he was drunk, and have the whole thing quashed—"

"But wouldn't that be far, far the best thing to do?" she broke in eagerly, as he paused. "We don't want revenge! We don't want him punished—"

Chris was looking at her curiously.

"You mean because you're going to get married, and I'm going to China, we want the whole thing kept quiet?" he asked, in that reflective, poised, easy tone that always impressed her; that always reminded her that Chris was pre-eminently a man of the world.

Mary Kate collapsed suddenly. The glow faded out of her, and her own expression became a little strained and strange.

"Well, yes. Isn't it?" she asked flatly.

"I mean, you are going to get married, Mary?"

The voice seemed to cut into the very vitals of her being, as did his quiet glance, over a cigarette.

"I suppose so—" she answered, a little thickly.

"Well," he went on, returning abruptly to the original topic, after a pause in which the tell-tale red crept slowly up into her face, and her honest eyes never left his. "Well, the point is that this Moody wants us to prosecute."

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

A jaunty dress for youth is this little bolero model. It is printed crepe silk in dark hued ground. A striking effect is achieved through the bodice of plain crepe in matching tone of the pattern of the print.

The peplum flounce split at the front gives it darling chic. The skirt displays smart comfortable flaring fulness at the hem.

It's a splendid dress for immediate wear and one that you'll find so much use for Spring for street without a coat.

Style No. 3008 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Another charming suggestion is light navy blue wool crepe with eggshell wool lace blouse.

Plain crepe silk in wildfire red with white embroidered batiste blouse is ultra-young and modish.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

WEAKNESS

You can restrain the bold, guide the impetuous, encourage the timid, but for the weak there is no help. You might as well undertake to stand a wet string up on end.

There is no need for love to come into the question of marriage at all. A business relationship is probably a much surer basis for married life than love.—Mr. Bernard Shaw.

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

WHAT CAME BEFORE:

Captain Jimmy and his dog Scottie set out in their Vickers airplane to see the world. Captain Jimmy is a late member of the Royal Air Force; Scottie is a bristling Scotch terrier who as a pup adopted Captain Jimmy and stayed with him through all his adventures since. Just out of Calgary, Jimmy, Scottie and their good plane Eagle run into a violent storm.

Boy, how that rain did pelt down; and the wind whined and whistled out of a black stormy sky. The good plane Eagle plunged and reared like a huge dragon-fly. Scottie, with his Scotch austereness, never made a sound, though he must have been scared white beneath his whiskery black coat. Suddenly we drove forward into an air pocket and the whole plane dropped away from under us for 20 or 30 feet. Perhaps you have been in an elevator sometimes when the operator has let it drop quickly. That's quite like the sensation you have when a plane hits an air pocket and she drops from under you. It makes one's stomach a bit uneasy.

Let me tell you that I was worried. I don't mind a squall or a storm when I am out in the open, but among the foothills—well, that's a different situation.

I headed down as best I could and down we went. Sometimes straight down, sometimes sidewise, then a gust of wind would pick us up and whirl us about. Soon I didn't know whether we'd land in one piece or a piece at a time.

But land we did—bump-bump-bump. We taxied along the ground. The rain came down in sheets and I could not see ten feet ahead. I steered by guess only—and what a guess! Suddenly ahead of us there loomed a tall tree. I swung as far to the left as I could to avoid a head-on collision, but I couldn't clear it. Smack! We crashed our wing against the tree—the meanest tree I ever saw. It was almost in the exact center of a little grassy valley—and it was the only tree within many yards of us. With all the rest of the whole world to grow in, of course, it had to grow right there, and, of course, I had to steer straight for it.

I wonder if you have ever crashed into something while going thirty or forty miles an hour? I hope not. But if you have, you can understand what happened to us. The straps held me to my seat, but I was so shaken up and bruised that I could scarcely move. And Scottie — the poor terrier, popped out of the cockpit like a shot out of a gun. Sailing through the air he went, and landed in a thick clump of grass, where he rolled over—not once, but a dozen times. Finally he stopped rolling and I untangled myself from what had been an airplane and went over and picked him up. A sorrier pup you never saw. It hurt to stand up and worse to sit down. Soon, by good luck, the rain stopped, and we scratched the wet top of some pine needles and settled down as comfortably as possible to talk things over.

But night was coming on, and we had to find somewhere to sleep. When I asked Scottie about it, he wasn't even the least bit interested. He kept right on licking the bruises and lumps he had. Anyway, a dog doesn't care much where he sleeps, he simply follows his tail around two or three times, and settles down, and he's in bed.

That sort of bed doesn't appeal to me so much, however, so I got up and started over to the little old deserted cabin. It was only a rough little cabin some woodsman had built—and was really as lonely as could be—but it looked mighty snug and homey to me right then. The sun was rapidly sinking behind the hills, and strange sounds drifted down from the tall pine covered slopes nearby. A great Barred Owl went "Whoo-Whoo" back in the dark timber. Perhaps you have heard a Barred Owl? It sounds like a hungry wolf and a wildcat rolled into one—and, of course, while you know it's just a Barred Owl, it doesn't seem to help much, for in spite of all you know, you're scared all the same.

Well, boys and girls, that little cabin looked mighty good to me, and I started up the little trail to the door. Suddenly the bushes began to move. Yes, sir, moved just like as if some heavy animal were trying to peer out at you without being seen. Then there was a snarl. A nasty mean snarl, and the biggest, fiercest bear I ever hope to see lumbered out and stood looking at us . . ."

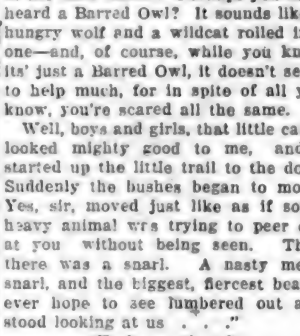
Your Riches

Count your riches as you may,
Seek your fame where'er you will,
Peace must mark the close of day
Or you'll be unhappy still
Friends must trust in all you do
Or no joy can come to you.

Gold is good to have and own,
Fame is worth the winning, too,
But if these you gain alone
Little will they do for you,
Friends must be and love must stay
Or your life is thrown away.



View it howsoe'er you will
Life is more than wealth or fame,
More than cunning, more than skill;
Peace requires an honored name,
Though the heights you stand upon
Love and faith must follow on.

Gentle deeds must mark the strong,
Thought for others grace the wise,
Skill cannot conceal a wrong,
Oft with triumph, friendship, dies.
Happiest they, whate'er their place,
Who have touched their lives with grace.

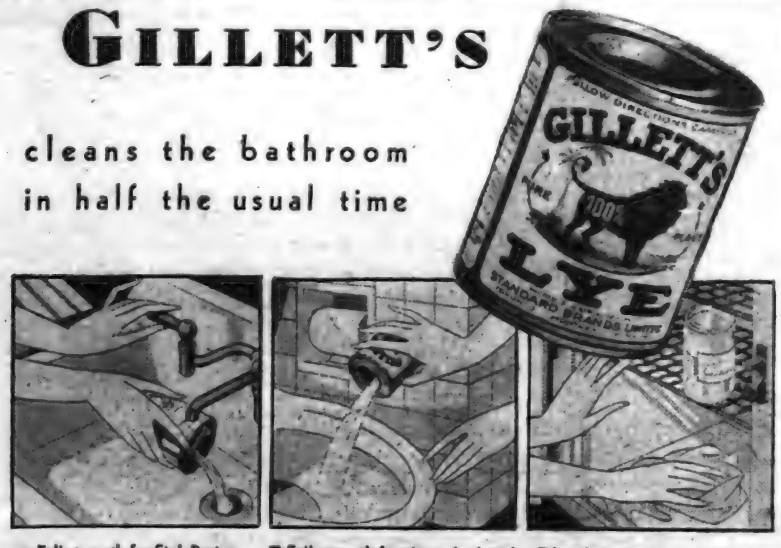
She Should Know

Mrs. Waite called unexpectedly at her husband's office and found that he had gone out for the day.

"You say Mr. Waite is out?" she said to the new office-boy. "Do you know where he has gone?"

'I don't know, ma'am," replied the youth.



"How tiresome!" she went on. Perhaps his secretary could tell me?"

"She certainly could," shot back the office-boy. "She's gone with him."

"Do with thy might what thy hand finds to do."

Simple Cleaning Processes

Each kind of fabric seems to need a different method for cleaning. The following are a few suggestions which might be remembered:

If satin is very soiled it should soak for an hour or so in 1½ tblsps. coal oil and 3 quarts of soap suds. Then the satin should be dipped up and down repeatedly in clean warm soapy water, after which it should be rinsed well by moving up and down in clear warm water. It should be pressed when nearly dry.

To clean very fine fabric allow it to stand in a weak solution of cold soapy water for a few minutes in a large jar, shaking the jar to make it clean, or if the article is too large put into a cloth bag and wash. Rinse well in bag or jar, dry, and iron with a moderately hot iron on the fabric itself.

To remove grease spots from silk make a paste of equal parts of powdered French chalk and fullers' earth with either water or turpentine and apply it to the spots, allowing it to stay on a few days before brushing it off.

To remove stains from white flannel mix together equal quantities of the yolk of an egg and glycerine. Cover the stain with the mixture and allow it to remain on the spot for half an hour. Then wash the flannel in light suds of white soap and warm water.

Grease stains can be removed from wall paper by making a paste of either pipe clay or fuller's earth and water. This mixture must be plastered lightly over the spot and allowed to dry thoroughly. Then it should be brushed off and if grease has not disappeared, a second application of paste should be applied.

A Good Cake—Orange Date Cake

¾ cup butter (¼ lb.), 1 cup sugar (brown), 2 eggs, 1 pkge best dates, 1 orange, squeeze juice out, and save half for icing. 1 tsp. soda in 1 cup sour milk, 1½ cups flour (good measure), 1 tsp. baking powder. Before squeezing orange, grate rind off or put rind through grinder and add to cake.

Icing For Cake

Put dish in top of boiling tea kettle and butter and other half of orange juice, when hot add icing sugar and beat.

You will find that luck
Is only pluck,
To try things over and over;
Patience and skill,
Courage and will,
Are the four leaves of luck's clover.

Twilight Hour Story—Chap. 12

Now that the chicks had found such a good home and so many good eats, they started to get very lively and full of fun just like you do, little boys and girls, when you feel like running and jumping just because you feel so happy. Well, they were scratching away in the straw and throwing it up high so it got into the water dish again. In fact, Billy had to change it twice. But now, after they had a real good supper, it was time to go to bed, so the covers were all tucked in and the lid put down, when all at once Jimmie started to call out "peep-peep-peep" very excitedly. Mamma Lady knew something was wrong and sure enough he hadn't been tucked in well enough and he thought it would be fun to hop out into the playroom and not go to bed, but when he got out there he found it was all dark and not as nice as he thought it would be and then he didn't know how to get back, for it certainly wasn't a very nice warm bed out there so he just called like you would call mamma if you fell out of bed. Mamma Lady put him in again and this time he was glad to stay. Then they all went to sleep just as quick as wink. Can you go to sleep as quick as that? Try it to-night. I don't believe you can.

The next morning when Mamma Lady opened the box they were as lively as could be. They were so strong too, because they had six meals the day before, so when they flew out from their warm bedroom they even tried their little wings, saying, "Good-morning, Good morning, how is everybody? My, but it is fine to be alive," and started to look around for some breakfast.

After they were all fed, Mamma Lady went to the door to let out Fluffy, the house pussy-cat. It was a cold morning outside, but of course puss didn't mind that. She has on such a warm fur coat, hasn't she?

Well, when she opened the door Fluffy ran out, but jumped sideways, right near the door, and looked at something on the porch. Mamma Lady looked to see what it was and you could never guess what it was, I'm sure. It was a beautiful butterfly, all gold and black, lying on the floor, and it was so cold she thought it was dead, for its two lovely wings were tight together. She picked it up gently and laid it on the window ledge in the sun to let it get a warm sun bath. All morning it stayed there with folded wings, then at noon she went over and touched it ever so carefully, and, "Oh," she cried to Billy, "Come, look dear, the butterfly is alive after all. We just got it in time," and sure enough it unfolded its wings back and forth, back and forth, slowly and gracefully, but she found it couldn't use its little feet yet. They had got so cold and stiff. "Well, just let it sit on the window ledge, Billy, till the sun makes it well.'

Next Week—"More Little Friends."

Fashion Note

The hat with the halo effect has appeared to brighten our lives this spring! And a very intriguing bonnet it is too, a decidedly flattering addition to the wardrobe. Agnes is the chief sponsor of the halo hat, but Rose Valois, Descat and other eminent modistes have endorsed it. Agnes' halo hats are, of course, small sized—the halo effect produced by a decorative twist, or soft roll, or cuff set on around the hat running directly across the top. The basis is the simplest sort of a skull-cap. Accustomed as we have been for the past season to exposing our foreheads, the new halo hats go further, and show an inch or more of hair at the front and certainly at one side—for the majority are worn tipped a bit over one eye. This return of hair, and carefully arranged coiffures it calls for, is flattering to the face as well as to the hat.

London Bans Horse Traffic on Busy Street

London.—For the first time in the history of London, horse traffic is to be forbidden to one of the city's principal streets.

The time-honored equine traction has been constantly dwindling of late years with the ever increasing adoption of motor cars, but enough horses are still used for heavy commercial traffic to cause serious congestion.

The ministry of transport recently announced an experimental scheme operative during the coming spring by which Oxford Street, one of the great east and west thoroughfares, will be closed daily to all slow moving traffic, including horse drawn vehicles, between noon and 7 p.m.

The regulations, which also forbid vehicles standing and turning, will, it is hoped, result in a continuous flow of traffic down this famous street, which now is one of the worst congested in London. If successful the scheme may be extended.

Sunday School Lesson

March 8. Lesson X.—The Good Samaritan—Luke 10: 25-37. Golden Text—Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.—Leviticus 19: 18.

ANALYSIS.

I. THE LAW OF LOVE, 10: 25-28.

II. THE PARABLE OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN, 10: 29-35.

III. OUR NEIGHBORS, 10: 36, 37.

INTRODUCTION—According to Luke the lawyer asked his question in order to "tempt" or "catch" Jesus. What answer did he expect Jesus to give? Possibly he was asking Jesus what distinguished his teaching from that of the other rabbis; perhaps he thought that Jesus might disparage the law of Moses and thus alienate Jewish sympathy; it is far from clear. In Mark 12: 28-31 the incident is differently told, perhaps more accurately, or possibly it is a different incident.

I. THE LAW OF LOVE, 10: 25-28.

V. 27. This combination of Deut. 6: 6 with Lev. 19: 18 was familiar in the teaching of the rabbis of the day.

V. 28. Jesus' answer must not be taken to mean that a man can save his own soul by good works; for "love" is not a work, but an attitude that issues in works. It is hard to find much real distinction between "saving faith" and saving love. To "live" in this verse means to enter into eternal life, or, as we say, heaven.

II. THE PARABLE OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN, 10: 29-35.

V. 29. A parable is a story taken from one aspect of life to illustrate or interpret another. Thus the working of yeast illustrates the secret growth of the kingdom. The Good Samaritan story, therefore, is not strictly a parable, but a direct illustration. Presumably the story was told in Judea where the dangerous Jericho road would be well known. It is some twenty-one miles from Jerusalem to Jericho. It was a steep and rocky mountain path often running through narrow gorges in which were caves where robbers could hide. So steep is the road that in fifteen miles it descends nearly four thousand feet.

Vs. 31, 32. The priest and the Levite knew that they were bound to help a "neighbor"; perhaps we are to suppose that, having no positive proof that he was a "neighbor," they felt free to leave him; perhaps they thought he was probably dead, and they would not risk the chance of being made "unclean" by contact with a dead body. In either case they were moved by selfish motives; their own comfort or convenience was more important to them than the chance of helping some one who might need them.

V. 33. The Samaritans were regarded by the Jews as being both foreigners and heretics. When Samaria, the capital of the old northern kingdom, had been sacked seven hundred and more years ago, it had been largely repeopled by foreign immigrants. No doubt the Samaritans in the time of Christ were a mixed race, but so in fact were the Jews to a less extent. The Samaritans worshipped the same God as Israel, and it is by no means clear that they were spiritually unworthy to be reckoned as Israelites. But sectarian and racial hatred between Jews and Samaritans was very bitter, and the Jews would not welcome a story on which a Samaritan was the hero. There is still a handfull of Samaritans living in Palestine at Nablus, the ancient Sichem.

V. 34. If the Samaritan was a commercial traveler, he would have one ass for himself and another for his samples. About half way down the road there are still to be seen the ruins of an ancient khan or hostelry which may mark the site of the one mentioned in this story.

V. 35. The sum corresponds to about fifty cents, but it would buy more then than today.

III. OUR NEIGHBORS, 10: 36, 37.

V. 37. What is to "do likewise"? Our neighbor is not merely the man who lives close to us, or who belongs to our own race or party, but any person who needs our help. The application of this principle is infinitely more complicated today than it was when civilization was simpler. Those who live in our cities never grow the food they eat; those who live on our farms never make the machinery they use; common articles of everyday food, tea, coffee, cocoa, rice, sugar, salt, pepper come to our doors from the ends of the earth. When the women of Europe and America give up wearing hairnets, thousands are thrown out of work in China; the price of soap in our markets affects the lives and fortunes of the islanders in the Pacific. Through the economic unification of the world the problems of neighborhood, mutual dependence, need and responsibility have become most intricate. We cannot say that, because we have never seen the miners who hew the coal for our furnace or coolies who tend the tea which we drink or the darkies who toil over the cotton fields for the fabric of our clothes, therefore they are no neighbors of ours. On the contrary, the support of home and foreign missionary work, the faithful service in politics and business are required of Christian neighborliness today.

"What a lot of difference marriage makes."

"And what a lot of differences."

"Have you any education, Mose?" asked the prospective employer.

"Yes, suh, suttingly," says Mose.

"Well, can you write your name?"

"Suh?"

'Can you write your name?"

"No, suh," said the unabashed Mose. "Ah always dictates it." — "The Recorder".

Viewing the Moon's Mountains

The mountains of the moon are a rarely beautiful sight which any one may see with the aid of an ordinary pair of opera glasses during the Winter months. The view of these "eternal hills," as solid and substantial as our own, is one of much grandeur.

Full moon is the least advantageous time to see these hills. During that period the flood of sunshine poured perpendicularly upon the face of our satellite conceals its outstanding features as effectually as if a veil had been drawn over them.

Observations of the moon's mountains should begin with the appearance of the narrowest crescent of the new moon and should continue as it gradually fills. In this way can be seen the advancing line of lunar sunrise revealing the mountains over whose slopes and peaks it is climbing by its ragged and sinuous outline. The observer must remember that he is looking straight down upon the slope of the lunar hills, as if he were viewing the spectacle from a balloon at a tremendous height.

The mountains of the moon are believed to be as high as those upon our own globe, their size being revealed by the contrast of lights and shadows. On the moon shadows are much darker than earth shadows, because of the extreme rarity of the lunar atmosphere. It has been estimated by astronomers that by stepping around the corner of a rock on the moon one might pass abruptly from dazzling noonday into the blackness of midnight.

Astronomers say that the surface of the moon is extremely uneven, broad plains covering about two-fifths of it and mountains and hills the remainder. Sunshine, creeping ove these Alpine landscapes, casts the black shadows of the peaks and craters many miles across the plains. The summits of mountains may be seen capped with vivid light when the plains are still buried in night.

Early observers, using telescopes, supposed that the dark portions were seas and the brighter portions continents, because the darker portions looked smoother.

Dashing youth will enjoy this sportsy model of crepe printed silk.

Its sleeveless, too, for the flattering shoulder capelet provides sufficient covering for the arms. However, it also may be made with long sleeves or with short cuffed sleeves. The cape may be discarded too—and the neck finished with applied band and bow in simple smart manner shown in miniature view.

The circular skirt has an inverted plait at the centre-front.

Carried out in plain colored crepe silk in the new lighter shades, crepy woolen, wool jersey, tweed mixtures and novelty cottons, it is also most attractive.

World's Best Car Drivers

Every now and then Londoners are amazed to see a car threading its way in and out of the traffic at great speed. It seems to brush aside lorries and motor-buses and to pass through gaps between vehicles so narrow that another coat of paint would have meant an appalling smash.

"That fellow must be mad," you may hear people say as one of these cars dashes headlong through a congested street. Not a bit of it. It is being driven by one of Scotland Yard's Flying Squad chauffeurs, and it is dashing in headlong pursuit of some criminal or gang.

All of the drivers are specially chosen for the job. Each is a police officer who has previously undergone a special course in driving. Flying squad drivers are kept in perfect training, so that their eyes, nerves, and muscles are always in perfect condition. No man allowed to drive a Flying Squad car has less than ten years' real experience, and none retains his post long unless he shows that he is capable of driving at top speed and with perfect safety through the densest traffic.—Tit-Bits.

Electricity in Ireland

The progress of the electrification project of the River Shannon, in Ireland, was recently described by the managing editor of the board. In 1930, according to the report, the three largest cities of the Irish Free State—Dublin, Cork and Limerick — and twenty-four country towns which formerly obtained their supply of electricity from local generating systems, were brought into the Shannon system.

Consolidat'd Schools Not wanted Here

There is a change now in the office of the Minister of Education. And we sincerely hope there will be a change in the heart of the new Minister. And he will not worry the rural schools about consolidated schools, Township trustees and other changes in our public school system.

Our No. 10 being a union section would be among the first to be effected by the change.

We hope the old white school will be standing on the 10th line corner for many years to come and children yet unborn will be travelling to and from this old landmark.

This school always had the best teachers that could be found in any school and the section were always proud of the progress the children made there. And always pleased with our three local trustees. And there never was a better teacher than our present one, Miss Watson, or smarter children than are at the school every day.

On June 8th, 1929, when the school reunion was held at the school about six hundred ex-pupils attended. In checking up the teachers, who taught in the old little brick school on the east corner, up until the year 1870 and the teachers who taught in the present white school from 1871 to 1929. There were some ex-pupils, among the number present, who had gone to some teacher, who taught in both schols. I don't think there was one teacher but someone there remembered. Many of these ex-pupils had never gone to any other school; many had gone to Universities; many to business colleges, etc. And we never heard anyone at that great reunion say their time had been wasted, when they attended school at the old No. 10 section, but were pleased to say this was my good old school. "Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, this is my own my native land."

The Reunion and School Days

Our cradle to all, is the starting place,
Then we soon get into life's busy race,
Our school days are the first act in the play,
But we soon must take our separate way.
Then when we look back, at our old places
Wherever we look, we see different faces.

Some school mates had a chance meeting one day,
Then Mrs. Wagner unto George Bonham did say,
Do you ever think of our old school days, when
We attended the old school number ten.
Now don't you think it would be a great treat
If all old school mates had a chance to meet?

Of that great reunion, we well may brag,
For the success, much credit is due Mrs. Shragg;
For she came to our rescue in time of need,
Then all of the section just followed her lead.
Of our section ladies, we all are so proud
For refreshments provided and entertaining that crowd.

Every ex-pupil there had a well furnished brain,
It was No. 10 teachers helped them this knowledge to gain.
Everyone there, children, women and men,
Were delighted to be connected with old number ten;
Our old school day pleasures at this school was worth,
More than all others between the cradle and our six feet of earth.

Nearly every scholar has their own favourite teacher. Mr. Cumming's (I mentioned once before) was mine because he was so poor and so good. I always liked poor men and good men, for I never saw a rich man that could come up to the standard of this teacher.

Our father always asked us when we came home from church, where the text was. I am sorry to acknowledge now how I used to fool him. I could remember a text no matter how long it was, then I didn't bother with the rest of the sermon.

One minister I heard one Sunday must have been poor for he semed to be so hard on the rich people. His text was: "The love of money is the root of all evil, while some have sought after, have erred from the faith and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."

Another minister I heard preach from the text: "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of Heaven." This text was good enough for one without listening to the rest of the sermon. It gave me so much comfort, for the parents of nearly all the children going to school then, owned their farms and our parents had their farms rented. I didn't envy them. I pitied them. But to go back to our teacher, Mr. Cummings. He would walk from Streetsville with his little daughter, 9 years of age. They were never late, and the roads were often awfully bad. Sometimes in the cat swamps (that is the road between the town line and the 10th line), the water would be two feet deep. They never murmured. The girl never played. I asked her one day why she didn't play. She said, her Mother was always sick and she didn't feel like playing. She wanted to study, so that she could soon help her father, they were so poor. I thought then she must be the material Angels were made of. That night I thought so much about what she said, I wrote on a piece of paper I cut off the bottom of my copy book, the first two lines I ever got to rhyme:

"You look like an Angel minus the wings,
But some day you will have those beautiful things."

I was going to give them to her the next day, but couldn't face it, so I just hid them and never tried rhyming for many years after.

Mr. Cummings and his daughter were both good singers. On a Monday morning they often sang this piece. I just remember the first verse:

Come, come away, the school bell now is ringing,
With hearts so light and faces bright;
So come, come away,
We hear the happy children's feet,
With their teacher that they love to meet
That always makes their joy complete,
At school or at play.

On Friday night they would nearly always sing, the children could join in:
Scatter smiles, bright smiles, as we pass on our way,
Through this world of toil and care,
Like the beams of the morning that gently play
They will leave a sunlight there.
Scatter Smiles, bright smiles,
Scatter smiles, bright smiles.

WHAT TO WEAR

Dress according to the weather, not according to the time of the year. The amount of clothing required depends upon the temperature, not upon the month or day of the year. Individuals differ; some require to wear more clothing than others in order to keep warm.

The amount of clothing required also depends upon occupation and upon working conditions. In a heated room, no more clothing is required than is worn out of doors in summer. Too much clothing causes the body to perspire excessively and then, almost surely, chilling occurs when the individual goes out into the cold.

The habit of not removing out-door clothing when sitting indoors causes perspiration with subsequent chilling, and sometimes this is followed by a cold or some other infection. Chilling of the body should be avoided, and it is pointed out that, as we have said, chilling usually results from too much clothing rather than from an insufficiency.

The feet should be kept dry. If we get our feet wet and then sit at home, or at school, or at work, our feet are chilled while the rest of the body remains warm. In some way, this favours the occurence of colds. If the feet do become wet, shoes and stockings should be changed and the feet given a brisk rub with a towel.

Underclothing is required to protect the outer garments from the perspiration of the body. It also serves as a covering which may be changed as the temperature changes. The outer worker in winter usually needs to wear woollen underwear in order that he may keep warm. Wool has the advantage of absorbing perspiration and not allowing rapid evaporation; in this way, the wearing of woollen garments prevents chilling.

Underclothing should be changed as often as it is required to do so to keep it clean. Soiled underwear is offensive, and besides, it favours the occurence of skin diseases.

Much discomfort and actual disease may be avoided by giving some attention to clothing from a health point of view. The body coverings should be clean. Clothing should be sufficient to keep the body warm. Too much clothing, which causes perspiration, leads to the chilling of the body. Sitting with wet feet predisposes to colds, so the feet should be kept dry. Remove out-door clothing when indoors, and put on additional clothing before going out.

Malvern Calls To Drama-Lovers

As Malvern's beacon blazed forth the news of the Armada over the entire West Country, so from the little English town, nestling among the Worcestershire hills hard against the Welsh border, word goes forth today of the keeping alive of the spark of the English drama, faithfully from year to year, by means of the town's Annual Festival. Under the direction of Sir Barry Jackson, this event has become a national institution, even as its companion festival at Shakespeare's immortal Stratford-upon-Avon. This year's program includes known and unknown english productions dating from 1513 to 1931 and is dedicated to George Bernard Shaw, to whom Sir Barry is looking to produce a new play, as the principal item of the bill, as he did "The Apple Cart", at the original Malvern Festival. The festival runs from August 8 to 22, inclusive, consisting of three repeated weeks of plays and a series of lectures by well-known authorities. Malvern is only 128 miles from London, but Gloucester and Worcester, both cities of considerable size and offering first-class hotels, are within easy reach. The town itself is also making special arrangements for the comfort of visitors during festival time. In addition to this the whole section of England is studded with villages and small towns with good accommodation for travellers, and is cris-crossed with railways and excellent automobile roads, in scenery of unsurpassed splendor.

George Bernard Shaw

Sir Barry Jackson

Sailings of the Canadian Pacific's "Empresses" and "Duchesses", from Quebec to Southampton and Montreal to Liverpool, respectively, make excellent connections with the various weeks of the festival at Malvern, and will include the palatial new "Empress of Britain", the biggest and fastest ship in service between British Empire ports.

PORT CREDIT

When car crashed in to the back of a transport truck about two miles west of here four persons were injured, three being severely cut and bruised. Two of the injured are now in St. Joseph's hospital.

H. T. O. Ed. Purvis investigated the accident and placed Rundle under arrest on an open charge, pending further investigation. It is stated by police that Rundle had been drinking. Two bottles, the contents of which have not been analysed were found by Officer Purvis in the car.

Reeve W. B. Hare, game warden for Halton and Peel counties, stated last week that the pheasants had come through the winter in very good condition. They are quite common in Port Credit district. Recently a motorist came across seven hen birds strutting along a side road near Port Credit.

Venturing into the icy waters of the lake, near the mouth of the Credit river Friday, Alfred Hill, aged 17, and Reginald Codd, aged 19, opened the local bathing season.

Although both lads claimed the water was "fine" between gasps, it was just "a little cold." However, spring must be just around the corner, residents say, as they anxiously await the report of the first robin to arrive in town.

A double frame dwelling in Port Credit would have been destroyed by fire Monday morning, had not a ten-year-old girl given the alarm when she did. The two families put the fire out with pails of water.

More than 80 gardeners of the Cooksville-Dixie district attended a meeting in the Middle Rd. school Saturday night when a representative of the Campbell's Soup Co. spoke to them on the matter of contracts for the produce to be used in the manufacture of their products

Bert Oakes, a local gardener, introduced the speaker and following his address the men present contracted to grow 100 acres of tomatoes. The company intend holding another meeting when contracts for another 100 acres of tomatoes will be distributed.

The contract price for tomatoes will be 45c delivered at the factory at New Toronto. The company guarantees to take the entire crop. Carrots, beets, corn, parsley, celery and other vegetables will be bought on the open market, the speaker intimated.

The introduction of the Campbell's Soup Co. into the market is being hailed with enthusiasm by the local gardeners as providing a stablizing effect on the price of their products during the glut.

BUMPS and BLOWS FROM RINK AND ALLEY

By Lou Swampe

Lou Swampe's Return and Why.

Hullo folks! Here I am again! I've been away to Timbuctoo with my cousin Lou Marsh. We were hunting for specimens of the rare hooponsnootiss and the rarer whackingpoofles (both of which are second cousins to the whambeazle). We didn't get any on account of the humidity. It was an awful wet trip. My cousin, Lou Marsh, was soaked more than three-quarters of the time. I hope you will excuse my absence (or perhaps I should say excuse my return.)

Ellis Cup Semi-Finals

In the semi-finals for the "Ellis Trophy" played at Milton Arena on Friday night, Trinity club and Streets-Vale-United were eliminated.

In the first game Hornby licked the hide off Trinity Club. It was certainly a hot and fast game. Hornby scored twice in the first period and again in the second. Trinity scored two goals in the last period. Final score: Hornby 3, Trinity Club 2.

The second game of the evening's performance was the main bout. Riverdale Collegiate and Lakeview were tied 1-1 at the end of the last period. The first 10 minutes of overtime was uneventful, although each team played its very best. In the second period of overtime play each team scored again.

A total of fifty minutes overtime was played without breaking the tie. Talk about your Marlboro-Port Colborne games! Close! These two teams are as evenly matched as any two teams in Canada. They all had to be good to stand fifty minutes of fast, hard fought overtime play.

Lakeview has the best junior goalkeeper we've seen in a good many years.

In the third and last game of the performance, Hornby defeated Streets-Vale-United 2-1.

The play-off for the "Ellis Trophy" will take place on Thursday, March 12th, Lakeview and Riverdale Collegiate will play first. The winner of this game will play against Hornby. The winner-of the last will be presented with the "mug," to be theirs to the last moment of recorded time, forever and ever here after. Amen.

Don't forget Thursday night at Milton Arena.

Au revoir till necks weak.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary Frances Campbell, widow of Rev. Thomas Campbell, and daughter of the late Rev. John Corbett, well-known Presbyterian minister, died at the family residence, 28 Close avenue, Toronto, in her 85th year. She had lived in Toronto since 1914, and was a member of Parkdale United Church. Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Harold Rowlatt, Toronto, Misses Emily, Belle and Alice at home, and four sons, William T., Toledo, O., Arthur, New York, and George and Frederick, Toronto.

THE CHALLENGE

The challenge comes
To Christian men,
The world demands
New proof again.

Material might,
With ugly mien,
Defies the power
Of things unseen.

The Church, the Book,
Must stand the test,
To show the world
God's truth is best.

The cause of Christ
Will suffer loss,
If Christian men
Bear not the Cross.

No longer words
Nor empty creeds,
The world demands
New proof in deeds.

—Grenville Kleiser.

Note: A giant material machine is being erected in Russia,—tireless, defiant, ruthless. How will Christendom meet it?

BIGGEST STORM THIS WINTER ALL ROADS BLOCKED

As the worst storm of the year broke on Toronto township, the highways department, stationed at Cooksville, was taken totally by surprise as the snow plow had been dismantled for the summer and the driver returned to Brantford. Fortunately noting the heavy snowfall on his return home, however, he returned to Cooksville, called out his crew of three men, reassembled the plow, and cleared the highway. The crew had not been at work many minutes before the plow struck a drift and it was two hours before it was extricated.

The radial service from the Etobicoke river to Port Credit was put out of order by the storm until one o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Garage men along the Dundas and Toronto-Hamilton highways reaped a harvest, pulling stalled motors out of four and five foot snowdrifts. On a three-mile stretch of road there were ten cars and a heavy truck in the ditch at various times. At an early hour Sunday, a Gray Coach Line bus bound for Buffalo slid into the ditch west of Clarkson without damage or injury to the passengers.

Three people are reported to have been badly dazed when their heads came in contact with the top of their car as it bounded over one of many three-foot ridges on the highway south of Clarkson. Snow was rubbed in their faces to revive them.

Milks trucks on their way to Toronto were hours late. Practically all the side roads leading from the main highways were blocked and farmers were forced to carry their milk by sleighs and cutters to the main roads.

At Meadowvale, the pastor, Rev. C. Sinclair Jones of Cooksville, was unable to reach the church and service was cancelled.

At Streetsville a few cars managed to buck the drifts to Erindale, but roads north, east and west of the village were practically all snowbound.

On the Dixie highway a motorist, apparently dazed by the snowstorm crashed into a Hydro pole, snapping it off near the base. The car left the scene of the accident and police have no clue as to the indentity of the driver.

At 11 o'clock Saturday night, a young man lightly clad and riding a motorcycle with side-car said he was heading for Niagara Falls. Sunday morning the motorcycle was found abandoned in the snowdrift at the side of the road, indicating that the rider had been beaten by the storm.

A truck driver coming through from Brampton to Cooksville reported he spent four hours in making the trip. A taxi-driver, taking a load from Toronto to Brampton, found himself hopelessly jammed in a snowdrift on the Centre Rd., north of Cooksville, and he and his fares were forced to await the arrival of another car from Toronto.

On Monday the snow-plow was put to work and all the county roads were opened up.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The last meeting of the North Trafalgar Community club, was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Campbell, 8th line. The meeting opened with our song and roll call. There was a good attendance. A social was discussed, but will be put off for a time on account of bad roads. After the business part of the meeting, Mrs. W. Cook passed around some recipes, which were enjoyed by every one.

We sang our closing song. The hostess then served a dainty lunch, assisted by her daughter. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Bonham, on March 18th.

HE WAS INCURABLE

Charles Skittler finds that there is more difficulty in the practice of Journalism than is readily apparent. Recently, he was sent to get a report on an elderly gentleman, of whom he wrote- he was seriously ill. Before the paper came out, the old man died. Mr. Wicker called him to task for the false impression given by his report. In the next addition, Charles corrected his previous effort by saying that the genlteman's condition was incurable.

Ye Scribe.

County Farmers Attend Meetings

KEEN INTEREST DISPLAYED AT BARN MEETINGS

With an average attendance of 34 farmers the five barn meetings held so far proved very popular. Eleven of these meetings have been arranged by the local Department of Agriculture throughout Peel County to discuss timely agricultural topics. Douglas Hart, well-known livestock breeder of Woodstock, is the speaker on approved feeding practices and cow testing work and J. C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative, discusses the Treatment of Seed Grain for Smut and reviews the results of the fertilizer experiments conducted during 1930.

Statistics to Date

March 2—Ebenezer, J. F. A. Twp. Hall, The Gore Twp.; March 3—E. Westlake, Bolton, Albion, Twp.; March 4—O. Downey, Bolton, Albion Twp.; March 5—R. Cooper, Mono Road, Caledon-Chinguacousy Twps.; March 6—Dunton & Son, Brampton R.R. 6, Toronto Twp. The attendance ranged from 19 to 58.

Meetings scheduled to be held in the near future are the following:

March 10—J. McKane, Georgetown R.R. 4, Ching. Twp.; March 11—E. Parkinson & Sons, Malton R.R. 4, Toronto Twp.; March 12—Trinity J. F. A., W. L. Wilkinson, Brampton R.R. 5, Ching., Twp.; March 13—M. PEEL HOLSTEIN BREEDERS IN ENVIABLE POSITION

With a balance of $89.84 after the various activities of 1930, the members of the Peel Holstein Breeders Club are contemplating carrying on further extension work this coming year. Cash prizes for the best Holstein calves at each school fair, a large picnic to which the Halton and York breeders will be invited, and a county herd from Peel for the C.N.E. this fall, will be a few of the activities to advertise the black and white breed. The President of the Club, Thos. Lyons, Cheltenham, presided over the largest meeting, to date in the Agricultural office, Brampton, on Saturday, March 7th. Over 40 breeders turned out to hear Jack Fraser, Streetsville, give the Secretary-Treasurer's report with the favourable bank balance due to commissions by the county sales agent work in 1930.

M. C. McPhail, Asst. Director of Agricultural Representative, the special speaker brought out the fact that dairy farming is the safest and most profitable branch of agriculture at the present time. He stated that the Peel dairymen have an advantage over some other counties because of the alfalfa acreage. From a dairy feeding standpoint one load of alfalfa is equal in feeding value to a load of timothy hay plus 500 lbs. of oilcake. By means of charts he clearly showed that a good livestock man raising high yielding feed crops had a labor income which recompensed him for his capital and labor expended. In comparison was the farmer keeping a large herd of cows of low milk and butterfat production which necessitated the purchasing of grain and resulted in a small labor income. Milk testing is the main way to find out the unprofitable producers in the herd. The following officers were elected for 1931: President, Thos. Lyons, Cheltenham; Vice-Presidents, Jas. McKane, Georgetown R.R. 4, and C. E. Wardlaw, Brampton R.R. 6; Sec.-Treas., J. M. Fraser, Streetsville R.R. 3, Ching.; Directors, Norman Cameron and Geo. Love, Toronto directors; Edgar Lyons and E. Slacer, Toronto Gore; Fred Garbutt and E. W. Kellam, Caledon; Bob Cooper and Wm. Mountain, Albion; C. Boyce, Palgrave.

The editors of local newspapers are often blamed for partiality in their notices for churches, societies and even families, when the fact is the parties most interested are the ones to blame. The local newspaper does not possess a sufficient number of reporters to send to every church service in the range of its circulation, and it must needs depends upon some person to send in the news. Many pastors or leaders of the congregation do this and their items are gladly printed. Many societies appoint one of their members to attend to this important work.

Report Was Endorsed

Ontario, through the new marketing council, provided for in the Somerset report, will embark without delay upon sweeping new policies to promote new markets, recapture old ones, and restore to prosperity the fruit and vegetable industry of the province. Announcements of these new policies in a speech by Hon T. L. Kennedy in Hamilton was followed by an overwhelming vote endorsing the Somerset report by the Association of Fruit Growers by Ontario and the Niagara Fruit Growers' Association in annual convention.

Survey of Cattle

Hon Thomas L. Kennedy has announced his intention to have a survey made of cattle in the province with a view to increasing the production of milk. Creameries and cheese factories will be asked for reports on the quantity of milk handled by them and the number of cattle producing it. In sections in which production is low, farmers would be aided in acquiring bulls having a better breeding quality, with a view not only of increasing milk production but production of a milk having a higher butter fat content.

LET US SMILE

In order to give a touch of novelty to a party held in Scotland, each guest was requested to contribute to the evening's enjoyment by bringing something with him, and it was noticed that several of the contributors made were of a symbolic character. For example, a man from Glasgow brought whisky, an Edinburgh man brought shortbread, a Dundee man brought marmalade, and a man from Aberdeen brought his brother.

BRAMPTON

The first endeavor to raise relief for the north-west met with success when $40 was taken at a concert held here. Hon. Duncan Marshall was the special speaker and gave an interesting talk on his trip to Scotland. Mrs. W. H. Brydon contributed solos. Magistrate L. J. C. Bull occupied the chair.

John Lewis, a native of Lambton Mills, will be the first inmate of Peel-Halton House of Refuge to find resting place in the new Eventide Cemetery at the home. Mr. Lewis was 86 years of age, and was the first person admitted to the House, opened over 30 years ago. He was unmarried and was much esteemed by officials.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. W. L. Johnston and Miss Johnston, of Milton, announce the engagement of their niece, Sybil J. Lightfoot, to G. Hardy Morden, eldest son of Capt. and Mrs. E. A. Morden of Oakville. The marriage is to take place quietly early in March.

MEADOWVALE

Children of Meadowvale Public School, who are taking singing lessons from W. E. Capps, Brampton, gave a concert. Mr. Capps acting as chairman. Miss Norris, teacher, and Miss Jessie Pearson acted as accompanists.

Members of the congregation were guests of the choir at a very enjoyable social evening, proceeds of the evening, $17, going towards the expenses of new gowns. Mrs. R. Pettibone and W. Battye won the crokinole contest, Mrs. Bert Anderson guessed most streets in Toronto, and Mrs. Lorne Davidson named the charade. Rev. C. S. Jones spoke briefly on the enterprise of the choir.

Miss Emmeline Louise Elliott, daughter of the late Thomas Elliott, Meadowvale, passed away suddenly on Saturday after an attack of heart trouble. She was apparently in good health until Friday, when she took ill. Born in Meadowvale, where she spent the early part of her life. Miss Elliott, removed to Toronto, returning to the village six years ago. She was actively interested in the affairs of the village and the various organizations of church and community. Surviving are two brothers, Harry, New Zealand; Harvey, Oshawa; and one sister, Mrs. F. C. W. Brown, Cleveland.

Miss Elliott was a neice of Mr. A. G. Sibbald, Streetsville. The funeral service was held at her late home, Meadowvale, on Monday afternoon. Interment took place in Prospect Cemetery, Toronto. Rev. C. S. Jones officiated, assisted by Rev. H. L. Partridge of Toronto.

The Open Book

By William Freeman

"Miss Constance Elliott?" Drusilla's forehead wrinkled. "Did she say why she had called?"

"No, madam. Only that the business was private and urgent.

"Ask her to come in, please."

Miss Elliott was slight and pale. She moved softly, spoke softly. "I'm so sorry if I've disturbed you, Mrs. Threll," she began. "I was afraid you might be out. I'd better begin by telling you something about myself. I am engaged to be married to a man I've known for several years. Jack—I needn't mention his other name—had been employed until lately as a cashier by Cushmann's, the Regent Street drapers. There's one branch just off Hart Street, known as Mme. Osprey's, where they sell hats and lingerie."

She paused. Drusilla nodded. Her tongue and lips seemed to have gone stiff and dry.

"It was part of his duty to keep a register of undesirable customers, people with bad records, in what was called "the green book." Now he has been dismissed."

"Dismissed?"

"Yes. Cushmann's has been bought by a group of busines men, and there have been alterations. Your husband is chairman of the Syndicate."

"Then why not apply direct to Mr. Threll?"

"He's going to." The cold hazel eyes met Drusilla's grey ones. "The difficulty is that Jack doesn't want to stay in England. There's an opening he's heard of in America, but he hasn't the capital. It is five thousand pounds. He feels sure that if he saw your husband, and explained how confidential his work had been, Mr. Threll would advance the money. Jack might even bring the green book to show him. Only I thought you might prefer to speak to Mr. Threll first on Jack's behalf. Without mentioning the book at all."

Drusilla stood up and put her finger on the bell. "I understand. Please go at once."

"You're foolish. For your own sake ——" She broke off as a maid appeared. "Good-bye."

"Will you see that that person isn't admitted again, please?" said Drusilla. "And bring tea."

But she did not want tea. Her mind was working in wild and desperate circles. She was trapped. And the price of escape was five thousand pounds, to be paid before Saturday, and she hadn't five thousand shillings. Trapped. And it had happened so long ago, too. When she was eighteen, alone in London, overworked, desperately poor. To this hour she was unconscious of having stolen the shawl. She had told the detective so, the assistant, Mme. Osprey's manager. They had taken her in a taxi to the station. The magistrate had been sympathetic. "Not theft, a mere lapse of memory? Quite so, quite so. But highly unfortunate.' And had discharged her under the First Offenders' Act. . . . She never guessed that her name had been entered in that dreadful green book. And now it was going to be shown to Teddy.

Why hadn't she told him? Why not go to him now, and rob these blackmailers' weapon of its edge? Her heart froze at the mere thought. She cared for him desperately, but love, she reflected bitterly, wasn't strong enough to cast out fear.

She heard his key in the door, his step crossing the hall. He came in, kissed her, and stood with his back to the fireplace. He began to tell her about the Syndicate which had bought out Cushmann's. He spoke of a profit, when the firm was reconstructed, of thirty thousand pounds.

"You'll have to help me to spend it, Dru."

She tried to smile back at him. "Teddy, I'm so desperately ignorant of business. I wonder if—if you'd take me with you to the central branch, and show me how it's managed?"

"Of course, if you're keen. How about Thursday afternoon? I've that dinner at Woking in the evening, but we shan't be late."

"Thursday will suit me quite well." She stood up and kissed him.

Drusilla slept little that night. There was another day to be lived through. And after that, another night. They passed with frightful slowness. And on Thursday afternoon the car took them to the big shop.

"It's enormously interesting," she said, when they had explored each department. "But we haven't seen everything, have we?"

"There's the counting-house," said Teddy. "But I don't want you to overtire yourself."

"I shan't. . . . I'd hate to miss any of it."

All the plans Drusilla had made vanished as she entered that long room crowded with clerks. Jack, the man who wanted five thousand pounds, was among them, watching her. The mere knowledge blotted out every other idea from her tired brain.

"Yes, we've a big staff," said the head clerk, elderly and self-important. "And most of them have been here since they left school."

"Where do you keep the office books?" asked Drusilla.

"In the safe, when they're not actually in use." He swung open its door. A row of leather-bound volumes stood on the upper shelf. Their sizes varied, but each was bound in green leather.

"Where is the key kept?" murmured Drusilla.

"In the drawer of my table," said the head clerk. "And the key of that is in my pocket."

"Incidental'y," said Teddy, "that drawer could be opened in half a minute with a pocket-knife!"

Drusilla chatted cheerfully to Teddy on the way back. She dined early, and went up to her room soon afterwards. Teddy had told her that the Woking dinner would probably keep him too late to return that night. After a time she drifted into a doze, and did not wake until past eleven. She put on a hat and coat, stole downstairs, and went out.

She caught an Underground train to Piccadilly. The journey seemed endless, but she reached Cushmann's at last. The long range of plate-glass windows was divided by a short passage, at the end of which was a door. Drusilla rang the bell and waited with thudding heart. The door opened, and a stout, elderly man confronted her.

"May I come in for a moment?" she asked.

He hesitated. "'Gainst regulations, lady."

"But this is urgent. Are you the night-watchman?"

"One of 'em. My mate looks after the left-hand block while I do the right. You ain't said yet who you are."

"I am Mrs. Threll." She produced a card. "I came here with my husband this afternoon. We went over the whole building."

He scrutinized the card, and became apologetic.

"I 'eard you'd been." He stood aside for her to enter. "Didn't mean to be uncivil, but we've had special instructions not to admit strangers, owing to burglaries lately. What's the trouble?"

"I left a book in the counting-house. May I go up and fetch it?"

"Can't see no objection, only I must not break off my rounds."

"If you'll show me where the stairs are, I can find my way quite easily."

He led her through shrouded and darkened show-rooms to the stairs, and left her. She reached the counting-house and pushed open the swing door. The big deserted room seemed filled with quivering, mocking shadows. She crossed to the head clerk's table and switched on the lamp above it. Trembling excesively, she slid a blade of an ivory-handled pen-knife—one of Teddy's first presents—in the crevice above the drawer, and pressed sideways. There was a click, and the catch of the lock dropped. She opened the drawer, took out the big shiny key that lay conspicuous among a dozen smaller ones, and turned to the safe.

The door opened quite easily. One by one she carried the green-bound books to the table to examine. None of them contained anything which could conceivably be the records she sought.

The last volume was in her hands when she heard footsteps. As, with desperate fingers, she switched off the table lamp, she visualized a dozen possibilities. But the truth was more dreadful than any of them. A hand groped for the switch by the door. The lights blazed up. The new-comer was Teddy.

For a moment she stood looking at him blindly; then, with a faint cry, she fell.

She opened her eyes in bed. A woman appeared, a nurse, and then a man whom she recognized as Wernham, the doctor. And then, after they had given her some medicine, and warned her that she wasn't to excite herself, Teddy came in. He put his arm about her and laid his cheek against hers. Neither of them said much. The doctor wouldn't let him stay. It was not until his second visit that she was able to refer to that night at Cushmann's.

"I was abominably worried about you," said Teddy, explaining. "Sort of premonition. And at last I made excuses to leave, and raced back. The car broke down half-way; it was past midnight when I got home and found you weren't in."

"How did you guess I was at Cushmann's?"

"A policeman had noticed you chatting in the doorway with Allen, the watchman. He heard you give your name, and later rang up on his own responsibility to make sure you weren't an imposter. I'd just come in. I gave you a first-class character and went on at top speed in the car to bring you home. A nervous breakdown, old Wernham says. But why should it take the form of reading Cushmann's day-book——"

Drusilla shivered. He didn't know. She had still to tell him. She heard the murmur of her own voice going on—and on. She heard Teddy begging her to stop. But she couldn't stop.

"My dear, my dear——" this, when at last she had finished," as though it would have mattered! Why, if I had not been afraid of re-opening an old wound, I'd have told you that it was when you were in that wretched police-court that I first saw you and fell in love. . . . Afterwards I lost sight of you for nearly three years. As for the people who tried to blackmail you, Cushmann's had a man named John Duvigne, whom they sacked only a week ago or embezzlement. A real bad hat. But he hadn't the firm's private record in his possession. He couldn't have had it, because it was always kept in old Cushmann's private office. Duvigne couldn't have had more than a glimpse of it, and then by the merest chance."

He caught Drusilla close in his arms, and she smiled up at him, utterly happy.—"Tit-Bits."

What British Rule Has Meant to India

By Sir Edward Gait (in the N.Y. Herald-Tribune Magazine), Who For Nearly Half a Century Was Associated With British Administration in India

Now that the nature and extent of the next stage in the development of self-governing institutions in India are being so hotly discussed, it may not be inopportune to turn for a moment from the polemics of the present to the achievements of the past, and to take a bird's-eye view of the many and varied improvements in the moral and material condition of India which have been brought about since the commencement of British rule.

This is generally regarded as having begun with the Battle of Plassey, in 1757, but the area under British administration was comparatively small until nearly half a century later. Even then, it did not include extensive tracts, such as Oudh, the Punjab, the Central Provinces, Sind and Baluchistan, which have been less than a century under British rule, and Upper Burma, which was not annexed till 1885.

There are still numerous native states which are governed by their own chiefs subject to a varying degree of supervision and guidance. These states occupy in the aggregate two-thirds of the entire area and more than one-fifth of the population. They have benefitted in various ways by the British hegemony, but in the remarks that follow it should be understood that I am dealing primarily not with them, but with the area under British administration. Subject to a certain amount of Parliamentary control, the East India Company was responsible for the government until it was transferred to the Crown in 1858—that is to say, about three-quarters of a century ago.

I do not suggest that the benefits which have flowed from the political association of India with Britain have been all on one side. This is not by any means the case. Britain has had her share of such benefits. She has been enriched by her trade with India. Large numbers of her people have found successful careers there. Contact with Indian life and culture and the study of her ancient religions and systems of philosophy have widened our outlook on life. Finally, the prestige and power of Britain among the nations have been greatly enhanced by the possession of India and the control of the military forces maintained there at India's expense. Though these forces are intended primarily for local defense they have been used on various occasions for the general needs of the Empire. Their invaluable assistance in France, Palestine, Mesopotamia and other theatres durlug the World War is still fresh in our memory.

But if the gain of Britain has been great, that of India has been greater. Some Indian writers are fond of referring to the days of Hindu rule as a golden age, when the people enjoyed peace and plenty and good government. There is, however, very little information regarding those ancient times. There may have been periods to which this description applies. But if so, they were probably confined to the latter part of the reigns of great emperors like Asoka, who, after bringing a considerable part of India under their sway, turned their exceptional abilities to the arts of peace.

Such men were very rare and the empires which they established soon fell to pieces in the hands of their degenerate successors. And even they, in their earlier years, were often responsible for terrible bloodshed. Asoka tells us in one of his edicts that in the course of his conquest of Orissa 100,000 of the inhabitants were killed in battle, and that many times that number were deported or perished through the depredations of his army.

With the advent of the British, wars ceased; the rights of private property were respected; there was no more interference with the religions of the people, and impartial courts were established where rich and poor, high caste and low, alike could be confident of even-handed justice.

These are the great primary benefits. British rule has given to the people of India peace, security, justice and religious toleration. In addition, numerous measures have been taken to improve the condition of the people and to suppress injurious practices. I will mention some of them briefly.

India is a predominantly agricultural country, with an uncertain rainfall, and in the past has frequently been subject to terrible famines in which extensive tracts were almost depopulated. In the early days of British rule famines continued to cause terrible losses, but with the aid of the experience gained on each occasion, elaborate preventive measures have gradually been devised and perfected. Plans for relief work are now kept in constant readiness and the state of the crops is closely watched so that adequate help can be given the moment it is seen to be necessary. Relief operations are greatly facilitated by the vastly improved communications.

It often happens that when the crops fail in one locality there are bumper harvests in another. Formerly there was no means of moving the surplus grain to the place where it was needed and the people in one part starved while in another part there was a glut. This is no longer the case. India has been provided with over 40,000 miles of railway, compared with China's 6,000. It has 200,000 miles of roads. Famine has thus been robbed of its worst terrors.

As a protection against the uncertain rainfall, great attention has been paid to irrigation. Already over 28,000,000 acres are protected by the government irrigation works, and canals are now under constuction which will bring the total up to 40,000,000 acres. Not only has an assured supply of water been given to much existing cultivation, but wide tracts which were formerly desert and occupied only by a few pastoral nomads have been rendered culturable and now support a large and prosperous agricultural community.

The agricultural departments, which owe their presen organization mainly to Lord Curzon, have done much useful work in introducing new staples, such as ground nuts, which are grown or more than 5,000,000 acres; in improving, by crossing and selection of seed, the cotton, rice, wheat and other crops; in encouraging the use of fertilizers, in improving the breeds of cattle, and in the prevention and control of animal diseases.

In ancient times the greater part of India was covered with forests, but with the growth of population and wasteful exploitation the trees were rapidly disappearing until the formation of the Indian Forest Department in 1865. An area more than twice that of the British Isles has now been marked off as a state forest, and now bids fair not only to supply for all time the produce needed for local requirements but also to support a profitable export trade.

The medical and sanitation departments have done invaluable work in coping with epidemic and other diseases, while the Department of Post and Telegrams gives India the cheapest service in the world.

From time immemorial there has been a small minority of educated Indians, chiefly among the Brahmans, and India can boast of a long line of great theologians, philosophers and poets. But it never occurred to the favored few to aim at a wide diffusion of knowledge. The officials and traders learned as much as was absolutely necessary for their profession or business; the masses remained wholly uneducated. Under British rule a network of schools of all grades has been established, as well as numerous universities, and there has been a remarkable spread of education among the better classes. It must be admitted, however, that the progress made in diffusing even elementary education among the masses has been relatively slow.

When the British government embarked on this task there were long discussion regarding the language in which higher education should be imparted in the state institutions. The decision in favor of English was a momentous one. It has furnished the educated classes with a language in which the Bengals, the Janjabis, the Marathos, the Tamils and all the other linguistic groups can communicate freely with each other, and has imbued them for the first time with a sense of common nationality. It has also given them the key to the whole range of Western literature. They have thus imbibed our own love of liberty and independence. This has led to the ardent desire for self-government which is manifesting itself at the present time.

The seclusion of women is rapidly being abandoned among the educated classes, whose ladies now freely appear in public and sometimes speak on public platforms.

The British government has done a good deal to mitigate the worst of the disabilities of the depressed classes, the so-called "untouchables," by treating all men as equal in the eye of the law and by recognizing their right to education. The missionaries have done still more by raising the standards of living and self-respect. And now the educated classes are beginning to realize the injustice of the treatment to which these unfortunate people are subjected.

Garden Talks

Put These Vegetables on List ..

The average gardener is often bewildered by the large number of vegetable varieties offered and so for his particular benefit the following list based on expert information is offered:—Asparagus, Mary Washington, satisfactory from the standpoint of disease resistance and a good cropper; Beans, Pencil Pod Black Wax, Round Pod Kidney Wax, Stringless Green Pod with Kentucky Wonder Wax and Kentucky Green Pod as pole sorts: Beets, Early Wonder, Flat Egyptian Early and Detroit Dark Red, later; Cabbage, Golden Acre, as a round-headed first early, followed by Copenhagen Market and Enkhuizen Glory as mid-season with short stem Danish Ballhead for winter storage; Cauliflower, Snowball and Earliest Dwarf Erfurt; Carrots, Chantenay and Danvers; Corn, of the early varieties Golden Sunshine, Pickaninny, Early Mayflower, Early Market and Golden Bantam are recommended, with Stowell's Evergreen for later use; Cucumbers, Improved White Spine and Davis Perfect; Celery, for the first early Golden Plume or Wonderful, and White Plume, for early second, Paris Golden Yellow or Easy Blanching,—for winter keeping Giant Pascal or Winter Queen; Lettuce—Grand Rapids is one of the most popular leaf varieties with New York and Non-Pareil where a head sort is wanted; Muskmelons, Improved Montreal and Extra Early Knight are good varieties; as well as Golden Champlain, Miller's Cream or Osage; Onions, Yellow Globe Danvers, Red Wethersfield, Prize Taken Yellow Globe and Prize Taker Red Globe; Peas, Thomas Laxton, Laxtonian, Gradus, Little Marvel, Laxton Progress and, of course, American Wonder; Parsnip, Hollow Crown; Radish, Scarlet White Tip, French Breakfast and Scarlet Globe; Spinach, Bloomsdale and King of Denmark; Swiss Chard, Lucullus, the leafy part of this vegetable is used as a spinach while the fleshy stem may be cooked as asparagus and is delicious served with cream sauce; Tomatoes, Earliana, John Baer, Bonny Best, Chalk's Early Jewel and Livingstone's Globe, while Grand Rapids and Sunrise are two of the best forcing sorts. It should be remembered that this seed is suitable for Ontario. It is also well to remember that vegetables of the highest quality are the ones that are grown the most rapidly. The soil must be well prepared, well fertilized and well cultivated, particularly during the early stages. In small gardens it is often quite practical and very advisable to water during dry weather in order to make sure that the vegetables come on without a check.

Spring Work With Lawns

A good lawn will require a little attention every spring. There will always be bare spots to be reseeded, paths to be broken up, weeds to be taken out and fertilizer to be added. The roller should be used at this time so that the fine roots which have been heaved out of the ground by the frost will be packed into the soil again. Dig out the weeds, rake over the bare spots and reseed heavily with the very best seed procurable. Give the lawn an application of fertilizer. Well-rotted manure is good early in the spring but may be somewhat objectionable in certain places and often it results in adding more weeds. Pulverized sheep manure is recommended because this fertilizer is steamed before being put up so that all weed seeds are killed. Nitrate of Soda or a good mixed chemical fertilizer is often used as there is no objectionable odour and no unsightly appearance following the application. If the position of the lawn is open and exposed to plenty of sunlight ordinary dawn seed will do, but if shaded, select a special brand which all seed houses carry for this purpose Too much emphasis cannot be laid on good lawn seed, as this is the only kind which will result in a permanent, fine and velvety sward.

Constructing A Hot Bed

Where one plans to use a large number of those plants which must be started indoors, or where one is not in a position to purchase such plants as Petunias, Zinnias, Marigolds, Cosmos, Asters, Tomatoes, Cabbages, Cauliflowers, Head Lettuce and similar things, a hot bed is essential. The construction of such an affair is neither difficult nor expensive, and in addition to growing such plants as the above it may be used to produce early lettuce, onions, radishes and melons for the table. Secure a supply of fresh horse manure which has been turned frequently to prevent burning and store this in some sheltered spot, turning over occasionally until ready to use. The hot bed should be located where it will be convenient for the person looking after it during all sorts of weather. Preferably, it should have some shelter from north and west winds by fences, buildings or shrubbery. Select or prepare a well-drained site and make a pile of the manure eighteen inches deep when well pressed down. On top of this, place a light frame of wood any desired size and cover tightly with a window sash. The latter should slope a few inches toward the front which must be south. Cover the manure with three or four inches of fine soil. The bed will heat up rapidly at first but by the fourth day should have cooled down sufficiently for planting purposes. One can plant in rows quite close together so that a bed three by four feet will produce ample plants for the ordinary garden. In cold or stormy weather, water sparingly and only on bright days. Ventilate a little every day by raising the sash, keeping it open longer as the days grow warmer. The plants should not be removed directly from a hot bed to the field, except in very favorable circumstances, but should be hardened off for a week or two in a cold frame which is exactly the same as the hot bed without the manure.

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drugstores in the Dominion sell it in 50c bottles.

Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle.

Once more the fickle birds return
Across the sloping seas.
And strew the tender fields again
With their old melodies.

The sky is magic as the month,
Low sun, high stars between,
The icy winds have washed it clear;
But it, too, dreams of green.

The boats are breathing on the sea;
They cannot wait for men;
Some undertide has brought them word
Straight from a blue-starred fen.

Unpiloted they steal away,
No man shall see them soon,
The sea birds follow for a mile,
Then leave them to the moon.

We, too, shall steal upon the spring
With amber sails blown wide;
Shall drop, some day, behind the moon,
Borne on a star-blue tide.

Enchanted ports we, too, shall touch,
Cadiz or Cameroon;
Nor other pilot need besides
A magic wisp of moon.

—William Alexander Percy, in "Sappho in Leukas."

Wife: And don't come home so late. Husband: I shall come home when I like. Wife: But not a minute later.

Chapman returned from lunch and "Anyone call while I was out?" he called his new secretary into his room, asked. "Yes," replied the girl. "Smith came in about his account. He wanted it settled." "And you told him that I had left for America this morning?" said Chapman. The girl nodded and replied: "Yes; and that you wouldn't be back until this afternoon."

Owl Laffs

There was a time when the millers sold shorts. Now they can be bought only at the department stores.

"Papa left me four hundred dollars to buy a memorial stone for him after he died," said Darling Dora. "How do you like my new diamond?"

Teacher—"Johnny, if your father earned $40 a week and gave your mother half, what would she have?"
Johnny—"Heart failure."

The peculiar characteristic is the one somebody else has.

Daddy—"I greatly disapprove of young Darlington, and one particular reason is his lack of interest in his calling."
Daughter—"Why father, his calling! He calls on me seven nights a week."

"I just love these big cave men," sighed Gladful Gladys, as the guide led her through the Mammoth Cave.

Golf Definitions

Dub—"One who plays golf the way you did last year.
A Good Lie—When the last man in the foresome tells his score.
Sand Trap—A device placed in the fairway to increase the vocabulary of the player.
Fairway—The long narrow strip of grass which the ball occasionally crosses in its flight from the rough on one side to the rough on the other.

When the young mother begins to talk about lessening the risk of the baby's second summer you may know right well she has been talking to the baby's grandmother.

Girl's Dad—"So you're the young man with both feet on the ground, eh? What do you do for a living?"
Girl's Boy Friend—"I take orders from a man with both feet on the desk."

Too much time on the hands makes the feet wobbly.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who made it a point of pride to have her wash first on the line Monday?

He—"I like your bathing suit."
She—"It doesn't take much to please you."

First Lady Bridge Player—"I say, I wish to goodness you'd hold your hand up. I can see your cards."
Second Lady Bridge Player — "All right, only you needn't be so snappy. You've been showing me yours all afternoon and I haven't complained."

It is amazing to see how much misinformation may be accumulated by one who diligently seeks it.

She—"Oh, go and commit suicide."
He—"That's the last thing I'd do."

The last word in preparedness was undoubtedly achieved by the sleighing party which hooked its sleigh on behind an ambulance. If your overcoat is too loud, wear a muffler.

Fortune does not smile on those who wait. It laughs at them.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

FREE TRIAL OFFER OF KRUSCHEN

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to prove our claim for yourself. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. Package.

This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle—sufficient for about one week. Open the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle is still as good as new. Take it back. Your druggist is authorised to return your 75c. immediately and without question. You have tried Kruschen free, at our expense. What could be fairer? Manufactured by E. Griffiths Hughes Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Estab. 1760) Canadian Agents: McGillivray Bros. Ltd., Toronto.

Genuine Gratitude Compels Tribute.

Mr. Victor Hills, of Thornton Heath, writes:—"For many years I have suffered with that distressing complaint—constipation, and its attendant effects of sick-headache and indigestion. It was a red-letter day for me when a friend recommended me a treatment of Carter's Little Liver Pills, and I can honestly say that results have been truly marvelous. I now enjoy good health and feel that life is worth living. The relief I have experienced compels me to add my sincere tribute." Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. All druggists 25¢ and 75¢ red pkgs.

Wakeful restless CHILD needs Castoria

WE can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Other times it's constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked promptly. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother continues it in more liberal doses as a child grows up.

Readily obtained at any drug-store, the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature and the name Castoria on the wrapper like this:

TORONTO TP. COUNCIL

Because the Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto would not state when or where they would provide gas to residents in Toronto Township, the Township Council refused to give a by-law its first reading at the meeting Saturday, giving power to the company to lay their mains. Gordon B. Jackson, acting clerk, stated that he had communicated with Arthur Hewitt, general manager of the company, and the latter stated that the by-law was similar to those in Etobicoke and North York Townships. They couldn't frame it any different, Mr. Hewitt had stated.

Ratification was given to a water area in Lakeview, covering a section corresponding to S.S. 7. More than 20 ratepayers appeared from the Mississauga Road, protesting against the creation of a water area in their territory.

PERSONALS

Miss R. Spencer, sister of Mrs. Len. Pope, spent the week-end with her sister.

Mrs. John Ross has been visiting among her children for a few weeks and is home again.

Mr. John Ferguson, teacher of the Meadowvale sideroad Public School spent the week-end with his aunt in Toronto.

Mrs. Douglas Lindsay attended the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. John Galey, of Lambton Mills, to Park Lawn Cemetery, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Percy Broadbear and her infant son, Donald, of London, are spending a few weeks vacation with Mrs. Frank Broadbear.

Owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. W. T. McCree, M.A., the service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last Sunday was withdrawn.

Do not forget the play on Tuesday, March 17th, in the theatre, by the Young People of the United Church. The play is entitled "A Family Disturbance." It will be worth hearing.

Mrs. John Temple, wife of our village electrician, returned home last week after a visit of several weeks among her friends at Chesley and other points.

Mrs. I. Ardagh is training the Young People in the Play to be given next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ardagh's training in dramatic art makes her an excellent leader.

Owing to the heavy snow storm on Sunday the attendance at the church services and Sunday School was very small. It was almost impossible to get through either with car or cutter.

Harvey Andrew, an S.P.S. student, of Toronto, and one of our village boys, came home to play with the Streetsville boys, who were playing a hockey game on Friday evening with Hornby. The score was 3-2 in favour of Hornby.

We are delighted to hear little Berkley Davis is able to be brought down stairs occasionally. Berkley has fought a severe illness for several months, we hope to see him going to school before very long.

John Ross and Bernice Temple are going to Port Credit to try in the Semi-Final Oratorical Contest. Jo was first among the boys and Bernice first among the girls at the High School Oratorical Contest held here a week ago last Monday.

On Saturday evening Margaret Cooke of the 9th line entertained a number of her friends. This was Margaret's birthday and she received numerous beautiful gifts from her many friends. Miss Cooke is one of the most popular of our young ladies.

Last Friday evening the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their regular meeting with a large number present. Mrs. McCree gave an interesting talk on the life of Sir James Barrie, in her usual good style. The members of the Society then took parts in the reading of one of Mr. Barrie's most popular plays, "Making a Will."

The Family on Tuesday evening will have a happy ending—Don't miss it.

Characters: Harry Harrison, a hen pecked husband—Jack Dingwall, Mrs. Dorothea Harrison, who does the pecking; Bessie Steen, June, their charming daughter—Margaret Cooke. Nellie Harrison, Mr. Harrison's cousin—Miss B. Cliff, Joshua Judson, Mr. Harrison's cousin from the country, Harry Johnson, Nora McBride, the Irish cook—Mrs. McArthur, Pat O'Donnely, in love with the cook—Norman Rutledge, Elmer Simroy, June's sweetheart—Jim Steen, Count Vallencia, an imported product—Jim Hisey.

Favorite Chick Starter

This is the time of year when poultrymen are deciding what kind of chick starter is the best for them to use. We are frank in admitting that we use the same formula as that used at Guelph College. WHAT CAN BE BETTER? We have the best ingredients that money can buy, and an up-to-the minute system of thorough mixing.

Favorite Chick Starter
will start your flock right and grow them up to eight weeks with less mortality than ordinary starters. After that, use FAVORITE DEVELOPING MASH. We have a full line of ingredients for those wishing to mix their own feeds.

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Christopher Steynes is being bothered by a Russian countess and her daughter. He proposes to Mary Kate O'Hara that she play the part of his wife for a day and a half in order to discourage the countess. It means enough money to Mary to give her brother Martin his opportunity of going to Germany to study medicine. Mary accepts. She tells her mother she is going on a business trip. Christopher meets her at the station at Burlingame. She meets the countess at a dinner party given by her boss, Gordon Rountree, and the countess is discouraged. That night she returns to Christopher Steynes' house. After she has retired a burglar breaks in; Chris shoots the burglar; police take her name and address. She is terrified for fear her mother will find out. She returns home. In the week following her escapade she learns that she has fallen in love with Christopher Steynes. Mary Kate then tells Cass Keating, to whom she is engaged, of this love, but he just laughs and calls it a passing fancy. Then Christopher calls up and says he must see her the next day. She meets him and they go to lunch together. Chris tells her that he had decided not to press the charge against the burglar but that the burglar refuses to let it be dropped.

CHAPTER XXXII.

"What!" She was once more alert and attentive.

"That's what he says. He says that he wants the whole thing to be dragged out into the open."

Mary Kate's color faded, her eyes were round.

"What for?"

"Revenge, I suppose."

"Revenge! But revenge for what?"

"Being shot, maybe."

The absurdity of her question and his answer struck the girl suddenly and she laughed. But it was a mirthless and anxious laugh, and died immediately into gravity again.

"You mean he wants money?"

"Gordy—I didn't see him. But Gordy hinted at money. He wouldn't hear of it!"

"But Chris—" She leaned forward on the table, her eyes puzzled. "My gracious, if a man breaks into your house, and is armed, and terrifies the whole household almost to death, at night, how dares he then—how dares he then to try to—to make terms? He's the offender, he's the one to be punished, if anyone is—"

"Exactly! And you're expressing that like a professional lecturer," Chris said when she paused. His praise brought the happy color to her face. "But that's just where he's a freak, this feller," he went on. "He rather has us over a barrel, and he knows it."

"Is he a Socialist?"

"He must be. Gordy says he's a well educated man, and appears to have a grievance against everyone who's got a little money. He says he holds that we have a perfect right to punish him, for housebreaking, but that he has his rights, too, and if he wants to give the whole thing publicity, and show us up, that's his privilege."

"The scut!" Mary Kate commented simply.

"Gordy say him in the hospital, Sunday, and sort of tried to reason with him—said there's be no trouble about clearing him, and so on, but he said he didn't propose to be let off his sentence because of the privileged rich—"

"But all he shows up—the only person he hurts—is me!" Mary Kate, who had been thinking fast, said bewilderedly.

"Well, exactly!"

"But—good heavens—" she whispered, turning white.

"Now, don't worry," said Chris quickly. "We're not going to let you get in for that, no mater what we do. But this poor sap has an hallucination—you're not having potatoes?"

"Nothing." Her appetite was dead. Her eyes were bright with fright.

"He has an hallucination," Chris resumed, "that some stupid intrigue was going on there that night—he kept hinting, Gordon says, that it was a married woman of the upper circle who was there—"

A sharp exclamation of indignation and disgust escaped the girl. She put up her head, her chin high.

"Well, exactly, that's what I thought," the man commented on her unspoken protest. "But he probably gets his ideas from Bolshevik journals or from the movies."

"But why didn't someone tell him the truth? Tell him I am just an office employee of Mr. Rountree's—"

"Gordy did. But he didn't believe it. He kept saying that he would find out who the woman was, because he could identify her, and that when he found out who it was, he would expose that just as prominently in the papers as his case was exposed'"

"Well, the papers wouldn't run a lot of nonsense on his say-so!" Mary Kate protested, uncomfortably, proudly.

"No, not exactly. But you know how they play up society stuff, and mystery stuff."

"But how could he say that he could identify me—he never saw me—he never saw me!"

"He says he did."

"Well, but you know he didn't! The room was pitch black, and he was just at the window—opening the shutter—"

"But he might have seen you before, Mary. Mightn't he have seen you at Gordy's perhaps—followed us home—?"

"Of course he might," she whispered.

"He says that whoever you are he can find you—"

"To murder!" she ejaculated, incredulously.

"No. To blackmail." Chris could almost laugh at her consternation. "He must be a scoundrel," he repeated.

"But then—" she argued, thinging aloud. "But then, if he knew that I was only a working girl—"

Chris was watching her interestedly, as she formulated her ideas. Now he said:

"That brings ou to exactly the point that I gather he reached with Gordon. He said—and this is the whole point; he says he wants five minutes' talk with you, and that after that he'll give the whole thing up. Gordon will get him off, with the police, I'll pay his hospital charges, everything will be dropped."

"He only wants my name and address!" she exclaimed suspiciously.

"The police have those, anyway."

"Yes, that's true."

A silence, while she looked into his face, expectantly, confidently.

"What do you think I ought to do, Chris?"

"Well, dear—" The word slipped out, but he caught himself. "Well," he amended it, "the situation is queer. Gordon says he seems a nice, quiet fellow, with a little mental twist on the subject of rich persons. We don't know, of course, that he didn't see you that night, at Gordy's and follow you with some crazy idea that you were being—well, abducted—that you needed—well, protection—"

Getting into rather deep water, Chris smiled cheerfully.

"And what not!" he ended, with an eloquent gesture of the hands.

"So that perhaps if I went and talked to him?"

"The point would be, if you could?"

She reflected frowningly; raised her head proudly.

"But of course I could."

"You mean you would do it?"

"If you thought it would make any difference." Mary Kate fumbled with her salad mechanically, laid aside her fork. "I've done so much—" she reminded him, simply, forlornly.

"Just what twist he's got in his hind, I don't know," Chris resumed presently. "But Gordon distinctly said that he was convinced from the first the man acted that he really would be reasonable with you. He treats rich persons as if they were reptiles."

"I could just say to him that I am a working woman from a poor family," Mary Kate mused aloud, "and ask him not to bring this terrible trouble down on my mother and the children."

Tears filled her eyes; she lowered them, and bit her fembling lower lip.

"Honestly, I don't see what harm it could do," Chris reassured her, sympathy barely veiling his satisfaction.

"I know Socialists," she said thoughtfully. "One of the girls here in the office goes to meetings."

"Well, then, if he is a Socialist, and you say that you have some interest in Socialists, isn't there a reasonable hope that he would agree to forget the whole thing?"

"I suppose so," she agreed doubtfully.

"Would you go up there, right after luncheon, and just walk in on him?" Chris urged, in a quick, confidential fashion. "I'll jump you into a taxi, and we'll be up there in ten minutes, and fifteen minutes later the whole thing will be over! Will you? What harm can it do?"

Her unquenchable sense of adventure rose strong within her. The orchestra was playing a stirring march now, and the rain had all but stopped; a wet sun was flashing over the world, and the bay was arched by a tremulous rainbow. Gulls flew white past the hotel window; the bay and sky had turned from gray to blue, and over the former masses of whipped-cream cloud were moving rapidly.

If she went to the hospital, she would be that much longer with Chris, and she would please him.

"All right!" she said.

"Good!" Chris approved.

Both began to do justice to the salad, and in two minutes both were talking animatedly again.

"What a day!"

"Look at it. It looks too brilliant to be true. And Mother made me wear all my rain outfit this morning."

"Ah, well, so did everyone else. Let's hope it's an omen, Mary. Let's hope it means our little unpleasantness is all going to be beautifully settled."

"Oh, let's hope!"

2964

A chic little tailored model with the French guimpe effect that youth adores.

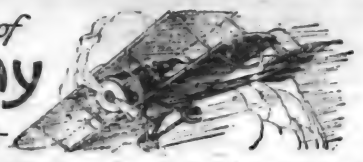
It's charming in pilot blue light weight woolen with lighter blue flat crepe. The belt is suede in a still deeped blue shade.

The circular skirt cut with gores, gives that flatness over the hips so modish.

The pattern also provides for long sleeves.

Style No. 2964 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

It's indispensable for sports in wool jersey with pique contrast.



In printed crepe silk it is fashionable with plain crepe trim. In plain flat crepe, a contrasting shade is smart.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Among the other old-fashioned things that need a new definition to bring them into harmony with the times, is the term "securities."

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

Yes Sir, that bear just poked his face out from among the bushes and looked at us. We had no gun—not even a knife. It was a great brute of a grizzly, and with her came a half-grown cub. Probably you have never seen a grizzly loose in the mountains. If you haven't, you have no idea how big one looks. This one seemed to be as big as an elephant, and she looked as mean as poison. It was growing darker every moment and in that narrow valley, shut in by the mountains, almost anything might have happened. Mrs. Grizzly is a bad one to meet at any time, but when she has a cub with her, she is not the company one would choose to meet in a lonely spot.

Meanwhile the old bear was getting nervous—sort of sniffed around a bit—and then—well, she and her cub started down to look us over.

Very likely we should have shouted and waved our arms and yelled "Shoot! Shoot!" but I never saw a grizzly that one could talk out of an idea. No siree! We did no such thing—we cut and ran pell mell for the plane. It was less than a hundred feet away but it seemed as if we would never make it. And all the time the bear and her cub were ambling briskly toward us. I reached for the pet-cock of the gas tank, turned it on and held my helmet under it until it was full and soused it over the wings and body of the plane. Time and time I emptied the helmet of gasoline on the plane—and every time I looked up, there were those bears coming closer and closer.

As I threw the last helmet of gasoline over the plane I looked up, and there—just across the plane—were the bears. Believe me, girls and boys, those bears weren't sight-seeing—they were out hunting trouble—and that particular trouble was us. I tried to light a match, and did you ever try to strike a match in a hurry? The first one didn't light at all—the second broke—but the third one lighted.

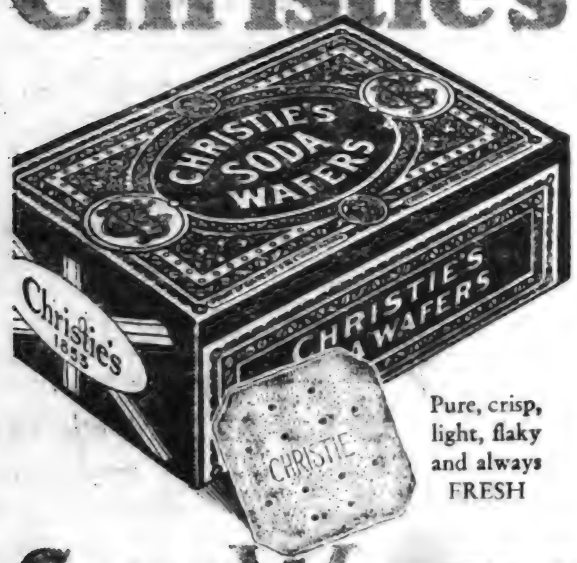
I held it to the edge of the wing—and it seemed as if it would never catch fire. As it caught, the old bear was scarcely a couple of jumps back of me. Suddenly the flame flared up. Scottie and I started to run—to get away from those bears and the plane, which I knew would shortly explode.

We had hardly gone a hundred feet, when Scottie got between my feet, and down we went in a heap. Scarcely had we struck the ground when the flames reached the gas tank, and WHAM!—it blew up. For a minute the air was full of burning debris. What a sight!

It seemed like as if those bears hadn't started to run until they heard all that noise. Then it was a case of every bear for himself and never mind your neighbor. They fairly flew. The cub's legs were short and stubby, and he had to take two jumps for his Ma's one—but—as they went out of sight, they were so close together that they looked like one big bear.

Meanwhile the wreck of the old plane was burning brightly. Scottie and I hustled over to the edge of the wood and gathered up the driest wood we could find.

All night long we kept the fire blazing brightly, for a good camp fire is mighty friendly and comfortable on a bleak, chilly night when you are out in the open; but we didn't hear of those bears from the time the gas tank exploded. Each time the red blaze began to die down, Scottie would whine and pull my coat until I awakened and put on some more wood. Probably Scottie thought he saw more bears in the black shadows. Certainly he kept watch during the first part of the night. Later on he must have fallen into a deep sleep, for something began to take place which might easily have ended all our adventures then and there.



Over at the edge of the clearing a little crimson tongue of flame gradually curled up and grew larger—crept forward and spread more little curling flames like an advancing army of red-coats. But we were sound asleep and saw nothing of it. Meanwhile the dangerous little flames grew larger and spread back of us through the woods, threatening to ring us around with a wall of fire.

A restaurant owner with plenty of advertising ideas and little money for advertising purchased the largest fish bowl he could find, filled it with water and put it in his window, with a sign reading: "This bowl is filled with invisible Paraguayan goldfish." It required two policemen to keep the pavements in front of the window cleared.

The Mistress: "But why do you want to give notice?" The Cook: "I can't bear the new maid, mum. Why, she puts on more bloomin' swank than wot you do."

Canadian Fish Take to the Air

From Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, comes the news that fish have taken to the air in the Canadian northwest. To be exact, they have been taken by air to market. A Government bulletin supplies the following interesting information on this subject "Fish caught in Lac la Ronge, in Northern Saskatchewan, are flown twice daily to Prince Albert, a distance of 200 miles and from there shipped by rail to Chicago, New York and other American and Canadian centres. Each plane carries about 1,600 pounds of fish in an unfrozen condition, and immediately on reaching Prince Albert they are packed in ice for shipment in 50-pound boxes. While airplane transportation has been reported satisfactory, it was found that increasing demand for the northern fish made necessary an additional means of carriage; so two motor tractors, each hauling a heated caboose with a carrying capacity of about 7,000 pounds of unfrozen fish, have been put into service, and a trip from the lake by the two tractors means approximately sufficient fish can be brought to Prince Albert to make up a carload lot for shipment. Though this is the first year in which fish have been handled by plane, catches from waters in the more remote areas of Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta have been successfully marketed as far away as the cities of the United States for several seasons past. Fish from Lake Athabasca, Northern Alberta, for instance, have won market favor, notwithstanding that the distance they have to be carried from the lake to the international boundary alone is about 700 miles." —"The New Outlook."

The Bridal Cactus

A cactus was carried by a bride instead of the more usual bouquet of orange-blossom at a Warsaw wedding recently. It was stated, in reply to inquiries, that the cactus brought good luck.

It will come as a surprise to most people to know that the cactus is "lucky"—so far it hasn't usually been credited with producing either good or bad fortune. Carried by a bride, indeed, it rather suggests a warning to the bridegroom, because the average cactus is fairly well provided with the means of self-defence.

The cactus is hardly likely, therefore, to win general favor as a bridal bouquet. The more usual orange-blossom can, after all, produce reason for its claim to be a luck-bringer. According to authorities on folklore, it is appropriate at a wedding because the orange-tree bears flowers and fruit at the same time. So the bride's orange-blossom means that she will have a family and keep her good looks.

Value of Farm Lands Declines $5 An Acre

Ottawa.—Value of farm lands in Canada in 1930 showed a considerable decline in consequence of the fall in the prices of agricultural products, says a report issued recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Average value of occupied farm lands as a whole, including both improved and unimproved land, as well as dwelling houses, barns, stables and other farm buildings, is returned as $32 per acre, as compared with $37 in 1929.

By provinces the average values are as follows, with the previous year's values within brackets: Prince Edward Island, $42 ($43); Nova Scotia, $39 ($36); New Brunswick, $28 ($35); Quebec, $48 ($55); Ontario, $52 ($60). Manitoba, $22 ($26); Saskatchewan, $22 ($25); Alberta, $24 ($28); British Columbia, $76 ($90). The average values in 1930 of orchard and fruit lands, including buildings, etc., in the chief fruit-growing provinces, are estimated as follows, the figures for 1929 being given within brackets: Nova Scotia, $94 ($118); Ontario, $110 ($147); British Columbia, $291 ($314).

A New Seasoning from Japan

An interesting condiment devised and marketed by Japanese chemists several years ago, and described in The Industrial Bulletin of Arthur D. Little, Inc. (Cambridge, Mass.), has come into wide usage throughout China and Japan, and is now making friends in this country. We read:

"Chemically, the material is sodium glutamate. It is made from the gluten or protein part of wheat by acid hydrolysis, followed by bleaching, neutralization, and crystallization. It is thus of vegetable origin, and does not violate the food proscriptions of any race or religion.

"Aji-no-moto is white powder, looking like bicarbonate of soda, of such character that it keeps well and may be dispensed from a salt shaker.

"It has a faint but definite odor of rather strong cheese.

"The taste, however, is that of the red juice from roast beef: salty, 'meaty,' and appetizing.

"This condiment is the 'making' of chop suey and other Chinese dishes. It goes especially well with spaghetti and other vegetarian dishes, and makes them satisfying as well as filling.

"Its acquaintance is worth cultivating."

Beauty

By Ll. Wyn Griffith in "The Welsh Outlook."

This pattern we call Good and Ill
Is but the play of light and shade
Upon a hill,
Born but to die with set of sun,
Foredoomed to birth when night is done.

His hand who held the Scales of Right
In iron days of Rome is dust
Motes in the light
The sword that slew at his behest;
In his dread court the swallows nest.

Forgotten now the Evil wrought
In Egypt's town by darkbrowed kings,
A thing of naught
The sorrow, sand-engulfed the tears,
But Beauty journeys down the years.

I know of naught can o'er outlive
This fleeting fashion in man's mind,
This fugitive
Pursuit of Right and fear of Wrong,
Save golden echoes of an ancient song.

Or crystal words the poets write
To illume the darkness of a troubled heart,
The cool delight
Of Venus rising from the deep,
The mirrored stars, a child asleep.

What then is Beauty but the thread
Of life that binds our days in thrall
To years long dead,
To unborn hours, and of this Now
A phantom makes? Go pay thy vow!

Reversible Vestees

Women who make their own detachable vestees have learned the advantage of having these bits of daintiness finished with equal care and attractiveness at both ends. When this is done, the vestee is quickly changed, end for end, in case it becomes spotted while being worn. This has been found a simple way to avoid the embarrassment of having to wear an untidy-looking vestee resulting sometimes from a little mishap at table or during the serving of informal refreshments.

When selecting ready-made vestees it is well to consider this interchangeable, end-to-end, advantage. If the decoration is vertical, in the nature of pin tucking, drawnwork or insettings of lace, one has only to add a corresponding band of lace to the lower end of the vestee, thus making the entire piece suitable to wear with either end at the top. Now that small buttons are so much in vogue as a trimming detail, a closely set line of these, either in white or color, is a modish center decoration for a vestee or georgette or voile, both of which fabrics are easily kept fresh. Eggshell, flesh, or any of the off-white shades, are excellent for combining with white or slightly ecru lace which finishes the vestee at top and bottom. Several small tucks on each side of a center row of buttons gives the desired vertical trimming. Dark buttons on light fabrics are specially smart just now, the color matching the predominating tone of the dress, but there is never any mistake in using small, white pearl buttons, which make the vestee wearable with other than one dress.

Family Watch Sold to Former Kaiser

Potsdam, Ger.—A gold watch that ticked for Frederick the Great a century and a half ago was knocked down for 5000 marks, or about $1200, to Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, the last of Frederick's successors, at the auction here recently of the furnishings of the Glienicke Castle.

This castle is the property of Prince Friedrich Leopold von Hohenzollern, a cousin of the former Kaiser, who has been living in Switzerland the last few years.

Other bidders withdrew when the offer of the "House of Doorn" was announced, and a crowd of bargain hunters who had come to pick up relics of the imperial regime applauded when the auctioneer declared the watch sold to the exiled former Kaiser.

Surprisingly low prices were paid for other items. Some idea of the popularity of royal portraits in Germany these days was indicated in the price brought by five lithographs of Prussians kings and princes, the whole lot being knocked down for $15.00.

Finds West Favors Ontario Produce

Toronto.—Growing tendency in the prairie provinces to favor Ontario farm products was found by A. H. Wilford, chairman of the recent campaign, "Onion Week," who has just returned from a trip across Canada to ascertain the results of the campaign.

Careful grading and packing in Ontario goods were the reasons offered by Mr. Wilford for increased use of Ontario produce. Buyers favored Canadian-grown fruits and vegetables, he said, and care in their packing and grading had resulted in building up assurance of their dependability.

Many more onions were being used in the prairie provinces as the result of the campaign, he said.

Roast duck is said to be good for rheumatism. It sounds like a quack remedy.

First Plane Leaves Croydon For Africa

Imperial Airways Inaugurates Nine-Day Service Over 5,114-Mile Route to Tanganyika

London—The first section of the Imperial Airways route to Capetown, Union of South Africa, was inaugurated on Feb. 28th when a nine-ton Argosy air liner left Croydon with thousands of letters for delivery in various parts of Africa.

A large crowd, including Colonel W. H. Franklin, Trade Commissioner in East Africa, and air line officials, cheered as the great machine took off in a drizzling rain. For the present, no passengers will be carried in Africa on this service, but two passengers were aboard on this initial flight, one for the Continent and the other for Karachi, India, changing at Cairo.

The mail consisted of fifty bags containing more than 40,000 letters, 10,000 of which were sent by stamp collectors. In addition the plane carried half a ton of urgent freight.

The aircraft travelled across Europe to Athens, where the cargo was transferred to a flying boat for the Mediterranean journey to Egypt. From Cairo the boat flew long the new 2,760-mile route to Mwanza in Tanganyika Territory, completing 5,114 miles from London in nine days, a journey taking thirty-two days by ship and train.

The new service is to be run each Saturday morning from Croydon. Captain H. H. Perry was the pilot, accompanied by a mechanic. The first return flight leaves Tanganyika March 10, and the air liner to arrive back at Croydon March 19 with African mails. In several months the whole route will be opened and it will be possible to reach Cape Town from London in eleven days at a fare of about $650. The first class boat fare is about $450, but the air route saves six days.

This inauguration is a sequel to the pioneer work of Sir Alan Cobham, commenced six years ago, when he made a great survey flight to South Africa and back.

Tourists to Make Trips in Zeppelin

Graf Zeppelin Will Also Be Used as Taxi to Egypt and Spain

Arrangements for low-priced flights on the Graf Zeppelin will bring the experience of a ride in the famous world-roaming dirigible within the reach of almost all travelers to Germany this summer.

Short flights over Germany for as little as $36 a passenger will be offered for the benefit of tourists, says an announcement of the Hamburg-American Lines, general agents for the Luftschiffbau Zeppelin. The minimum fare will be charged for a four-hour flight over either Lake Lucerne, the Black Forest or the Tyrol. Most of the flights will be from Friedrichshafen, a few from Berlin.

In addition to serving as an outing machine, the Graf Zeppelin will be run in a taxi service to Egypt, Spain, the French Riviera and other countries, including the Scandinavian. The ship will be made available for charter by groups of tourists, societies and clubs, whenever a minimum of fifteen passengers is booked. The dirigible will accommodate thirty-five passengers.

Tentative plans have been made for a cruise over the Mediterranean to Egypt in April. Definite arrangements have been made for a cruise over Spain, leaving Friedrichshafen on May 29. The Zeppelin will stop at Seville, and cruise over Lisbon, Oporto, Vigo, Santander, San Sebastian, Biarritz, Toulouse, Barcelona, Valencia, Malaga and Gibraltar, returning to Germany June 2.

Other trips will be made to the Baltic, the Mediterranean, over the Alps and to England and France.

Pussywillows Early

Fort William—A large sprig of pussywillows in full bud, found on Island No. 2, Feb. 24th, by a local resident is said to be six weeks ahead of schedule. An old-timer, resident here for 37 years, says he has never seen a February so mild nor pussywillows so early in the season.

Naval Treaty Terms Accepted By Italy

France and Italy Now Reach Basis For Limitation Compromise

Rome.—The Italian government have now accepted proposals advanced by Great Britain which will permit its full adhesion to the London naval treaty.

The proposals previously had been accepted by the French government. Adhesion of the two governments to the London treaty, reached at conclusion of the naval conference almost a year ago, which makes that pact a five-power instrument instead of a three-power treaty as it is now.

Negotiations which brought the Italian acceptance were carried on by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, and Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty for Great Britain, and Dino Grandi, foreign minister, and Rear Admiral Guiseppe Sirlana for Italy. Premier Mussolini himself carried on part of the conversations.

The proposals advanced by Great Britain, some reports said, specify a specified relationship to the British that of Great Britain and inasmuch as France previously has accepted a specified relationship to the British navy, fix indirectly the relationship between the Italian and French navies it is understood that the Franco-Italian parity controversy is in effect postponed until 1936, when the entire naval treaty comes up for review.

The agreement apparently eliminates at least for five years the threat of an Italian-French naval race. The London treaty, signed last April, prescribes limitation and reduction of naval armament for the United States, Great Britain and Japan and agreement on some phases of the naval disarmament problem among those three nations, France and Italy.

Under the limitation clauses 8-inch gun cruiser tonage is fixed at 146,800 for Great Britain, 180,000 for the United States and 108,400 for Japan. Six-inch cruiser tonnage: Great Britain, 192,000; United States, 143,500, and Japan, 100,450. Destroyers: Great Britain, 150,000; United States, 150,000; Japan, 105,500. Submarine tonnage is equal at 52,700 for each of the three. France and Italy signed only those sections relating to "humanization" of submarines, a capital ship holiday and certain other technical phases.

A new scheme of naval limitation whereby world powers will be asked to limit their maximum construction to 25,000-ton warships will be proposed by France, Britain, and Italy, it was learned at the foreign office recently.

Motoring Troubles

The motorist adopted pleading tactics.

"I wish you'd overlook it this time, constable," he said. "As a matter of fact, I was hurrying to town on very important business."

"'Fraid I can't help that," said the policeman.

"I never drive fast as a rule. But I've got to get to town quickly to see my solicitor—"

"Well," said the policeman, "you'll have a bit more news for him now."

In the Same Boat

It was little Timothy's first day at school. Shortly after the opening of the first lesson he walked up to the school-teacher's desk and said:

"I ain't got no pencil."

The teacher, with a shocked expression on her face, said:

"Oh, Timothy, I haven't a pencil!"

A sympathetic look crossed the small boy's face, and he replied:

"Ye ain't, either? Well, we're both in the same fix, ain't we?"

Find Vitamin C In Peas and Beans

Washington—Dried peas and beans can be endowed with some of the valuable food properties of fresh vegetables by the simple process of sprouting them, recent studies by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have revealed.

Ordinarily dried beans and peas are lacking in the valuable vitamin C, but the sprouting process in some way produces this essential diet accessory.

Complete absence of vitamin C in the diet results in scurvy, formerly the dread of sailors on long sea voyages, many persons endanger their health because of an unperceived deficiency of vitamin C in their diet. This food deficiency also is thought to be an important cause of tooth decay and of many cases of so-called rheumatism.

Citrus fruits, tomatoes and raw cabbage have been recognized as important sources of vitamin C for a number of years, but until recently beans had not been considered as a possible source.

To obtain vitamin source from dried beans and peas, the Bureau of Home Economics experimented with several methods of sprouting. One simple method was simply to roll up a sheet of cheesecloth sprinkled with dried beans, and keep moist until the sprouts were an inch long.

Sprouted seeds, long used in Chinese dishes, have a mild flavor and make up into tasty dishes.

Machine Transmits Written Text on Radio

Detroit—A machine which transmits written words by radio and reproduces them instantly at any distant point or points in the same manner as a telegraph printer circuit, has been perfected by Glenn W Watson, local salesman.

The sending apparatus resembles a typewriter, to which has been attached a revolving disc, and the receiving set is of similar construction. As the letter key on the sending machine is depressed, its characteristic impulse is sent over the air, causing the disc to revolve. When the impulse is received, the disc on the receiving set is turned so that the same letter is printed by the receiving apparatus.

Each disc contains the normal characters found on a keyboard. The discs are perfectly synchronized and controlled by the radio waves, thus assuring exact reproduction of the message sent.

When exhibited to local scientists here, the machine is believed likely to revolutionize transmission methods for police work or others requiring circuit connections within a limited area.

A Doctors' Dinner-Party

Dinners for doctors depend largely—too largely—on luck. Get a member of the profession comfortably seated at the table and set an appetizing meal before him—and it's dollars to doughnuts that some urgent patient will desire his presence before dessert is served.

Probably Mrs. H. W. Carter, wife of a Washington, North Carolina, physician, knew this all along. But if she didn't, she does now.

Not long ago, says an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, "she invited several of Dr. Carter's fellow practitioners to dinner." Reading on:

While the guests were awaiting the summons to the dining-room, the telephone rang. It was an emergency call for Dr. DeWitt Kluttz, and he grabbed his hat.

Two minutes later Dr. P. A. Nicholson was called to the 'phone. He disappeared in the wake of Dr. Kluttz.

Just as dinner was served, a call for Dr. D. T. Taylor, and before the oyster cocktails had been finished, Dr. E. W. Larkin also had to leave.

"Well," began Mrs. Carter.

Just then the telephone rang again.

Dr. Carter answered, seized his hat, and rushed out of the door.

Mrs. Carter finished the dinner in solitary state.

Taking a Risk

The doctor stared hard at his client as the latter entered his surgery.

"I perceive that you are in a very despondent mood," he commenced. "In act, you don't seem to care what happens to you."

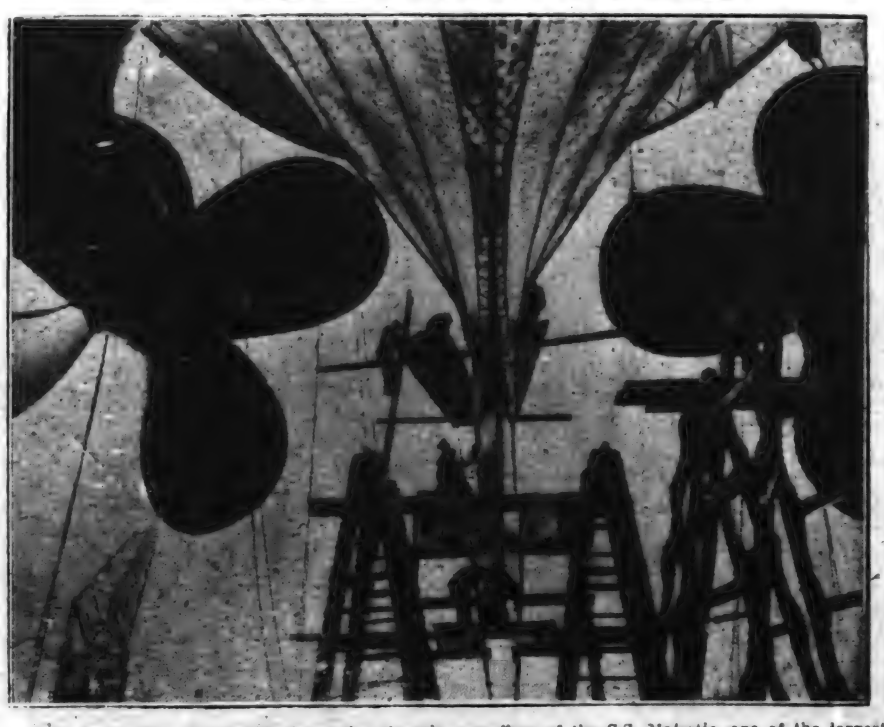
"Good gracious!" the client gasped. "How on earth did you deduce that?"

"You came here in a motor-car and you let your wife drive," he said.

The Pleasure Was Theirs

The mistress of the house rang the bell to call her maid.

"Jane," she said, when the girl arrived, "did you tell those ladies who just called that I was not at home?"



"Yes, ma'am," replied the girl.

"What did they say?" asked the mistress.

"They all smiled and said, 'How fortunate'," Jane answered.

What Ambition Did for Joe

Joe had a job in a factory. Though it was hard, he worked cheerfully early and late, because he wanted to be a foreman with larger pay in order that he might give his wife and children a better home. Then he began to feel extra tired, couldn't sleep, was weary all day long and his chest pained him. One day he fainted at his job. The doctor said he had only one chance of recovery from his trouble—consumption—and that was to be treated at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives.

So ill was Joe that it has taken almost two years to build him up to anything like normal, but he hopes to be able to return home soon and take up once more the duty of supporting his family.

The Only Home She Knows

Little blue-eyed, auburn-haired Gracie, was born in the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives, where her mother, not yet in her twenties, is a patient. The only home Gracie has ever known, or is likely to know for some time to come, is the Queen Mary Hospital and Preventorium. No, she has not her mother's ailment, but constant care is needed that she may not develop the disease.

Sometimes she goes to see her mother, but can only talk with her at some distance, for it would be dangerous for mother to take her in her arms as she longs so to do.

Such are the dramas, the tragedies and the rescues daily enacted at these hospitals, in their never-ending, life-saving work.

Your help is urgently needed. Will you please send a contribution to W. A. Charlton and A. E. Ames, 223 College Street, Toronto 2.

Here and There

More than thirty carloads of smelts have been shipped recently to the Boston, New York and Chicago markets from Bathurst, N.B. The value of these shipments is placed at about $35,000.

An increased enrollment in both common and high schools, an increase in teachers and in average attendance were indicated in the report of the schools of New Brunswick for the year ending October 31, 1930.

Aggregate value of life insurance in Canada, according to latest available information, was $6,150,000,000 or about $628.49 per capita of the population. Its value has more than doubled in Canada since 1920.

Last year's catch of salmon in British Columbia totalled 216,500,000 pounds, the highest ever recorded. About 2,220,000 cases have been canned, most of it to be exported to different parts of the world.

Good progress was made in 1930 in civil aviation in Canada, particularly in commercial flying. A total of 87,452 hours was flown, an increase of 7,667 hours over the flying time of registered aeroplanes in 1929.

An advance of about 800,000 in net tonnage handled at the port of Vancouver during 1930 is shown in the annual report of the Vancouver Merchant Exchange, tonnage in 1930 being 12,776,634 against 11,984,771 in 1929.

Latest reports on the output of the central electric stations in Canada states that in 1930 power generated from such stations totalled 17,828,121 thousands of kilowatt hours, an increase of 195,245 thousands of K.W. hours over 1929.

When the new 42,500-ton Empress of Britain, Canadian Pacific Atlantic flagship, goes on a world cruise, she will break at least 29 records. Except for Southampton and New York she will be the largest vessel ever to enter world cruise ports.

Prediction of a favorable year for the fruit growers of the Annapolis Valley is already being made for 1931. Dr. Blair, superintendent of the Government Experimental Farm, Kentville, N. S., announces there is every indication of an excellent crop, adding that fruit buds had formed unusually well and were plentiful.

Statistics gathered from cities and towns having a population of 4,000 and over show that in 138 such centres with a total population of 3,359,703 the number of police officers employed was 5,004, or one officer to every 671 persons. As an instance of their efficiency it is reported that of the 11,160 automobiles stolen in the year 1929, all but 10 were recovered.

While industry and commerce are preparing their plants and methods for low-cost operation and quality service in the coming contest for home and export markets, our railway systems, a primary implement of these occupations, are cramped in that respect by inability to accummulate reserves in fat years as did other corporations, according to resolutions adopted at the annual meeting of the Railway Business Association. 721

THE HEART

The heart is one of the vital organs of the body which continues to work when we are asleep just as it does when we are awake.

The heart is a muscle organ. When it contracts, it acts as a pump circulating the blood to all parts of the body. Every part of the body needs blood, because it is from the blood that the cells of the body select the nourishment they need, and it is into the blood that the cells discharge their waste products.

A good circulation is necessary if the tissues of the body are to be healthy. A good circulation cannot be maintained unless the heart is in proper working order. In other words, the general health of the body requires a sound heart.

The heart, like most organs of the body, is capable of doing more than is usually demanded of it. That is why it is able for a time to do extra work when it is called upon to do so by sudden or severe physical effort. It is not advisable, however, to overstrain any part of the body, because such strain may be too great or too prolonged, and permanent harm may result.

Because of its reserve power, a damaged heart may serve a person very well, providing care is taken not to throw any extra strain on the organ.

Those who have a weakened or damaged heart can live long and useful lives if they avoid such efforts as heavy lifting which throws a sudden or extra load on the heart. They must avoid doing anything which causes shortness of breath, and they should learn to stop and rest immediately if they experience shortness of breath or pain. They must realize their limitations, and not try to do more than they are able.

Infection in any form is frequently responsible for heart disease. Infected teeth, tonsils or head sinuses may be foci from which poinsons and germs are given off, causing damage to the heart.

The prevention of heart disease begins with attention to general health through proper food, fresh air, rest and play. Any focus of infection, such as diseased teeth or tonsils, should be removed before there is a chance of its causing damage to the heart.

The heart is often damaged as the result of acute rheumatism, which is an infection. Growing pains and chorea, or St. Vitus' Dance, are evidence of rheumatism in children, and they should be treated as serious conditions in order that the heart may be protected.

Mother Restored to Family

If you asked the average happy and comfortable Ontario housewife what a gain of 49¼ pounds would mean to her, she would probably look aghast at the very suggestion. Suppose, however, she were in the position of Mrs. Roberts, a woman with a family of young children in a small Ontario town where there was "little to earn and many to keep," growing weaker and weaker from overwork and poverty, finally obliged to leave her little ones to friends and neighbors and betake herself to the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives.

Then began the long, long fight to get back the precious pounds, which to Mrs. Roberts and so many like her, mean milestones on the road to health. Thanks to ten months of good care, rest, nourishing food and experienced medical attention, Mrs. Roberts one day saw the scales register 149 — a happy gain from the 99¾ pounds she registered on entering the hospital.

Where is she now? Back at home, joyously taking up the care of her family, and grateful for her restoration to health. A great work assuredly, which needs much assistance from friends because poverty and tuberculosis so often go hand in hand. Will you help, please? A subscription sent to Mr. A. E. Ames, 223 College, Street, Toronto, will be greatly appreciated.

Undisputed Queen of the Pacific

Smashing record after record, the beautiful 26,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Japan" holds an established reputation as the queen of the Pacific Ocean, both in speed and comfort. Her latest accomplishment, on her last 4,280-mile trip, eastbound from Yokohama to Vancouver, was to complete her journey in 8 days, 3 hours and 18 minutes, thus beating her own previous record by 3 hours and 40 minutes. Apart from this she holds records between Vancouver and Honolulu; Honolulu and Yokohama and Yokohama and Kobe. The last-mentioned record is considered the ship's best speed performance in Japan's history. The commander of this great White Empress, Captain Samuel Robinson, indicated after her last trip that she has still more power in reserve and may well hang up another record in the near future.

Keep the date, Friday, April 17th, clear for the United Church choir concert, Streetsville.

Streetsville Harmony Orchestra will supply music for the Eastern Star Dance at Oakville this Thursday evening.

Nurse Graydon is home for a few days; she leaves on Friday for Port Arthur, where she expects to spend several weeks.

Albert Irvin Forster passed away on Mar. 7th in Toronto. He was born in Streetsville and was a son of Rev. Anson Forster.

Mr. Reg. Kay, of Erindale, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Peel Memorial Hospital, Brampton, and is doing nicely.

Norman Edward Caven of Port Credit and Gladys Olive Marchant, Toronto were married on March 7th, by Rev. Mr. Hunter, in Toronto.

R. H. Greig, one of our local merchants, has been confined to his home for several days with neuritis. Recent word says he will soon be at his business again.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Trendell have moved away from the village to take up residence in Milverton, Ont. Mr. Trendell and a brother have bought out a creamery business in the above town.

Mr. Hall Couse received a cablegram from Bermuda stating that his mother and Miss Eva Reid had arrived safely on the Island. They left here last Friday. Mr. Wm. Couse will meet them there.

Thirteen applications were received for the vacant position of Customs Collector in Streetsville. They will appear before Mr. C. P. McArthur, principal of our High School, for examination this Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phair celebrated the 44th anniversary of their wedding on March 9th. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Burns and family came out from Toronto to spend the day with them.

Mr. J. E. Bailey has purchased the Goodison store, corner Queen and Main Streets, with house and two large frame buildings. We believe Mr. Bailey intends to make extensive alterations to the property.

Ladies' Aid members of Churchville United Church were at home to the congregation on Saturday evening, providing progressive crokinole as entertainment, followed by an Irish supper. Miss Myrtle Wilson, Mrs. Fred Hutton, Leonard Varey and Kenneth Wilson were winners, the lucky number prize going to Bert Anderson.

Geo. Dowling, a student of the school of Practical Science, Toronto, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dowling, lies critically ill at his parent's home. George came home on Saturday to spend the week end in apparently good health; on Sunday he was taken sick. At the time of going to press there seems to be a slight change for the better.

Mrs. Helen Follis, D.D.G.M., Toronto paid an official visit to Peel Chapter, No. 96, Order Eastern Star, Streetsville, Monday evening and inspected the chapter. She complimented the officers on their work and was pleased to find the Chapter in a flourishing condition. In the absence of Mrs. Gerhart, who is in the Hospital, Mrs. O. R. Church, acted as Worthy Matron. Refreshments were served afterwards. Mr. Geo. S. Bonham, Worthy Patron, acted as toastmaster. Several visitors from Toronto Chapter were present. The decorations were in white and green, and quite in keeping with St. Patrick's Day.

Complaints are coming to our ears about the large number of dogs running at large, and making themselves a nuisance, both day and night. We hear the Council intends making some change in the dog by-law. The present law is alright. All that is necessary is for the Council to enforce it. In a few days people will be making flower beds and they won't want any dogs running loose destroying them. We believe the Council intends to have all stray dogs caught and impounded. If this is true, the Village Constable is going to have a busy time this summer catching them. It might take two men to do it.

WEDDINGS

Morden—Lightfoot

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. W. J. Johnson, when Sybil Johnson Lightfoot, his niece, was married to Mr. George Hardy Morden, son of Captain and Mrs. Ed. Morden of Oakville, Rev. Horace Kaye officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Lightfoot, looked charming in a peach colored dress of georgette and satin. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of-the-valley. Miss Mary Johnson, six-year-old cousin of the bride, was a quaint little flower girl in powder blue tulle, carrying a basket of sweet peas and carnations. The wedding march was played by Miss Sara Sklar of Toronto, who also sang during the signing of the register. Among the guests present were Captain and Mrs. Ed. Morden, Mr. W. H. Morden of Oakville, Mrs. Armstrong of Brighton and Mr. and Mrs. L. Watson of Hamilton. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Morden left by motor for a trip through the Eastern States. The bride's travelling attire was a brown ensemble, with hat and shoes to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Morden will reside in Oakville.

Teeth That Bite

(Fergus News-Record)

Alliston is one town that has found out the department of education is equipped with teeth and can bite. It put off building new school accommodation so long that the government grants were cut off. That was bad enough, but it wasn't all by any means. The county grants were cut off at the same time and this included not only grants from its owncounty, but also the grants for county pupils from other counties. As a result, it is said that Alliston may be faced with a tax rate of 70 mills this year. Will they build a new school? One guess seems to be sufficient.

E. W. Montell, agricultural representative of the Campbell Soup Company, was the principal speaker at a gathering here in the Middle Road School on Saturday night at which he outlined the necessity, to over 75 neighboring farmers, of signing contracts for 200 to 300 acres of tomatoes in the Clarkson to Humber Bay district.

These representatives are travelling the Lakeshore district rapidly signing contracts with the various farmers in order to have a supply of tomatoes and other vegetables to be used in the manufacturing of their soups, preparatory to the opening of their plant in mid July.

The gardeners will be paid 45 cents a bushel for vegetables delivered to the factory. Plans are in progress to supply them with tomato plants at $6 per thousand. The general opinion of farmers around the surrounding districts is that the advent of such a company and enterprise will have a stabilizing effect on the market for their products.

Hutchinson, War Veterans Lodge; G. B. Jackson, Mississauga Lodge; T. Jackson, Mount Dennis Lodge; I. Hirst, Grey Lodge; Dr. S. O. Rogers, Tuscan Lodge; W. H. Smith, Rehoboam Lodge; J. R. Rumball, Ashler Lodge; George Wright, Bedford Lodge; B. L. McLelland, Kilwinning Lodge; and Grey Hamilton, Mississauga Lodge. Rev. S. E. Lambert, W.M. of the Coronati Lodge was the guest speaker of the evening and delivered an inspiring address on "The Challenge of handicap."

WIDOW WINS $15,000

FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Brampton, March 12.—After deliberating three hours, a jury at the Spring Assizes here before Mr. Justice Sedgewick awarded Mrs. Anastasia Lamphier, Cooksville, $15,000 damages against Daniel Alger, Waterloo, for the death of her husband, Francis, in a fatality on the Dundas highway last Fall. Mrs. Lamphier, mother of eight children sued for $50,000.

The jury found that Alger was negligent in travelling at an excessive speed, passing another car on a hill, not returning to the proper side of the road, passing another car and failing to take proper precautions after seeing and approaching Lamphier's car. Lamphier did not contribute to the fatality, the verdict stated.

HOCKEY NOTES

"ELLIS TROPHY" FINALS

The finals for the Ellis Trophy were played at Milton Arena before a crowd of over 800 interested spectators.

The preliminary game was the match between Riverdale Collegiate Instute and Lakeview. It was a good clean game, with smart combination and very few penalties.

The Riverdale players were under somewhat of a handicap on account of having no "sub" players. In spite of this fact, they put up a good fight.

The Lakeview boys played a very smooth game and defeated the Collegiate by a score of 3-1.

Goal R.C.I. Line-up—Goal, Miller; Defence, Ellis and Torrance; wings, Monzon and Lavery; centre, Bedford; subs, none.

Lakeview line-up—Goal, Kennedy; defence, Harris and Kevaney; wings, Alexi and Roche;centre, Jacobs; subs, Coyne and Kevaney, and one other, who was too modest to give his name.

The game between Lakeveiw and Hornby was "on ice" from the drop of the puck. The Hornby team had the advantage of greater weight and bigger lungs. Both teams wanted to carry home the "ole tin mug" and both teams played hard for the privelege. But dispite hard rushing and smart defence work, the Lakeview team was defeated 3-0. The Hornby boys show their home training all right. They handle a hockey stick just like a hay-fork.

After the excitement had died down "Ted" Ellis brought out the cup and with tears in his eyes threw it at Mr. Robinson, who took it on behalf of the Hornby players.

Hornby Line-up—Goal, Cunningham; defence, W. Robinson and H. Wilson; wings, M. Tuck and R. Wilson; centre, H. Wrigglesworth; subs, C. Wrigglesworth, Anderson and C. Robinson.

The game between High School Buccanneers and the Trinity Club, which was to have been played at Brampton Arena had to be postponed on account of unsuitable condition of ice and weather.

I wish they would get this game over with, cause me and Lou Marsh are gonna go down to the Maple Leaf training camp in Floreeda as soon as the league has played off.

Well! I guess this is enough till another time.

LOU E. SWAMPE

P.S. Contributions, to send Lou Marsh and myself to South America on a "hoop on snooting" expedition, will be received by myself at any time or place.

A LONG LIFE :

A USEFUL LIFE

By J. H. BEAMISH

It's a long stretch of time since March 19th, 1940—in fact so long ago that very few people in all the uni verse can remember, a date so far distant. That day a great soul came into being.

To-day, March 19th, 1931, a very estimable and highly esteemed lady is quietly celebrating her ninety-first birthday in the City of Hamilton. She resides with two nieces, widows like herself, and all three have had perhaps more than their share of trials and crosses to bear. Some little time ago, I visited them, and was greatly impressed with the vigorous body the clear mentality and the excellent memory possessed by this nonagenarian. She was able to go up and down stairs unaided, and how contented she seemed to be; and when she conversed about spiritual things there was no doubt in your mind, as to her abiding faith in things Eternal. The nieces, too, were the very personification of kindness in their attention and care for her.

And right here I am reminded of a happy little incident in which this good lady figured.

One Sunday morning, over forty years ago, a young lad and his sister went to Streetsville Presbyterian Church. I suppose they looked like strangers, and appeared somewhat nervous, as they stood in the anteroom of the Church, when a lady with a hearty hand-shake, a winning smile and a kindly voice, invited them into her pew, up near the front of the church. Perhaps you will say that this was only a natural act of courtesy, but it was characteristic of the woman, and this thoughtful act has remained to me a pleasant memory for nearly half a century. This genuine lady, who, I am sure, has not an enemy in the world, but whose friends are Legion, was Mrs. Waldie—affectionately known by many as "Aunt Jane Waldie," and the boy was the writer of this brief appreciation.

And so to-day, I, with a host of other friends from Streetsville and elsewhere join in congratulating Mrs. Waldie on reaching life's ninety-first milestone, and in wishing her well for the rest of the journey.

Say some nice things while they're with us,
Do not wait till life has fled;
Send a blossom to the living;
Better far, than wreath for dead.

Streetsville Juniors Won the Trophy

STREETSVILLE WINS

DRAMATIC HONORS

Graydon Shield Awarded

Over 500 people of the Junior Farmer and Junior Women's Institute organizations gathered in St. Paul's Sunday School Auditorium on Friday evening, March 13th, to hear and see the plays in Peel's first dramatic finals.

Streetsville, Tullamore and Cheltenham were competing, being the winners in the preliminaries run off the end of February, when Brampton, Bolton and Trinity presented their plays. Tullamore Juniors were coached by Mrs. G. W. Breckenridge, and presented "Sauce for the Gosling." Cheltenham, coached by Mr. W. W. Wilkinson, presented "Detours Ahead." The winning team, Streetsville, was coached by Rev. W. T. McCree. The play was "The Dear Departed" and the cast included Miss Dorothy Graydon, Wm. McCaugherty, Miss M. Munroe, Miss Beatrice Quennell, Arthur Arch and Jack Drennan. The Shield donated by Gordon Graydon was presented. Mr. Graydon congratulated the coach and players.

The Judges for the evening were: Dr. O. J. Stevenson, Ontario Agricultural College, C. D. Graham, B.S.A., Dept. of Agriculture, Stratford, and Miss Florence Eadie, Asst. Supt. Women's Institutes, Toronto.

J. C. Shearer acted as chairman and program was presented between acts by A. Lowndes, Brampton, Norman Black, Bolton, Ronald Lawrence, Ebenezer, Miss Ruth Ross, Streetsville, Cheltenham Mouth Organ Band, Alf. Sutton and Miss Gwen Sutton, Brampton.

A bouquet of flowers was presented to Miss Alma Wise, who organized and managed the Dramatic Series. The Boy Scouts under the leadership of Scoutmaster Frank Parish, acted as ushers.

STREETSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

A large number of the local High School students attended the semi-finals of the Oratorical Contest, at Runnymede Collegiate, Toronto; last Thursday night. Streetsville representatives, John Ross and Bernice Temple did exceptionally well but did not get first place. Runnymede obtained first place for boys and Etobicoke for girls.

YOUR MENTAL GARDEN

Resentment is an ugly thing,
It crowds the roses out;
Keep your mental garden fair,
Put harmful things to rout.

Seed-thoughts that you cultivate
Within your fertile mind,
Bring forth varied blossoms
According to their kind.

Anger, malice, worry, fear,
Are noxious mental seeds;
Quickly rid your mind of them
Before they choke as weeds.

Faith, gentleness, humility,
Truth, patience, unselfed love,
Are specimens of seedlings rare,
Approved of God above.

Your mental garden is a place
In which you daily dwell;
Let nothing ugly flourish there,
Safeguard and tend it well.

COOKSVILLE

Toronto Township Council, in committee, held a special meeting Saturday to consider 16 applications for the position of tax collector and appointed William Courtney. He will give his entire time to collecting taxes. For several years the taxpayers have had the privilege of paying their taxes at the banks and arrears have increased to over $100,000.

About forty men who are now unemployed marched to Cooksville Monday afternoon, with the object of waiting on the Toronto Township Council and demanding work or relief allowance. Arriving at the municipal offices, they found to their disappointment, that no meeting was scheduled for that day and Reeve J. H. Pinchin was at Brampton on county business.

A daring theft of an automobile from the lane leading into the property of Adam Brunskill, was made on Sunday night, and late last night there was no report that the car had been heard of. Deputy-Reeve W. Denison drove over to see Mr. Brunskill, his father-in-law, parking his car. When he went out to drive home the car was gone.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Cooksville, March 16.—Married on March 16, 1881, Mr. and Mrs. George Jefferson, Islington, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home today surrounded by their three children and their families. Mr. Jefferson, son of the late Thomas Jefferson, was born at Burnhamthorpe, as was his wife, Harriett Minerva Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Copeland. Mr. Jefferson is 74 and his wife 72. They are members of the Islington United Church. Nearly all their lives was spent in Burnhamthorpe, but for the past twelve years they have made their home in Islington. The best man at the wedding, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, was Mr. Edwin Armstrong, who lives in Brampton, and who was among the guests at the ceremony today. Mrs. Jefferson is the last member of her family, but there are two sisters and three brothers of Mr. Jefferson living: Mrs. B. Fieldhouse, Toronto Gore, and Miss Lucy Jefferson, Toronto; Herbert, at Highfield; Richard, at Burnhamthorpe and William in Toronto. There are three daughters: Mrs. Allan Pengilly and Mrs. Fred Humphreys, Toronto and Mrs. William Deville, Chinguacousy, and seven grandchildren.

VETERANS, SHUN!

The world war has become history, but many of the boys who were in it live on. It's time for another get-together and the excutive of the local legion are making plans for a social evening. There will be a smoker in Church's Hall on Tuesday evening, March 24th, and it is hoped that every ex-soldier in the district makes a point of being present. There will be eats and games. Whether a legion member or not come to meet other comrades and swap yarns of the old days.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

During the winter months, a series of talks on Temperance Education has been given to the members of the United Church Sunday School. At their conclusion examination papers were set for Juniors and Seniors separately. A number wrote and the following were successful in winning suitable bibles, donated by the school: Junior section, Geo. Wolfe, Ilah Featherstone and Lyle Durie; senior section, Helen Dingwall and Elmer Workman.

"WHATEVER WILL I DO?"

Jimmy had been ailing for a couple of days . . . but she didn't think it was serious — till this afternoon . . . she called the doctor . . . hospital tomorrow . . . just a minor operation, but it couldn't wait.

Whatever would she do? She must be with Jimmy . . . but there was the baby too. If mother were only there . . . but a letter couldn't reach mother till late tomorrow.

Then she thought of the telephone. In two minutes she was speaking to her mother. Yes, she could catch the evening train — would be there at 8 in the morning.

What a relief! Now she could go about her preparations for the morrow. The telephone had made everything easy. And the cost of the call had been less than a dollar.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. Night rates begin at 8.30 p.m. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want — it speeds up the service.

Flickering Flashlight Halts Train and Averts Death

Alert Night Operator Saves [illegible] by Quick Thinking—Wrecked Car Sounds Grade-Crossing Alarm With No Train Near

Tilsonburg. — A winking flashlight stopped an eastbound express train just in time to avert a sure tragedy here Sunday night. The train came to a halt a few yards from a wrecked auto, pinned beneath which the driver lay unconscious. Angus Scott, prominent Dereham farmer, owes his life to A. H. Preston, and to the chance that his car, dragged 200 feet by a freight train, came to rest on a rail which controls the grade-crossing alarm bell.

Preston, who is night operator here for the Michigan Central Railway, stopped his auto when the alarm bell rang at the North Boundary railway crossing about 10 o'clock. The bell continued to ring, but no train appeared. Then Preston saw lights up on the track, but as he watched they stopped out. He investigated, and 200 feet on the railway right of way he found an auto, wheels up across the rails. Unconscious beneath the machine was Angus Scott. Preston exerted all his strength to release the man, but the task was beyond his powers. He shouted for help, but, though a dozen cars traversed the crossing, no one heard him. He started back for aid but, as he did so, saw in the distance the headlight of an oncoming train.

Preston reversed his direction and dashed toward the train, pulling his flashlight from his pocket he flicked it on and off, and an alert engineer saw the feeble beam and applied his brakes just in time. The train crew—it was No. 10 passenger train, in charge of Conductor Bailey of St. Thomas—soon had pulled the auto from the track, first aid given Angus Scott first aid. Dr. Weston and Police Chief Reynolds were called to the scene, and removed Scott to hospital. He was suffering from severe but not dangerous scalp wounds and bruises.

When he regained consciousness Scott was able to tell his story. As he drove to the crossing he was watching for the flare from the west, and he ran heading into a freight train from the east. His car was dragged the 200 feet down the track to the point where Preston found it. The crew of the freight train were unaware of the collision, Conductor Thompson said, when he was informed at St. Thomas of the accident. The box car which the auto struck was eighteenth in line from the engine, and the impact escaped attention.

Records at Night New Radio Rule

Three and One-half Hours Each Week Limit During Banned Hours

Ottawa—A radio station in Canada may broadcast records between 7.30 p.m. and midnight for, three and a half hours each week, but on no one night for more than one hour. The records must be what are known as electrical transcriptions, especially prepared for broadcasting and must be both produced and manufactured in Canada. The new rules which include the foregoing were announced by Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine. He Saturday, they came into effect at once and the intention is to again review the situation at the end of the year.

After midnight and before 7.30 p.m. there will be no restrictions as to the use of records. Within the restricted hours no transcription shall be played more than once in any one week. The minister reserves the right to grant special permission to smaller stations in centres where few orchestras are available to exceed the three and one-half hour limit. Each such case will be considered on its merits.

The decision by Mr. Duranleau follows lengthy consideration by the experts in his department and him self. The old rule, often relaxed, was that no records should be broadcast after 7.30. Mr. Duranleau heard representations from musician unions objecting to the free use of records and from broadcasting stations supporting the use of records.

In a statement issued the minister said he confidently expected the production and manufacture in the records in Canada would give employment to Canadian musicians and Canadian record makers.

Ontario Farmer Is Happy and Satisfied

To the question whether he was able to make a living in this time of depression a Western Ontario man operating a 40-acre farm said: "I am making a little more than a living. I am at the job I like, I am my own boss and I have no fear of unemployment. Neither I nor my family try to keep up with the Joneses, though we live well, the farm supplying a larger part of what we need on the table. We have a small car that we run sensibly.

Where could I get a business for the same investment that would return me as much? From this declaration it is evident that there are Ontario farms which are doing their share in contribution to the wealth of the country and giving the owner a fair living. The man referred to above was willing to let his neighbors expend their energies on the big farms and big herds. His plan was to concentrate on a few good animals which gave good returns, and this year he experienced no trouble in meeting his tax bills. He has ample reason for feeling satisfied.—Minden Echo.

Ottawa Gives Welcome to New French Minister

Ottawa—Once again France is represented in Canada by her own minister. On March 11th, Charles Arsene Henry, Minister Plenipotentiary to Canada, of France, accompanied by Madame Henry, arrived in Ottawa from New York.

Quite a little crowd had gathered at the station to greet the new minister, who succeeds Hon. Jean Knight, the first French minister to Canada, who returned to France some months ago. Premier R. B. Bennett was one of the first persons to shake Mr. Henry's hand, and other members of the Government followed with greetings and expressions of welcome.

Radio Planes To Guide Navy's Air Squadrons

Washington—Fighting [illegible] squadrons of the navy hereafter will be accompanied by radio planes to guide them back to the mother carrier when navigation fails.

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary, outlined that this had been decided since the recent [illegible] of the Panama Canal when the planes carrying 72 men missed the carrier only by her searchlights at dusk. Navigation, however, had guided them to the vicinity. They had gas left for half an hour, [illegible] for individual fighters [illegible] proved too heavy.

Planes Prepared For Fire Hazard

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—To be fully prepared for a more severe fire hazard than usual this spring, because of the lack of snow, the air operations branch of the Department of Lands and Forests has planes on the stations in the western part of the Province, and these will be ready to fly as soon as the break-up comes, Captain W. R. Maxwell, Director of the Provincial Air Service, said here recently. He explained that the possibility of a sudden break-up of the ice here, and on the lakes west of here might preclude the planes making their flight to the stations early in the season and so the new policy had been adopted. The reconditioning of the planes is well in hand, he said.

Ottawa River Span To Be Opened Soon

Premier George S. Henry of Ontario as well as Premier Taschereau of Quebec and representatives of the Dominion Government will, it is understood, officiate at the opening of the new Hawkesbury-Grenville interprovincial bridge over the Ottawa River this spring.

Arrangements for the bridge's construction were agreed to last summer, and the work on it is now being rushed rapidly to completion.

Ontario's contribution to the structure amounts to $385,000. It became known for the first time recently.

Prince May Open Regina Grain Fair

Buenos Aires.—The Prince of Wales may open the World Grain Exhibition to be held in Regina during 1932.

On behalf of the Dominion Government the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. George Perley, Canadian [illegible] without portfolio, invited the Prince to officiate at Regina. His Highness has not yet signified his engagements for 1932, but it is hoped he will accept the Canadian invitation.

The Dominion Government is, it is understood, to forward a formal invitation to the Prince shortly.

Canadian Flier Killed in Crash

Former Hamilton Airman Plunges 2,000 Feet to Earth

Columbia, Tenn.—Ernest Robinson, 40, stunt pilot, who told airport officials here that he led a squadron of the British Royal Air Force from Canada during the Great War, crashed to his death Sunday afternoon at Graymere Field during a stunting exhibition.

Hundreds of persons saw the plane fall to come out of a loop about 2,000 feet in the air, and hurtle to earth near the field.

Robinson, who had said he had been flying for 13 years, earlier in the afternoon had been taking passengers into the air for short rides.

Robinson's body was found about 80 feet from the wrecked plane.

John B. Jackson, president of the Columbia Air Lines, Inc., a local concern, said Robinson, who came here about a month ago told him he last lived in Houston, Mass., where his widow is believed to be now.

Jackson said Robinson told him he was a native of Hamilton, Ont., from where he assisted in B Flight of the 94th Squadron of the Royal Air Force.

Canada's Supply of Radium

Edmonton Journal: Further details of the test being carried on at the University into the pitchblende brought down from Great Bear Lake, are of such a nature as to arouse hope that the deposits may be rich in radium. It is stated that comparisons of the radioactivity of these deposits with those from which the United States is getting its radium supply show that the greater activity is registered by the northern ones. If this means that the Great Bear Lake deposits have a higher [illegible] content than those in Colorado, Canada's problem of securing adequate supplies of this extremely rare and valuable mineral would appear to be solved.

WITH THE LONE SCOUTS

"A Lone Scout"—What a wealth of romance is conjured up by those three words! Down through the ages has come the echo of that desire to DO, which stirred the heart of that Stone Age boy, making his first spear—of the Grecian Youth, training for his first great race in the Arena—of the Roman Boy, watching his father's preparations for one of Caesar's expeditions—of the Norse Boy, setting forth on the first voyage of adventure—of the Page, buckling on the armour of the Knight he served—of the young Colonist, for the first time setting foot on the soil of his new Homeland—And now the LONE SCOUT!

And what IS a Lone Scout? We all know what a Boy Scout is! We know that Boy Scouts belong to the finest Boys' Organization in the world, that they are bound together as brothers in one fraternity, irrespective of class, tongue, creed or nationality. We know that they meet together frequently in Troops under Scoutmasters, learn many useful things, have lots of fun and endeavor to help other people whenever possible. We know that in their Scouting they find the outlet for that desire to DO!

And many years ago, in his far seeing wisdom, the Chief Scout of all the world ordained that, where it is impossible for a boy to become a member of an organized Troop of Scouts, because of the locality in which he lives, or because of some physical handicap, that boy shall not be denied all the privileges, the training and the fun of Scouting, but that he shall be permitted to work out the Scout programme through his own initiative, as a Lone Scout.

What a golden opportunity is this for the boys who live on farms, and in small villages where there are not sufficient boys to form a Troop, or where the nearest organized Troop is many miles away! These boys can still become Scouts, and in equally good standing as a member of the finest Troop in Canada.

In Canada at the present time there is a large number of boys who are taking advantage of this Lone Scout opportunity, and in the Province of Ontario alone there are now about 250 Lone Scouts. In this province they have been organized as nearly as is possible to correspond to Regular Troops, and every possible assistance is given to them to enable them to obtain the maximum benefit from their Scout Programme.

Four Lone Scout Troops are in existence in Ontario, covering the whole province, each with it's own Scoutmaster, who is in constant touch with the "Lonies" under his charge, and in many centers a small group of boys have formed a Patrol, and appointed one of their number as Patrol Leader, and they work together and help each other along and up the Scout Ladder of Proficiency.

Of course everybody knows that The Boy Scouts Association is non-military and interdenominational, so there is room for every red-blooded boy between the ages of 12 and 18 years in it's ranks, and if you would like to know more about the movement, just drop a line to The Lone Scout Department, Boy Scouts Association, 330, Bay Street, Toronto 2, telling them why you cannot join a regular Troop of Scouts, and they will send you full particulars of how you can become a Lone Scout.

The Editor of this paper has very kindly placed this space at the disposal of the Lone Scouts, and week by week you will find here information, helpful hints and news of what the other "Lonies" in Canada are doing, so we hope that you will look for it regularly and that it will help you. Next week information will be published concerning the activities of the already established Lone Scout groups scattered all over Ontario.

Great News From India

The New Outlook (Toronto)—On Wednesday morning, March 4th, at one-thirty o'clock, an agreement of peace was signed at Delhi by Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, and Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Nationalist cause. With this formal act, the campaign of civil disobedience inaugurated by Gandhi was brought to an end. The agreement is naturally a compromise, under which Gandhi abandons the right to boycott British goods, while the Viceroy permits Indians along the sea coast to make their own salt from sea water. Thus an era of peace dawns again in India where three hundred and twenty million people have been affected by the turmoil of the past years. The Indian problem is still far from being settled, but settlement is now in sight, and there are multitudes not only in the British Empire but in all parts of the Christian world who will rejoice with [illegible] unspeakable that Mahatma Gandhi and Lord Irwin are now co-operating in a heroic attempt to help India towards a worthy system of self-government.

Midget Car Record Broken in England

Brooklands, England.—The British midget car record for baby cars with an engine capacity of 747 cubic centimeters was broken by Captain G. E. T. Eyston, driving a Austin Seven. The previous record was 76 miles per hour. Eyston's time was 86 miles per hour. The new record established at Daytona recently by Captain Malcolm Campbell, since cancelled, Eyston's time captured the kilometric record, the mark being 138 kilometers per hour.

1,070 Cases of Mumps In Ottawa Outbreak

Ottawa—Ottawa is in the throes of the most serious outbreak of mumps in many years. A total of 1,070 cases have been reported to the Board of Health since the beginning of 1931. In January there were 458 cases while in February 456 Ottawans were treated for the disease. From March 1 to 12, 164 cases were reported.

Yellow Rain Follows Quake Creating Floods in Jugoslavia

Belgrade, Jugoslavia—Rain which stained clothes with bright yellow the hats and clothes of pedestrians fell on Belgrade Saturday.

The phenomenon was attributed to presence in the sky of dust lifted by recent earthquakes and borne northward by the wind.

Meanwhile rain of normal color, but in unusual volume joined with the sudden melting of snows on the mountain heights to create [illegible] here in Jugoslavia a serious flood situation. The river Save was out of its [illegible] at many places, and in Sirmyitza the water had reached the record levels of the great floods of 1919 and 1924.

Villas were under water over a distance of 20 miles from Nova to Stara Gradishka. Peasants took their cattle from the pastures in Bergo.

In the earthquake area a series of minor shocks over the week-end kept inhabitants in a constant state of alarm. The total death roll now stands at 16. An official report said 168 houses had been completely destroyed, 2,000 more partially ruined and 2,000 people made homeless.

March Surprise

This scene is in High Park, Toronto, after recent blizzard that swept city and large part of Ontario, tying up vehicular and railway traffic, and burying country under 14 inches of snow.

Germs Eat Germs Effecting Cure

According to the English classic: "Great fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite 'em,

And little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum." This principle of "dog eat dog," which has been long employed in both the animal and vegetable world to get rid of injurious parasites by "sicking" enemy parasites on them, may now be employed against the germs of disease.

The "bacteriophage," or germ-eater, that destroys the germ of dysentery has been known for some time, and now we have another that annihilates the germ responsible for boils and abscesses. To quote a recent press bulletin from a well-known New York laboratory:

"Dr. John F. Anderson, director of the biological and research laboratories of E. R. Equibb & Sons, and for many years in the U.S. Public Health Service, now announces that after more than a year or research and investigation, the particular parasitic enemy for boils, carbuncles, and abscesses has been found, and this modern method of treating them has been perfected. Dr. Anderson says:

"'The 'phage' that has attracted most attention in this country is the Staphylococcus bacteriophage. Staphylococcus is the organism that is responsible for almost all varieties of boils, carbuncles, and abscesses. The new bacteriophage is a parasite of the Staphyloccus, which grows in or on the bacteria and finally destroys them.

"'If a drop of the 'phage' is added to a culture of Straphyloccus, the bacteria are killed and dissolved, and the culture becomes sterile. If a drop of this dissolved culture is added to the fresh Staphylococcus culture, the same thing takes place. Ths process can be carried on indefinitely. In other words, the bacteriophage reproduces itself in causing the destruction of the bacteria on which it grows. The dissolved culture contains bacteriophage in a concentration so great that one-billionth of a cubic centimeter will cause destruction of a culture'."

ANY CHILD
WE can never be sure just what makes a child restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as your child has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

1,000 Fight London Fire

London.—A thousand London firemen fought for hours recently against a spectacular waterfront fire in the Leart of the city's "danger zone" near the famous Tower Bridge across the Thames.

The fire started in Butler's Wharf and although fanned by a strong wind was confined to a six-storey warehouse stocked with rubber and tea.

Great clouds of acrid smoke shrouded the river and a wide area of the south side. The loss was estimated at between $250,000 and $500,000.

A sign in a bank window reads: "The man who has one dollar in his pockets must take the first job offered him. The man who has $1,000 can make his choice of a few. The man who has $5,000 can dictate who should got his services." Save your money and be a dictator.

Smile

Even though your heart be sad,
Try to smile, pretend you're glad,
Troubles won't seem half so bad,
If you smile.

When you're feeling very blue,
No one seems to care for you,
Here's the best thing you can do—
Try a smile.

Life is what we make of it,
Sorrows, joys, of each a bit;
You can make the best of it,
With a smile.

Too many people grow stoop shouldered carrying around the responsibility for things that don't concern them in the least.

Hal Itosie—"Has your husband a good ear for music?"

Sal Hepatica—"I'm afraid not. He seems to think that everything he hears played in church is a lullaby."

About the only thing a man can run into while standing is debt.

Teacher—"Why do you always add up wrongly?"

Scholar—"I don't know."

Teacher—"Does anyone help you?"

Scholar—"Yes, my father."

Teacher—"What is he?"

Scholar—"A waiter."

Life is easier after one has over the rough spots. The corset string that withstood the terrible strain of the early nineties is living on easy street. If it were not for "Home, Sweet Home" there wouldn't be any harmonica players. Many a man has lost a lot of joys while saving a few dollars. Arthur Brisbane says the average man's mind is closed tight at forty. It seems that way in a political way anyhow. None are so well to do as were most of the depositors in a busted bank—to hear them tell it.

Dumb—"I've Got a cold in the head."

Bright—"Well, that's something."

If a Hottentot tot taught a Hottentot tot to talk e'er the tot could totter, ought the Hottentot tot be taught to say aught, or naught, or what ought to be taught her?

If to hoot and to toot a Hottentot be taught by a Hottentot tutor, should the tutor get hot if the Hottentot to hoot and toot at the Hottentot tutor?

The teacher was telling his class about parrot fever, and warned the pupils never to kiss animals or birds.

Teacher—"Can any pupil give me an instance of this danger?"

Little Jackie—"I can, sir. My aunt Emmy used to kiss her lap-dog."

Teacher—"Yes, and——?"

Little Jackie—"And it died."

A Londoner came out through the gate after viewing his first baseball game, when he was stopped by a newsboy. The score-board had recorded that both teams had made a run in the first inning and hadn't scored since.

Newsboy—"Say, Mister, what's the score?"

Londoner—"Really, I don't know, but it was some place up in the millions when I left."

American Journal Congratulates Canada

Under the heading "Congratulations Canada!" the Christian Science Monitor heartily endorses Canada's radio policy. We read:

"Only three minutes of radio advertising an hour! That is the Canadian radiocasters' answer to the movement to have the Government take over broadcasting. Every single station in Canada has just subscribed to a policy of voluntarily limiting advertising talk to 5 per cent. of a program's time. In connection with Sunday programs a sponsor may have only his name, address and the nature of his business mentioned, no sales talks being allowed.

"This is a splendid example of self-discipline on the part of the Canadian stations. Few listeners will object to 5 per cent. of a program being devoted to advertising.

"Congratulations to the Canadian broadcasters on their wise decision and co-operation, and to the Canadian people that they are now broadcasting without the intrusion of excessive commercialism? American broadcasters, please copy."

Words of wisdom are few, but there are many echoes.

Fateful Years in Art of Canada, 1806-1812

Montreal.—The years between 1806 and 1812 were the most fateful in the history of Canadian art for in that period were laid the foundations upon which the five men who were destined to put it on its feet, said W. M. Barnes, A.R.C.A., to members of the St. James Literary Society here recently.

Tracing the progress of Canadian art, Mr. Barnes declared that it received its impetus from those five men—Paul Kane, Canada; Otto Jacob, Prussia; Cornelius Krieghoff, Holland; Dan Fowler, England, and Geo. Berthon, France. While they were of different nationalities, they chose Canada as their home and produced work here which was characteristically Canadian.

"As a painter's land," declared the speaker, "Canada is second to none. It offers variety, from the snow and ice of Labrador, the rugged coasts and surf of Cape Breton, the pastoral scenes of the Annapolis Valley, the forests of New Brunswick, the historic quaintes of old Quebec, Ontario's northern woods, the grandeur of the Rockies to the warmth of the Pacific coast."

At the time of Confederation, he went on, art in Canada was still struggling for existence while England was worrying about the pre-Raphaelites. The Ontario Society of Art was formed about this time and from that time on, Canadian art flourished, and the speaker referred to artists who had achieved distinction from that time, illustrating his remarks with colored slides of paintings.

Britain Says 'Goodbye" To "Slush" Annoyance

London. — Although Great Britain has not, perhaps, had her full share of snow this winter, there have been some big falls in the North and the Midlands. And, as usual, the street sweepers have been faced with the long and arduous task of throwing snow into carts and removing it several miles from the towns to be dumped. Even so, traces of the falls have lingered for weeks afterwards at the sides of the roads.

Much expense and trouble will be saved in future if a new German process is introduced. Mobile tanks now appear in certain German towns after snow has fallen. The snow, when shovelled into these, is rapidly melted by coke fires, and then poured down the nearest drain. By this means a street can be entirely cleared of snow in less than half an hour.

Some tanks are also equipped with an apparatus resembling a painter's blowpipe. Upon the tank being wheeled along a street, the snow is melted in gutters and other crevices before it has a chance to turn into the "slush" that both drivers and pedestrians find so trying.

PAIN after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.
One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will find this crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.
Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicans for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 50c a bottle: any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.
The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for Phillips' name on bottle.

Castoria corrects CHILDREN'S ailments

WHAT a relief and satisfaction it is for mothers to know that there is always Castoria to depend on when babies get fretful and uncomfortable! Whether it's teething, colic or other little upset, Castoria always brings quick comfort; and, with relief from pain, restful sleep.

And when older, fast-growing children get out of sorts and out of condition, you have only to give a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation to right the disturbed condition quickly.

Because Castoria is made expressly for children, it has just the needed mildness of action. Yet you can always depend on it to be effective. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment and cannot possibly do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue, is fretful and out of sorts. Be sure to get the genuine; with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

COUNCILLORS AND PAY

(Orangeville Sun)

In some towns, since the municipal elections last month, we notice that the councillors have voted themselves a salary of $5 per meeting, while in a number of townships the councillors have reduced their own and officials' salaries. In our neighboring town of Brampton, for instance, the municipal representatives tacked on $5 each per meeting and the hydro commissioners quickly followed suit. Our opinion is that when a citizen of a town or village is elected to the council he should serve without pay. The honor should be sufficient remuneration. When a small municipality has to pay its councillors it is high time to change the system. Our present system of municipal government is obsolete and inefficient anyway. It was all right in its day, but while the world progressed, our municipal system of government has not changed. It is a well known fact that in every council of twelve or fifteen members only one or two men know anything about the science of civic government. This is easily understood when you see a shoemaker put in charge of the waterworks department. He may be a first-class shoemaker, but he has never familiarized himself with the business of conducting a waterworks system. A competent druggist is put in charge of an electric system but he knows nothing whatever about it. A lawyer may be able to draw up a steelclad will that dissatisfied and disgrunted heirs could bust, but if he knew anything about building roads, it would be purely accidental on his part. And so on down the line. If councillors really insist on being paid for their services, it would be much better to change the system. Fortunately our representatives have not asked for pay, but if it ever comes to that, it would be better and more economical to appoint a town manager, pay him a good salary, and consolidate all offices, such as clerk, treasurer, assessor, tax collector, etc., under him, with a central office in the public library building where citizens could transact their business in one place. At present, as in village days, these officials are ensconced in law offices, stores and where many debtors fear to tread, a collecting agency. The town manager plan, where it has been tried out, has invariably proved satisfactory.

We believe the Village Council has given up their intention of co-operating with the C.P.R. in the expense of raising their water tank at the Junction. The cost would be too great and besides, by raising the tank forty feet the extra pressure gained would blow the water mains to pieces at the weak points. The system is alright as it is. It has served the purpose well for twenty years and should do another twenty. "Retrenchment," should be the word this year. The Council should endeavour to reduce the tax, not raise it.

We would suggest that the Council change the days for collecting garbage. Monday is not a suitable day as the people have to get their garbage gathered up Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning to have it ready when the wagon calls Monday morning. This means that boxes of rubbish are carted out to the front street and left there on Sunday, which does not enhance the appearance of our front street, when people are going to Church, or when you take your visitors out for a stroll Sunday afternoon.

The Dog By-Law

We are in receipt of a letter this week, not signed. We don't print any letters unless we know who the author is. In this letter, the writer wants to know what is the matter with the dog by-law. We would say there is nothing wrong with the by-law. The trouble is, that the Council don't intend to enforce it in the winter time. They are going to bring out a brand new one shortly and then you will have to watch your pet canine or the dog catcher might get him. We believe the Council is going to try a new scheme to abate the dog nuisance. The Constable will be expected to catch all dogs running loose and impound them. All dogs not claimed in 48 hours are to be shot. But here is where the Humane Society steps in. They say that is cruelty to animals, and such dogs will have to be taken to the city and despatched the humane way in a place provided for that purpose. The Council is not very unanimous on enforcing the dog by-law, Some think all that is necessary is to warn the owners that they must keep their dogs under control. If this system was put into practise in regard to all laws we would have a wide-open town. Some must be checked up to show them that they must obey.

DRUMQUIN

At time of writing, the weather is quite mild, but owing to the storm of a week ago many of the back lines have not been very well opened up as yet as a consequence the mail and bread men can not make their usual trips, having to leave the supplies on the 7th line.

Mrs. Jos. Shain passed away on Tuesday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Frank Dunn.

To Mr. and Mrs. John Pickett, a fine baby boy.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Thos Feathetston, a former resident of our district, who has undergone an operation in Brampton Hospital, is getting along favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Campbell spent Sunday at Will Dawson's.

Mrs. McPherson who has been so seriously ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, for the past two weeks, has taken a change for the better, and it is hoped she may continue to improve until she regains her health again.

Mr. Doughty, who has been digging for a water supply, has succeeded in finding a good spring.

Say, Madam—Have you any good fat hens? Will soon want them for Easter.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Resulting from a conference held recently in my office, the Canada Malting Company Limited, is authorized by certain large malt consumers in Eastern Canada, to offer to pay a minimum price of 55c a bushel for Ontario Barley, on and after September 1st, 1931, delivered at Montreal. The Canada Malting Company is prepared to accept 1,000,000 bushels of barley at this price, providing it is sound and clean and reasonably free from other grains and weighing 48 pounds to the bushel. This is equivalent of the grain grade known as "Three Extra" and in a normal year should be easily obtained by the average farmer in Ontario.

Barley has, for a great many years, been regarded as a cash crop by many farmers in the Counties of Essex, Kent, Middlesex, Elgin and Perth, and in announcing the foregoing minimum price, it is hoped that confidence will be established and that reasonable assurance will be given to the man depending on barley as a cash crop, particularly in those Counties where it has become more deeply entrenched.

A Montreal price of 55c would mean f.o.b. prices approximately as follows: Main Line Chatham and surrounding points, 40c; off lines or side lines or radial lines in same territory, 37c; Central Ontario points, say from London to the Lake Simcoe District, 42c; East of that and on to Montreal, 46c. These would represent the approximate f.o.b. prices paid to shippers and in the case of barley, the farmer would, in the majority of cases, be the shipper. These prices would apply only to carlot shipments. This offer is regarded as being from 20c to 25c per bushel better than present day prices on the Montreal market and should do much to stabilize and stimulate an interest in barley production in those Counties where the crop is well and favourably known and where it is not entirely used as a hog and cattle food.

THOMAS L. KENNEDY,
Minister of Agriculture.

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Christopher Steynes, in order to discourage a Russian countess who is on his trail, proposes that Mary Kate O'Hara play the part of his wife at a dinner given by her boss, Gordon Rountree, a friend of Steynes. In order to give her brother, Martin, an opportunity to go to Germany to study medicine, Mary Kate, agrees. She tells her folks she is going on a business trip for Rountree and then takes a train for Burlingame, where she meets Steynes. They meet the countess and the countess is discouraged. Mary stays at Steynes' house and during the night a burglar breaks in and is shot by Steynes. Police take Mary's name and address, and she is terrified for fear her mother will find out. When she returns home she finds she has fallen in love with Steynes, and this she tells to Cass Keating, to whom she is engaged. Then Steynes rings her up and tells her he must see her. She meets him at lunch. The burglar whom Steynes shot refuses to allow them to drop the case against him. Steynes asks Mary to go and see the burglar. Mary agrees.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"This time next week," Chris observed deliberately, "I shall be six hundred miles out to sea!"

"Think of it," she said, raising her composed glance. But her color flickered a trifle just the same.

"And when do you marry your Casimir Keating?"

"Imagine you remembering his name!"

"Why shouldn't I remember his name? I'm very much interested in him, or rather in his prospects. And of course I'm going to send you a wedding present!"

She was heavy, silent again.

"No, you musn't do that."

"Oh, why not?" He was trying to keep the tone light and casual, but her gravity defeated him.

"Because I don't want you to, Chris." And again she raised her quiet, sapphire-blue look to his own. Chris felt checked.

"Well, I don't want a Russian countess," he said. "But I rather hope I'll find my moorings, too, one of these days."

Mary Kate went on with her ice, without responding.

"We've had a great adventure," Chris said presently, "and, if it ends safely today, as somehow I think it will, it will be something always to remember."

"Won't it?"

"Oh, I forgot this." He drew out a small, neat pocketbook, and extracted from it a folded cheque, opened it, and pushed it toward her across the table. Mary Kate looked down at it.

"Was is so nominated in the bond?" she asked slowly.

"Not quite. But please—?" He was really pleading, he was really stirred. Upon his face was the kindest, the most simple and genuine expression she had even seen there.

With the faintest possible shrug she accepted the stiff oblong bit of paper and put it into her bag. She made no other acknowledgment of it.

"When are you going to be married?" Chris asked.

The abruptness of the question surprised her. A veiled, mysterious look came into her eyes.

"When am I? I don't know," she answered.

"It will be soon, won't it? I mean, May or June?"

"I told Cass—" Mary Kate rested her elbows on the table, and smiled faintly, narrowing her eyes, looking into space. Her chin rested on her linked fingers. "I told Cass on Sunday that it would probably be never," she admitted.

There was an instant quick frown on Chris' watching face.

"What you mean by that?"

"I meant—what I said."

"But why?"

She had gone further now than she had intended to go. But a spirit of daring, a confidence in her own discretion, pushed her on.

"Suppose I had—met somebody—I liked better?" she asked, simply, with an innocent, wide-eyed smile.

"You mean," Chris altered it, after a pause, "you mean suppose you had met someone you thought you liked better?"

Mary Kate considered this.

"What's the difference," she presently demanded, "between liking a person, and thinking you like a person?"

"You could be deceived about it, couldn't you?"

"Well—" She was thinking aloud again, searching for words. "You could find out you had been mistaken, I suppose," she conceded.

"Exactly. And then you would say to yourself. 'I gave up what was real for what was imitation,' wouldn't you?"

"I suppose you would."

Chris lighted another cigarette. The waiter brought a small tray with silver and green crumpled bills on it, and Mary Kate watched the lean, big, nervous, brown hand handling them, pushing some back, straightening others into the neat leather pocketbook.

"Shall we go?" she asked.

"Just a minute. There was something I wanted to talk about."

Chris was in no hurry; the girl stared out at the panorama beneath the window without seeing any of it. She had made a certain shy overture to him, and he had repulsed it. There was no time to think about it, to analyze just how deep the wound might be. The only thing to do was to salve the unbearable moment with movement, change, a new start in the conversation.

"How long have you known the man you are going to marry?"

"Cass? Oh—" She reflected. "Since last fall. Or at least, the family has known him a long time, my Aunt Julia knew his mother. But he and I have been friendly since last fall. And then—at Christmas—it sort of began."

"I've only known him six months," she concluded, after a pause.

"What's his business?"

"Real estate."

"Is he doing well?"

"Oh, very. He's going in, with another man, for himself next year."

"There ought to be a lot of money in that, out here," Chris said.

"There is. But of course there's competition, too."

"Will you live in town, here?"

"Nothing is settled." The girl's tone was not encouraging.

"Will you let me know?"

"Why, yes," she agreed politely, raising her eyes to his face.

"You don't seem enthusiastic, Mary."

"I don't—" she answered, her eyes fixed on his. "I don't know what I've done, or what I haven't done, to make you—take that tone."

"What tone?" Chris asked, with a steady look.

"The tone of—putting me out of things, disposing of me," she answered, with a little hesitation, and a heightened color. "The tone that makes me feel—or makes me know that you feel what a gulf there is between us."

"Did I make you feel that?" Chris asked, mildly, looking down at the cigarette ash he knocked free with the tip of a little finger.

"You know you did."

"I'm sorry," he said simply. There was a silence before he added, "But isn't it there?"

"The gulf?" Mary Kate's eyes were blazing, her cheeks hot. She laughed briefly, without mirth.

"Well, isn't it?"

"I suppose it is."

"I mean, we know it is," Christopher persisted. "If it means anything to you that I'm sorrier about this than anything else that ever happened in my life," he began again, and stopped.

"About what?" she asked, relentlessly.

"About your—perhaps—liking me," he answered, not looking at her. For a moment the girl made no reply.

"Have I been so very open about liking you?" she asked then, averting her own gaze, biting her lip.

"Well, don't you?" Chris countered simply.

"But of course I do!" And she laughed unconvincingly.

"No, I mean really," Chris persisted, unsmiling.

"Surely you want me to like you?"

"You know what I mean," he said reflectively. "I'm sure you know what I mean. If I'm wrong—if this isn't going to leave any scar—if it isn't going to cause you any unhappiness, then I beg your pardon for speaking, and I'm sorry."

Mary Kate was silent, looking at him. Once or twice she swallowed; she made no effort to speak.

"Tell me if I'm wrong, and I'll shut up," Chris said.

Still absolute silence, her ashamed, fascinated eyes on his face.

"How about it?" he asked, eyes narrowed, lips pursed a little, as he watched her.

"You're—not wrong." Mary Kate said, at last, steadily, in a constrained voice.

"Not!" he echoed, in real concern. The girl put her elbows suddenly on the table, and covered her face with her hands. "I'm awfully sorry!" Chris said quickly. There was a pause. Then Mary Kate put down her hands, looked honestly, unsmilingly into his ace.

"It doesn't matter," she said, briefly.

"I thought so—when I telephoned last night. I'm so sorry!" the man repeated. "I hoped it was not so."

Mary Kate smiled and blinked, but her dark lashes were wet. There was a pause.

"Well, what of it?" she asked then, philosophically.

"Only that I wanted to say this," Chris began, after watching her for a silent minute. "That—of course you're not in love with me, you don't really care about me, in the least. And I'd be awfully sorry to have you think you were—to have you think you did."

"Thank you," Mary Kate answered icily.

"Don't be angry about it," he said.

"Angry!" And she laughed lightly, if a little shakily, too.

"How old are you, Mary?" the man, ignoring the little pretence, presently asked thoughtfully.

"Twenty," she answered.

"I'm thirty-three. I'm nearly thirty-four."

A Tree That Kills Bears

The big bear of Dismal Swamp, standing on all fours, as if caught in a trap, was in peculiar position, most peculiar.

The surveyor, Maywood Rabey, working in the North Carolina section of the great gloomy tract, was curious.

With rifle leveled, John Francis Ariza tells us in a collection of bear stories in the Baltimore Sun Magazine, "he investigated and found the bear was dead—impaled on a cypress 'knee.'"

The bear had been dead but a few days, Mr. Ariza tells us as he continues, describing the surveyor's surprise at this unusual circumstance, and what followed:

To his astonishment, upon looking around in the undergrowth he found the skeletons of six more bears, all either impaled on cypress "knees" or near them, their broken bones indicating they had met death by striking the "knees" in some manner. Several of the skeletons were recent, others eight or ten years old.

It was under a giant cypress-tree, twelve feet through at the base. For some time Rabey pondered over it. At length, with his glass, he saw where here was a smooth, well-worn place on the first limb, an immense one, high above ground.

Buzzing about one large hole on the underside of the limb and several smaller ones, were swarms of bees. Then the secret of the grim drama of old Dismal became clear.

The huge limb was hollow, and bees for years had used it as their home, storing honey there, probably by the hundreds of pounds. In their eagerness to get the honey, bears would climb out on the limb and grope for the honey while clinging to the limb, a difficult thing for a bear, even using both paws.

In this precarious attitude on the shiny part of the limb, worn smooth by other bears that had paid hundreds of visits to the place, the honey-hungry animal would thrust one paw into the large hole to get the coveted sweets. Then, rattled by the stings of the infuriated insects buzzing about his eyes and muzzle, an occasional bear had lost his hold and fallen.

When alarmed a bear will often throw himself or leap away into the forest. The skeletons of the bears impaled on the "knees" beneath the cypress-tree told their silent story.

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

Soon both Scottie and I were sound asleep by our campfire, and after he got those bears off his mind he ceased waking me whenever the blaze went down. Then I began to feel uncomfortably warm. Somehow I choked for breath, and knew I was not comfortable even while partially asleep.

Just what the trouble was I could not make out but I knew that there was something wrong. Scottie then whined and pulled at my sleeve just as I choked and coughed and became fully awake.

For several minutes I could not imagine where I was. My eyes smarted My throat was parched and even the inside of my nose was irritated. There was the sharp smell of burning wood, and the valley itself was getting thick with smoke. The trees were burning.

When the gasoline tank of the old plane had exploded burning parts had carried over into the woods and smoldered until they had finally burst into flame. The fire was no doubt small at first, but gradually grew and spread until early morning—and while all that was happening Scottie and I snored peacefully but noisily on.

We were now in a bad fix. To the south the valley narrowed down to a sort of notch between the mountains. To the north it ended in a steep mountain slope. On either side were steep mountain sides that were now lost in the heavy smoke. It became hotter and hotter, and more and more choking and suffocating. "Scottie," says I, "I've heard a lot about dogs' luck; and, Pup, you'd better get ready to use it because we'll both need plenty of luck before we get out of here. Come; let's go."

Hot as it was, I pulled on my leather jacket to protect my back, and my helmet and goggles to save my face and eyes. I snatched up Scottie, and holding him under my coat, started toward the lower end of the valley. The wind fanned the grass fire to furnace heat and through this we had to go to reach the notch and possibly a stream of water.

My shoes were smoking, and my feet frightfully hot as we plunged forward. Abruptly we were in the edge of the woods and the ground was steeper and more uneven. All about us the fire burned fiercely, threatening to swoop down on us with a sudden backdraft. For you know, a forest fire always brings a big wind with it. The hot air goes up, while cold air is sucked along the ground, blowing the flames with it. That's why a fire in the woods travels so horribly fast.

Showers of sparks made me dance around lively—pulling the collar of my coat up tight about my neck, I plodded on. Even small stones and roots caused me to stumble and I fairly gasped for breath. From time to time Scottie would whimper like a frightened child. "Buck up, old chap," I'd say to him. "Just a bit longer. We've got to make it somehow." For a fact, I think he knew. He'd stop and push his head from under my coat and try to lick my hand. You can't tell me a dog doesn't understand.

Then all of a sudden the smoke cleared out of the woods. One could see quite well for a minute. The wind had changed and fanned strongly in the other direction—I raced forward—every second counted—another moment and a seething wall of flame might rush at express train speed across our path.

Then the ground sloped steeply forward. I stubbed my toe in a branch; lunged; caught at thin air—and in an instant we were sliding down a fiercely burning gulch.

Down, down we went. I grasped a tree root—it burned through and came away in my hand. Then we shot out over a ledge into space. We were falling. What was that below?

One For Waiting

It was a bitterly cold day, and a passenger on a journey in the North of Scotland was longing for the train to stop so that he could jump out and get a drink to warm him up.

Presently his patience was rewarded, for soon the train came to a halt at a wayside station.

The passenger immediately got out and ran back to the guards compartment.

"Have I time for a drink before the train moves on?" he asked.

"Oh, ay," returned the guard. "I think maybe there's time."

"But how am I to be sure?" asked the passenger.

The guard stroked his chin thoughtfully.

"Well, sir," he said, "there's only one way of making real sure. I'd better come with ye."

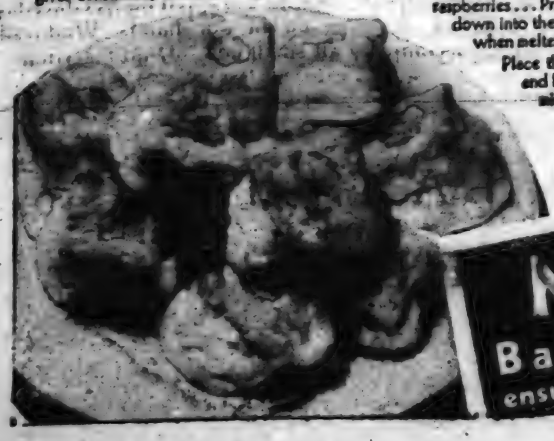
*RASPBERRY BISCUITS

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
½ cup milk
Tea-cubes of sugar
Raspberry juice or syrup



Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Cut the hard, cold shortening into them with a knife, using a quick, short, chopping motion; or reduce the hard cold fat to tiny particles with a pastry blender or a steel-pronged fork. When the mixture resembles a very coarse meal, add the liquid, mixing quickly and lightly.

Turn out the dough on a slightly floured board; pat it down lightly or roll it to a thickness of about one inch. Shape with a small cutter or cut in squares with a floured knife.

Dip the small lumps of sugar into syrup from canned or fresh raspberries . . . Press a lump into each biscuit . . . forcing it well down into the dough so that it will not run down the sides when melted.

Place the biscuits on a greased pan or baking sheet and bake in a very hot oven, 450° F., 12 to 15 minutes.

March 2. Lesson—Xii—The Use and Abuse of God's Gifts—Luke 12; 16-21, 41-48. Golden Text—Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the spirit.—Ephesians 5: 18.

ANALYSIS.

I. A CERTAIN RICH MAN, 12: 16-21.
II. WATCHFULNESS, 12: 41-46.
III. THE COMING OF "THE SON OF MAN," 12: 47, 48.

I. A CERTAIN RICH MAN, 12: 16-21.

V. 16. This story is not so much a parable as an illustration, but an illustration of what? There are two morals which might be drawn from it, and it is not clear which is primarily intended. First, the story illustrates the extreme uncertainty of human life; man who "knows not what a day may bring forth" is always making plans for the future; indeed some men so "live in the future" as we say, that they never enjoy today. Let us make the most and make the best of life while we have it, for we do not know how long it will be ours. But while this might be the chief meaning of the story it is not probably so. Rather, it seems we are given a picture of an entirely selfish and unspiritually minded man. He has put together enough wealth to last his own life-time, and that is all he cares about. For the future he intends to "have a good time." His idea of a good time is a life of eating, drinking and merry-making. His ideal of life, therefore, is that of one long, easy, unadventurous and selfish holiday. He had found no happiness in his work as a piece of human service; his work was a bore, and his life begins where his work ended. It has often been noted, in modern times, that men who make money very quickly and then retire to enjoy themselves, rarely live to a full age. A life that has no real, unselfish interest to feed it is apt to flicker out. Let a man, then, find his true life and happiness in faithfully and hopefully performing each day's task as it comes.

. 19. "Soul" does not mean here the higher and spiritual part of our nature, but rather the "self."

V. 20. The man has had no real love for anybody in his heart. The wealth that he has so laboriously accumulated is useless to him, and so far as he is concerned it all goes for nothing.

II. WATCHFULNESS, 12: 41-46.

The subject of this parable as of that which precedes it is "watchfulness" as a duty. Peter here asks whether the duty devolves upon everybody or only upon the disciples. The answer is that it devolves in a special way upon the disciples, for they are "stewards of the mysteries of God," and it is their task to "feed my sheep." It seems that the Church of later years understood this parable to apply to ministers and church officials. As the expectation of the immediate second coming of Christ began to fade away, and he seemed to "delay" (v. 45), there was a tendency for the church leaders both to grow lazy and self-indulgent, and also to "lord it over" their congregations. The parable is used as a warning to them.

"Temperance is not confined to the use or non-use of ardent spirits. It operates in every sphere of life. The lavishing upon self of the gifts of God is intemperance of the highest order. Therefore let us not be drunk with goods, wherein is excess, but strive to be filled with the Spirit."

III. THE COMING OF "THE SON OF MAN," 12: 47, 48.

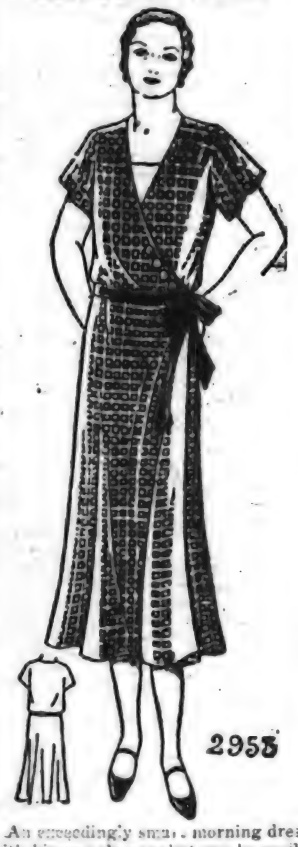
When we speak of the duty of watchfulness, we are generally thinking of watchfulness against temptation; that is not at all the meaning here. Here is a watchfulness for "the coming of the Son of Man." What are we to understand by this? The Early Church believed that Jesus would very shortly return to inaugurate the kingdom of God in power and glory, but Jesus did not come again, at least not in the way expected. The Church as a whole today no longer expects the speedy second advent of Christ, and this teaching, therefore, presents grave perplexity to many Christian hearts. It is an essential part of the Christian hope that the kingdom of God will surely come. The day and the hour are known to God alone; but it is far from clear whether the old expectation of a physical return of Jesus to this earth on the clouds of heaven is what Jesus really meant. It is clearly suggested in the Gospel of John that the coming of the Spirit is the second coming of Christ (John 14: 18), and this may be nearer to the mind of Christ. Again, every great crisis in our own lives or in the life of the world is, or may be, a coming of the Son of man to us, if we will let him come to us in our extremity. The Church plods on its weary way with doubts and deficits and inertia. "Dare great things for God," said William Carey, "and expect great things from God." The Son of man is always coming to us, if we are watchful. If this does not exhaust the meaning of the passage, it is at least a truth we can clearly grasp.

PAVLOVA DEAD

(January 31, 1885—January 23, 1931)
(From Poetry)

Pavlova, will you dance no more?
Will the tulip shut up in the earth?
Will the swan forever fold white wings?
Will the flute go silent
And the ray full of rainbows flicker and fail?

Pavlova, your foot is lighter than the perfumes of lillies,
Brighter than the sparkle of waves,
More musical than the thrush at twilight.
Somewhere—oh, softly—



Pavlova, will you dance no more?

—Harriet Monroe.

The Control of the Apple Scab

Experience has shown that good commercial control of the apple scab can be obtained by proper and timely use of any standard fungicide, whether in solution or dust. Formulas for lime-sulphur, bordeaux mixture, copper dust, and sulphur dust, four of the most popular sprays and dusts used for apple scab control, are given in a new pamphlet on the Apple Scab, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. In order to be effective all control measures must be taken before the injury or disease commences to show on the plant. The growing leaves and fruit must be protected as soon as possible after they are formed. The first application should be made when the leaf buds are in the "green-tip" or "mouse-ear" stage of development. The second spraying or dusting is applied when the flower buds are showing pink and are separating from the clusters, and the third is given when the petals have mostly fallen. From ten to fourteen days then it is necessary to protect the developing fruit during periods of prolonged wet weather. Dusts may be applied on wet foliage but sprays should be applied only on dry foliage. If it is considered necessary to spray during full bloom no poison should be used. A special application of fungicide about a month or six weeks before harvest is advisable. The pamphlet may be obtained from the Publication Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.—Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dom. Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Easter Animals

The date of Easter depends upon the moon. It falls upon the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon that happens to be reigning at the time of the spring equinox.

This is the reason why the hare is always associated with Easter. For many centuries the hare has been regarded as the symbol of the moon. The hare feeds by moonlight, and its young, unlike those of most other warm-blooded animals, are born with their eyes open. Indeed, the old fable is that the hare never closes its eyes. In the Egyptian language the word for hare meant also a period of twenty-eight days, or that of a lunar month.

Other creatures are associated with the geat festival of spring—the ass because it was upon an ass that Christ rode into Jerusalem; and the fish called the dory, for this is the creature from whose mouth the silver piece was taken, and upon either side of whose head are said to be the marks of the sacred finger and thumb.

An Aberdeen lady was suggesting to her husband that it was time she possessed a motor-car. "Na, na," he replied, "ye'll jist be content wi' the splendid carriage nature has given ye."

Belgium's Gift to Britain

Rupert Brooke's dream of a little corner of some foreign field that should "be for ever England" has received a striking fulfilment. Over in Belgium, in the Ypres district, where so many of our dead lie buried, about six hundred British people are engaged in caring for the cemeteries. There is, in fact, a little British settlement at Ypres, a community which is in some ways unique. It has been granted legal status under the school law. It has its own church and parsonage, a school in which about one hundred children are being educated as British citizens, and a rest room for pilgrims. When he introduced the bill to regularize an entirely British Community in a foreign country, the Belgian Minister of Justice said that his government had framed it "in remembrance of what we owe to the British nation and in homage to the spirit that inspired the creation of these establishments in the Ypres district." Needless to say the British people everywhere are pleased with this evidence of continued friendship and good will between the two countries.—"The New Outlook" (Toronto).

Owner of "Soundproof" Farm Cleared of Murder

Sydney, Australia.—Because his little farm was in the "sound shadow," or depression to which outside noises did not penetrate, a farmer was acquitted here of the murder of his father.

When his wealthy seventy-nine-year-old father was found battered to death within 200 yards of the farm, Cecil Charles, fifty-two, was arrested.

A material factor against the accused was his steadfast denial that he heard his father's cries for help although farmesr on the other side of the ridge heard them distinctly.

Then, by accident, it was discovered that the farm was in a "sound shadow." Men shouted, gelignite was exploded and bombs burst at the spot where the old man had been killed. The sounds could be heard all over the surrounding districts but not on the farm.

March Miracle

Yesterday the twig was brown and bare;
To-day the glint of green is there
To-morrow will be leaflets spare;
I know no thing so wondrous fair,
No miracle so strangely rare.
I wonder what will next be there!

—L. H. Bailey.

The weekly crop reports of the county representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture would indicate that the majority of the farmers have sufficient supplies of feeds to bring their livestock through the winter in good condition. A greater number of cattle will be carried over for summer marketing.

A Prayer

(The following is to be found in Chester Cathedral).

Give me a good digestion, Lord,
And also something to digest;
Give me a healthy body, Lord,
And sense to keep it at its best.
Give me a healthy mind, good Lord.
To keep the pure and good in sight,
Which seeing sin, is not appalled,
But finds the way to set it right.
Give me a mind that is not bored,
That does not whimper, whine or sigh;
Don't let me worry overmuch,
About that fussy thing called "I."
Give me a sense of humor, Lord,
Give me the grace to see a joke,
To get some happiness in life
And pass it on to other folk.

Windows

Very often do we not find that houses express the personalities of the people living within its walls? This question can best be answered by asking another. Did you ever notice the different look a house puts on when another owner or tenant dwells within? Perhaps you have had occasion to go back to your old home after a long absence. The house is occupied by strangers and as you look over the old familiar rooms somehow they are familiar no longer. It seems so different one might almost think the plan of the house had been changed.

Sometimes, even though it were our own loved home, we must admit the change is for the better. The furniture may be more suited to the different rooms, some of which are newly painted and papered. A window may be draped in a manner unthought of by you and be much more artistic, so that thinking magnanimously, we are glad the old place has blossomed out. Then again it may be everything has deteriorated. The walls are smoked up, the once carefully kept floors are scratched and dull and the rooms cold and uninviting.

So each house reflects unconsciously the personalities within. The windows smile their welcome or look dingy and forbidding and it doesn't matter if the home is large and commodious or small and commonplace, those windows with curtains plain or gay and silky, sparkle and shine, telling of the cheery housewifely care within or are dull and uninteresting. The windows are the eyes of the home.

And the personalities within that home mirror from the human eye the window of the soul. The cheerful look expresses the bright personality within and gives glimpses of thought and purpose. Character is revealed and all unconsciously we tell what we are.

These Are Good — Seafoam Candy

3 cups brown sugar, ½ cup boiling water, 1 tblsp vinegar in water. Let boil till it hairs from the spoon in a long hair. Beat the whites of 2 eggs, then beat syrup into whites of eggs. Add ½ cup nut meats if desired. (This can be made with white sugar as well when a little vanilla improves the taste).

Butterscotch Pie

Put 1 cup of milk in double boiler to scald. Combine 2 level tblsps. cornstarch and ¼ teasp. salt with ½ cup cold milk. Then add to hot milk, stirring until smooth and thick. Cook 2 tblsps. butter and 1 cup brown sugar until sugar is well mixed and bubbly but do not cook to caramel. Stir sugar into cornstarch mixture. Then add 2 yolks of eggs beaten light first diluted with a little of the hot mixture. Turn the filling into a baked pie crust and cover with a meringue of the white of the two eggs and ¼ cup white sugar. Let bake slowly 10 minutes. Serve when partly or wholly cold.

Twilight Hour Story — About Wee Chickies and Other Little Friends

Chapter 14

Do you remember about the lovely black and gold butterfly Mamma Lady found nearly frozen on the porch two mornings ago? Well, all day long it stayed on the window very quiet in its little corner. It didn't seem to be dead, but it wasn't very much alive either. So she just let it sit there because it looked so pretty. But when she came down this morning to get breakfast it was on the curtain with its wings tightly folded together. Good old Mr. Sun had kept on shining on its cold stiff little feet and dainty wings to make it well as fast as he could. But today, when Mamma Lady touched it and said "Good morning" it really answered her and said "Good morning" by spreading its delicate wings out an back, out and back, out and back, slowly and gracefully. All at once it fluttered its wings and flew onto a plant in the window, then before Mamma Lady knew what it was doing it flew over onto her shoulder and stayed there while she got breakfast. I wonder if it was asking for some breakfast. It had to ask in a different way because it couldn't talk. It couldn't say "meow," like the kitty cats, or "peep, peep," like the chicks or "Bow-wow" like Rover, or "I'd like some breakfast, Mamma, please," like little girls and boys can.

However, Mamma Lady was sure it was asking for some breakfast. She looked at it very closely, but she could not see that it had a mouth. It had two big eyes alright, but she wondered how it could eat, what to feed it, for two long days since she found it was a long time, and it didn't have the yellow of the egg in its tummy, like the wee chicks had at first, either.

Then Mamma Lady thought she often used to see these dear little butterflies in the summer on lovely flowers that have honey away inside the blossom, but she never noticed how they got the honey out. Do you think, perhaps, if it liked honey it would like sugar? Well, Mamma Lady got a pinch of sugar and put a drop of water on it in a saucer on the window, then gently she lifted the butterfly off her shoulder, when it had its wings closed, and then she watched to see what it would do. I know you can never guess how it ate the sugared water. But it did drink it and it drank for a long time too, for it was pretty thirsty. This is what it did: Right in between the eyes it had a little curled up whistle, the kind that when you blow in the end the curl flies out straight, only this little curl was so very small, not any bigger around than a fine thread. Mamma Lady often noticed that curl on the butterflies, but she didn't know what it was for. Now as soon as it saw the water and sugar that little curl unfolded long and straight. It felt around for awhile with the point and then it dipped it right into the middle of the sugar and water and kept it there for a long time. Do you know what it was doing? It was sucking it up just like you do when you have an ice-cream soda and you drink up that good creamy juice through the straw. After it was through eating it grew pretty lively and started whirring its wings. Do you know what that is like? It means it stands still but makes its wings go so fast you can hardly see them. I wonder what it did that for. Just because it felt good, I suppose.

March

By Mary Carolyn Davies

March is the month for such wonderful things!
The winds are white eagles; we feel their great wings.
March is the month when the whole earth is making,
Sleepily, drowsily, ready for waking.
April is coming, and May, and oh, soon
It will be June, June, June!

The courts have ruled that a college can compel its students to get vaccinated. We wish the same ruling could be extended to getting them educated.—"San Diego Union."

Commercial fruit production in Canada in 1930 had a value of $19,224,970. Apples accounted for $10,863,940 of that total.

For the year ended May 31, 1930, a total of $2,037,678 was spent in Canada for cut blooms showing that Canadians still have a strong penchant for saying it with flowers.

As a barometer of business conditions in Nova Scotia it may be stated that in 1930 there were 129 new companies incorporated as compared with 118 for the previous year.

A consignment of 120,000 pounds of dried hake from Digby has been shipped by way of Yarmouth to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Nova Scotian exporters believe this may be the beginning of a steady trade in this line.

Over fifty per cent. of the raw leaf tobacco used in the Canadian tobacco industry is now produced in Canada. Less than two per cent. of the tobacco consumed in the Dominion is imported in manufactured form.

At end of February 7,621,980 bushels of wheat had entered Saint John over Canadian Pacific lines as compared with a movement of 3,659,677 bushels during the similar period of 1930.

Two Chinese babies hold the distinction of being the first infants born aboard Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan. The births occurred on a recent voyage and were reported on arrival of the ship at Vancouver.

Public rooms on the Empress of Britain which will arrive at Quebec on its maiden voyage June 2, all bear distinctive names. The dining saloon will be known as "Salle Jacques Cartier," the ball room as the "Empress Room", and the lounge as "Mayfair."

Total estimated revenues of the province of New Brunswick for 1931 is set at $6,302,821 according to the financial estimates presented in the provincial legislature recently by the provincial secretary-treasurer in his sixth budget speech.

When H. R. H. the Prince of Wales opens the British Trade Fair at Buenos Aires, March 14, his address will be broadcast throughout Canada by the combined efforts of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Marconi companies. The broadcast will start about one p.m. Eastern Standard Time and will last between 20 and 30 minutes.

Inauguration of air service between Saint John and Halifax occurred recently when a Fairchild plane of the Canadian Airways left the New Brunswick city with passengers and express for the Nova Scotia metropolis. The trip of 125 miles was made in an hour and a half.

"In most parts of western Canada if you ask a business man as to general conditions in his locality, the answer you receive in a surprising number of instances is that they are better than people in the east seem to think and that signs of improvement are by no means wanting," was the summary of impressions of his just concluded western tour by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

ELIMINATION OF BODY WASTE

There are two sources of body waste, one of which consists of the undigested portions of the food we use, and the other, of the substances given off by the body cells as a result of their activities.

Whenever work is done, there is some waste, as, for example, when coal is used to produce heat or power, ashes are left over.

Food which is taken into the body goes through the process of digestion. From our food we secure the energy we secure the enerегy in order to keep warm and to do our work Our food also supplies us with the materials our bodies require for growth and for keeping the body cells in repair.

In our food, as we use it, there are parts which cannot be digested and made use of by the body. They may remain as undigested waste materials and, as such, pass along the intestinal tract and are eliminated, at intervals, by the body.

This waste material does not serve as food, but it is needed to stimulate the intestinal tract to move its contents through the tract. It would not do to use highly-concentrated foods with little or no waste. We require to use foods such as green vegetables which leave such waste.

As the body does its work, the cells give off their waste products. One of these waste products is the carbon dioxide given off by the lungs. The blood carries the carbon dioxide gas to the lungs, where oxygen is taken up by the blood in its place. The blood stream then carries the oxygen to the body cells.

The other waste products of cell work and life are also carried away from the cells by the blood stream. The kidneys remove most of such waste materials from the blood.

Eliminations of body waste is a regular, normal function of the body. If, however, too heavy a burden is thrown on the organs which take care of such eliminations, they are apt to break down, or, at least, to wear out sooner than they should.

The need for reasonable care in the selection of food has often been pointed out. The use of proper foods in proper amounts aids in elimination and, at the same time, does not overburden the organs concerned. The use of sufficient water—a glass or two before breakfast and between each meal—is another way of helping elimination and preserving the health of the body. Above all else, regularity in habit will assure proper elimination from the intestinal tract.

Our Short Story

Some time ago, Nunally Johnson, a New York Reporter, wrote an article in the Saturday Evening Post, the best of the American periodicals, on how to meet a reporter. Let me paraphrase it for local application.

If you have to meet a reporter, and you most probably will, at some point in your career, please note as follows: A reporter is just another human like yourself, just as likely to err; in fact, likelier, and just as amenable to reason. If he comes to your door, do not keep him standing on the step, but ask him in, and let him sit down, after seeing that he has wiped his feet. Let him do the talking, for he wants to know certain facts which he has already lined up in his mind. Do not tell him about your operation, or your golf score, or your radio, unless he asks you about them, which he won't. Tell him all he wants to know, but make your answers as concise as possible, for he is most likely on his way to his dinner, or a wedding, or a funeral. If you do these things, he will think well of you, and will spell your name correctly, and give you more space than you deserve.

On the other hand, if you do not wish to appear in print, explain this to him in words of one sylable, in a kind, friendly, but firm tone. If necessary tell him why, for good and sufficient reason, you want to be left alone, and he will still think well of you. He will go to some one else, and find out all about you anyway. But don't try to scare him off, don't sic the dog on him, and above all, don't take up a lot of his time, or he will do his level best to make things hot for you, and take it from me, a reporter has plenty of resources in that line.

A few people, and they are gradually growing fewer, think, when approached by a reporter, that it is going to cost them money, and are timorous about dealing with the journalist for that reason. If any reporter suggests emolument when talking to you, throw him out. He is a fraud. Most of the poor devils are short of news, but all, at least all that I ever met were reasonably honest.

Never, oh, never, rouse a reporter from his bed at the ungodly hour of, say, six or seven in the morning, to deliver a personal, or to tell him that your sewing circle held a meeting last night, but that you do not know any of the details. He may get homicidal. On the other hand, at any time of the day or night, call your pet reporter about a murder, a train wreck, a fire, or similar entertainment, and he will bless you as long as you live, and mourn when you die. This comes under the head of what is news.

And further, consider, that, although you may be sore as the proverbial boil when he has rubbed you the wrong way, and have called him up and called him down, you have never, when he said that you were a pillar of the community, a shining light, and a real good sort, as much as thanked him for it. Even a reporter likes to be appreciated, which I never am.

Yours truly,
YE SCRIBE.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

The Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Leslie on Monday evening. Several musical selections were provided by the young and others present.

Following the concert many amusing games and guessing contests, added to the enjoyment of the evening. After a choice lunch, the president of the Society, moved a vote of thanks to the host and hostess, which was carried unanimously by a hearty clap of hands. The social evening was closed by-singing some of the old songs.

According to a tradition of the Sea, when one crosses the Equator for the first time Neptune (The God of the sea) comes on board and initiates the newcomer, first by dipping him in a tank of water, then placing some kind of concoction on the face and shaving it off with a dull instrument. Word has reached the village that Mr. William Couse, on crossing the Equator going to Buenos Aires, was initiated into the Society known as the Mystic Knights of the Sea.

BOUQUETS

If you have any gifts to make,
Let this helpful word be said:
Give your bouquets to the living,
Keep your brickbats for the dead.

What's the use of wounding others
With base brickbats sent in showers?
Why wait until a man is dead
To cover him with flowers?

Give your bouquets to the living,
Say a loving word to-day,
Cheer a lonely heart with kindness,
Help a pilgrim on the way.

You will have a sense of pleasure,
When a hungry soul you've fed;
Your bouquets will cheer the living,
Brickbats cannot hurt the dead.

Page—Curtiss

The wedding took place at the home of her mother, Mrs. S. Thompson, Cooksville, of Miss Mary Wanda Curtiss, daughter of the late John Henry Curtiss and Mrs. S. Thompson, to William James Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Page, also of Cooksville. Rev. H. V. Thompson of Erindale performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Elsie Thomas and Charles Curtiss, the brother of the bride. Miss Eileen Curtiss played the wedding music, and Mr. Thompson, her step-father, gave the bride away. A wedding supper was served in the home of the bride, following which bride and groom left for a honeymoon in Niagara Falls and the adjacent States. On their return they will live in Cookville.

Mitchell—Pellett

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Friend Pellett, at Burnhamthorpe, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday when their youngest daughter, Sadie, became the bride of Albert Mitchell, son of Mrs. Mitchell and the late George Mitchell, of Islington. Rev. W. N. Chantler, of Burnhamthorpe United Church, officiated. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. Miss Lily Scott played the wedding music. Following the reception, the happy couple left on a trip to Ottawa. On their return they will reside in Cooksville.

Calling the lecturer back after he had dealt with a cage of kangaroos, he asked:

"What was it you said about those ones there?" pointing to the cage.

"Oh, those are kangaroos; they are natives of Australia."

"Natives of Australia! The Lord save us! An' me sister Norah married wan!"

ANCIENT HISTORY

Streetsville was the first settled village in Peel, and in 1821 the first store was opened there. The River Credit furnished water power, and in a few years there were 10 or 12 different mills and factories in this enterprising village.

One thing worthy of note is the fact that the first sheet of paper ever manufactured in Canada was made at "Crooks" Hollow, later known as "Streetsville," by a man named James Crooks, who received the sum of $500.00 from the Dominion Government in recognition of the first sheet of paper manufactured in Canada.

The first wheat ever shipped from Ontario to Montreal was shipped by W. H. Patterson, of Streetsville.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The last meeting of the North Trafalgar Community Club was held at the home of Mrs. John Bonham. The meeting opened with our song and roll call. There was a good attendance in spite of bad roads. After the business part of the afternoon, we sang our closing song. A guessing contest was then put on by Mrs. Harold Beattie which was won by Mrs. Anderson May. A contest was also put on by Mrs. John Bonham. The hostess then served a hot lunch. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Leslie, on Wednesday, April 1st.

The Community Club held a Social at the home of Mrs. Jack Miller, on March 18th. There were nine tables of "five hundred" played. First prize for ladies being won by Miss Louise Bonham; first prize for men, T. A. Leslie; Consolation for ladies, Mrs. H. Beattie; for men, Mr. Will Leslie. There were also five tables of crokinole. First prize for ladies, Mrs. Harry Lee, first for men, Gerald Fullerton; consolation for ladies, Joe Amos; for men Gordon Steen. After lunch, dancing was enjoyed by everyone until the wee hours of the morning. The music was supplied by Mrs. Bert Mason and her brother, also Will Leslie.

"The Dust of the Earth," a 4-act comedy-Drama, will be given by members of St. John's Church, Dixie, in Oddfellows' Hall, Streetsville, Wednesday, April 8, at 8 p.m., under auspices of Streetsville Oddfellows Lodge. Admission 25c and 15c.

UNITED FARMERS ENJOY BANQUET

In the Oddfellows Hall, Streetsville, Friday, March 20th, the Erindale U. F.O. Club held their sixth annual banquet. It was a swell affair. About 200 members and their friends sat down to a sumptuous repast. The tables were spread with all the good things of the season, cooked meats, salads, jellies, bread, rolls, cakes, celery, etc., to which all did ample justice. The decorations were yellow daffodils and gave a pleasing touch to the affair.

At the head table were Mr. J. Kenneth McIlwrick, president of the Club, who ably filled the position of chairman, and his wife; other officers of the Club and their ladies; Mr. J. J. Morrison, head of the U.F.O. and members of the Head Office staff of the United Farmers' Co-operative of Toronto, with their ladies; Rev. R. J. W. and Mrs. Perry, Mrs. W. H. Wilmott, and others.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. J. J. Morrison, who outlined the U.F. O. movement, which was organized 17 years ago, and is the second oldest farmers' organization in Canada today. The Government is asking the farmer to produce more cheaply, but, he said, it cannot be done. They also ask the farmer to produce more, but they would not know what to do with the produce if they did. The Ontario farmer produces more than any other farmer in the world. He said, we are only asking fair play, and some day the U.F.O. will rise up again and declare its rights.

He congratulated the Erindale Club for their progressiveness and stated that this Club was carrying on better than clubs in some other places.

The large audience was brightly entertained by local talent as well as by others from a distance, and included the following: Miss Ruth Ross, readings; Misses Connie and Bessie Adamson, duets, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Adamson; the Martin-Ramsay Orchestra, who were generous with their musical selections, and played for the dancing also.

The entertainer of the evening was Jack Thynne, the Kansas Farmer, who delighted the audience with his numerous comedies and musical selections on the violin. Jack is a cracker-jack at his profession, doing all kinds of stunts; he can sing, crack jokes, imitate different kinds of dances and the actions of different classes of people to perfection; and the proof of his success was in the loud and continuous applause. Jack comes from Brussels, Ont., and is often heard by radio audiences.

An effort was made to have Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., present, but she could not come, so Mrs. W. H. Wilmott, of Markham, President of the U.F.W.O., took her place, and gave a lengthy address. She divided her address into three parts, viz., Intelligence, Industry and Integrity.

She said that a nation rises no higher than its women. Some think man is superior to woman, but she doesn't. No one has worked harder than the farm woman. There is a great lack of understanding in the world to-day. The whole world is on common ground for the fact that we have no money. Agriculture is not organized on a business basis and the rural people have a real problem to face. We are paying too much for our privileges. The farmers should be proud of the pioneers of the U.F.O.—for what they did for us. Conditions to-day are not what they should be, and that is because people are not thinking. We must have intelligent thinking to have intelligent action. She said, we should have an investigation into public matters—Dominion, Provincial and Municipal—and we would then get our eyes opened. One thing the United Farm Women have done is to promote peace. She terminated her remarks with a verse "When clubs are trump, look out for War."

The chairman announced that the Club had the largest membership for 1931 in its eleven years' history.

Mr. Omar Turney, Secretary of the Club, made a few complimentary remarks and the program was brought to a close by a hearty vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the evening such a big success. Then singing the National Anthem.

The tables were removed and the young people enjoyed dancing until a late hour. The floor manager was Mr. Will Simmons.

S.H.S. NOTES

This Friday afternoon a meeting of the Literary Society will be held. It will be a special event for the pupils since it is our last meeting this year. The annual Easter Journals will be distributed among the pupils. The students have shown their various talents in this paper since many of them have contributed to it. Anyone not attending school who would like a copy of this interesting paper, may have same by telling our editor-in-chief. Harry Johnson, or any of the High School students. Five cents will be charged for the papers. This paper will be of much or probably more interest than many weekly papers for which we pay ten cents. All interested are invited to this meeting. The winners of the Oratorical contest will receive medals.

March Meeting Peel County Council

The plea of residents of this district, attending two different sessions of county council last year, with a request for a paved road from Streetsville to Dundas street, was answered at Tuesday's session of the county council, when it was agreed by a vote of 11 to 5, that the road should be constructed.

At the same time, it was agreed that Brampton sideroad, for a distance of two miles west, should also receive a paved surface, and in connection with the same motion, the completion of work undertaken last year, but not finished was passed.

There will be 3 ¼ miles of the Streetsville road surfaced, with a pavement in keeping with the requirements of the Highways Department for such roads. On account of the heavy traffic, it will be a little heavier than the ordinary county paved road, though the portion situated between the railway tracks at the north end is to be done with a lighter pave, as the comittee felt that sooner or later, a subway will be required there on account of growing traffic.

In connection with the report that was brought in by county engineer N. L. Powell, mention was made of the costly upkeep of this road, and Mr. Powell pointed out that the upkeep would pay the cost of the debentures for the better type road.

The upkeep was mentioned in connection with the Brampton sideroad also, this road to have a higher type of pavement, costing about $12,000 per mile. That section of the road which was improved last year, Brown's Gully, for instance, will not be surfaced this year, on account of the fill having to settle, but there is a certain amount of grading to be done on other sections of the road. Total cost of the two paved roads will be in the neighborhood of $85,000.

Work will have to be done on the Mississauga Road, on Huttonville bridge, Bell's Mill bridge and on Bolton hill, this year to the extent of $24,000. Before the program in connection with this construction is completed. It was decided to issue debentures of $54,000 half of the cost of the two paved roads, and the completion of the 1930 program, the Government grant to furnish the balance of the money.

The vote in favor of the Streetsville road was not given without considerable discussion. Deputy-Reeve W. J. McKinley, speaking for Caledon, did not believe in spending that amount of money at the present time. He believed the year to be one for retrenchment and economy. Warden John Willis, Caledon, pointed out that such work does not help the local unemployment situation, as the work is done by labor imported into the districts by the construction companies. Deputy-Reeve R. M. Parkinson, Port Credit, reminded council that everywhere is heard the admonition to keep money in circulation, and to provide as much work as possible.

Albion was opposed to the paving of the two roads on grounds that it has not been customary to issue debentures in two successive years in county council. Debentures were issued last year, and according to custom, none should be issued this year.

When the vote was taken, Port Credit, Streetsville, Brampton, Toronto Township and Chinguacousy were in favor of the recommendation, and Caledon, Albion and the Gore voted against it. Reeve Robert Smith refused to record a vote, asking ironically, "What is the use?"

Mr. Smith asked that some compensation be made Bolton village for the manner in which the street into which the new cut opened has been left. He stated that the sidewalks had been buried from 8 to 10 feet under the fill, that one house had lost its outlet into the street, the level of the new street being on a level with the upper windows of this house. The village council is beseiged by the residents who have suffered in this way, for redress, and this, Mr. Smith believes should come from the county council.

He went on to say that the work on the hill had been undertaken under the wrong statute, that there is no agreement between former reeve, P. W. McMurter and the county council, to be found, and that the entire operation of cutting the hill into the village was illegal. There will be suits for damages, Mr. Smith reminded the good roads committee, and these will not be placed against the village council.

However, a recommendation was brought in and passed, that council take no action in the matter.

Reeve Emerson Westlake gave notice of a by-law to be brought in at the June session, appointing a board of assessment commissioners. Mr. Westlake was not at all pleased with the treatment accorded his report, presented by him as chairman of the equalization committee, and believes that a study of the assessment of the different municipalities should be made to discover some ratio to govern the equalization that will be equally fair to all municipalities.

A by-law to raise $145,000 for general purposes was passed. The estimated expenditure on roads for 1931 is $59,812.30.

During the session, an effort was made to keep down expenditures by cutting grants, those to agricultural pursuits and connected with agricultural matters were allowed to remain the same as last year. School fairs will receive $300; Junior Farmers, $100; agricultural fairs, Brampton, $400; Caledon, Bolton, Caledon East, Streetsville, $150 each; Toronto Gore, $100; Peel Musical Festival, $50. Other grants made were: Peel Memorial Hospital, $1,000; Peel and Dufferin Regiment, $400.

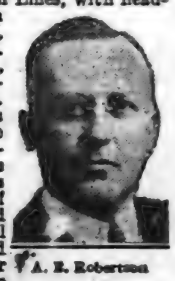
Two reports were brought in on the equalization on Saturday last, by Emerson Westlake, reeve of Albion, chairma nof the committee, with the following figures: Albion, $1,770,500; Caledon, $2,242,300; Chinguacousy, $4,758,000; Toronto Tp., $5,638,000; Toronto Gore, $1,086,300; Brampton, $3,310,000; Streetsville, $238,000; Port Credit, $775,000; Bolton, $226,000.

J. H. Pinchin, reeve of Toronto Township, brought in a minority report, as follows, which was adopted: Albion, $1,793,000, same as last year; Caledon, $2,250,600, same; Chinguacousy $4,767,800, $1,500 increase over 1930; Toronto Township $5,625,157, $27,850 increase; Toronto Gore, $1,088,000, same; Brampton, $3,285,000, $53,000 increase; Streetsville, $238,600, $2,900 increase; Port Credit, $770,000, $20,000 increase; Bolton, $226,000, $2,300 increase. The total spread over last year's equalization is $106,400, and Toronto Township took $150 extra in order to make work easier for the clerk.

Objection was taken by Albion to the amount at which the township was equalized. Reeve Westlake producing figures to show that there has been a decrease of $19,708 in the 1931 assessment since 1930. He gave figures concerning the other municipalities, as follows: Caledon, $8,653 lower; Chinguacousy, $3,615 lower; Toronto Township, $33,952 higher; Toronto Gore, $1,290 lower; Brampton, $82,963 higher; Streetsville, $2,458 higher; Port Credit, $18,626 higher; Bolton $1,792 higher.

Reeve Pinchin declared that those townships which came and reported an increase in their assessment were penalized by having their equalization raised, but Reeve Robert Smith, Bolton, pointed out that such municipalities will gain more taxes through this local increase, and that they will therefore be in better position to stand a higher equalization.

Reeve W. J. Beatty, Brampton, objected strongly to taking almost half of the total spread and expressed a willingness to take $33,000 or about one-third of it. But Brampton's equalization was voted through, as it came in in the minority report.



An effort was made by Albion's representatives to have the ratio of equalization bear some relation to population, pointing out that Albion's population is only half what it was 30 years ago, while that of Toronto Township has increased very greatly in the same time.

PROMOTED

Two appointments of considerable interest to Canadian hotel men and to the travelling public in general, have just been announced by H. F. Mathews, general manager of hotels, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway. A. H. Devenish, well known as manager of the Banff Springs Hotel, becomes assistant general manager of hotels, Western Lines, with headquarters in Winnipeg, while A. E. Robertson, formerly assistant to Mr. Mathews, is promoted to the managership of the Banff Springs Hotel. Both of the promoted men are well known and popular throughout the West and are recognized authorities in the hotel business.

Crack British Train Wrecked Six Are Killed, Many Injured

Famous Scot Express is Derailed at Leighton Buzzard, England—Sir George Saltmarsh, Noted Grain Expert, Listed Among the Dead

Leighton Buzzard, Eng. — Three passengers and three of the crew were killed Sunday when the Royal Scot Express of the London, Midland and Scottish line, one of the fastest and finest trains in the world, left the rails near here and piled up along the track.

One of the dead was Sir George Saltmarsh, grain expert, who was vice-chairman of the Allied Wheat Purchasing Commission in 1915 and 1916.

The engineer, the fireman and a dining-car steward were among the killed, and nine other passengers were seriously injured.

The cause of the accident has not been determined.

The survivors were astonished that many more persons had not been killed and injured as the train, which was going from London to Glasgow, was fully loaded with passengers.

Relief Trains Sent

Several hospital trains with doctors and nurses were rushed here as rescuers worked frantically to remove the dead and injured from the debris.

Moans and shrieks came from the wreckage, where an undetermined number of persons were still trapped.

The engine, after leaving the rails, heeled over on its side. The first two coaches were telescoped into the third and fourth, and after swinging around, crashed into another coach before all of them turned over. The accident occurred at 12.15 p.m.

Railway men, firemen and others tore into the wreckage with hatches, axes and crowbars in an effort to release those imprisoned. There was no great panic and there was no fire.

Passengers who were unhurt joined in the relief work. Among the bodies recovered were those of the engineer and fireman, the dining car cook and three passengers, two of whom were unidentified. Railway officials placed the number of seriously injured at nine.

Desperate efforts were made to save the engineer, who was lying in his cabin with escaping steam swirling around him. He had been scalded to death when his body was removed.

Among those imprisoned were a Scottish woman, Mrs. Margaret Lang, and her 18-year-old daughter Dorothy, who were buried beneath the debris for three hours.

When finally extricated the mother was found not seriously hurt, but Miss Lang's injuries may necessitate the amputation of a leg.

The "Royal Scot" is one of the fastest trains in the world and about a month ago averaged 90 miles per hour for a 299-mile run from London to Carlisle, including time for slowing down and stopping at Carlisle. In 1928 it ran regularly 400 miles from London to Glasgow without stopping.

Famous Grain Authority

Sir George Saltmarsh, who died in the train wreck, was one of England's greatest authorities on the growing and marketing of wheat.

He was a member of the London Corn Trade Association, 1908-1909, a member of the Indian Wheat Committee in 1915; director of grain storage to the Board of Agriculture, 1915-1916, a member of the Grain Supplies Committee in the same years and was also vice-chairman of the Allied Wheat Purchasing Commission.

Sir George was a member of the Royal Commission on Wheat Supplies in 1916.

Noted Expert Will Survey Air Ports

Sir Alexander Gibbs Accepts Dominion's Invitation

Ottawa—Sir Alexander Gibb, noted British engineer, will come to Canada within a few weeks to conduct a survey of all marine shipping centres in the Dominion, it was announced recently by Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine. He will advise the Government and prepare plans for the development of each port for the next 25 or 50 years.

An invitation was extended to Sir Alexander Gibb by the Government to conduct a survey of all Canadian ports. In making known the acceptance of the invitation, Mr. Duranleau said the British port authority would arrive "this Spring," but was unable to divulge a more definite date.

A Gentle Spring

Brantford — Hundreds of citizens gathered at Lorne Bridge Sunday to note a phenomenon — the annual spring "break-up" without any break-up. The river both below and above the Brantford dam was clear, but the ice did not go out — it simply melted away. There was little increase in the water level. Reports from further north indicate that the ice there is giving way.

Easter

As this life has grown easier the life beyond has receded in importance. It is not talked or thought about so much as a generation or so back. There is less concern about preparing for it and deserving its rewards.

Yet the verity of that life to come was never more profound than now. Seer and scientist now stand alongside the religionist in declaring it. "Preservation, not destruction, is the law of the universe," so science is revealing.

"I feel in myself the future life," wrote Victor Hugo. "The nearer I approach the end the plainer I hear around me the immortal symphonies of the world which invite me. It is marvelous, yet simple. It is a fairy tale, and it is history. When I go down to the grave I can say like so many others, I have finished my life. But my day's work will begin again the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley. It is a thoroughfare. It closes on the twilight, to open on the dawn."

Easter is the sign as well as the reminder of a future life. For He whose own resurrection it commemorates gave also this promise, according to John 14:19:

"Because I live, ye shall live also."

Plan An Easter Party

With Games and Luncheon Appropriate For the Occasion

Last Easter one of the girls in our Sunday School class arranged an Easter party for us. All the decorations were in the appropriate Easter colors of yellow and white. Peasant-eyed narcissus, jonquils, and daffodils were used, and were cut from the hostess' own plants. Yellow and white crepe paper bands made up the other decorations, while the hostess and three girls who helped serve the luncheon were dressed in white frocks trimmed with yellow.

As soon as the guests arrived, a basket containing tiny paper mache rabbits was passed, and each guest invited to take one. On each rabbit had been written the half of a word pertaining to Easter, like salvation, cross, egg, and lily. The other half of the word was written on another rabbit. The guests were instructed to find the person having the rabbit on which the other part of their word was written. When all the words were matched the guests were told that each set of partners would have to make up some original and clever game for the others to play. Many ingenious and laughable games followed. To the couple whose game was judged the best, a basket of colored eggs was given, and a tiny rubber chicken that would blow up, was awarded as the "consolation."

The guests were then given slips of paper and pencils and asked to write the best sentence they could using words beginning with the letters in "Easter." The first two sentences were read aloud, and the writers were to be awarded the prizes. The winner was given a chocolate candy rabbit, and the "booby" prize was a tiny celluloid chicken.

Next the hostess appeared with a basket of colored eggs, passing one to each guest. When all the guests had an egg, they were invited to see who could roll it into a nest, which was constructed of a box standing on end on the other side of the room. Only a small hole had been cut in the side of thebox, and very few eggs rolled inside, but to all the guests whose eggs went into the nest, an Easter lily was given. A small cotton chicken was given to the person whose egg was found farthest from the box.

Later the girls were asked to take a colored egg from a basket standing on a small table. These eggs were all shades and colors, and caused much comment. Then the hostess brought in a large chicken with various colored feathers. The boys were invited to pick the chicken, but each was told to take but one feather, unless he desired more than one supper partner. When the chicken was picked, the hostess informed the boys to go in search of the girl having the some colored egg as the feather he had.

A buffet luncheon was served. The favors were tiny cotton rabbits, nibbling at a make-believe carrot. Potato salad decorated with the yolks of hard boiled eggs, sandwiches with a cheese filling, pickled eggs, fruit salad, in orange cups, and cocoa were served, [illegible] with [illegible] ice cream and yellow and white Easter cup cakes.—By H. Steamer Is Safe After Fog Mishap

Montclare, Refloated, Proceeds Under Own Steam; Passengers in Glasgow

Glasgow, Scotland.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Montclare, which ran aground during a fog in the Firth of Clyde on Saturday, was refloated Sunday afternoon and found able to proceed under her own steam to Liverpool. Her 200 passengers had been landed safely on Little Cumbrae Island.

At midnight seven tugs set to at the task and pulled the vessel's stern into deep water, but the rest of the ship remained grounded until this afternoon's effort pulled her free.

The Montclare steamed away bathed in bright sunshine, in striking contrast to the weather in which she had met her mishap.

The passengers have been conveyed to Glasgow, where the shipping company had arrangements well in hand for their comfortable disposal.

Zep Commander Will Fly to South America

New York.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, expects to take the airship on three trips to South America next summer, he said on his recent arrival here.

Dr. Eckener has come to this country to confer with officials of the Goodyear Zeppelin Company in Akron, O., he said, and his visit will be brief. His plans for the Graf Zeppelin include two trips to Egypt and Spain and a trip to the Arctic, if the finances can be arranged, where observers might obtain valuable data and the behavior of the airship in low temperatures be studied, he said.

The British Government has invited him to take the Graf Zeppelin to Egypt, he added, and his trip would probably be made late in May. On the South American trips the airship will touch land first at Pernambuco, he said, and then journey down to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. Dr. Eckener is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lotte Eckener.

Vancouver, B.C. — Wheat exports from Vancouver for the season up to February 18th amounted to 45,051,072 bushels, according to the figures of the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange. This total compares with 25,888,585 bushels for the corresponding period of last year.

The Report on the R-101

Out of the appalling tragedy of the R-101 there comes, after long months of waiting, one small gleam of comfort: the greatest catastrophe in the history of aeronautics was due neither to impatience, carelessness nor incompetence on the part of the men who designed the ship or who went to their deaths with her.

The investigation, which was conducted under the direction of Sir John Simon, was minute in the extreme. The highest available technical skill was summoned; an elaborate scale model was submitted to exhaustive and intricate tests, calculated to reproduce the actual conditions under which the airship failed; everything possible was done to clear up the mystery of what caused the disaster.

So far as advance reports of the finding of the court of enquiry show, it was the failure of the forward gas bags to stand up against the battering of heavy winds and their consequent leakage of gas which brought the R-101 down against the hillside at Beauvais. There was no inherent fault in the ship's construction; there was neither lack of adequate preliminary testing nor failure of skill or courage by the navigators when the final crisis came.

The finding of the court will be of great importance to the future of British aeronautics and is bound to have its effect on the future policy of Britain where the lighter-than-air-type of airship is concerned. Perhaps almost equally important, it will set at rest a whole series of rumours concerning the airworthiness of the ship, the thoroughness of the preliminary testing and the competence of the crew.

Extended Canal Traffic

An interesting feature of the traffic on the Sault Ste. Marie canals (both Canadian and United States locks) last year was that the canals were opened ten days earlier, April 24, and closed two days later, December 12, than in the preceding year.

Horses Run Wild As Stables Burn

Two Fires in Victoria Town Among Week-End Outbreaks in Ontario

Lindsay. — Fire broke out in the large stables of the John Carew Lumber Company Saturday night and destruction was complete. Twenty-seven horses were in the stables, and when residents living near by noticed the blaze they could see the horses running wild in the stalls, having broken their tethers. The loft was crammed with hay and the fire soon enveloped the building. The horses were driven out with some difficulty, and for a time constituted a hazard as they ran on the streets. Some twenty tons of hay, a large granary of oats and stable equipment went up in the flames. The stables were built many years ago. The loss is estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000, covered by insurance.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning James Brady, a rural mail-carrier, was awakened from his sleep by the crackling sound of fire and the dropping of hot embers on his bed. The room in which he slept was ablaze, and he had time only to seize his clothes and overcoat and dash through the fire to the open. Brady was alone in the house, his wife being in Downeyville with her sister. An overheated stove-pipe is believed to have caused the fire. The firemen had to lay 1,200 feet of hose to the frame dwelling, which was some distance from a hydrant. Brady's loss is complete.

Shops Burn in Welland

Welland.—Fire late Saturday night destroyed the wood-working and machine shops and stables of the A. W. Delaplante Company, the blaze being the most spectacular in Welland in several years. Early reports that the near-by Empire Cotton Mills were ablaze sent hundreds hurrying to the scene, adding to the excitement. Every available regular and volunteer fireman answered the call, but the Delaplante building was doomed. Three thousand feet of hose was laid and four streams used. The firefighters remained at the scene for four hours. An unofficial estimate placed the loss at between $25,000 and $30,000. The building was gutted. It contained machinery and lumber. One horse perished.

Saved by Passer-By.

Kitchener.—A passer-by is credited with averting a fire tragedy here early Sunday morning. James Pett, walking down Shoemaker Avenue, saw a shed behind Joseph Westhofer's house aflame, and roused the family just as their home caught fire. The frame kitchen of the house was destroyed, but the alarm was given in time to prevent further damage. Fire Chief Guerins suspects that boys had been smoking in the shed, and that a cigarette butt started the blaze. The loss is about $500.

Kingston.—Fire damaged the Desoronto Town Hall early Saturday to the amount of about $5,000. The hall, a two-story brick structure, housed the town offices, the court-room Magistrate's office and the town library. An overheated stove in the police station is supposed to have caused the blaze. It took the fire department four hours to extinguish the fire. The loss is covered by insurance.

Outbreak in Melbourne

London, Ont.—Melbourne, a village about 20 miles west of London, suffered a serious fire Saturday when five business buildings were destroyed, with much equipment, the total damage being about $75,000. A dozen men had a narrow escape when a brick wall collapsed and they were compelled to jump for safety. The fire, the origin of which has not been determined, started in the rear of the Oddfellows' Hall, and spread to Campbell Brothers' garage next door. Melbourne has no water supply or fire brigade, and when London was asked to send assistance it was realized that no good could be done, and no apparatus was ordered to the scene. A hastily organized bucket brigade did good work, but the Oddfellows' Hall, including Wesley Richard's fruit store on the ground floor; Campbell's restaurant, owned by Stewart Campbell; Davidson's Barber Shop, and a cottage owned by A. D. Brown, on the town line at the rear, were all burned with the Campbell garage, an important red brick building.

Owen Sound.—Edward Achutnecht, of Holland Township, suffered a heavy loss late Friday night when his barn was razed by fire following the explosion of a lantern. Grain and hay as well as farm implements were destroyed.

Buy Approved Chicks

In carrying out its Poultry Club Campaign among Quebec farmers the provincial government has authorized the purchase of "day-old-chicks from approved hatcheries only." This is a splendid endorsation for federal approval policies, which all combine to produce the "approved" chick. The Poultry Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture supervises the now officially recognized "approval" policies, which include Record of Performance certification and registration, flock approval, hatchery approval and approved chicks. Government supervision is the safeguard which has established the approval policies as the outstanding achievement in the poultry industry in recent years.

Reindeer Ranches Proving Successful

Canadian Government Optimistic Over New Industry of the North

By William Bleasdell Cameron

Three thousand reindeer, the property of the Dominion Government are, at the present time, being piloted across the 1,000-mile stretch that separates Western Alaska and the Mackenzie River delta, in Northern Canada. If all goes well the goal will be reached by the fall of 1931, and with it will end the first stage in the launching of an ambitious project. Will the venture succeed? Its sponsors say "Yes," and if they are right an enterprise fraught with possibilities of tremendous expansion will have made an auspicious start. A similar step, taken nearly 40 years ago at the instance of Dr. Sheldon Jackson, an official of the United States Government, has been the seed of a development so remarkable, and an industry of such magnitude, that it surpasses mining in importance, and is exceeded only in value of output by one other commercial enterprise in the territory of Alaska—its fisheries.

For centuries the reindeer, as a source of food, has been the mainstay of Northern Europe and Asia. The American Government, having acquired Alaska and with it responsibility for the wellbeing of its considerable native population, cast about for a means of ensuring an adequate and dependable food supply. Seals and walruses, fish and game, were well enough as far as they went, but existing resources were uncertain. At times they were insufficient, if not unobtainable. Something, the authorities decided, must be done to remedy this condition.

Dr. Jackson studied the situation and concluded that the European reindeer, if adaptable to the country, would solve the problem of providing an ample, always available means of subsistence for the Eskimo of the character of which they were accustomed. Caribou, a wild species of the reindeer, roved the country in enormous herds. If they throve—as they had done for as far back as the records ran—why not their man-controlled cousin? Dr. Jackson believed the domesticated branch of the family would, and convinced the Government it was worth while to settle the point. He went to Lapland to procure the material for his purpose and returned with 1,200 reindeer and a number of Lapp herders to instruct the Eskimos in their care.

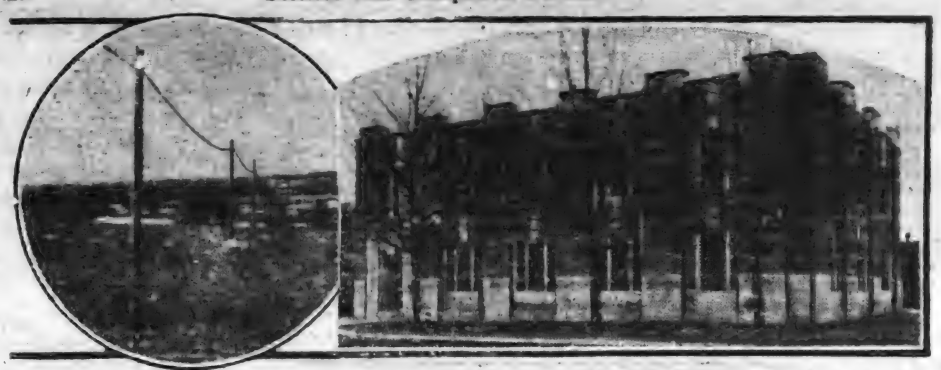
The four-footed immigrants fitted into their new environment as if born to it. They flourished on the rich natural fodder everywhere abundant, and their number has increased from the original 1,200 until there are today in Alaska almost 1,000,000 reindeer.

The reindeer is also a dairy-purpose animal. In Labrador, where there are a small number, Dr Grenfell has testified to their many valuable properties, including with the statement that "the fresh milk of the does has supplied us with what is a vital necessity and one obtainable in Labrador in no other way, while the excellent and easily-made cheese afford a means of storing the nutriment in a palatable and assimilable form without any outlay for a preserving plant."

Carcasses dress round 150 pounds and have a value with the by-products of about $30. The skins provide the Eskimos with clothing and are converted by United States manufacturers into gloves, moccasins and other leather goods. Knife-handles and novelties are made from the horns. The hair, extremely buoyant, makes excellent filling for life preservers, and there has arisen a demand for the long neck-turfs for use in making artificial baits by purveyors of fishing tackle. It is estimated that Alaska has pasturage for 4,000,000 reindeer and that this figure will be reached by 1937.

The Dominion Government of Canada two or three years ago employed the Porsild brothers—Danes born and brought up in Greenland—to make a survey of Canada's so-called Barren Grounds with the view of determining their suitability or otherwise for reindeer ranching. The brothers made a careful investigation and their report was so favorable that an immediate start was made. They were sent to Alaska to obtain the stock necessary for the experiment, and they purchased the herd of 3,000 animals now being driven along the Arctic coast to the territory east of the Mackenzie. With aeroplanes ahead to direct the course and to find the choicest pasturage, and reindeer in sleds hauling the camp equipage, the caravan left Alaska in the early summer and is now wintering somewhere between Point Barrow and Aklavik. As soon after the fawning season next spring as the young are able to travel, the trek will be resumed, and by the autumn the herd should be established upon its permanent feeding grounds in the vicinity of Kittigazuit.

How much of the Barren Grounds may be suited to reindeer grazing has yet to be ascertained—the Porsilds, within the limited time at their disposal, could cover only a corner of them—but in the opinion of Ralph Lomen, a pioneer in the industry in the Alaskan field, as quoted some time ago, "There is room in the northern tundra of Canada for 12,000,000 reindeer and such a herd would be worth $50,000,000. Canada, if she started now in a modest way, could have such a herd in 50 years." Fifty years is a long time, but meanwhile Canada might be content with a less number.



The Government had substantial grounds, even before the Porsild investigation, for believing that the reindeer would find themselves as much at home on Canada's Arctic prairies as in Alaska; that enquiry, though expected to confirm such belief, was undertaken as a measure of prudence. The strongest guarantee lay in the fact that for as far back as anything was known of the Barren Grounds, they had supported immense herds of wild caribou that had arranged their sweeping expanses, coupled with the reports of explorers as to the character and extent of the vegetation found upon them. The reindeer, as has been said, is a close relative of the caribou, and if the latter flourished there it was reasonable to conclude that the reindeer would do likewise. These wild herds have been photographed at such close range that "wild" seems a misnomer, and many have seen pictures—veritable forests of horns over a living sea. A recent Government report gives their number as having been estimated at 30,000,000. Warburton Pike, an early adventurer upon the Barren Grounds, tells of standing for hours at a stretch with the caribou streaming past on either hand, so near that he was able to pick out those in primest condition for slaughter. This herd was six days in passing his camp, and he remarks that he could not believe the buffalo on the plains in the period of their greatest abundance were more numerous than were the caribou at that day on the Barren Grounds.

The cost of raising reindeer is trifling, estimated at $1 per head. A handful of herders will look after a herd of several thousand, merely circling them at intervals to prevent them from straying. They are rounded up three times a year—in February to collect and segregate the breeding stock; in June to mark the fawns, and in October to mark out and slaughter the animals intended for market.

The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion.—Edmund Burke.

Science Has Conquered Distance

What will science achieve next? Today, in building long distance telephone lines along main routes between big centres of population, the Bell Telephone Company uses cables containing a hundred or more pairs of wires. These tiny wires enclosed in lead-sheathed cables replace the older type of open wire so familiar along highways. Instead of a half-dozen or more cross-arms on high poles, with their gleaming miles of copper wire, the present-day method is to use a somewhat smaller pole with the cable suspended from a strong messenger wire.

For long talks, carried on by means of wire in long distance cable, the electric current carrying the waves set up by your voice, must be revived at definite intervals along the route.

Repeater stations, such as the one at London, Ont., illustrated above, are being erected at several points in Ontario and Quebec. The apparatus housed in these repeater stations serves to strengthen the voice currents on their journey, so that one may now talk by telephone for practically any distance.

Seawood As Food Fancied By Indians

Other Peoples in Canada and Elsewhere Use It for Food Purposes

Among the foodstuffs taken from the sea the Indians on the coast of British Columbia put seaweed as worth adding to the menu of an epicurean.

In earlier years seaweed was "money" among British Columbia Indians in the sense that it was used, to a limited extent, as a medium of barter between tribes in the northern interior part of the province and other tribes living along the coast. This barter has now practically disappeared; but if seaweed is no longer money it remains in use as an article of Indian food.

For food purposes, especially among the Indians of the northern coast of British Columbia, the seaweed is pressed and partially dried, and in this form it will apparently remain in a satisfactory condition for a considerable length of time. Part of its value from the dietary standpoint is doubtless due to its content of iodine, an element which research has shown to be valuable as preventive of such diseases as goitre.

Incidentally, it may be noted that sea fish also contain a considerable percentage of iodine, and this is one of the reasons why doctors and dietitians recommend frequent inclusion of fish foods in the household menu.

As a matter of fact, of course, certain seaweeds are eaten by other people besides Indians. For instance numbers of people in Canada and elsewhere like dried dulse, a variety of seaweed, and in 1929 Canadian producers marketed over 100,000 pounds of this marine product and received for it over $10,600.

On the Atlantic coast of Canada some use has been made of seaweed, in combination with fish offal, in producing fish meal, which is a valuable stock food. So far there has been no commercial utilization of seaweeds on the Pacific coast of the Dominion.

Stoneless Peach May Yet Be Realized

Fresno, Cal.—This spring may see the sprouts that will be the forerunner of the seedless peach that was the late Luther Burbank's dream of his later years.

William H. Henderson, the youth whom Burbank took in charge as his protege, on his place just southeast of here has planted abnormally small peach seeds, the discovery and gift of a Fresno well driller.

The gift pits are about the size of a cherry stone. From it Henderson hopes to develop eventually the peach that was the object of many plant experiments by Burbank.

Henderson already has many new plant developments to his credit. Among them are several varieties of the hibiscus that will live in a temperate climate. One is of the flaming red color that gave the tropical plant its name, the flaming hibiscus. Another is orchid and a third is a subdued, velvety red.

Henderson already was pushing development of some stoneless plums he had grown when he was given the diminutive peach stones.

DR. JOSEPH ROGERS ANSWERS CALL

Alexander and community has again been called upon to suffer the loss by death of one of its prominent, active and highly respected citizens. Dr. Joseph Rogers passed away at the Good Samaritan hospital in Williston early last Friday morning after an illness of several weeks.

Dr. Rogers had not been feeling well since the first of the year but kept about the work of attending to his patients, some of which work necessitated drives of considerable length. Finally on January 15th he was taken to the hospital suffering with typhoid fever. During the weeks of his illness everything possible was done for him, but complications set in and his brave fight for life was futile.

Joseph Rogers was born at Cedarville, Ontario, September 26, 1877, the first son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers. He received his early education in the public schools, intermediate at Streetsville and Mount Forest high school. He graduated in pharmacy in Toronto, Ontario. Then deciding that medicine was to be his chosen profession he graduated from Trinity College, Toronto University, in 1905.

Immediately after graduation the doctor came to Donnybrook, North Dakota, where he practiced medicine and surgery for nine years. In 1914 with his wife and son Joseph he moved to Alexander where he remained in the active practice of his profession until his final illness.

While in Donnybrook Dr. Rogers met Miss Edith Eloise Magoon, while she was attending, as nurse, a sick sister. They were married in 1907 and to them were born three children, the oldest dying at birth. The second child, Joseph, a splendid lad of much promise and the pride of his parents, died after a short illness in Alexander in April, 1929, at the age of sixteen years. Cecil, aged 12, is the only remaining child. The home life of Dr. Rogers and family was most happy and ideal.

Besides the widow and son, the departed is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers of Edmonton, Alberta, a sister, Mrs. M. L. (Alma) Wright of Edmonton, Alberta, and four brothers, Thomas A. of Lloydminster, Alberta; Dr. S. Oliver of Toronto, Ontario; H. Wilberforce of Wembley, Alberta; and Dr. Lawrence M. of Camrose, Alberta.—McKenzie County Chronicle, Alexander, North Dakota.

The funeral was conceded to be the largest ever held in Alexander. Besides the service of the Methodist church, the service of the Masonic Order was also conducted.

Deceased was a nephew of Mr. T. A. Rogers, Streetsville.

ISLINGTON

The Islington Lawn Bowling Club held their annual meeting last Monday evening at the commodious home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Newlove, when the following officers were elected:

Men's Section: President, Stanley Evans; Vice-President, Jack McAvoy; Sec.-Treas., J. H. Beamish; Games Sec., Fred Walsh; Chairman Grounds Com., H. T. White.

Ladies' Section: President, Mrs. R. H. Tier, Vice-Pres., Mrs. A. J. Johnston; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. W. Newlove.

The retiring president, Mr. Dave Norwood presided at the luncheon which followed the election of officers. Rev. C. W. Holdsworth enlivened the proceedings with violin solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Holdsworth. It was a delight to have Rev. Canon Greene with us at our annual function. The venerable Canon who is an artist of some repute told us how when in England a few years ago, he saw a bowling club being organized on King John's Court—historic Runnymede. As he looked on, he made a miniature sketch of it in water colours. He very generously offered to paint a larger one for our clubhouse, which, of course, was gratefully accepted.

The Ladies' Aid of the Islington Presbyterian Church held their annual St. Patrick's birthday tea and social in the Church last Wednesday. An enjoyable evening was spent in games and contests. An excellent program was given by Miss Jessie Jamieson, reader, Cooksville, and Miss McDonald, vocal soloist of Dixie, while instrumental cornet and trombone duets were given by Messrs. Pinchin and Littlewood. Miss Goldthorpe was pianist and Rev. Mr. Lamont presided. The birthday bags (a cent for each year) netted about $40.

The third annual rally of the Islington Conservatives took the form of a euchre and dance in our Assembly hall last Friday evening, March 27th. Twenty-three tables played euchre, and an immense throng danced till 12.30. Talk about old-time dances—square dances and waltzes! Why you would think you were living forty years ago. In fact the jazzy fox trots were in the minority. Our popular Federal member, Mr. J. Earle Lawson, was present, with Mrs. Lawson. He spoke briefly appreciating the good work being done by the Islington Conservatives in looking after the party's interests.

Social, municipal and business circles regret the departure of our popular Township engineer, Mr. N. MacNicol, to accept the position of engineer for Forest Hill village. However, the new job sought him and he goes at a greatly increased salary. In his eight years as engineer for Etobicoke Township he has made a host of warm friends who wish him genuine success in his new position. Last Saturday the office staff in our local Council Chambers presented him with a handsome chair as a token of their esteem.

In the death, last Monday, of Mr. James Mix, at the age of 71, Islington Presbyterian Church loses one of its charter members and a valuable elder. The late Mr. Mix was a great sufferer for the past two years, from paralysis and a complication of diseases. Besides his widow he is survived by four sons. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Lamont, and interment was made at Parklawn cemetery. Deceased's fellow members of session acted as pallbearers: Messrs. Wm. Chevne, J. W. Dodds, Fred Walsh, H. Radford, W. Jack and J. H. Beamish.

Mrs. John Gartley

A large number of Streetsville people were sorry to learn of the death on March 7, 1931, of Mrs. John Gartley of 166 Watson Ave. West Toronto, who for a number of years was a well known and highly respected resident of Streetsville, leaving here about 12 years ago. Mrs. Gartley was formerly Katharine Harkiss, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Harkiss. She was in her 68th year, and had been in failing health for some time. While residing in Streetsville she and her family were faithful members of Trinity Anglican Church. Besides her husband, five sons and two daughters are left to mourn the departure of a devoted wife and loving mother, James of West Toronto, John of London, Roy of Alliston, Wilbert and Gordon of Toronto; Mrs. Charles R. Bonham of Islington, and Miss Vina at home. Two brothers, William and Charles of Brantford, and one sister, Mrs. Marshall of Orangeville and ten grandchildren also survive

The deepest sympathy has gone out to the family in their sad deprivation.

Mrs. Gartley's remains were interred in Park Lawn Cemetery, Revs E. Morley and T.O. Curliss officiating. The pallbearers were: her two brothers, William and Charles, two nephews, Clifford Harkiss and Alex Donalson; Charles Harkiss and John McAllister

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and showed the high esteem in which she was held.

'Fresh from the gardens'

APRIL ESCAPADE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Kate O'Hara accepts a proposition made by Christopher Steynes, that she act as his wife at a dinner given by her boss, Gordon Rountree, in order that a Russian countess and her daughter may be discouraged and discontinue their attentions to Steynes. Mary tells her mother she is going on a business trip and meets Steynes at the station at Burlingame. The countess is discouraged and Mary stays overnight at Steynes' house. During the night a burglar enters and Steynes shoots him. Police take Mary's name and address and she is terrified for fear her mother will find out about it. After returning home Mary discovers she has fallen in love with Steynes and tells this to Cass Keating, to whom she is engaged. Cass just laughs at it. A week later Chris phones Mary and she meets and goes to lunch with him. He asks her to visit the robber in the hospital, who will not let the case against him be dropped. Mary agrees to go.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

It was after two o'clock now; the music had ceased. The dining room was almost deserted; only a few waiters hovered near the door, only a few late lunchers were murmuring, as these two were, at scattered tables. Outside, the blue sky was clouded again, and the light, irresolute rain was again falling.

Chris leaned across the table, and for a quick second put a warm brown hand over her own. His eyes were smiling, but his tone was all kind.

"It's not going to take you very long to get over it, Mary?"

"All my life!" she answered quickly.

"Ah, no, my dear!"

"Not that it matters," she said dully. "I don't know," she began again with a desperate little laugh, "I don't know who told you. I would have died rather than let you know!"

"You've been telling me, all day," Chris answered. "You told me last night, over the telephone."

She accepted this squarely, meeting his eyes. But her color rose steadily.

"I suppose so," she admitted simply, shrugging.

"A feeling like that," he said, "doesn't last—do you see what I mean? I mean—why, we all do that. We all get involved! But the real thing—the things that are tied up with your family, and your friends, and your home town, and—oh, well, a man's success and future, and children, everything—" He stopped.

"I'm trying to say something," he recommenced, with a laugh, as her gravely watching eyes gave him no encouragement, "and I don't believe I'm getting away with it."

"Oh, yes, you're getting away with it," Mary Kate assured him, simply.

"No, but suppose—suppose," he argued eagerly, "that the shoe was on the other foot—that the situation was what-do-you-call-it — reversed. Suppose the situation was reversed. Suppose I was begging you to—well, marry me. Can't you see that we wouldn't have a dog's chance for happiness? Can't you imagine yourself saying something like this to me? 'I don't know your friends, I don't understand they way they talk about things, they fuss me when they pull German and French on me—'"

"German and French!" Mary Kate echoed, in a pause, looking away, slightly biting her full lower lip.

"Oh, I don't mean German and French! I mean everything. I mean—well, everything!"

"The beggar on horseback!" Mary Kate said lightly.

"You know better," Chris reproached her, warmly. "You know what I mean, better than that," he went on, as she did not speak. "You know that all I mean is, that the things the women I know do, would not hold you for one second. They are not real. I know that. I hate the whole crowd of them, dressing and eating and gambling. I don't see you playing bridge every day, jabbering their jabber. I mean—"

"I know what you mean!" she said impatiently, resentfully, in the pause.

"That—well, that in a way you're the realest girl I've ever met—" Chris explained. "Your mother—your family—the man you're engaged to marry—all that is real. If I wanted that sort of thing—little sisters and brothers, all needing me, all wanting things that money can buy, I couldn't get it. You've got a marvelous time ahead. You've got everything—"

"Am I making sense?" he broke off to ask with a little self-conscious laugh.

"Of course you're making sense," the girl said, in the most natural tone she had yet used. But her cheeks were aflame.

"Mary, I want to say something to you," Chris said suddenly, with a quickened manner of tone. "This thing has gone very deep with me. I've done darn-fool things in my life, and I thought this was going to be just one more of them. But it's not. I don't mean what happened Friday night. We're going to get out of this Moody business all right; I'm not afraid of that. I'll square him if I have to join the Socialists, and throw a few bombs myself here and there."

"But it's this other thing that gets me. If you're going to feel badly about it—if you're going to think—How'll I put this? I mean, if any unhappiness for you—"

His incoherent sentences dwindled into silence. He made a fresh start.

"Here's what I'm trying to say: You're young and you're very beautiful—you really are. It sounds like a flat thing to say, but really you are—and you're going to be married, and you've got your mother and home here, and your brothers and sisters and friends. I've come along, to upset all that—"

Another halt. Mary Kate ended the silence by saying:

"You have."

"Damn!" Chris ejaculated simply.

"We'll go to the hospital now," the girl said, beginning to gather her things, "and after that, I'll not see you again. I ask you—I beg you," she went on, "not to try to see me again, after today. But something happened to me, last week," she continued very simply, looking down, speaking in a low voice. "I didn't know what it was at first. I just knew that I was—sort of—trembling all the time, and that I couldn't eat, or sleep—and yet I didn't feel sick, exactly—

"Everything looked so bright, and so—well, I don't know, thrilling to me," she went on, in a dead silence. "Even I—myself, was thrilling, to myself.

"And then, thinking one night, I suddenly knew what it was. I was remembering Burlingame, and all that time last week, and when I came to thinking about you—"

A little shrug, an upward glance from her troubled blue eyes, completed the sentence. She got to her feet.

"So that's that!" she finished. They did not speak again as they left the dining room.

But in the yellow taxi, lumbering through the light, sun-penetrated rain that was still falling—falling to his surprise, and to his rather touched relief, she was suddenly her usual self again, a tall red-headed girl eager for experience and filled with interest in everything. She told him the history of the old mansion on Nob Hill, pointed out the college town, and the prison island, the quarantine and naval base islands in the bay, and the old Fair site, lying level along the edge of the sullen gray, rain-flattened waters. From personal, emotional matters she kept resolutely away, and he saw it.

"Do you dread this interview, Mary?"

"Not much. I have a feeling that it will come out all right."

She turned to him, with that animated, wide-eyed look he so especially liked in her. "I'm absolutely crazy—I'm what my brother Mart would call completely off the reservation! I'm doing things, and taking chances, that would absolutely have floored me—that would have scared me to death a few months ago. I don't know what's come over me! I was in a place where burglary and murder were attempted, a few nights ago, I'm lying to my mother, I'm lying to Cass, I'm on my way to see a criminal—"

The summary ended in her gay, irresponsible laugh. It was as if he saw, her confession had relieved her soul, washed away all fear and resentment for the moment, at least.

"Did you tell your brother?"

"No; he's in Oregon. And a blessing, too! But I did tell Mr. Keating."

"What! The whole thing?"

"Almost."

"And what did he say?"

"Oh, he was wonderful. He really understood."

Chris had a moment of mortification.

"I suppose he thinks I'm a skunk," he said, uncomfortably.

"I suppose he does!" she conceded, indifferently.

"It's all sort of a mess," Chris mused, after a moment. Mary Kate made no answer.

"Is this man in a jail hospital?" she asked.

"No. Gordy managed that. He asked them that no charge be made against him until we got it all straight. He intends—at least he hopes, that he can claim that it was all a sort of joke—a man he knew, who'd gotten boiled at the club, and so on."

"Could he do that?"

"Oh it's being done all the time!" Chris assured her.

They were at the hospital, mounting the formidable flight of steps that rose at its imposing base. Inside, there were certain formalities, and then a middle-aged nurse, with a hunch of keys at her girdle, led them through various clean, antiseptic-scented hallways to one of the immense wings of the enormous building. An elevator boy then took charge of them, and eventually they found themselves alone, outside of a white-painted steel door, one of a hundred similar doors that closely dotted a long upper corridor. Number seven-six-seven.

Chris and Mary Kate pushed open the door, and were in a small, clean, white room; filled with a narrow white high bed, a white chair and a great white-curtained window flooded with afternoon light.

Chris saw these things, after one quick glance at the man who lay bandaged on the bed, his sullen suspicious look turned toward the door. But Mary Kate's look got no further than the invalid's face.

Her breath rose on a quick gasp. For a second she wavered as if she were going to faint. Then with a sob she took the little space between door and bed with a few flying steps, she was on her knees beside the injured man, her face against the hand she clasped in both of hers.

"Oh, Mart, Mart, Mart!" she cried.

What New York Is Wearing

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

3019

Youth and jauntiness expresses this accommodating little bolero dress for all occasions.

It's neither fussy nor too sportive to span over the needs of an entire day.

The softly falling bolero in a subtle way diminishes the width through the waist, and gives prominence to the flatness of the hipline. The gores of the slightly circular skirt are enghtgiving and slenderizing.

A printed crepe silk in Algerian blue tones made the original of today's frock.

And this fascinating Style No. 3019 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 year, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Other schemes equally wearable are navy blue flat crepe silk, a roman stripe wool crepe and grey canton crepe.

For resort, linen prints, pastel tub silks, men's striped silk shirting, and cotton mesh with angora finish are ideally suited to this model.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

Moon on the Thorn

I hear the grey geese winging
Between the stars and me.
And little people singing
Along the misty lea.
A valley fox is crying,
A mountain cat replying,
A far off river stirring
Upon her way to sea.

The fairies flock and mingle,
Till blows an elfin horn.
And gallop from their dingle
Two ring-straked unicorn.
I hear the creatures neighing,
"Come, monkeys, cease your playing;
Be off! Be off a maying:
The moon is on the thorn!"

Then kobold, deev and pixie,
Red troll and sprite and fay,
Pidwidgeon, brownie, nixie
Make haste to seek the may:
And where they took their pleasure,
At midnight hour of leisure,
A white hare danced a measure
Before he hopped away.

—Eden Phillpotts, in Country Life, London.

Keeps Fruits Fresh

Some interesting observation with respect to the application of "quick freezing processes" to perishable fresh fruits and vegetables is contained in the current newsletter of the Dominion Cold Storage Branch. Tests recently made with peaches show that the process preserves all the original nutritive values and mineral salts with no evidence of loss of valuable chemical constituents or flavor. The process seems to keep the fruit absolutely fresh, in fact, 40 out of 42 "tasting tests" reported the "frozen" peaches more juicy, sweeter and of better flavor than that of "fresh" peaches.

In British Columbia experiments are being made in the "rapid freezing" of green peas in small cartons. These peas will be held in storage at a temperature of 35 deg. F. below zero until marketed next winter.

Marriage to most girls is like a telephone—they get a ring and then wake up.

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

We had slipped down the burning slope, expectin every minute to be our last then found ourselves falling into space. We shut our eyes, rather than see the fiercely burning furnace that we believed lay below—the suddenly I found myself choking for breath, deep down in the cool swirling depths of a mountain pool.

I fought my way to the top, and found Scottie swimming in circles up there on the surface, looking for me, with a most doleful expression on his whiskered face.

Above us the woods burned brightly, and down stream the river disappeared in a smoke-filled tunnel of flaming trees. It was through that tunnel we must go if we were ever to get out. The air was alive with hot cinders—and the light was so uncertain that we had no idea whether the sun was shining or not.

When the water grew shallow I waded around slippery boulders, and crawled over ledges where the swift, white current pulled and tugged at my clothes and often swept me off my feet. It was painfully slow work for both of us. Scottie was clutched under my coat and I staggered along as fast as I could.

The stream narrowed, and the rock ledges on either side rose to a height of twenty feet or more. It was a regular gorge. Up over us the woods were burning fiercely, but above the crackle and roar of the flames rose another sound—a sort of deep bass rumble like thunder that broke through a long drawn out note. Falling water, and not very far ahead!

The current grew deeper and swifter, and the gorge continued to grow steeper and narrower. I clung to a ledge for support while I rested.

Sure enough. Not a hundred feet along, the stream dropped over a ledge. I crept as closely as I dared. Apparently the water fell twenty-five or thirty-five feet into a round basin and the gorge was considerably wider at that point. It looked for all the world as if some giant with an auger had bored this big hole in the rock, into which the water tumbled and hissed.

Slowly, step by step, we retraced our way back through the gorge. On a flat rock in the stream we sat down to think—the bank was too cool for comfort and the rock was none too cool. Taking off my leather jacket, I carefully cut the heavy leather into strips, using the sleeves and all. When fastened together these strips made a strong rope about ten or twelve yards long.

Now for a place to tie it at the head of the falls. I needed a log that could be wedged securely between the walls of the gorge—that would do it. Finally I found one the right size. Half floating it, I made my way towards the edge of the falls. One false move—and over I'd have gone! Carefully I worked one end into a crevise in the ledge. With on end anchored I pushed the other into place against the opposite wall of the gorge. Then I went back for Scottie.

From my shirt I made a sling. With one end of the rope anchored around my waist, I braced myself against the tree and lowered Scottie down. The rope just reached, and he climbed out on the side of the basin. My turn came now. I straddled the log, took a tight hold of the leather rope, and slipped over. The force of the falls was tremendous. The rope slipped through my fingers, and I spun dizzily around, and with a thump I landed in the shallow water at the edge of the basin. I climbed wearily out and there was Scottie watching me on the bank.

The woods seemed to be getting lighter ahead. I pushed on faster—and soon we were on the edge of the nicest little mountain lake you ever saw. Far up to the right the fire was rapidly working down to the lake. To our left, the woods were burning almost to the water's edge. We were hemmed in again.

Suddenly there was a scrambling in the underbrush—some heavy animal scratching through. Scottie remembered the bears and stood still with every hair standing straight out like a porcupine. The crashing grew nearer . . .

The Spruces of Canada

The spruces of Canada play an important part in the industrial life of the country and are an asset not fully appreciated by the general public. There are five spruces of commercial importance in Canada, the white, black, and red spruces of the East and Prairie Provinces; and the Sitka and Engelmann spruces of British Columbia.

London schoolchildren of today are, at eight years old, nearly an inch taller than those of 1913; while the 12-year-olds are both taller and heavier.

FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief?

There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets.

Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

The Stool

The stool was man's first step above the use of rocks or logs to sit upon. It antedates the chair by many centuries and was long used as a throne, even after chairs were invented. The stool is of vivid memory in the school room, where it stood in the corner as the seat of the dullard—the dunce stool.

Furniture manufacturers, in reviving to-day the best productions of the ages, have lifted the stool out of history into the living present. We find it in modern shops in varied forms.

There is the kitchen stool which slips under the sink or table, the step-ladder type which enables one to climb easily to a high cupboard, and the revolving stool suitable for office or home. The little enamelled stool, with rubber feet, holds its place in the bathroom, being easily moved about and not injured by dampness. In the boudoir, the stool, sometimes called a "bench, sits in front of milady's dressing table. In the guest room it serves as a bench to hold the open suitcase.

In living rooms it is a recent fad. Here it may be very ornamental, with carved legs and deep upholstery. In colonial rooms its base may be of wrought iron. The stool may sit in front of a davenport, or the fireplace, or as an annex to a large chair, form a "chaise lounge" or day bed. Its virtues are that it is light and easily moveable, and—having no back, may be placed informally anywhere without seeming to intrude, and it combines readily in a furniture ensemble.

Left-Over Clothing

Half worn garments, or those worn in spots but of good material, may often be made over for the owner or passed down the line to some younger members of the family. One should not waste time by putting fancy sewing on it, for it will not wear as long as new goods.

In some cases, if the material is faded, it may be made wrong side out, or the material dyed. Two garments may frequently be combined into one, if the materials are suitable for combination. A wool suit will make a good dress. Dad's coat or trousers may be passed down to little son. Two narrow skirts may be combined or a short skirt made into one for a child.

Tops of old stockings make excellent sleeve protectors while doing heavy work. They make soft dust-cloths, and some save them for making into rag rugs. A house apron may be made from a worn shirt. The lower part of a dress may sometimes be made into a princess slip or petticoat. Save the whole pieces of woolen blankets; hem them and use them for foot warmers, snuggled in bed at the feet on a cold night, or to wrap around a small child when putting it to bed.

A garment is more valuable as such than in any form, so do not be hasty about cutting it up, if it can be repaired and given further wear. If no longer useful for a member of your own family, clean it and see that it reaches someone who can wear it.

Condiments

The eating of mustard, chili sauce, horseradish, catsup, pepper sauce, red and black pepper and other condiments has the same effect on the gall bladder and liver as drinking alcoholic beverages—and that is pretty serious for those vital organs. People with bad livers are forbidden condiments, and those with good livers should refrain before this organ gets out of order.

Many people have an idea that condiments aid digestion, but this is not true. To use them on cold meats and other foods, until one has cultivated a taste for them, is a sad dietetic mistake, and a habit which will have to be broken sooner or later. It is a wise mother who brings up her children to ignore condiments. Since they are even more harmful for adults than for children, they should never appear on the family table. Pickles strongly seasoned with condiments are equally harmful, but pickles without such flavorings are not injurious.

Handy Gloves

A pair of clean white canvas gloves hanging near the kitchen range will be very convenient to slip on when basting a roast or handling hot pans. Whether you wear one or both they will prove a protection to hands and wrists.

Diphtheria Prevention

Most of the victims of diphtheria are children under five or ten years of age. It is important that children under ten should be immunized whenever an epidemic of diphtheria shows its ugly head. It is a simple matter to give the Schick test and any physician can do it. This will reveal what children are liable to take diphtheria, and a preventive treatment can be given them. This treatment is not expensive and will not harm them in any way. It is a good thing for every pre-school child to have the tests before he enters the school room with its dangers of contagion.

If a child takes diphtheria, the anti-toxin should be administered promptly. It sometimes happens that the physician is not called early enough in the disease or that he delays giving the antitoxin. This endangers the life of the child. Every bad case of sore throat, especially if accompanied by fever, should be taken seriously. If it does not yield promptly to home treatment, the physician should be called at once.

Fruit Cocktail

Knowledge of balanced diet is leading housewives to serve menus in which everything tastes its best and there is no surfeit of carbo-hydrates and hearty foods, which leave a bloaty feeling afterwards. Fruit cocktails take the place of foody soups; tangy fruit sherbets balance the meat course and the dainty fruit dessert supplants the heavy pudding.

Meats, pastries and the heartier foods are acid-forming in the system and lead to sour stomach. This may be avoided by neutralizing the body acids with fruit, which is alkaline in its reaction on the body, though the fruit itself is tart and acid.

Fruit cocktails are a combination of diced and sweetened fruits which go well together. Oranges, grapefruit, pears, pineapple, grapes, cherries or almost any other fruits may be so mingled. The cocktail should be prepared in advance, chilled in the ice-box, and served very cold.

Hints

If you use evaporated milk in candy recipes, you shorten the time it takes to cook them as there will be less liquid to be cooked out.

Eating more slowly and chewing thoroughly will aid you in your effort to eat less.

Be sure that your pillow cases are large enough for the pillows. Otherwise the strain on them, from crowding a large pillow into them, will make them wear out rapidly.

Pewter may be cleaned by rubbing it with silver polish mixed with vinegar. It should then be polished with a soft woolen cloth. Pewter will not take as high a polish as silver, but has a dull beauty all its own.

Cheese Sandwiches

Soften cream cheese with orange juice until it is the consistency of thick cream and spread it on slices of bread. Put these together with a crisp lettuce leaf. Cottage cheese may be used instead of cream cheese. Cottage cheese sandwiches are especially good when made of steamed brown bread.

Soft Gingerbread

1 egg, 1 cup sour cream, ¾ cup corn syrup, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup molasses, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons ginger, 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Beat together the egg and the cream, then add syrup and molasses and beat again until light. Add the dry ingredients sifted together and a few raisins or dates, if so desired. Bake in a shallow pan well oiled and dredged with flour. The oven should be moderate, about 350 degrees.

To Polish Brass

Vinegar and salt make a fine polish for brass or copper. Put salt on a soft cloth which has been dampened with vinegar and rub the object to be polished.

March (1626)

It is now March, and the northern wind drieth up the southern dirt. . . . The air is sharp, but the sun is comfortable and the day begins to lengthen. The forward gardens give the fine sallets, and a nosegay of violets is a present for a lady. Now beginneth nature, as it were, to wake out of her sleep and send the traveler to survey the walks of the world. . . . The tree begins to bud and the grass to peep abroad, while the thrush with the blackbird make a charm in the young springs. The milkmaid with her best-beloved talk away weariness to the market, and in an honest meaning kind words do no hurt. The football now trieth the legs of strength, and merry matches continue good-fellowship. It is a time of much work and tedious to discourse of, but in all I find of it, I thus conclude in it: I hold it the servant of nature and the schoolmaster of art, the hope of labor and the subject of reason. Farewell.—Nicholas Breton, in "Fantastics."

How the Crocodiles Are Kept Down

Africa's Biggest Menace Now Under Government Supervision

The sandy square in front of a corrugated iron office on the shores of Lake Victoria Nyanza is covered every morning with a heap of large, white, glistening objects that look like swans' eggs; scores of canoemen are busy counting the eggs into piles of ten. Ali Raschid, the Government official's clerk, walks about among the canoemen, checks each pile, writes down the name of its owner, and then nods to a couple of orderlies who shovel the eggs into a handcart and wheel them away to the incinerator, where they are burned. They are crocodiles' eggs, tens of thousands of them.

Away over on a patch of grass is a row of grisly-looking, triangular objects—they are crocodiles' heads, arranged in a row in order of size. When all are counted, Ali comes in with the canoemen and pays them each the Government reward for "vermin destruction," that is, one shilling for every ten eggs, and from two to five shillings for each head, according to size.

This is the business end of a campaign which is continually going on all over Central Africa for the destruction of the crocodile, the reptile which kills more human beings than any other African animal.

Apart from wells, which are few, and often insanitary, all the household water of the African village, for white and black men alike, must be drawn at river bank and lake shore, and it is while the natives are fetching water for domestic purposes that most of the accidents occur. If your servant is an hour late with the bath water, you can make a pretty certain guess at the reason. The crocodiles have got him.

Imagine every time you go to the tap that a thirteen-feet-long, scaly amphibian, with wide, open jaws set with rows of vicious teeth, is crouching in the sink waiting to devour you, and you will gain some idea of the terror which lurks for the unwary native in every African lake and river north of Natal.

The great beasts, measuring sometimes as much as six feet across the shoulder, lie up against the bank at places where water is drawn, or conceal themselves in the sedges near the ferry. An incautious black comes that way, there's a ripple of the water, two knob-like things speeding along the surface — the croc's eyes—a scrunch and a scream and gurgling, and one more victim has been added to the list.

Of the toll taken by these reptiles, some idea will be gained when it is stated that from the stomach of a crocodile recently shot by a well-known hunter over thirty pounds weight of iron and brass bangles, necklets, beads, and charms, such as natives wear, were taken. This mass of ornaments was given to the village chief, who had them cleaned and identified by the villagers and in this way kinsmen were able to account for the fate of twenty-six natives, all of whom had gone down to the ford where the great beast was shot—and never returned.

These reptiles teem to such an extent near many lakeside villages that no native will draw water in a pot. A coconnut shell is tied to the end of a long stick, and the man stands some six feet away from the water's edge, filling the water jar by repeated dippings. But even this precaution has failed, for the crocodiles have become wise to it, and now lie on shore hidden in the bushes, and, coming from behind, with a sweep of their powerful tails have knocked scores of unsuspecting blacks into the lake, where they do the rest.

It is not surprising, in the face of such instances as these, that the British Government offered a reward for the destruction of crocodiles and their eggs, and instituted a vigorous campaign against these reptiles. At first the reward was one penny for each egg, and ten shillings for every crocodile head. But this gave rise to an extraordinary incident.

A hard-up gold prospector, noting the difference in the two rewards, collected thousands of eggs, and incubated them.

Then he walked in to an astonished treasury official with long strings of natives carrying score upon score of young crocodile heads threaded like herrings on sticks.

After that heads had to be adult.

The native, being the chief sufferer, entered enthusiastically into the campaign and brought in such prodigious numbers of eggs that the reward for them had to be reduced as well.

Many canoemen have taken up crocodile egg collecting as a permanent business. They soon found out that the crocodile's chief enemy was a little ferret-like beast—the mongoose—and it was not long before scores of these little animals were captured and tamed and taken out along the sand-flats, where, with loud chirrups of excitement, they rapidly indicate the buried nests of eggs.

To capture full-grown crocodiles, the canoemen scour river and lake until they come across the great reptile asleep, or basking in the sun on sand-flats. Then, with the greatest caution, spearmen creep up and thrust their long-bladed spears through the animal's shoulders, crippling it. After that another spear thrust through the heart puts an end to all risk of the animal's escape. With a wound in any part other than the forelegs or shoulders, the reptile would most certainly wriggle or back into the water and be lost for good.

By these means over a million eggs and some tens of thousands of crocodiles are destroyed in British East and Central Africa each year, but so vast are the reptile hordes that even under the decimation their numbers show little signs of diminution.

As always, a campaign of this kind opens up side issues in unsuspecting directions. The war on the crocodile has attracted the attention of scientists engaged in tropical research, and their inquiries have produced some remarkable results. One is that the crocodile probably spreads the dread scourge of sleeping sickness, for it has been discovered that in its blood are to be found certain germs hitherto unrecognized, but which are thought to be associated with that disease.

Certain it is that the crocodile haunts the very places, marshy shores, and damp, bushy creeks, which are the favorite breeding spots of the tsetse fly, the insect which is the chief agent in the spread of sleeping sickness.

Research has not yet gone far enough to prove a true bill against the reptile on account of its being an accomplice of the tsetse, but every indication points that way, so not only will the campaign on eggs and crocodiles hit the everyday danger of seizures by the waterside, but it may also go a long way towards stamping out one of the worst epidemics which have ever ravished East Africa.—"Animal Life."

Flattering

An American who was staying with a hospitable tea-planter in Assam thought he would send a cable home. It read: "All well. Staying on the borders of Mongolia."

His hostess pointed out that Mongolia was hundreds of miles away. The American countered this by remarking that his people knew where Mongolia was, but most probably had never heard of Assam.

The hostess, a loyalist, was rather hurt.

In due course they went to the telegraph office, where the cable was handed in. In a moment a dusky face appeared at the pigeon-hole, and the clerk said, "Sah . . . where is New York?"

"What," shouted the American, "have you never heard of the United States?"

"Oh, yes, sah," said the clerk, brightening. "Part of Canada, eh?"

Sunday School Lesson

April 5. Lesson I—Jesus Teaches Humility—Luke 14: 7-14; 18: 15-17. Golden Text—Whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.—Luke 14: 11.

ANALYSIS.

I. ON TAKING THE LOWER PLACE, 14: 7-11.

II. ON TRUE HOSPITALITY, 14: 12-14.

III. JESUS RECEIVES THE CHILDREN, 18: 15-17.

I. ON TAKING THE LOWER PLACE, 14: 7-11.

This story, we are told, is a parable (v. 7), that is to say, we are to infer from it the sort of conduct required of the children of God's kingdom; it is also an illustration of Christian conduct. The point or meaning of the parable is given in v. 11, "whoever exalts himself shall be humbled, and the man who humbles himself shall be exalted." This principle seems often to have been on the lips of Jesus, or it is three times quoted in Luke's Gospel. It might be a mere principle of worldly wisdom, for it is a fact, often illustrated in every-day life, that the man who gives himself airs gets "put in his place," but that is not the meaning of Jesus. We are to understand, rather, that to be great on earth is not at all the same thing as to be great in the kingdom of God; that many who are first here shall be last there. In the kingdom, greatness is marked by service, not by power or wealth.

It is not only in ancient Palestine that there have been bitter disputes as to precedence, as to who should be given the seat on the hostess's right hand, who should be given the front seats on the platform. The Christian is not to push himself. Jesus Christ, though he was the Son of God, "condescended to men of low estate"; the Christian must follow Jesus in this; he is not to be "a climber." Worldly ambition, we may say, always soars up—to be served; Christian ambition always descends—to serve. The general advice about suitable conduct at dinners had been given by Jewish rabbis before Jesus, but he made his common-sense advice a parable of the kingdom.

II. ON TRUE HOSPITALITY, 14: 12-14.

We are not to understand by this that Jesus tells Christians they are to give no parties to their friends, but a man is not to fancy himself as being hospitable and a good fellow because he often entertains his friends and those whom he likes. There is nothing meritorious about that. The distinctive element in the Christian character is that it has a love which breaks through the narrow restrictions of class and of the group of people we happen to like, and embraces the whole world, including our "enemies."

The hope of reward is not to be the Christian motive. The Christian must do good to others because he loves them, not because he will be rewarded for it, but he will be rewarded. His reward will come "in the resurrection of the just," that is to say, in heaven. Jesus did not denounce wealth, but he warned men of its grave dangers and told them to spend their money, as here, to spread happiness and good fellowship for their less fortunate neighbors. He himself illustrates his own command in that he made his friends among the humble of the earth and gave of his time and strength to alleviate the distresses of the sick and those in trouble. At his table in the early Church were gathered Jews and Gentiles, masters and slaves, rich and poor, and the communion service is the image and foretaste of the heavenly banquet in the kingdom of God.

III. JESUS RECEIVES THE CHILDREN, 18: 15-17.

In Mark's Gospel we read that Jesus was angry with the disciples for trying to keep the children away, and that Jesus took the children in his arms and embraced them. We think of busy and important people as being almost inaccessible; strangers can only approach them if their business is weighty and they have made a previous appointment. But Jesus, whose task was more important and comprehensive than that of any man, was always accessible and available. He was never too busy to see those who came to him. He never gave precedence to "important" people; he was not so occupied with saving the world that he could spare no time for children. Self-importance is a sin to which Christians and others are always exposed.

Christian theology has often been darkened by the belief that little children, unless they have been baptized and regenerated, are subject to the wrath of God, but Jesus seems to say that, unless grown men be changed right round and become as little children, they cannot enter the kingdom, for the kingdom consists of, belongs to, those of childlike spirit. Here is something very distinctive in Christianity. The ambition of the Jew was to keep the Law, the ambition of the Gentile to be powerful or to be wise, but power and wisdom and scrupulous righteousness are not so important to God as the child-like heart. But what is this childlikeness required of men? Jesus was not sentimental about children. He himself as the eldest of a large family doubtless knew how naughty and difficult children can be. What, then, did he mean? He was probably thinking, not of the innocence of children, but of their trustfulness. A child does not doubt that he is loved, does not doubt that his little affairs are of importance to him parents, does not doubt that provision will be made for him by a father's and mother's care.

A woman was ill and sent for her doctor. It was a locum who arrived and the patient took an instant dislike to him.

Mrs. Askin Celebrates Her Ninetieth Birthday

Oh the cold, cruel winter, with its cold and banks of snow,
With its temper and its blizzards, we were glad to see it go,
With the sunshine March the 18th, not a ruffle on life's stream,
That day everyone was happy, life was like a happy dream;
Days like that will start us thinking, of pleasant memories of the past,
What a happy world this would be if such days would only last.

It was such a bright sunshiny day that it seemed to make everyone so happy when they arrived at the Askin homestead, (where Mrs. Askin, her son and grandson lives), to rejoice with her and celebrate her birthday.

Mrs. Askin was 90 years of age, March 18th, 1931, but she was never old, and that day she was just as young as she used to be when she welcomed everyone to the hospitable old farm house. Her friends came from Campbellville, Meadowvale, Churchville, Streetsville, Milton, McCurdy's Corners and other places.

In years to come it might be of interest to know how many different ways they travelled to this interesting birthday party.

Since Adam and Eve walked in the Garden of Eden, every way that people travelled in the country was that day brought into service (with the exception of the aeroplane or oxcart).

The snow drifts completely covered the fences, making excellent walking for all within walking distance. Therefore, early in the afternoon across the fields from every farm house they started for the Askin homestead. On the lines it was sleighs and cutters.

Jingle bells, jingle bells, in a cutter or a sleigh,
Oh what fun it was to ride in that good old fashioned way.

Some had to take a buggy or wagon, for part of their roads were snowbanks, and part bare ground. Their cars had the right of way on the sideroads. The afternoon was spent in exchanging happy reminiscences of the past, speeches, and singing.

Then a good old fashioned country banquet was enjoyed by all, such as the McCurdy's corner ladies always provide. Mrs. Trimble, Mrs. Robson and Mrs. Thompson poured tea. Then all joined hands and sang.

For you are a jolly good fellow,
You are a jolly good fellow,
You are a jolly good fellow,
Which nobody can deny.

We are happy when we are near you,
We always did revere you,
Next year we'll come and cheer you,
On us you can rely.

May these gifts to-day remind you,
We wish health and peace will find you,
For you are a jolly good fellow,
But we must say good-bye.

The cake had 9 candles, each candle representing 10 years.

On the cake and the candles what a pleasure to look,
For it made her life look like a well written book,
She can look back with pleasure on the last ninety years,
With the labor and pleasure and very few tears.
On her birthday this world no greater pleasure can send,
Than for all these good people to call her their friend.

After all guests had taken their departure, Mrs. Askin took up every letter and present separately and placed them carefully in her treasure drawer. She well knew that with every love token was entwined from the giver that she will have health and happiness to enjoy many more birthdays.

CORRECT EATING

A great deal of thought and considerable amount of attention are given, in many homes, to the selection and preparation of the meals. This is as it should be, and it is desirable also that the food, as it comes to the table, be eaten in such a manner that the body will be able to make the best possible use of it.

Meals should be eaten quietly, and there should not be any hurry and rush in the dining-room. Food is not readily digested when the body is tired. If the individual is tired, a rest before eating will aid digestion, as will also a meal that is eaten quietly and calmly.

Arguments or scoldings should never be carried on at meal-time. Emotional upsets, anger or worry interfere with digestion. Meal-time should be a cheerful and happy time.

The body is better able to digest food when meals are taken regularly. The regular meal-time gives the digestive system the periods of rest which it requires. If meals are taken at all hours, or if there is eating between meals, there is no time left for the organs of digestion to rest.

Food should be thoroughly chewed before it is swallowed. Do not be afraid to use your teeth. Using the teeth is one of the best ways of keeping teeth and gums in a healthy state.

There is no objection to the moderate use of beverages with meals, but they should only be taken when there is no food in the mouth—never used to wash down food before it has been thoroughly chewed.

When sitting down to the table, it is not wise to drink cold water before the meal begins. At that time, the blood vessels of the stomach are dilated and the gastric juices are active. Under such conditions a dash of cold water is undesirable as it causes the blood vessels to contract, and checks the secretion of the gastric juice.

Cold water or milk should be drunk slowly and taken during the meal, not before solid food is taken.

Moderation should be practised at all times. It is harmful to overeat. Excess does harm; it throws an undue strain on the body and so wears the tissues out early. Premature old age generally means that moderation has not been practised.

Eat moderately, eat slowly, and make meal-time a happy, restful time —that is the way to eat.

PEEL BOYS AT O.A.C. WIN AT COLLEGE ROYAL

A miniature Royal Fair is held annually by the students of the O.A.C. Guelph, at which showmanship is stressed and the conformation of the animals exhibited is not taken into consideration by the judges. This College Royal has great educational value in developing exhibitors and showmen in both the livestock and grain sections.

Results of the 1931 Fair held in the early part of March shows the high standings of the Peel County students. Jack Pawley, Brampton, won 1st prize with a Senior Holstein, 1st in barley and 1st in alfalfa.

Al. Pinkney, Cooksville, won the championship in beef cattle and 1st prize with a Hereford heifer, 2nd in alfalfa, 2nd in timothy and 3rd in beans.

Jack See, Malton, won 1st prize with an exceptionally good sample of alsike.

W. G. Godfrey, Port Credit, was the outstanding exhibitor in the Horticulture section of the College Royal and won the Grand Championship award in the fruit and vegetable classes.

PEEL SEED EXHIBITORS WIN AT OTTAWA VALLEY SEED FAIR

Clean sweeps in the alfalfa and timothy classes of the Ottawa Valley Seed Fair held at Pembroke this month were made by Peel exhibitors. The awards won by the local farmers indicate the quality of their exhibits as the Ottawa Valley is noted for the production of high quality seed grain and clover seed.

Alfalfa—2nd prize, Lansdell Bros., Brampton; 3rd prize, J. G. Dennis, Bolton; 4th prize, Robt. Shaw, Mono Road; 5th prize, R. C. Smith, Brampton.

Timothy—1st prize, Lansdell Bros., Brampton; 2nd prize, Harry Laidlaw, Brampton.

Lansdell Bros. also won 2nd on alsike and 5th on winter wheat.

WINNERS IN 1930 PEEL BARLEY COMPETITION

At a meeting of the contestants of the 1930 Barley Field Crop and Cleaned Seed Competition in the Agricultural office, Brampton, on Saturday, March 21st, L. D. Hankinson, Seed Inspector of Brantford, announced the winners and explained the awards. This competition was under the auspices of the Peel Agricultural Society of which Mr. T. W. Thompson is Secretary.

Winners—1, Wm. Smith, Snelgrove; 2, Fred Oram, Britannia; 3, Alex. McKinney, Jr., Snelgrove; 4, Credholme Farms, Streetsville; 5, H. J. Laidlaw, Snelgrove; 6, Lansdell Bros., Snelgrove; 7, W. L. Wilkinson, Brampton; 8, Forbes Snyder, Brampton.

All the seed was of the Registered No. 1 grade and the fields were inspected during the summer of 1930 by Mr. Hankinson and J. C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative. It was also necessary for the contestants to clean 50 bushels before the New Year. Samples of this clean seed were taken and the final awards made on both the field score and the clean seed samples.

The purpose of these competitions is to popularize the sowing of Registered grain and as a result more of this kind of seed grain is being sown in Peel County each year. The Peel Agricultural Society is sponsoring two field crop competitions this year, one in Oats and the other in Alfalfa. Details may be secured from the Secretary or the Agricultural office.

PEEL AND HALTON JERSEY BREEDERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Mr. D. O. and Col. Bartley Bull were hosts to the members of the Peel and Halton Jersey Breeders' Club at a luncheon held at Hawthorne Lodge recently. The breeders gathered at 11 a.m. for an inspection of the Brampton Jersey herd under the guidance of Elmo Ashton and Frank Parish of the B. H. Bull & Son firm.

The annual meeting with the President, Jas. Steen, of Meadowvale, presiding took place after the luncheon with Capt. the Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, as guest speaker. Hon. Martin described his recent trip to South America and emphasized the Exposition at Buenos Aires as an important advertising centre for British and Canadian goods and livestock.

Robt. Segsworth, the Secretary, brought in the financial statement with a good bank balance and also a report of the year's activities.

The club decided to continue extension work in both counties by donating cash prizes for the best Jersey calves exhibited at the 1931 school fairs. The firm of B. H. Bull & Son has donated $30 for championship prizes. The calves shown at the 1931 school fairs in Peel and Halton Counties are eligible and will compete for the above cash prizes at the Brampton Fall Fair.

Messrs. Elmo Ashton, J. M. Dolson and J. C. Shearer, Agricultural Representative, were a committee chosen to pick out a county herd from Peel for the C.N.E. this fall.

The Club also will sponsor a Jersey calf club for boys between the ages of 12-20. Members will be required to submit monthly feed records to the Agricultural office and enter the calves for exhibition at an annual fair.

Gordon Graydon, in the absence of Col. the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, presented the certificates signed by the former Governor-General of Canada, Lord Willingdon, to the winners at the Jersey Parish Show held at Hawthorne Lodge last May. Addresses were given by D. O. Bull, Col. Bartley Bull, A. C. Kirstine, Agricultural Representative of Halton, H. McNichol, Milton, Elmo Ashton, Frank Parish and J. C. Shearer.

Newly elected officers are: Hon. President, J. D. Steen, Meadowvale; President, Peter Dick, Georgetown; Vice Presidents, Hunter Arnott, Streetsville, Ed. Harrop, Milton; Secretary-Treasurer, Robt. Segsworth, Brampton; Directors, Frank Chapman, Malton; Ward Ruddell, Milton; Cyril Clark, Britannia; Watson Wiggins, Caledon; Hugh Black, Milton.

STREETSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Term Report

With the closing of the winter term today the Principal submits a report of the standing of the pupils, examined in all subjects during the past month. At the same time individual reports of the works made in each Subject, the attendance, etc.., are being sent to parents and guardians. These are to be examined and signed by them and returned to the school. The teachers request parents to note the subjects in which pupils are weak. Pupils will not be promoted or recommended for departmental examinations unless the standing in each subject warrants it. The Easter vacation is of course a holiday for those who attended regularly and kept their work at a high standard but it also an opportunity for those down in certain subjects to do some work and be up with the class for the spring term.

The attendance of the school now standing at sixty-six, has been uniformly good throughout the term and the work of the year is well advanced. The Departmental examinations are posted to begin on June 15th and regular attendance and consistent application to work is necessary throughout the Spring Term.
